The newest turbans of draped silk or crepe frequently have wide scarfs that drape around the neck.

Daffodils in natural colors are shown on the new spring hats and they give a delightful feeling of spring.

Moire hats are newer than felts, satin or straws and are capable of being worn with almost any type of frock.

After several years absence the sailor hat returned and in its new tailored version is an excellent choice to wear with the severe mannish suit.

Color combinations recently featured are black touched with bright green or blue, and dark blue and lacquer red.

Although most well dressed women have converted to light stockings, black ones are said to be creeping back into favor — particularly very thin ones.

Slashed skirts with an underskirt of a contrasting color and material are among the novelties on the market.

Handkerchiefs of colored linen have much double hemstitching done to form a design about the border. These ride with the small squares of brilliantly printed chiffon that accompany the tailored suit.

Milliners say that despite the fact that colored hats are shown it is difficult to get the average woman to wear them, that she prefers black or a combination of black and white.

French voile now is a favorite material for summer lingerie. It comes in many colors, but the pale greens and mauves are among the most attractive. Embraidered medallions in pastel shades give a finishing touch.

NECKLACES IN FAVOR

Necklaces and beads have by no means lost prestige, and each week attractive novelties are introduced. Among the latest necklaces to attain a vogue are those made of large pearls separated at intervals by colored beads. One style is worn close about the neck with a single end hanging almost to the waistline. Another, of graduated beads, is wound around the neck three times.

DIVERSITY IN STYLE

The woman who likes fluttering ribbon ends and panels may have her heart's desire today. On the other hand, the woman who longs for the straight, plain, somewhat tailored costume may be equally in fashion. These two styles are seen in the fluffiest evening gowns as well as in street frocks.

POPULARITY OF WHITE

White has indeed come into its own and some of the most fascinating clothes for summer wear are made entirely of white. White wool coats with ermine collars or neckties of white fox, simple little frocks of crepe de chine and knitted dresses on the one piece and sweater are seen. An unusual sport coat seen recently was of wool knitted in fancy stripes that went horizontally across the short garment. The collar and cuffs are bottom of the coat were edged with a wide border of hooked white wool.

SEWING HINTS

To mend voile or other thin material, get a piece of court plaster as near the same color as possible, dampen it, place it under the torn part and press under a weight till dry.

When the fastener has pulled out of a glove, darn the hole and sew an ordinary dress snap near the old fastener.

When making buttonholes first overcast the edges, then work closely in the usual way. A buttonhole worked so will never fray or be unsightly.

The continual ripping off of buttons by the clothes wringer can be prevented by folding the buttons inside the garment and holding it flat as you run it through the wringer.

One housewife buys extra material when making her gingham dresses and makes an apron to match her frock. Then when the dress requires patching, the apron (which has had about the same amount of washing and in consequence matches the dress) is used for the required patches and gives service in a new direction.

WHEN PAPERING

If you are considering decorating your home with wall paper, here are a few suggestions from interior decorators of experience:

Do not choose large patterns for small rooms, as they tend to make the room seem smaller. In like manner, avoid a very tiny pattern for a very large room, as it would appear insignificant.

Avoid grays, greens and blues for north rooms, or dark rooms as they are all cold colors and should be used only in bright, sunny rooms. In north rooms they are gloomy, whereas warm tans, soft yellows and gay flowered designs, with rose, orange or even red in discreet pattern and amount make even dark north rooms seem cheerful.

For living rooms, tan, yellow and combinations of, these are always inviting and cheerful. If you have many pictures to be hung upon the walls, avoid a distinct design and select instead one of the soft, misty effects, which form such a lovely background.

Bedrooms seem almost to demand flowers and good cheer. Stripes make a low-ceilinged room seem higher, but avoid them in a tall room, for they will only make it seem taller.

TO REMOVE PAINT

To remove paint from a serge or woolen dress, dip a piece of the same material as the dress is made of into water in which a little soap has been dissolved and rub on spot, being careful to run always the weave of the goods, until the spot has been entirely removed.

RED AND WHITE CHARM

The vogue of red and white combined has taken a firm hold upon the mode this season. A window filled with red and white was the object of much admiring comment recently. Skirts of red were shown with white overblouses, sport coats were made of the same brilliant color, and there were any number of fascinating little red hats, envelope bags and walking sticks.

NEW TABLE RUNNERS

Very original is a table runner of wide-meshed filet lace that is dyed a delicate green. Other strips are of black, with the darning done in many colors.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Under the provision of a law just passed by the French Chamber and senate women can now act as auctioneers just the same as men.

Copper was one of the chief ingredients of cosmetics used by the women of ancient Egypt.

Mrs. George Orvis, Republican committee member from Vermont, besides being mayor of Manchester, actively manages a hotel and water company.

The title of animal doctor has been conferred upon Miss Sarah Leonard, just appointed to care for injured cats at the Angell Memorial Hospital in Boston.

When not aiding her husband in politics, Mrs. Thomas D. Scholl, wife of Minnesota's blind representative, finds time to cultivate her estate at Berwin, Md.

KEEPS BRISTLES HARD

After washing hair brushes in soda and water they should be held under a cold-water faucet. This hardens the bristles and makes them last much longer than if they were rinsed in warm water.

RECIPES

Baked Egg Plant: An excellent dish for supper is baked eggplant. Pare the eggplant and cut into small cubes. Put in a saucepan with a small quantity of hot water. Cover closely and cook for about twenty minutes. Meanwhile, slice a small onion very thin, and fry in another saucepan until brown.

When the eggplant is tender, remove from the fire and add to it the browned onions, half a teaspoonful of salt, and the juice of a lemon. Then butter an enameled ware bake dish; put in a layer of the eggplant and then one of either cracker dust or breadcrumbs until the dish is full, having the cracker dust on top. Add a few dabs of butter to the top and bake in a moderate oven. Serve in baking dish.

Spinach Loaf: Here is a tempting way to serve spinach and ham together. The spinach must be washed, drained and cooked until tender in an enameled ware saucepan, so that it will not be discolored. Drain thoroughly and chop it very fine. For each pint of cooked spinach use two tablespoonfuls of butter, the yolk of one egg, a teaspoonful of salt, and a sprinkling of pepper and paprika. Next arrange the spinach in an enameled ware baking pan with alternate layers of finely chopped ham, the top layer being of spinach. Scatter grated cheese and fine bread crumbs over the top, and brown in a hot oven. It may be served in the same dish in which it is cooked and garnished with slices of pimento.

The polls will be open in the four city districts today from 6.30 a. m. to 5 p. m., standard time, or 6.30 a. m. to 6 p. m., daylight time.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Speeding Automobiles

Mr. Editor—I have kept pretty quiet—haven't troubled you in this way for quite a long time, but there are times when forbearance ceases to be a virtue, and this is one of them. I wish I could say something sharp enough, cutting enough, to penetrate the hides of those imbeciles and some others who drive motor vehicles over Spring Hill at express-train speed. (Plenty to speak for other places.) In the distance of something like three quarters of a mile there are 20 dwellings, most of them occupied by families who have young children.

There are two roads leading into the main thoroughfare and several curves that over a part of the way it is impossible to see the road many rods ahead. Now, one does not want to see anyone killed, but when we read of the numerous accidents every day on the highways, most of them caused by the recklessness, cussedness or insanity of the overspeeders how can we help feeling that if there were more funerals in the families of those who are responsible for the outrage, the public would be benefitted. The country is automobile mad and the overindulgence or intemperate use of any good thing detracts very materially from the benefits. Whatever rights the statute law grants, the moral law should supersede all others and the observance of that law is the foundation on which good society is builded.

Unless the drivers of motor vehicles can be made to respect the rights of the "other fellow" in no other way, then the speed must be limited at the factory. We all have rights on the highway which must be respected.

SMUTS FROM THE VELDT

Jan Christiaan Smuts was born on a lonely farm in South Africa, and while attending a nearby school worked in the fields and ploughed it on the veldt. When 16 he entered Victoria College, in Stellenbosch, and when 21 won a scholarship that took him to Cambridge, here he achieved extraordinary honors in law.

Back in Africa, when 25, he practiced law. England was unpopular there and he made speeches in her defense. Then came the Jameson raid, and it was like an act of treachery to Smuts, but little heed was paid to the pale-faced, hungry-looking youth until Oom Paul Kruger appointed him state attorney for the Transvaal, and in 1899 took him to Bloemfontein to the conference with Milner that resulted in the Boer war.

Entering the conflict against England as a private, he distinguished himself as a guerilla strategist and became commander-in-chief of the Boer forces, only to see his country defeated. In the following Vereeniging conference he fought for peace, and, as colonial secretary of the dominion government, he united his discouraged country; then, in 1906, went to London and secured self-government for the Transvaal. Botha was made prime minister of the new Union of South Africa, and Smuts, as minister of the Interior and of Defense, aided him in guiding the new ship of state.

Then came the World war, and he suppressed the revolt set up by Generals de Wet and Deventer, then broke down German resistance in East Africa. Summoned to England to act as South African representative in the cabinet, his sagacity and military genius took him into the inner "war cabinet," and honors were poured upon him. In the Paris peace conference he signed the treaty, but filed a protest.

When Botha died in 1919, Smuts was made Prime Minister in South Africa. Botha's political enemies had a majority in the South African Parliament, but by clever statesmanship Smuts united other political parties and now at 53 is stronger in power and esteem both at home and in England than ever before.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

M. Paul Painleve, French statesman and former Premier, who has accepted the candidature of the Chamber of Deputies, which position is considered a stepping stone to the presidency of the Republic, is one of those men prominent in the learned profession, a savant in fact, who have deliberately left academy and university to take part in the turmoil of public life. At the age of 11 the future statesmanli who is the son of an artisan, had all the scientific knowledge required for a Bachelor's degree; at 23 he was a professor of the Faculty of Science at Lille, and at 28 he was appointed to a professorship at the Sorbonne. He was only just over the threshold of his political career at the outbreak of the European war, but his remarkable abilities had already marked out for him a great future. To him was due the remarkable progress made by France in the science of aviation. He became Minister of War at a critical period of the conflict and later held the Premiership. M. Painleve is a wonderful orator, and probably in all France there is no man who can better sway an audience.

C. F. NOYES COMPANY HAD $70,000,000 BUSINESS YEAR

The New York Herald-Tribune of Sunday contained the following of interest concerning a former Norwich boy:

A business of $70,000,000 was transacted by the Charles F. Noyes Company during the year ended April 30. A substantial increase in the business of the agency department and the consummation of sales of a number of large properties were given as the chief reasons for the company's record business.

The market during the period was favorable, Charles F. Noyes explained in his annual report. "Although the company negotiated a number of important transactions," said Mr. Noyes, "the year was characterized by the large volume of small deals which reflected the fact that the investor, with a relatively small income tax to pay bought real estate because of the large return.

"With tax-exempt bonds selling on a 4 per cent yield, non-tax-exempt, gilt-edged bonds on not better than a 4 1-2 per cent yield, and real estate being freely offered on a 10 per cent to 12 per cent equity basis by large investors and estates on account of their heavy sur-tax conditions, the public is given the most favorable opportunity of obtaining choice income property under the most advantageous conditions. I doubt if these conditions will continue indefinitely.

"Mortgage money can be had in large amounts at 5 per cent interest. During the last few months a large amount of second mortgage money has been placed with us for investment. Since May 15 we have placed loans aggregating $5,000,000, and among these loans have been several on leaseholds.

"A year ago I predicted that banking firms in Wall Street would be loaning freely on real estate through bond issues and during the last few months the accuracy of this prediction has been fulfilled. Millions of dollars in the financial district are now available for real estate loans and many of the largest propositions are now being financed in this manner.

"Renting is the only department that shows a slow down. This is attributed to the fact that many leases made in war times expired during the last year. In some cases tenants occupied more space than they required under readjusted conditions. With practically no new construction in downtown office or business buildings, this condition will prove to be only temporary."

FUNERALS.

Mrs. Mary Ring.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Ring, widow of James Ring, was held Saturday morning at 8 o'clock in Bridgeport where she died May 29th. HAS SUSPICION OF INCENDIARISM IN FIRE AT AMERICAN HOUSE

Officials of the fire department are investigating a suspicion that the American house fire of Saturday morning was the result of incendiarism. The fire started, evidently, in one of the secluded rooms in the extreme northwest corner of the building, a place more or less hidden from view from the street and the whole interior of the building was on fire, with flames shooting from the roof before it was discovered.

According to Alexander Pasnik, who recently purchased the property, the loss will be considerable. Mr. Pasnik said Sunday night that he could not say just what his loss is. He said that the loss is partially covered by insurance amounting to $12,000. The building, he said, is a total loss.

The fire had a tremendous start for the greater part of the interior of the old three-story wooden building was a roaring furnace from the ground floor up and the flames were rapidly eating their way through the roof when the fire was discovered at 3.30 a. m. by Harry R. Jervis who was passing at the time on his way to his home on Laurel Hill after his night's work in The Bulletin composing room. Smoke was filling Shetucket street and before the first alarm had stopped ringing the smoke could be smelled as far away from the fire as Main street.

Seeing at a glance that the fire was one of the worst the city has experienced in some time Chief Howard L. Stanton pulled in a second alarm which called out additional apparatus. Chief Stanton also called in the Yantic pumper by telephone and the Taftville company. The Yantic pumper was pressed into service at the Waureegan house corner and the Taftville company was at the Central fire station to take care of any emergency calls. Police Captain D. J. Twomey and several police officers hurried to the scene of the fire.

The firemen handled the blaze in a very creditable manner and did remarkable work in getting the fire under control. One man, caught on the second floor of the burning building was taken down a ladder from a window by the firemen. So fierce were the flames that it was impossible for the firemen to search the building and at the time it was not known how many people were in the place when the fire was discovered. Later it was learned that all the occupants of the building had escaped. Of the 30 rooms only seven were occupied, two of them being used by employes.

Nine lines of hose were laid. 4,500 feet in all, and water was poured into the building from all sides. It was only by efficient and persistent work that the fire was kept from spreading to the nearby wooden houses and buildings. A few minutes after the first alarm was pulled the fire began to assume such proportions that employes of the Majestic garage in the Majestic building, adjoining the American house, started to move the numerous machines from the garage to places of safety. By four o'clock, a half hour after the first alarm, the fire was practically under control and the recall was sounded about an hour later. The flames could be seen from many sections of the city.

Joseph Stanislavek, who conducted a rooming house in the premises, was in the building when the fire was discovered. He could give no reason as to the cause of the blaze. Alexander Pasnik, the owner of the property, was in New York. He arrived home during the early evening.

CITIZENS OF FRANKLIN OBSERVED MEMORIAL DAY

The people of Franklin carried out a very successful program on Memorial day. The schools with their teachers and the various committees did excellent work in helping to make this day one to be remembered. There are three cemeteries in Franklin in which are buried about twelve Revolutionary soldiers, besides many Civil war veterans. The school children decorated these graves in different parts of the town.

A committee of women under the leadership of Mrs. Luther Holton served a very bountiful lunch consisting of sandwiches, cake, coffee and ice cream to about 250 citizens and friends.

The exercises of the afternoon were held in the Congregational church, and F. S. Armstrong, chairman of the Memorial day services, opened the program. He said that similar services had been held in Franklin for sixteen years in unbroken succession and spoke of the great sacrifice that the American soldiers had made for the progress and prosperity of this country.

Judge Nelson J. Ayling of Norwich, who gave the address of the afternoon, spoke of the origin of Memorial day. In speaking of the great sacrifices of the American soldiers he gave tribute to the wives, mothers and children of these soldiers, in the many trials and hardships they endured. He also stated that the progress of all great industries of this country was not due to any merit of our own, but to the great sacrifices of these heroes. The program was as follows:

Formation of schools at church steps, salute while veterans pass through into church, while organ plays Tramp, Tramp; salute to the flag while standing; The Star Spangled Banner; schools recite Lincoln's Gettysburg address; greetings, F. S Armstrong; prayer, Mrs. W. J. Tate; song, Columbia the Gem of the Ocean, schools; recitation, Old Glory, Francis Lamb; recitation, Generations, Lucille Holden; recitation, Music on the Rappahannock, Nelson Robinson; recitation, The Revolutionary Rising, Helen Burzycki; song, America the Beautiful, schools; recitation, The Flag Goes By, Nathaniel Manning; recitation, My Pledge, Mildred Hanson; recitation, Our Country and Our Flag, Stephen Armstrong; recitation, Flowers for the Brave, Florence Date and Ruth Robinson; solo, Bonny Flag, Elizabeth Vallin; recitation, Heroes, Edna Lamb; recitation, Wave, Starry Flag, Anna Konow, Marion Robinson, Edna Wilcox recitation, The Lads of '61, Palmer Rathburn; dialogue, Washington's Monument, Cooley Hill school; song, Rally Round the Flag, Boys, schools; address, Judge Nelson J. Ayling; song, America, by all; schools march out while organ plays Battle Hymn of the Republic

The polls will be open in the four city districts today from 5.30 a. m. to 5 p. m., standard time, or 6.30 a. m. to 6 p. m., daylight time

BAKER CONFESSES WHEN SHOWN VICTIMS' BODIES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, June 1.—Close to midnight officers took Malcom Baker, the negro who confessed to the murder of George Wilkinson and Fred Pierce, to the undertaker's rooms where the bodies were and it is understood that when Baker saw the bodies of the victims he awakened and acknowledged that he struck the blows that killed both Wilkinson and Pierce.

Baker will be presented in the borough court at Stonington at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

HOME IN NORWICH AFTER WORLD TOUR

Favored with good health on their entire trip and without an unpleasant incident to mar the long travel, R. C. Plaut, J. W. Cadden and the Misses Carrie and Minnye Cadden returned to the homes in this city Sunday night from their voyage around the world of which the largest part was on board the Canadian Pacific steamer, Empress of Canada.

The Norwich party arrived in New York Saturday, having completed the last stage of the journey in a special train that brought the entire company of tourists across the continent from Vancouver over the Canadian Pacific route.

At the end of their trip across the Pacific they were landed at Victoria, on Friday May 23. That evening they were given a grand reception at the Hotel Empress and the next day they were taken to Vancouver where they stayed at the Hotel Vancouver. Here Mr. Plaut had a very pleasant though most unexpected experience as he was sitting in the lobby he heard the call boy going the rounds paging "Mr. Plaut, Mr. Plaut." Remarking to Mr Cadden that there was nobody out there who knew him he nevertheless answered the call and was told he was wanted in room 842. The call proved to be from Carleton P. Browning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Browning of Kitemaug. They had a delightful reunion and Mr. Browning and his wife were greatly pleased to see some one from their native town.

Another pleasant experience was at Calgary where he met Jack Bresnahan, formerly of Norwich, now of Alberta, who had driven in 120 miles to meet Mr. Plaut. Although the train arrived at Calgary at 1.50 a. m. Mr. Bresnahan was on hand and told Mr. Plaut that he was the first Norwich man he had seen in 25 years outside of members of his own family. He wanted to be remembered to all his old friends in Norwich, particularly to Chief George Linton and Barney Keenan.

All the Norwich people were glad to get home again and declared that Norwich looks better than ever after their trip around the world.

WINDHAM HOUSE CAMPAIGN UNDER WAY THIS WEEK

Street banners in Plainfield, Willimantic, Putnam and Danielson announce the opening this week of the campaign in Windham county to raise the fund of $100,000 or more to erect a new dormitory at Connecticut college that will be known as Windham house.

This (Monday) evening at Plainfield in the Community house there the workers and committees will come together at 5:30, standard time, for a grand rally that will set the campaign going with an impetus that is bound to carry it over the top. There will be no solicitation at this rally, but the plan of the campaign will be outlined by the general chairman, G. Harold Gilpatric of Putnam. George H. Chandler of Rocky Hill will be the toastmaster and there will be addresses by Lieut. Governor Hiram Bingham, President B. T. Marshall of the college, George S. Palmer of New London, representing the trustees, and others.

The music is to be one of the features of the gathering. Members of the college glee and mandolin clubs will be present to play and sing, the community singing will be led by William G. Park and Henry La Fontaine will be at the piano.

The campaign goes off with a flying start as $32,000 of the $100,000 has already been raised and is on hand so that it is anticipated the drive will go over the top and some ways beyond the $100,000 when the enthusiastic workers get into action.

TROLLEY TRACK BUILT TO HAMMONASSET STATE PARK

The spur track connecting the state park at Hammonasset with the main line of the New Haven & Shore Line railway east of Madison is finished and Connecticut park commission officials have planned for the largest crowd that has ever visited the park bathing beach.

The completion of the rail line to the state park on the Shore Line adds the last touch to the plan of state officials to make Hammonasset the most popular of Connecticut's fine chain of public parks the only thing lacking in arrangements heretofore being lack of adequate means of transportation to the excellent beach.

Ever since the beach was taken over by the state and since the construction of the immense pavilions additions have been found imperative each succeeding season. People from all over Connecticut have flocked to the park to picnic, camp and enjoy the bathing.

The park is now better equipped than ever to handle large crowds and special attention has been directed to the handling of motorists. The pavilions have been enlarged and there are more bathing facilities at the disposal of the people. The state intends no profit at the beach, a nominal charge for [illegible] only being made to meet the actual expenses of maintenance [illegible]

ACADEMY PLAYING ROTTEN BASEBALL HANDS BULKELEY ANNUAL LOCAL GAME

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Norwich, June 1.—The twenty-first consecutive victory in the past two seasons has been attained by the Bulkeley team by defeating Norwich Free academy Saturday afternoon by one of the largest scores, if not the largest, since the Academy and Bulkeley teams first played each other. The final outcome of the game, farce, or whatever you would like to call it, was 22 to 1. One would take this score expecting to see an account of a football game, but no, this is supposed to be a baseball contest. The victory for Bulkeley, which is the eleventh straight this season, did not come as a surprise. Bulkeley sent the Academy and Ellie Segal down to the 17 to 4 defeat in the first game of the series played at New London and made matters more complete by winning by a much larger score in the Rose City Saturday.

The total of twenty-two runs will probably be the largest score that will be hung up by the state interscholastic champions this season. The Bulkeley team, since the first contest this year, has been piling up an enormous score against its opponents. The total runs made in the past two years since the Bulkeley team has had a clean slate, is 215 for the Orange and Black, and 53 for opponents. Although the Bulkeley team has played but eleven games so far this season, the total runs made almost equals that of the entire season last year. At least nine to twelve more games remain to be played for the Orange and Black this season.

Ellie Segal, who is supposed to be the mainstay of the Academy team, had an off day as did his teammates. The infield played anything but baseball and with the Bulkeley batsmen hitting Segal's offerings to all corners of the lot and poking down hard grounders at the infielders, the game turned into a farce with the beginning of the third inning. While the Bulkeley batsmen were growing accustomed to the pitching of Segal his support cracked and was more or less panicked for the remainder of the contest. It was merely a procession of Bulkeley players around the base paths and a total of 21 hits were made off the combined offerings of Segal and Steinman. Added to this total was fourteen errors by the Academy team, of which two errors were of misjudgment and not miss cues on fly balls.

Segal and Montali who shared the pitcher's burden for Bulkeley, were effective at all times. Only five hits were made off them in the nine innings of play and the Red and White were lucky not to be shut out, for the one tally scored by them as a result of two errors. There were no strikeout records broken at this contest and while both the Bulkeley hurlers depended largely upon the support of their teammates, Segal could not expect this—and if he did he was fooled, for he did not get it.

The game went along nicely for two innings but in the third it was the beginning of the end for Segal and he was allowed to linger upon the mound but another inning, Steinman replacing him. But Steinman was as easy for the Bulkeley batsmen as Segal was and the scoring of the state champions was not affected by the changing of the pitchers. Seven runs were scored in the third and with this big inning went the game. Six runs in the sixth, three in the seventh and four in the ninth gave Bulkeley its large total. The score:

4.—Original stories or letters only will be used.

5.—Write your name, age and address plainly at the bottom of the story.

LITTLE THINGS MEAN MUCH TO MOTHER

Little things mean so much to mother
A quick caress or a sunny smile,
Willing hands that give loving service
All help to make her toil worth while.

Little things mean so much to mother
A bitter word or an angry frown
Hushes the song on her lips to silence
While on her day the sun goes down.

Little things mean so much to mother;
Which shall it be, dear Mother o'mine?
Words that fill all your day with shadows,
Smiles that carry their own sunshine?

—Florence Jones Hadley.

BRIGHT AND SHINING

There were some little C. D. Q's,
Oh, very, very tiny.
But the great big thoughts that they did raise,
Were bright and new and shiny.

Our brains go round and round to find
The answers most befitting,
And many thoughts both brave and true,
We would not be omitting.

The more we study, the more we find
This is a truth I'm telling—
The kernels in the C. D. Q's
Are worth the work of shelling.

—Lole E. Brandon.

CHOICES

Not what we have, but what we use,
Not what we see, but what we choose.
These are the things that mar or bless,
The sum of human happiness.

The thing near by, not that afar,
Not what we seem, but what we are.
These are the things that make or break,
That give the heart its joy or ache.

Not what seems fair, but what is true.
Not what we dream, but good we do.
These are the things that shine like gems,
Like stars in fortune's diadems.

Not as we take, but as we give,
Not as we pray, but as we live;
These are the things that make for peace
Both now and after time shall cease.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Self reliance is a habit we should form early in life. A great many boys and girls have a bad habit of looking to others, their parents, brothers and sisters, and even their friends to do things for them that they should do for themselves. This habit of relying on others is a very easy one to acquire and often times proves very disastrous in later life. Many young people ask others to do little things for them because they feel that the older people can do them better and quicker. As this continues these young people begin to depend entirely on others and thus a bad habit, hard to lose, has fastened itself on their lives.

The worst thing about this calling on others to do for us what we could and should do for ourselves is that it makes us increasingly lacking in self-reliance. After a while we begin to get the idea that it is the duty of our relatives and friends to keep us going through life. We take no responsibility ourselves and this we do not learn, through experience, the things we ought to know. Some day we will come face to face with a situation that must be taken care of. Those we have depended upon in other days to solve our difficulties for us may not be able to or willing to help us and we will have to face the situation alone.

People who go through life bolstered up by the help and knowledge of others never get very far up the ladder of success or do anything really worthwhile. Depend on yourself for the little things in life and in this way you will be able to take care of the big things in life. That is the only way to become self-reliant.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

MOTHER'S DAY

Dear Uncle Jed: For mother in lowly cabin, or mother in palace hall, is ever the truest and dearest and ever the best of all. Mother with hands toil hardened, mother in pearls and lace. The light of heavenly beauty shines in her tender face.

In a lowly cabin by the wayside stands a little woman in a pink apron. Out in the yard a little child is playing. Now, she has fallen and hurt herself. See! she picks herself up and rushes to her mother to be comforted. After she has been petted for a while, she forgets her troubles, and goes back to play.

Half a mile away stands another house. How beautiful it is! Here a little child is playing with a doll. She is sitting with her back to the door. A dog pushes the door open and bounds to her side. In his hurry he pushes the doll from her arms on the floor and breaks the head. The little girl looks at it and, beginning to cry, picks it up and goes downstairs. In her pretty parlor sits a pleasant woman sewing. As the little girl enters, her mother puts aside her sewing and takes the child in her lap. In less than five minutes she had forgotten her doll and is asleep in her mother's lap. Isn't it ever the same?

This beautiful poem, which I used as a heading and made a story to illustrate it, was written by Margaret E. Sangster in honor of Mother's day.

On May 11th of this year and on the second Sunday of the fifth month every year is set aside as Mother's day. In 1908 Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia originated the idea of setting aside one day of the year for doing homage to mothers. At first it was not observed locally, but in 1914 the president requested the observance of this day every year. Flowers are given to the mother. The flower is the carnation or pink. This is called mother's flower.

Churches, schools and other organizations have special services for this day of days and homes pay special homage to those who made real homes possible.

WHY ROSE COULDN'T SLEEP

Dear Uncle Jed: Rose sat up in bed The curtain was raised. She looked at the moon and it seemed to be laughing at her. "You need not look at me, Mrs. Moon," said Rose. "You don't know about it, and besides you can't see in the daytime and I am going to sleep."

She lay down and tried to go to sleep. The clock on the mantle went tick-tock. She usually liked to hear that tonight it sounded just as if it said, "I know, I know."

"You don't know, either," said Rose, opening her eyes wide. "You weren't here, you old thing, you were downstairs."

Her loud voice awoke the parrot. He took his head from under his wing and cried, "Polly did."

"That is a wicked story! you naughty bird," said Rose. "You were in grandma's room, so now. You did not see the cat eat the pie and cakes. Anyway it was not he that took them it was I. Oh! I am very sorry.

A SQUIRREL

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to you, so I hope this story will interest you and the Wide Awake circle. One day, last summer I happened to be walking through the woods. I heard a strange noise among the leaves. I turned quickly and to my surprise I saw a squirrel looking for acorns. My brother caught it for me and when I went home I put it into a cage and fed it with acorns. He lifted them from the bottom of the cage with his front paws and ate them. One day, however when I was going to feed him he slipped away, and I have never seen him since.

HASSAN AND HIS HORSE

Dear Uncle Jed: I am now writing you a story and the name of it is Hassan and His Horse. One day Hassan was riding in the desert with some other Arabs. They were captured by a party of men called Turks. The Turks made them prisoners. They tied them with leather straps. They also planned to carry them away the next morning. In the night Hassan heard his horse neighing. He crept up to him and said, "What will become of you my poor horse. You will not be happy with these Turks. Go to my tent and tell my wife and children that they will never see me again. Lick the hands of my children as a token of love." He then bit the strap that tied the horse and set him free. The horse looked at his master for a minute or two. Then he ran off with him in the desert. On and on they ran and never stopped. Till he laid Hassan down by his children and then he dropped dead at his master's feet.

A SCHOOL PICNIC

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to the Wide Awakes. I am going to tell you about a picnic our school had one time.

We started at seven o'clock in the morning. It just happened that another school was going on a picnic too so we met each other. We asked where they were going. We then were on.

When we reached our place we had a good time. While we were playing we tipped the lemonade over. We went home at five o'clock.

THE RHINE RIVER

Dear Uncle Jed: I want to tell you about the beautiful scenery of the Rhine river in Germany. The hillsides are covered with vineyards and forests and here and there along its banks are beautiful ivy covered castles. Some are so old they are in ruins. Every year on a certain evening one of these castles is lighted. On a rocky island in the river is the Mouse Tower of Bingen. I will tell you about it in my next letter.

MAKING A CAKE

Dear Uncle Jed: When I was only nine years old mother said, "Effie, today is your birthday, so I am going to teach you how to make a birthday cake." Then she told me what to get. I made the cake and put it in the oven to bake. When the cake was baked I took it out of the oven. Then I went and got my birthday plate to put the cake on. When I tried to take the cake out of the pan it would not come out and broke into pieces. Then I began to cry. When mother came in I told her. She said, "You didn't grease your pan." Then I always remembered to grease my pans.

THE HISTORY OF THE FLAG

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I am going to tell you all about the History of the flag. The American flag is the third oldest of the national standards of the world. The flag was first authorized by congress June 14, 1777. This day is now, observed as Flag day all through America.

It was said that there should be a star and a stripe for each state. As other states came into the Union new stars and stripes were added. Later it became evident that there would be too many stripes. Congress then enacted that the stripes should be reduced to 13 and a star for every state.

The flag was first carried in battle at Brandywine, Sept. 11, 1777. It first flew over foreign territory Jan. 28, 1778 at Nassau. Fort Nassau was captured by the Americans in the course of the war for Independence. The first foreign salute was rendered by the French Admiral La Motte Piquet.

A LUMP OF COAL

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write a letter to you and the Wide Awakes. It is about coal. I am a giant oak with a lot of others around me, and with ferns at our feet. One day a cyclone swept over the forest and blew us all down. We layed there for about two hundred years and were about three hundred feet below the surface of the ground in the formation of a layer of coal.

One day I felt a sharp drill pierce the layer in which I was in. Then the drill was drawn to the surface. On the top the men said, we have struck coal and we will dig a mine for it. In two months there were men digging a hole in the layer which I was in. They then put a stick of dynamite into the hole and put an electric torch to the fuse and then they ran into a side tunnel for a shelter. In about a minute there was a flash and an explosion and I felt myself going through the tunnel and that is all I knew for a little while. When I came to my senses I was in a shovel with a lot of other lumps of coal. We were then put into a small truck drawn by mules to an elevator and pulled to the surface, and behold I saw daylight. I was then hauled to the coal crusher and we were put into it. I got a tight squeeze. We then fell from the crusher into a big moving wire and there sat boys all grimy and black. They were picking out shale and rocks. I was a good piece so I went into an auto truck and was hauled to the wharf where a big coal barge was anchored. We were then thrown into it and started up the river to New York where we were unloaded and dropped into big bins. We stayed there all night, when a peddler bought a ton, (I was in the ton.) The peddler then went from house to house selling it and about 600 of my friends were put into a cellar and we stayed there for about nine hours when a few of my friends were taken upstairs and put into the stove and I was burned to ashes. That ends my life.

THE GRAPE VINE

Dear Uncle Jed: One very warm day in autumn a fox came upon a fine bunch of grapes hanging from a vine. "What good luck," he exclaimed. Here's the very thing for which I have been looking for. With that he took a jump but just missed the bunch. "Better luck time," he said cheerfully and ran back to try again. Again and again he tried to reach the tempting fruit it's all in vain. At last he gave up the attempt saying, "Who cares? They are sour, as everybody knows."

STORY ABOUT A STORK

Dear Uncle Jed: I have not written to the Wide Awake Circle for a long time. Now I'm going to tell you about the stork. When my cousin came from Europe a long time ago, he told me a story about a stork.

He said that the neighbors where he lived took a big wagon wheel and put it on a high tree so the stork could make a good nest for herself. Before the storks went away to warmer places before winter, the same man was fixing his roof when he saw something in the corner. He looked there and he found a pocket full of money.

He knew that the stork found the money somewhere and brought it to him because he had been so kind to the stork. But another neighbor saw a nest on his roof and didn't like it, so he threw it off. The stork saw what had been done. One day he saw some children playing with fire. He took a piece of the burning stick and brought it to the place where he had his nest, and set the house on fire. So when the people see any storks they always try to make a nest for them. I hope the Wide Awake Circle will enjoy reading my story.

MY FIRST FISHING TRIP

Dear Uncle Jed: One rainy day, my dad went fishing. He said I could go with him. When we got to the pond, Dad said if he had good luck he would fix a bait for me. He tried for a long time, but got no fish. Dad gave me his pole. In a minute I had a bite. I pulled in the pole and had a fish two or three inches long. I tried again. Got no bite so we went home with one little fish.

A PICNIC

Dear Uncle Jed: We were all sitting around in the parlor reading books. Laura broke the silence by exclaiming, "Girls, wouldn't this be a fine day to go on a picnic?"

"You bet," said a voice just outside the window.

"You get right away from there, Will," said Dolly. All the girls agreed to Laura's suggestion. There were seven of us, Laura, Kate, Mollie, Josephine, Alice, Dolly and Ethel, and we were all intimate friends. We took mother's market basket and filled it with goodies intending to have a fine time. We went on the wood trail and soon came to a splashing brook. Dolly was admiring the flowers and trees when all of a sudden she fell kerplunk into the brook. We had already warned her to watch her step, but she did not heed a word we said.

We had a fine time fetching her out, getting ducked ourselves. When we got Dolly on her feet she stammered, "I-I-didn't-look to see w-where I w-was going."

Dolly talked as if she had taken a stuttering fit, but she was really shivering. All of a sudden a large drop of water fell on Kate's head. It is raining! We had on our oldfashioned skirts which made it hard to run and besides we were quite a distance from home but this drop was an artificial drop. Mollie turned back and saw her cousin with a water can laughing as if he would burst. Three or four other boys were with him. We gathered up our scattered wits, having found out what the trick was and broke into a fit of laughing. We went back and gathered up our belongings and started back as merry as ever.

A VISIT FROM GRANDMOTHER

Dear Uncle Jed: It was one Christmas morning. There was great rushing in the house as grandmother was coming. Father had the horse hitched to the sleigh and we were going to the station to meet her. It was very cold outdoors and we did not think she would come, but Helen, Mary, John and May were very happy when we found out she was coming for she always brought them some candy. We went down to the station just as the train was leaving. Grandmother had had a long ride as she lived in Missouri. When we got home all the children were glad to see her. She had brought us each a Christmas gift and also brought us candy, oranges, bananas and peanuts for each. She stayed with us a week. When she went home all the children cried, but she came back in two weeks.

IN THE WOODS

Dear Uncle Jed: One day last winter, my friend and I took a trip into the woods. We could see the tracks of different animals that had gone across the snow. We took an air rifle with us. We thought we would have some fun shooting, so we went on a little farther and we found an old, rusty tin, we put it upon a tree. She would have a few turns shooting at it, and then I would. About four o'clock we started for home.

A LETTER FROM GRANDFATHER

Dear Uncle Jed: One day I got a letter from my grandfather. He said he was coming home from Florida and I was very happy. I got another letter, saying that he was in New York. The next morning my father and I went to the station to meet him, but he didn't come. He had missed the train. I was very much disappointed. We went home and then I went over to play with my friend. Pretty soon the quarter of ten car came up from Willimantic. I was just coming home from my friends when I saw my grandfather coming up the hill. I asked him about all the things that he had seen in Florida. He told me many things.

ON THE ROAD

Dear Uncle Jed: Carl, Tom, Roland, Ben and Jim brought their bicycles out of the Barns. Now we made this name up ourselves. We found this little forest and named it Barns because the trees were shaped like many little barns. Now I must tell you about the long ride we had.

The boys picked up their bicycles and we started off. We went to Eagleville. On our way, we saw a black dog. Roland thought it was a bear. There was a long hill ahead. When we got back, the boys went to their own homes. We may go farther next time.

MY PONY

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to you so I hope you and the Wide Awakes will enjoy my story. When I lived out west, my father bought me a pony for my birthday. I named her Betsey for I always liked that name.

One day my little sister Beatrice got sick eating green apples. She started to cough and cough and cough, and my mother sent me for the doctor. I went to the stable and got Betsy. I put the saddle on her and started down the road.

When I got to the doctor's house he said he couldn't come quickly because he had to walk so I took him on my pony's back and trotted back home. When it was time to go home I took him.

I would like to live out west yet, but my mother and father don't like the place.

PUSSY WILLOWS

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write to you and tell you how pussy willows come on earth, although you might know. As I was one morning in April, the sun was throwing down its silver beams into my open window. The birds were chirping on the tree tops. I got up quickly and dressed. I went downstairs to have my breakfast. Soon after I had my breakfast it started to rain. It rained for a whole week. All the little cats and kittens climbed into a willow tree and fell asleep. When mother nature came along she changed the pussys into pussy willows.

THE NORTH POLE

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to the Wide Awake circle. I am going to tell you about the discovery of the North Pole.

The discovery of the North Pole was a remarkable achievement. Each member of the little party of explorers proved himself a hero. The intense cold and the scanty supply of food caused untold sufferins, yet not a man faltered. With unswerving courage they pushed on. The expedition was filled with thrilling adventures and hairbreadth escapes.

HOW PAPER IS MADE

Dear Uncle Jed: Many years ago paper was usually made from rags. These were collected by men who traveled through the country with big wagons going from village to village and from house to house. The rags were cleaned and sorted, and some of them were made into paper. The best grades of paper are still made from rags, especially in the mills at Holyoke.

Most of the paper used for newspapers, magazines, books, and other purposes is now made from wood. For this use a soft wood, like spruce, is needed. The spruce forests of Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont furnish many trees to the paper mills. The wood is ground or boiled to a pulp. The pulp is then freed from impurities and made into paper which is wound into large rolls.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Helped by the Policeman

Now let me see where I left off.
Did the city squirrel give a cough,
Or did he laugh a merry ha, ha,
And throw his peanut at a car

As it whizzed by a tree in the Circus Park,
Where, up in the branches a little Noah's Ark
Sheltered him safely all the year through,
No matter how hard the winter wind blew.

Dear me, when my typewriter begins to spout poetry, I want to buy it a ribbon to tie up its pretty bobbed hair. So, please excuse me while I look to see if the Turnip City squirrel and Little Jack Rabbit are still talking to each other under the tree in the Cirrus Grounds, where we left them in the last story.

No, they are not, but Policeman Dog No. 23 is helping the bunny boy across the driveway. Isn't that nice of him. Well, I guess, yes. And then I guess no, for perhaps he's proud to do it.

"Now, hop along, young rabbit and if you hop behind that tent, you'll find the ponies. And if you like, you may take a ride, but don't fall off and hurt your side."

"Never fear," answered the little rabbit with a laugh, and away he went, clippety clip, lippety lip, until he came to the tent in which all the ponies stood.

Goodness me! How the children clapped their hands when he hopped up into the saddle. Then away trotted the little Shetland pony on his shiny hoofs.

Pretty soon it seemed as if every little girl and boy bunny in Turnip City were standing in a line to watch the little rabbit ride back. Some wanted to hold him on. Others tried to get up behind him, but the man who owned the pony wouldn't hear of it.

"Let the rabbit ride alone,
Run along, I say;
Mary, don't you be contrary;
Willie, you are acting silly.
Doesn't happen every day
Little bunnies come this way."

But, do you think for a moment that when the man began to whistle and the pony to stand up on his hind legs and dance that the bunny boy fell off his back? Well, I guess not three times.

Pretty soon the ride was over, so the little rabbit hopped across the grass and under a bridge till he came to a lake.

"Ha, ha," he said to himself, going over to the rowboats which were tied to a long rope all along the bank. "I think I'll go for a row."

"What kind of a boat do you want?" asked the man as the bunny boy hopped up to the boathouse for a ticket. "Here's a dandy one, named 'Mary Ann'"

But what the little rabbit answered you must wait to hear in the next story.

POETRY

AS TO YOU.

Did you give him a lift? He's a brother of man,
And bearing about all the burden he can.
Did you give him a smile? He was downcast and blue,
And the smile would have helped him to battle it through.
Did you give him your hand? He was slipping down hill,
And the world, so I fancied, was using him ill.
Did you give him a word? Did you show him the road,
Or did you just let him go on with his load?

Did you help him along? He's a stumer like you,
But the grasp of your hand might have carried him through.
Did you bid him good cheer? Just a word and a smile
Were what he most needed that last weary mile.
Do you know what he bore in that burden of cares
That is every man's load and that sympathy shares?
Did you try to find out what he needed from you,
Or did you just leave him to battle it through?

Do you know what it means to be losing the fight,
When a lift just in time might set everything right?
Do you know what it means—just the clasp of a hand,
When a man's borne about all a man ought to stand?
Did you ask what it was—why the quivering lip,
And the glistening tears down the pale cheek that slip?
Were you brother of his when the time came to be?
Did you offer to help him, or didn't you see?

Don't you know it's the part of a brother of man
To find what the grief is and help where you can?
Did you stop when he asked you to give him a lift,
Or were you so busy you left him to shift?
Oh, I know what you say may really be true,
But the test of your manhood is—What did you do?
Did you reach out a hand? Did you find him the road,
Or did you just let him go by with his load?

—J. W. Foley, in The Watchman-Examiner.

OUR GARDEN.

We set out these trees together, you and I.
Long ago;
Snow-balls and lilacs in fragrant row
I delved and you chose the place
Where each budding bush should go
In the long ago.

Spring after spring we watched them you and I.
Long ago.
Till they grew strong and tall,
Fragrant lilac and white snow-ball;
And over against them golden-glow
In the dewy morn
Long ago.

Now in a fairer garden, unfading, are you,
And I all alone! Yet, not so,
For your spirit haunts the place;
Flowers nod in the twilight glow
As the years come and go;
And you watch o'er the garden with me
As you did long ago.

—Richmond Herbert Gesner.

Shot is made by melting lead in a cauldron and passing it through a "shot sieve." As the molten lead passes through the sieve it separates into small drops or pellets, which fall to the water tank 154 feet below. After being cooled, the shot is taken to the dryers by means of conveyers. Then it goes to the polishers and from there passes to a series of revolving drums and screens, which assort the shot into various sizes. Finally, conveyors carry the finished shot to the shipping or storage rooms.

Into the port of Naples comes about one-sixth of all the grain imports of Italy. Little of this is shipped to other parts of the country, most of it being milled and used in the local bakeries and macaroni manufactories of Naples and its suburbs. There are about 150 flour mills in and about Naples, which are more than adequate for the work. In the first nine months of 1923 Italy imported 18,000,000 bushels of hard wheat, 76 per cent of which came from the United States, and 67,000,000 bushels of soft wheat, about 60 per cent of which also came from here.

WESTERLY

DOUBLE MURDER, PAWCATUCK —MALCOLM BAKER CONFESSES

(Special to the Bulletin)

Westerly, R. I. June 1—Double murder with robbery as the motive was the subject of an all-day investigation conducted from the office of Deputy Sheriff William H. Casey, in Pawcatuck (Stonington) just over the state boundary line from Westerly, Saturday, early Sunday morning and continued on Sunday. Police activity and investigation followed the finding of the bodies of George F. Wilkinson, Jr., 18, and Fred E. Pierce, 17, well known young North Stonington residents, stretched on the floor of the feed office in the barn of Amos Burdick, on Coggswell street, where they had been lodged for the past eight or ten weeks while waiting to procure a room. Pierce was lifeless and Wilkinson just breathing.

George F. Wilkinson, Jr., and Fred E. Pierce were chums and had found employment at the Sullivan Granite Works in Westerly, R. I. Deciding that the automobile trip from their home in North Stonington to Bradford was too long for them, permission was obtained from Amos Burdick, the proprietor, inasmuch as an old barn loft was not in a shape to be satisfactory for the boys to sleep on the floor on blankets in the ten by twelve tote-room. Here, apparently wrapped in sleep, they lay while several Pawcatuck men early Saturday morning had dragged into the room and left them without realizing that the deed was not all done. Then Sam Sebastian Duffy, employed as a waiter in the Majestic lunch room here, and asked Amos Burdick for the use of Wilkinson's automobile, he entered the small room and stepped over, seeing that the young men were asleep but he would soon awaken them. Procuring a pail of water from the room to throw it onto the boys' faces but came out saying that one of the men is dead, someone had caved him over the head. Patrolman Francis J. McMahon was called as a crowd quickly gathered and Medical Officer William H. Hillard was sent for. On his arrival it was thought that there might have been a case of wood alcohol poisoning, and examination was made. Westerly Medical Examiner Dr. Michael H. Scanlon was called and while he attempted to move one of the bodies a fracture was found on the side of the head.

Sunday, the investigation in the double murder case was begun at 10 o'clock, with the autopsy on the body of Fred E. Pierce, the autopsy on Wilkinson having been made at the Lawrence Memorial hospital Saturday evening after which the body was returned to Westerly undertaking rooms.

At 10 o'clock an autopsy was performed upon the body of Pierce, who was found dead in the livery stable office. The autopsy was held at the undertaker's by Medical Examiner Dr. W. H. Gray, assisted by Dr. L. M. Allyon of Mystic, Dr. W. H. Hillard, assistant health officer of the town of Stonington, being present. Coroner J. J. Desmond arrived from Norwich soon after the autopsy had been completed Medical Examiner Gray reported death due to fracture of the skull and a lacerated brain.

Deputy Sheriff William H. Casey and Officer Francis McMahon were in North Stonington Sunday morning in an attempt to ascertain from relatives of the two young men the amount of money they had with them on the morning of the double murder. It is believed that Pierce had but a small amount of money on his person when he was killed and robbed in the livery stable, an amount not in excess of $10. The rumor was confirmed current on the morning of the murder that Wilkinson had a check for $24 cashed Friday.

The Wilkinson boy was a son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Wilkinson who reside on a farm near Wyassup pond in the town of North Stonington. He is survived by his parents, five brothers and a sister. Walter A. Wilkinson of North Stonington, a prominent farmer and real estate owner, whose holdings include the so-called Krebs block on Main street, Westerly, as well as houses on Mechanic and Rocket streets, is an uncle of the murdered youth. The lad had many friends and acquaintances in this community, having lived with a cousin, William Miner, at 262 Canal street for several years while he attended the White Rock and Elm street schools.

Fred E. Pierce, the other murdered youth, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Pierce who reside at West [illegible] R. I. [illegible] a year ago the [illegible] on a farm near Billings [illegible] Stonington, where the boy was born and brought up. Besides his father and mother he leaves two brothers and three sisters.

[illegible] two weeks ago, when they obtained jobs at the Sullivan granite quarry, Pierce and Wilkinson worked with the Tillinghast saw mill gang in North Stonington and Stonington. W. Harold Miner, son of William Miner, and a second cousin of Wilkinson, accompanied the latter to the hospital in New London and was with him when he died Saturday afternoon.

Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, during the investigation and hearing given Malcolm T. Baker, negro, of Asbury Park, N. J., who has made his home while in Westerly at 232 Pleasant street, Selectman L. C. Purtill, for Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna secured Miss Lillian Russell, stenographer, and the following confession was secured—

My name is Malcolm Baker. My home address is 1233 Washington avenue, Asbury Park. I board with Sam Allen, 23 Pleasant street.

About four days ago Sam Sebastian was telling me that the two fellows that was assaulted carried a big roll of money. He kept telling me he was broke and he said that if he did not get hold of some money that he was going to leave town. Sebastian, he asked if I was game to hit them. He knew two guys that had a roll of about $4,000. Last night we went to a fight first and he, Sebastian, fought somebody. After the fight we came down with the fellow that refereed the fight. Duffy and I went home after closing the restaurant. We met again at the barn. Duffy went one way to the barn and I another way, separating in the park. We met at the barn and he told me to get something to hit them with. I went back of the office and got this piece of wood (wood identified). I hit the tall fellow on the head. I went out and Duffy took up the same piece of wood. I went out and looked through a broken pane of glass in the window and saw Duffy hit the other fellow about six times and he hit the big fellow again as he was getting up. The two men were rolling and groaning. Then went over to the suit case (pointing out suit case). Then we took both their pants out in the barn. They were lying on top of the suit case. That, Duffy took one pair and I took the other. We took the money out of them. I got $65.00 out of my pants, (meaning the pants that I took up). The money was in the pocketbook. (Pocket-book identified). Duffy got a big roll out of his pants. Then we threw the pants back in the room where the victims were.

I went home to 23 Pleasant street about five o'clock in the morning. It was about 4.30 a. m. when this happened. I threw the pocket-book in the water closet where I board, 23 Pleasant street, Westerly, R. I.

I make this statement of my own free will and no threats or promises were made to me.

(Signed)
MALCOLM THOMAS BAKER

Coroner J. J. Desmond when he went to the office of the barn on Coggswell street, was accompanied by Deputy Sheriff William H. Casey, Patrolman Francis J. McMahon, and Selectman L. C. Purtill. Later the group were joined by Sheriff John R. Wilcox and Deputy Sheriff George Phillips who were in Westerly on the Brady murder.

Implicated with Baker in the double murder are Samuel Sebastian, a negro of this town and James Raymond Duffy, of Danielson, Conn., who lately has been employed in the Majestic restaurant on Coggswell street. These men have not confessed their part in the crime, but are implicated in the confession of Baker and are held as parties to the crime and will be given a hearing with Baker in the Stonington town court this (Monday) morning. Young Wilkinson was rushed to the Lawrence hospital, in New London in the ambulance of the Westerly Sanitary corps. He never regained consciousness and died at the hospital at 2.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

A double funeral is to be held for the two youths Tuesday at North Stonington. Both bodies will be buried in Ashwillet cemetery.

What at first appeared to be an attempt at arson early Sunday morning was discovered by Henry Allen, 60, at his farm on the turnpike between Pendleton Hill and the Norwich-Westerly state highway. Mr. Allen had just risen and on looking out of the rear window discovered his shed door open and hooked back, although he was sure it had been closed the night before. Stepping out of his kitchen door, a built-on pantry room door was found unlatched and on opening the door a pile of Providence Journals dated April 27th were found stuffed in a bag with a quantity of kerosene poured over them. A more sinster find were two rifle cartridges on the threshold, where they had been laid, and with the bullet ends pointed toward the house. Matches were placed close by the inflammable material.

A visit to the henhouse showed the door open and the pile of newspapers, partially unburned and kerosene, but the fowl had scattered the papers about the floor. Mr. Allen visited the barn and both front and rear doors were open and a pile of newspapers in the hay on the floor, and this time a soda water bottle with kerosene. No apparent attempt was made to ignite the materials. To inquiries, Mr. Allen said that there was perhaps but one exception to his statement that as far as he knew he had not an enemy in the world. It would seem that this was an attempt to scare or placed as a threat to Allen, who has occupied the place for some time.

Deputy Sheriff William H. Casey of Pawcatuck was called to the place early Sunday morning and after making a thorough examination has evidence which he is looking into which may lead to the arrest and conviction of the party or parties responsible for the cowardly and criminal attempt or threat at the property and perhaps life of Mr. Allen.

Bad cuts which bled profusely were sustained by Frank Vocatura, a proprietor of the Sunnyside Bakery, Westerly, about 11 o'clock Saturday evening on the Watch Hill road near the curve at the top of the hill by the Mount Pleasant farm of Fred Babcock, when the automobile which he was driving had a head-on collision with an unoccupied Ford touring car on the left side of the road. Mr. Vocatura came to Westerly and the cuts from glass in his back were treated by Dr. Michael H. Scanlon. Patrolmen George Champlin and Michael Curtin visited the location of the collision and took the number of the Ford, R. I. No. 5819, which had broken down and was reported as left standing, with just the running lights going and no one in charge, so they were unable to learn its ownership at the time. With Mr. Vocatura in the bakery truck returning from Watch Hill were three children, who escaped uninjured. The front wheels of the auto-truck were broken and twisted and the steering gear broken. The Ford touring car had its radiator broken and, pushed back into the hood, but the headlights were able to be used. Both cars were towed to a Westerly garage for repairs early Sunday morning.

A women from Southbridge, Mass., occupying the Wheeler cottage at Pleasant View beach, attempted to burn the caterpillar nests in the brush near her cottage Saturday, using an oil torch. In the high wind the fire got beyond her control and the flaming brush was carried against the side of the cottage, which was scorched. An alarm was given and volunteer firemen connected the hose with a hydrant close by and the fire was put out. When responding to the fire alarm, Fire Chief Charles M. Lamb rushed from his store and, catching his foot on a stub, tripped and fell, striking on his left shoulder, slid along on the cement, badly skinning and bruising the left side of his face and shoulder. In spite of torn clothes and cuts, the chief gave his attention to the fire menace before seeking treatment.

Aubrey L. Maddock of Hartford, formerly of Westerly, arrived in Westerly Saturday afternoon to be the guest of relatives and friends.

RICHARD BRADY SHOOTS WIFE AFTER A QUARREL

(Special to the Bulletin)

Westerly, R. I., June 1—Richard Brady, of Richmond, who confessed last night to shooting and killing his 27-year-old wife, Della, at their home off the Carolina-Wyoming road, was presented this morning before Clerk Walter M. Flynn of the Third District court here and later committed to the Providence county jail on a charge of murder to await the September term of the Washington county superior court.

Brady gave himself up to Sheriff John R. Wilcox in Kingston at 7.30 o'clock last night, declaring that the killing, which took place an hour earlier, was accidental. The man was locked up for the night in the county jail and brought to Westerly this morning for a preliminary hearing.

According to Brady's brother, who was a witness of the death of Mrs. Brady, he and Brady went to Hope Valley early last evening for some groceries. Mrs. Brady wished to accompany them, but her husband demanded that she stay at home. When they returned with the groceries, Mrs. Brady had locked them out of the shack about two miles from the main road in which the family lived.

Brady's foster child, a 5-year-old, boy unlocked the door and let the men in, according to the brother's story, whereupon the enraged husband seized a stick and began beating Mrs. Brady. She ran into the clearing outside the house and grabbed an ax. Brady took his Springfield army rifle and shot her as she was attempting to re-enter the shack. The bullet pierced her left side just below the heart and came out from her back.

When brought before Clerk Flynn in the Westerly court house this morning, Brady waived examination and was adjudged probably guilty of the charge of murder. He was held without bail to await the September term of the superior court.

MARKET REVIEW

New York, June 1.—(By the A. P.)—Moderate reaction in bond prices last week was counteracted by active bidding for new issues, which totaled more than $10,000,000. Although the volume of new financing was one of the heaviest of the year, it was, perhaps, absorbed the most readily.

The market for new offerings as well as for listed securities hinged largely on railroad issues. Reports of poor April earnings by most of the carriers induced scattered selling of their listed obligations and diverted investment buying from this channel into the public utility section, speculative operations were mostly for the decline, as in the case of the St. Paul liens which reacted to the deficit reported for the month.

Keen demand for new high grade railroad bonds, however, was satisfied partially by the offering of more than $65,000,000 of these issues during the week. The three fold subscription of $20,000,000 "Big Four" 5 per cent liens early in the week attested to the market's absorptive capacity and a scramble for the $35,000,000 Baltimore & Ohio 6s and about $8,000,000 New Orleans, Texas & Mexico 5 1-2s later indicated that its buying power was by no means exhausted.

The Baltimore & Ohio offering marked the road's first step in its extensive refunding program. To meet 1923 maturities new securities aggregating close to $150,000,000 will be issued within the next year, only a "Nickel Plate" issue now remains to complete the important railroad financing operations scheduled, and it may appear within a week.

Poor distribution of foreign loans recently floated in this market was emphasized last week by the sharp break in the new Swiss government 5 1-2s following dissolution of the offering syndicate. Heavy liquidation brought a decline of 3 points but good buying support was encountered at this level and the bonds later rallied.

Weakness of Mexican government securities, reflected in lower quotations for "assented" issues which were dealt in for the first time in months, revived reports that the next interest payments on the debt, tentatively scheduled for July 1, would be deferred, no information was available from the international committee of bankers on Mexico, but there were indications that the entire service for 1924 would be discharged in one operation.

With the week on the stock exchange cut short by a triple holiday, trading interest was at a lower ebb than usual, Liberty Bonds were firm, with some issues reaching the highest levels of the year in reflection of treasury buying and employment of surplus institutional funds.

Money rates stiffened temporarily during the week, but weakened again at the close when it was reported that funds were being lent on the "outside" market as low as 3 per cent.

Fears for the safety of next interest payments contributed to the weakness of several industrial corporations' obligations, including Wilson & Co., and Virginia-Carolina issues, while no provison for nterest on the latter's bonds has been made, advances will be made on the 7 per cent. issue by the bondholders' committee as security against deposited liens.

MAY BLOCK ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS SATURDAY

Washington, June 1—Although the leaders have plans made for adjournment of congress next Saturday they concede there is a possibility that advocates of farm relief railroad and reclamation legislation may block the program.

Representative Longworth of Ohio, the republican leader, intends to offer an adjournment resolution in the house, probably Tuesday. While there will be opposition it is agreed that the resolution will be adopted, leaving the question with the senate and except for a vote on the McNary Haugen farm relief bill and a decision as to what shall be done with the Howell Barkley measure to abolish the railroad labor board, the house calendar is practically cleared.

There is demand in the senate for action on Muscle Shoals, farm relief and reclamation measures, but under an unanimous consent agreement, none of these can be brought forward until after the senate has voted on the child labor constitutional amendment resolution probably late tomorrow.

Leaders are doubtful that these three matters can be disposed of within the week. They are hopeful, however, that the next few days will see the situation so clarified that the way will be payed for action on the adjournment resolution.

188 PERSONS KILLED BY AUTOS IN NEW YORK STATE IN MAY

New York, June 1—The National Highways Protective society, reported today that 188 persons met their death by automobiles and motor trucks in New York state during the month of May. In New York City alone 79 died in motor accidents while 31 persons in automobiles were killed at highway railroad grade crossings.

A marriage license was issued in New York to Gene Sarazen, professional golf champion and Miss Mary Henry of Miami Beach, Fla. They said they would be married on June 10. Sarazen is 23 years old and Miss Henry is 18.

THERE ARE INDICATIONS OF BUSINESS REVIVAL

Washington, June 1—Indications of a break in the business recession that began with the new year were shown today in the federal reserve board's review for May. While the activity in some lines can be tracked to seasonal increase, officials said the tone was healthier and expressed the belief that the resulting revival would have more than temporary life.
There were indications also that constructive programs were under consideration in some business circles, which a few months ago were content ot meet only the demands upon them and make no future plans.

TRUMBULL FAMILY RELICS RECEIVED AT HARTFORD

A recent collection of objects of Norwich families was received at Hartford Athenæum in April from the estate of Miss Leonette W. Hubbard, [illegible] of Miss Mary Trumbull Dana, of New Haven. Their mothers were sisters, the children of Harriet Trumbull (daughter of the second Governor Jonathan Trumbull [illegible] married Prof. B. Stillman of New Haven.

Among the objects given by Miss Dana is a small English silver cream pitcher with diagonal floral bands, all repoussé, dating from about 1760, and similar to another owned by the Connecticut Historical Society. Both belonged to the first Governor Trumbull and no doubt were in frequent use on the tea table of Mrs. Trumbull. Connected with the family of the second Governor Trumbull are his [illegible]ella and pocket knife, two mourning rings containing hair, his visiting card and a dinner invitation. A fine linen pillow case is marked in cross-stitch with Mrs. Trumbull's initials and part of a green woolen skirt has a most interesting quilted design of scrolls, animals and birds.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Groton, June 1.—Leon Maynard was arrested at the [illegible] last midnight by Patrolman John Hogan, for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Maynard was [illegible] up pending a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning. The officer was attracted to the machine because of its zig zag course and investigated. Hogan observed that Maynard was intoxicated. In the machine with Maynard was a married woman from Norwich and she was [illegible] a prisoner also, being locked up. She was charged with interfering with an officer. She was released this forenoon on her promise to go to Norwich. [illegible] woman was freed, however, was compelled to spend considerable time preparing her attire. [illegible] was locked up a portion of the night was found parked [illegible]

ONE IN EVERY 43 WOMEN DRIVERS HAS BEEN INVOLVED IN ACCIDENTS

Women were the drivers of motor vehicles involved in 700 of 15,000 recent accidents analyzed by the state motor vehicle department. As there are about 30,000 licensed women operators, the figure indicates that approximately one in every forty-three women who operate automobiles in Connecticut figure in accidents. About one in every 13 1-2 of the licensed male operators, of whom there were 183,000 last year, are in accidents.

It is pointed out, however, that male operators, taken as a whole, do considerably more driving than women, and that the ratio stated, therefore, may not be a fair one. Nearly all drivers of commercial motor vehicles, for instance, who spend practically their entire working day at the wheel, are men. The great majority of women operators drive private passenger cars, for which the accident rate is lower than for any other class of motor vehicles, except motorcycles equipped with side cars.

About 60 per cent of the women who were the drivers of cars figuring in accidents are listed in the department records as "a friend of the owner," which is a general classification made for department convenience including wives and other relatives of car owners, as well as prospective relatives, and others. Approximately 35 per cent of the women in accidents were driving their own cars, and 5 per cent were employees of the owners, whereas 20 per cent of the men in accidents were employees of the owners of the cars involved, 10 per cent friends of the owners and about 70 per cent the owners themselves.

Over 70 per cent of these accidents were found by the department to have been caused by the operators, about 20 per cent the fault of others, 6 per cent the fault of defective equipment and 4 per cent the result of other miscellaneous circumstances.

SO. MANCHESTER PRIEST EXPLAINS THE ROSARY

A young man ordained from St. Mary's parish, Norwich, Rev. James Timmins, assistant pastor at St. James' church, South Manchester, preached to a congregation of perhaps 2,100, after reading the 9 o'clock mass at St. Patrick's church Sunday. He exchanged with the local curate, Rev. Rocco J. Guerriero, who was in South Manchester to conduct a triduum, or three days' devotion, preaching to the Italians of that parish. It was the Sunday after the Ascension, the epistle being I. Peter, 4, 7-11 and the gospel, John 15, 26-27 and 16, 1-4.

Father Timmins preached on the devotions of May just ended, considering that practice so dear to every Catholic, so consoling, so efficacious, so practical, the recitation of The Rosary. In earlier times, he said, it was the custom of the devout to recite mentally or audibly the Our Father and the Hail, Mary, quoting the Holy Scriptures, while telling the knots in a cord, that they might at the same time meditate upon the principal events in the life of the Saviour. The Rosary simplifies this method, inasmuch as the large bead is the signal for repeating the Lord's prayer as Christ taught it, then the smaller beads suggest saying ten times the "Hail, Mary," the salutation of the Angel Gabriel to the Virgin. As the prayers are said, the mind dwells in succession on the Annunciation of Christ's birth, the Visitation to Elizabeth, the Nativity, the presentation in the Temple, the naming of the Child Jesus; then in the five Sorrowful Mysteries, on Christ's condemnation to death, His scourging at the pillar, crowning with thorns, His being nailed to the cross and His death thereon. In the Glorious Mysteries in turn there arise the scenes of the Resurrection, Christ's Ascension, the descent of the Holy Ghost upon the Apostles, the assumption of His Blessed Mother and her glorification in Heaven—in effect a complete summary of the chief events in the earthly life of the Redeemer. Father Timmins called the Rosary a crown of roses, to be laid at the feet of the revered mother of the Saviour.

Row after row of members from the great congregation were at the sanctuary railing for Holy Communion, administered by Father Timmins or by Rev. Myles P. Galvin, who assisted him. The Junior choir sang the hymns during the service, concluding with Holy God, We Praise Thy Name.

The polls will be open in the four city districts today from 5.30 a. m. to 5 p. m., standard time, or 6.30 a. m. to 6 p. m., daylight time

OBITUARY.

Stephen R. Babcock.

Word was received in Norwich Saturday of the death of Stephen R. Babcock at his home in Plainfield Saturday morning. He had been ill for about a month with an abscess in his mouth and a tumor in his right side. Mr. Babcock who was in his 54th year, was a brother Telley E. Babcock of this city. He was the son of William S. and Frances E. Maine Babcock and was born in Plainfield, Feb. 26, 1870.

Mr. Babcock attended the Plainfield public school and graduated from the Plainfield Academy. He married Berdie May Kenyon in Canterbury, and was a well known farmer in that vicinity for the greater part of his life. He was a member of the Plainfield grange and an attendant of the Congregational church. Besides his wife he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Frances E. Babcock, three children, Ruby A. Phillips, Richard S. and Bessie B. Babcock, all of Plainfield; two brothers, William P. of Plainfield, and Telley E. Babcock, of this city; also three sisters, Mrs. William Bradford of Plainfield and Mrs. Nathan Exley of Plainfield and Mrs. Albert Exley, of Groton.

Joseph T. Campbell.

Joseph T. Campbell of 93 Prospect street, formerly superintendent of the Shetucket mill, died Saturday morning, his death being due to complications which set in following an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Campbell was born in West Warren, Mass., on June 23, 1881, and was the son of James and Margaret Tait Campbell. His parents were natives of Scotland.

Mr. Campbell attended the public schools of West Warren and 12 years ago came to this city, having made his home here since. Some years ago he was united in marriage with Miss Elizabeth Kispert of Greeneville. Mr. Campbell was superintendent of the Shetucket mill up to the time of its going out of business recently. He was a member of the Greeneville Congregational church and was a 32d degree Mason.

Surviving are his wife, his father, James Campbell, of West Warren, Mass.; three brothers, James and John, both of Thorndike, Mass., and William of Milwaukee, Wis., also three sisters, Jennie, Agnes and Grace all of West Warren, Mass. There were no children.

Mrs. James E. Fuller

Rebecca Phillis Hope, beloved wife of the late Captain James E. Fuller and daughter of Thomas Hope, Esq., and Mary Ann Newson, of London England, died at noon Saturday at her home, No. 433 Washington street, Norwich Town, after a lingering illness. Mrs. Fuller was born in London, England, October 23rd, 1844.

Her father, a shipbuilder was associated with Isabard Kingdom Brunel and a group of gentlemen in the construction of the first of the ocean steamships and of the Great Eastern, and met his death in consequence of an accident while attending a service given on shipboard in celebration of the completion of the Great Eastern.

Mrs. Fuller's childhood was picturesque, her father's connections bringing to his house many notable men, besides mariners from India and China, where he had business interests. But her father's early death, and two other tragic losses in the home circle, shadowed her girlhood, and there were years of which she did not speak.

As a child, she disclosed a love of music and of design, and having come to the States to spend the winter, with her eldest sister who had married Egbert du Bois, of Albany, N. Y., she entered the Conservatory of Music in New York City. Mrs. Fuller was married from her sister's house on Mr. du Bois's plantation home, in Bluffton, South Carolina, to Mr. Fuller. For the sake of the unity of her home, Mrs. Fuller, although a child of the Church of England, united with the Congregational Church in 1879, when she came to make her home in Norwich Town and later united with the Broadway Congregational church, and the Congregational church has held her deep affection because of the friendship and sincerity of its members.

No one could know her and not love her, and no one could know her who did not know her in her home, to which she devoted her unusual gifts. Although in failing health and rarely free from pain, her life was one of unbroken fortitude, and of a joyous and sweet constancy.

Mrs. Fuller is survived by her son Edward, her four daughters, Rebecca Hope, Margaret, Charlotte, Louise, and by her son-in-law, Rev. Francis Peck Bacheler, seven grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren, also by her sister, Mrs. Valentine Wallis.

George A. McNamara

George H. McNamara, formerly of Norwich, died suddenly Saturday night at his home, No. 38 Spring street, Hartford. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary McNamara, 4 daughters, Misses Veronica, Mary, Catherine and Lillian McNamara, and one son, George W. McNamara, all of Norwich. The body will be brought to Norwich for burial in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mr. McNamara was born in Chatham, N. Y., about 50 years ago. He was the son of Edward and Catherine McNamara. For 25 years Mr. McNamara lived in Norwich and went to Hartford about 5 years ago.

He was a member of the Hartford lodge of Eagles and of the Hartford division of the A. O. H.

John Gribbin

After a short illness John Gribbin died Sunday morning at 11.45 o'clock at the home of his son, Francis P. Gribbin in Fitchville. He was born in Ireland and came here in 1884. He resided in Colchester for several years but for the last 37 years had been a resident of Fitchville. His wife died about 31 years ago.

Mr. Gribbin is survived by two sons, Francis P. Gribbin of Fitchville, and Peter T. Gribbin of Hartford, and there are also two daughters, Mrs. Patrick Kelley of Bridgeport and Miss Mary E. Gribbin of Fitchville. Eleven grand children and one great grand child also survive him.

Mr. Gribbin was well known in Fitchville. He was tenderly cared for by his children during his illness.

Miss Helena Anton

After an illness of a month, Miss Helena Anton of 45 Grove street died Friday evening at the Norwich State Tuberculosis sanatorium. She was 17 years, 7 months and 17 days old and was the daughter of John and Marianna Anton. Miss Anton was born in this city Oct. 13, 1907 and had been employed at the plant of the Norwich Paper Box Co.

Besides her parents she is survived by three brothers, Joseph, Walter and Frank Anton and three sisters.

AUTOMOBILE CASES BEFORE WATERFORD JUSTICE

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, June 1—Two motorists were before Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton in the Waterford town court today, charged with reckless driving.

This morning Donald M. Rader, 724 East Fourth street, Brooklyn, N. Y., was arrested by State Policeman J. W. Dooley of the Groton Barracks. The accused was fined $25 and costs, amounting to $38. Rader operated his machine near Station 5 where road construction is in progress and where one-way traffic is compulsory. He operated his machine by other cars and added to the congestion.

This afternoon Amando Taomas, 28 Prest street, was taken into custody by State Policeman Stephen A. Stanton of the Groton barracks. He drew a fine of $25 and costs, amounting to $39.25. Thomas, who was arrested a week ago and at that time was allowed to go unpunished operated his car on Logger Hill and when reaching a curve where great danger in fast driving exists, drove past several cars.

Given Miscellaneous Shower

Miss Catherine Malady of No. 251 Laurel Hill avenue was given a miscellaneous shower at her home Thursday evening by the telephone operators of the local exchange. There were 48 girls present. Miss Malady received a number of valuable gifts including silver, cut glass, and linen. Games were played and vocal selections were heard. A buffet luncheon was served. Miss Malady is to be married this week to Leo Casavant of this city.

It's a sad memory that doesn't allow a man to forget what he owes.

CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT BAD, SAYS MISS HOLLOWAY

"Attacking the proposed child labor amendment to the United State constitution as being a "dangerous proposition, subversive of the duty of the state to its citizenry and of the best interest of both adult and child workers," Miss Charlotte Molyneux Holloway of New London, industrial investigator of the department of labor and factory inspection in Connecticut, has declared herself unalterably opposed to its adoption.

Basing her opinion and judgments on eleven years of association with the workers of the state, both adult and child, she says:

"It has occurred to me that while many statements have been made in favor of the proposed child labor amendment to the constitution of the United States, it is possible that some were made without full consideration of the pros and cons of the subject.

"This amendment, as discussed at the hearings of February and March, 1924, read as follows:

"'1.—Congress shall have power to limit, regulate and prohibit the labor of persons under eighteen years of age.'

"2.—The power of the various states is unimpaired, by this article, except that the operation of state laws shall be suspended to the extent to give effect to legislation enacted by the congress.'

"My personal opinion is that this is a dangerous proposition, subversive of the duty of the state to its citizenry; of the best interests of both adult and child workers; of the taxpayers of the state and unjustified by any existing or possible condition of affairs in any state in the union.

"This opinion is based on eleven years of close association with the workers of the state, both adult and child; of knowledge of the work done in this state; of the work needed; of the character and scope of its laws and of the disastrous effects of federal interference as shown in the world war and in the railway system and the constant and insidious attempt, by any means, to establish a bureaucracy, aided by thoroughly honest citizens, men and women, in every state who are fold half truths, hectored, maudlined into sympathy by skilful juggling of truth and by one who wants proof by calling him a reactionary or an exploiter of child labor.

"It is also strengthened by conviction that amendments to the constitution, conferring power on bodies which do not always know how to govern themselves, should be handled like dynamite. There is only one recent amendment which has proved itself justified in its workings out and that is the nineteenth."

On Auto Law Violation Charge

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, June 1—David Levy, 20 High street, Norwich, was arrested this afternoon by Traffic Officer John Courtney, charged with violation of the automobile law in operating an automobile without having a license to do so. Levy was ordered to appear in the police court next Friday morning. In order to reach his home Levy had to secure the services of a friend, who had authority to operate a car. Levy admitted having failed to take out a license in over a year.

AUTOMOBILE DROVE OFF AFTER HITTING ANOTHER

Miss Mary Butler of Elmwood avenue reported to the police Sunday evening that a touring car containing a man and woman backed into her coupe on Washington square and then drove away without stopping to see what damage resulted. The number of the touring car was given as N-3737. The police will investigate the matter.

Handsome Trout Displayed.

Bert Lamphere and A. Curland brought in a pretty string of nine trout Saturday from the Peck Hollow brook, showing nine that ranged from 14 ounces to 1 1-2 pounds. The longest measured 18 inches.

The fish were displayed in the window of the Talking Machine Shop on Franklin street from 6 to 9.30 o'clock Saturday evening.

Kansas State Teachers' College has more calls for teachers of music, with other high school subjects, than for any other combination.

EXPECT CARNEY TRIAL IN SUPERIOR COURT

The criminal session of the superior court will reconvene in New London this (Monday) morning with Judge Christopher L. Avery on the bench. The first case to be tried before a jury is that of John Carney, former proprietor of the Pequot Casino, charged with violation of the liquor law.

Another case scheduled to be tried is that of Eugene Adams, New Haven, charged with felonous assault with intent to rob a sailor at the United States Coast Guard academy. Adams who is in jail awaiting trial, will be brought into court on a bench warrant.

Bishop Confirms Classes

The sacrament of confirmation was administered Sunday morning at 10.3 at St. Mary's church, Willimantic, and at 10.45 at St. Mary's South Coventry. Classes were confirmed Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at St. Mary Putnam, and at St. John's Plainfield.

THE PRESIDENT HAS SIGNED THE TAX REDUCTION BILL

The House Has Passed a Concurrent Resolution Providing For Adjournment of Congress at 7 p. m. Next Saturday —In the Senate LaFollette Has Introduced a Resolution Providing For a Recess For One Month—The Senator is Working Without the Organized Support of His Associates.

...ington, June 2.—President ... which the citizen contributes to the ... Treasury ... have ... board of tax appeals.

It is not alone in the unwarranted interference with the right of the citizen to privacy that these provisions are hurtful. It is believed that far from increasing revenue, the desire to avoid the gratification of the idle curiosity of others or the exposure of one's personal affairs to one's competitor will result in the concealment of millions of dollars of income which would otherwise be reported.

...Excise or Sumptuaries.

The supreme court granted a habeas corpus writ to Philip Grossman who was taken in custody in Chicago after executive clemency had been granted.

Chairman Norris submitted a report from the senate agriculture committee attacking Henry Ford and the administration in connection with Muscle Shoals bid.

BROOKHART LEADING IN PRIMARY IN IOWA

Des Moines, Ia., June 2.—Senator Brookhart went into the lead for the republican nomination for the senate when 153 precincts out of 2,412 had reported on today's primary. His total was 13,470. Burton E. Sweet, his opponent, was given 12,936 in the precincts.

BROOKHART LEADING IN PRIMARY IN IOWA

Des Moines, Ia., June 2.—Senator Brookhart went into the lead for the republican nomination for the senate when 153 precincts out of 2,412 had reported on today's primary. His total was 13,470. Burton E. Sweet, his opponent, was given 12,936 in the precincts.

...tendencies are already apparent which indicate the stress to which this structure is being put. I mention as an instance the increased cost of capital for industrial enterprises. These influences are being felt even in our present prosperity. During the after-the-war period of adjustment, the ... ...ave ... more than this country ... ...ers are not restored. As a ...sequence, we have been relieved of ...h of the world competition. When ...r countries return to productivity and become again the serious commercial rivals of our people, and when we experience those periods of depression, which normally follow periods of prosperity, we should ...ve our house in order by so establishing our tax system that its economic effects will be beneficial and not harmful.

The bill represents tax reduction not tax reform. If we are to maintain the American standard of living, and hold our place in the world, we must adjust our taxes upon an economic and not a political basis.

The bill comes to me for consideration less than two weeks before the ... adjournment of congress, and it ... ... which ... ...tive before June 15th next. No different bill can be passed before adjournment. The question before me is the present law or the bill in the shape it has passed the congress. As it stands, in its administrative features generally it is an improvement on the existing law. It will meet the needs of revenue through the fiscal year 1925, and probably be sufficient for ... time if no unforeseen ... The immediate relief ... taxes of 25 per cent. ... pected by the people, and should be promptly given, and the determination of the taxes to which 1924 incomes will be subject should be made certain while the income is still being received.

These opinions are supported by the treasury department.

As I have said, the bill does represents a sound permanent tax policy and in its passage has been subject to unfortunate influence which ought not to control fiscal questions. Still, in spite of its obvious defects, its advantages as a temporary relief and a temporary adjustment of business conditions, in view of the uncertainty of a better law within a reasonable time, led me to believe that the best interests of the country would be served if this bill became a law. A correction of its defects may be left to the next session of the congress. I trust a bill less political and more truly economic may be passed at that time. To that and I shall bend all my energies.

LOWEST TAX LEVY SINCE START OF THE WORLD WAR

Washington, June 2—The new revenue law scales down federal taxes to the lowest level since the start of the war.

Individual income taxpayers are given the greater relief although most of the remaining special war excise taxes either are wiped off the statutes or reduced.

At the same time the law creates two new taxes—on gifts and Mah Jong sets—and increases the rate of taxes on estates and playing cards.

Likewise the administration provisions are revised to plug gaps in the old law for tax evasions, and considerable additional revenue is expected as a result.

The next reduction which it is estimated the bill will make in government revenue next fiscal year, beginning July 1, is $361,000,000, but the full effect of the tax relief afforded will not be shown in government receipts until the following year, when it is estimated the total reduction will amount to not ...than $4...

Changes ordered in the excess rates ... into effect after thirty days. Of course, the provision for a 25 per cent reduction on income taxes payable this year is effective immediately, while the cuts made in the individual income taxes are effective as of January 1 this year on taxes which are payable next year.

Changes in Income Tax

The following changes are ordered

To Prevent Auto Accidents

Chalon-sur-Saone, France, June ... A new method for the prevention of automobile accidents was proposed by the association of mayors of the South and Loire regions in their convention here today when the city ... adopted a resolution calling upon the government to pass a law decreeing that no automobile can leave a factory for sale unless official tests prove that its speed is "compatible with public safety." The mayors left determination of this speed up to the legislators but demanded that railroad crossing barricade be heightened and that crossings be freed from new constructions.

MAYOR CURLEY TESTIFIED IN COAKLEY-CORCORAN CASE

Cambridge, Mass., June 2—Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, testified today in the trial of Daniel H. Coakley, disbarred Boston lawyer and William J. Corcoran, former district attorney, charged with conspiracy to extort by threatening prosecution, that it was he who introduced Coakley to Hiram Abrams, and other motion picture magnates who it is alleged were mulcted out of $35,000 as a result of a "wild party" they had attended at Mishawum Manor, a road house.

Mayor Curley explained to the court that he became involved in the case because of his position as chief magistrate of Boston and also because I. L. Dailey, a friend of his, came to him about a newspaper article which told of the alleged party at the road house. Dailey, he said, explained that he feared a run on the bank of which he was president because of this article. Abrams was prominently connected with the same institution.

In deference to requests for help from both Dailey and either Joseph or Max Levenson, an attorney for the motion picture men, the mayor testified, he met Abrams and others in a room at a Boston hotel. On his arrival, he said, a discussion was going on as to choice of counsel. Mr. Curley said that he suggested among others the name of Coakley, and added that Levenson expressed the opinion that Coakley would be the right man.

Coakley was called on the telephone that night and consented to come to the hotel only after the mayor himself had urged him to do so. "We don't want a run on a Boston bank," the mayor testified he told Coakley.

URGES CHANGE IN STATUS OF PHILIPPINE ISLANDS

Washington, June 2— Secretary Weeks transmitted to the senate committee on territories today a statement urging passage by congress at this session of ... bill which would provide for ... in status of the Philippine ... commonwealth and ... complete indpendence after 25 years.

Various changes in the measure were suggested by the war secretary on his own motion and other changes desired by the Philippine mission now in Washington were included. If these changes are made, Mr. Weeks said, he would regard reduction of the 25 year period to 20 years as designed by the mission as "a fair compromise."

The scholarships, which were made possible by an appropriation from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, will afford the winners an opportunity to attend the summer school of one of the leading universities or to enter the regular fall semester to take courses correlated with health teaching. Among the awards are:

Hartford, Conn., Mrs. Lillian Sponsler, Cambridge, Mass., Anna A. O'Connell; Fall River, Mass., Julietta Delehanty.

JAPANESE CHEER AMERICAN AVIATORS

Kagoshima, Japan, June 2.—(By the A. P.)—Thousands of people lined the water front of Kagoshima and stood on the hills about Kagoshima bay to cheer the American army around-the-world fliers upon their arrival here at 7.02 this evening from Kushimoto.

The flight was a tiring and difficult one. It took six hours to cover the 425 miles. Fitful winds and rain retarded the aviators. With good weather the aviators hope to continue their flight to Shanghai 500 miles across the Yellow sea on Tuesday.

ADMIRAL VON TIRPITZ IS OBJECTIONABLE TO BRITISH

London, June 2 - Premier Macdonald was asked in the house of commons today whether the government had made representations to Germany that the appointment of Admiral Von Tirpitz to high office would be resented by the allies. The prime minister replied that the government would not neglect its duty in this or in any similar respect.

Postal Salary Bill Passed by The House

The Measure Had Been Passed by the House—Goes to States For Ratification.

Washington, June 2—A bill carrying salary increases for postal employes, differing in many respects from the one approved recently by the senate, was passed today by the house.

The bill, which was passed, by a standing vote of 259 to 14 proposed an increase in salaries, estimated by the post office committee at $65,000,000 a year and Postmaster General New at $80,000,000. Proponents of the senate bill placed its annual cost at $55,000,000.

Called up by Chairman Griest of the Post Office committee, the bill was passed under suspension of rules, which limited debate to 40 minutes, prevented amendments, and required a two-thirds vote.

It now goes to conference with the senate where it will be determined among other questions whether house conferees will recommend acceptance of the amendment by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, which would give publicity to campaign expenditures.

Senate Approves Child Labor Law

The Measure Differs in Many Respects From the One Approved by the Senate.

Washington, June 2—Approval was given by the senate tonight to a constitutional amendment which would empower the federal government to ... regulate or prohibit the labor of children under 18 years of age. It previously had been approved by the house and now goes to the state for ratification.

The vote was 61 to 23 or 5 more than the necessary two thirds.

Under the amendment congress would have the power of regulation but the enforcing power would be vested in the federal and state governments. The vote of three-fourths of the states is necessary for ratification.

The supreme court has twice declared federal child labor laws unconstitutional, and opponents argued that the amendment would constitute an invasion of states rights, whereas proponents asserted that a federal standard must be set up to bring certain states which have been ... legislation to a more rigid enforcement.

Spellman has qualified in the 192-pound class in the elimination contest held in New York city last week. He is a member of the graduating class at Brown university and has a wonderful record as an athlete, having been captain of the Brown varsity football team in 1923 and champion heavyweight wrestler of eastern colleges last year. He was graduated from Enfield high school before entrance to college. He sails for Paris June 16.

A box car standing near two heaps of creosoted ties in the local yard of the New Haven road near the railroad station was in danger of going up in a blaze Saturday afternoon when the ties suddenly burst into flames. Engine Company No. 1 was called and a stream of water was played on the fire.

Engine Company No. 1 made a trip to 92 High street Sunday afternoon in answer to a still alarm for a chimney fire. The house is occupied by Clarence C. Palmer, local letter carrier, and is owned by Lawrence King. Six gallons of chemicals were used to extinguish the flames. Monday morning Chief Tighe of the department received a handsome check from Mr. Palmer in appreciation of the excellent work of the smoke-eaters.

Charles O. Olson of Centerville, R. I., was injured while a visitor in this city Saturday afternoon, when he was walking across Windham road at the top of Jillson Hill and was struck and knocked down by an automobile driven by the owner, Joseph Jacobson of 291 Bellevue street, Hartford. The car was a Ford coupe. Mr. Olson was taken to St. Joseph's hospital and given treatment. His injuries were found to be but slight and he was soon released.

The store at 877 Main street conducted in the past by Walter Hibberd has been purchased by Raymond Summers a local young man. Mr. Summers has been a clerk in the employ of Mr. Hibbert for several years.

The Hampton-Willimantic road is open to traffic according to notification from the state highway department. The Mansfield-Mansfield Four Corners-Storrs road is open to traffic which is held up at one point where the steam shovel is in use. The Mansfield-Mansfield Depot road is under repairs but open. Travelers are advised to take the detour as posted.

State police officers from the Stafford Springs barracks who patrolled this section of the state between Manchester and Willimantic Sunday stated that the traffic was heaviest than on any day so far this year.

A large number of new drivers appeared on the road and according to the officers the percentage of woman drivers had nearly doubled over last year.

The metal drinking fountain corner of Main and Railroad street is undergoing repairs to prevent waste water from leaking out and into one of the basement stores in the European block.

One of the landmarks of Thread Mill square, the store on Main street has been reopened by Mrs. Susan T. Sullivan and her sister, Miss Lucy A. Murphy, daughters of Mrs. Murphy, who conducted the store many years ago.

Alfred J. Larrivere, the new city collector of taxes and assessments will begin his collections on the grand list of 1923 the middle of June.

Miss Julia King was pleasantly surprised at The Elms recently by a number of friends who called on her for a farewell party before she leaves Friday for Ireland for a four months' stay. A well-filled May basket was presented Miss King. Others present were Misses Eva Vincelette, Clara Gagne, Marie Turcotte, Mary McCrohan, Margaret Sullivan, Kate Gallivan, Rose Casey, Adele Perry, Jenny Bird, Irene Leclair, Bridget Devine, Florence Colorado, Delia Guilford, Alice Gagne, Blanche Harvey, Lea Turcotte, Elizabeth Lynch, Annie Kelley, Helen and Katherine King and Mrs. Goodwin.

JEWETT CITY

Mr and Mrs R F Cheney have returned from Jamaica, Vt., where they spent Memorial day with Mrs. Cheney's mother.

People living on the park section of North and East Main street, are enjoying these days, the continuous view they have of David Hale Fanning park. With its newly painted fence pieces, its decorative foreign and domestic evergreens and [illegible] green turf and over all the splendid shaft, it is indeed a thing of beauty and a joy forever. Sunday, one had but to stand near the park to see how its attractiveness challenged the admiration of hundreds of passing automobile parties.

Riverside school teachers, while they seek to stimulate the different branches of flower study, are asking the blossom seekers to gather the specimens with such care as to not injure the plant.

It is surprising to see the knowledge of the local flora which has been gained by some of even the junior pupils. Two flowers have made their appearance here this spring. Mrs. W. A. Richardson, two weeks ago bought a specimen of purplye virgin's bower from Lantern Hill. Before all Jewett friends had seen it, the petals dropped off. As the flower is new here, Mrs. Richardson an enthusiastic botanist, she made a second trip and was able to silence all skeptics regarding her find. White virgin's bower (clematis) is common all about Griswold. The purple species has never been found here. The other flower, brought into the school Monday, is scarlet painted cup. It is a peculiar flower, with the bracts around the blossoms partly green and partly red. It is a parasite and an altogether attractive specimen. One of its nicknames, is "nose bleed." This latter flower at one time grew in the meadow in Newent, in the rear of the Daniel Brown house.

Charles H. Ray, can remember 70 years ago, how he mailed a letter in the Jewett City post office, when it was kept in the little house owned by Frank Ray and now occupied by Richard Howard. Mr. Ray, to make sure went down and looked at the door and certain enough, there was the letter slot, stopped with a piece of wood, and covered with the many paintings of well towards three-quarters of a century.

The day being fine, Sunday, a number of Jewett City parties, went to Billings' pond. The fact that of late it has advanced to the distinction of being called Billings' lake has not been able to add to its national rugged beauty. Mr. Anderson, who has acquired a considerable tract of property at the lake is making many improvements and preparing a number of attractive camping sites. Billings' pond for fifty years has been visited by local fishermen, and others desiring to see for themselves this nearby beauty spot. Its waters are clear and pure, spring fed, and in many places of great depth. Two rocky islets at the lower end of the lake, add just the touch necessary to make Billings' pond a surpassing natural picture.

Mrs. Iola Button Brown has closed her work in Aspinook bleachery and has gone to her new home in Norwich where she and her husband are going to keeping house. On Saturday night, while at her aunt's Mrs. Andrew Chesbro's, she received a handsome May basket from Mrs. Levi Lord and Miss Elsie Lord, Mr. and Mrs. George Edmond and Mr. and Mrs. William Lord.

The name of George Ayer should be added to the names of the Civil war veterans in the Read-Herskell cemetery.

Mrs. Gingras, Mrs. T. A. Rioux and Miss Delphine Beauregard are in Putnam attending the French convention.

There are many near-accidents at the corner of Main street and Slater avenue for the reason that the arrow pointing toward Norwich does not seem to be conspicuous enough. The two signs, one for points south and the other to Glasgo and Voluntown, are placed one above the other and the arrow on the lower sign points towards Glasgo. The arrow pointing south is above the two signs, and being on a dark background is not readily seen. Automobiles from the north start to make the turn toward Glasgo, before they see the arrow at the top. If that arrow were placed between the signs it might obviate the trouble and prevent accidents.

Mrs. Fred S. Brown and Arnold Brown of Malden, Mass. were guests Sunday at Mrs. E. M. Swift's.

Delphis Morin and Miss Alphonsine Cormier were married at St. Mary's church, by Rev. J. J. Tyler, Monday morning. The witnesses were Eugene Chabot and Arthur Aubin. The bride wore white georgette with Spanish lace and carried white carnations and sweet peas. A breakfast was served at Mr. Chabot's home on Mechanic street. Mr. and Mrs. Morin went to Manchester, N. H., for a wedding trip. The bride is a waitress in the Jewett City restaurant and the groom is employed in a local garage.

The local weather dispatcher has handed out two days true to rare June form, with no cross-overs to winter schedules.

Pachaug Community club met in the Grange hall with one hundred and forty present. The committee in charge was Byron Kinney, Mr. and Mrs. William Morgan, Edith Tift and Leon Young. A fine programme was given, including a piano solo by Irene Stewart, an interperative dance by Ethelle Parkhurst and a song by the Runaway Three from Ekonk. The address of the evening was by Mrs. Geo. Maynard Minor of Waterford, who gave an account of her trip abroad, particularly of her visit to King Tutankhamen's tomb. Lillian Pepin gave a recitation and Mr. Sullivan gave a banjo solo accompanied by Mrs. LeRoy Holmes, at the piano and Royal Kennedy on the violin. Cake and coffee were served. The committee for June comprises Mrs. M. H. Bartlett, Marian Frink, Mrs. William Reid, Earle Palmer and Charles Perkins.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

William E. Dimond, 69, a former resident of Stafford Springs well known for his activities in the lumber business who died at his home in Greenfield, Mass., Wednesday afternoon. He was born in Springfield in 1855 and was educated in the public schools of West Springfield. His first employment after leaving school was in the office of the Southworth Paper Company of Mittineague, Mass. In 1874 he became book-keeper for the North Adams Manufacturing Company. Later he conducted a coal and trucking business at Mittineague. In 1889 Mr. Dimond came to Stafford Springs where he bought a lumber and coal yard.

While he was in the coal and lumber business here he carried an extensive saw mill operations being at one time in partnership with the late Henry C. Fisk and later with F. D. Bramoile.

In 1893 he helped to incorporate the Franklin County Lumber Company, with lumber yards at Greenfield, Mass. as well as in Northampton and South Deerfield, and was president of the company until a short time previous to his death. In 1911 he sold his business in Stafford Springs and moved to North Adams, Mass. He was treasurer of the Dexter-Dimond company of Braintree, Vt. He was a member of the North Adams Congregational church and of Ionic Lodge of Masons of Stafford Springs. Besides his wife he leaves five sons, Charles H., Muzzarett N. and Miles E. of Greenfield and Daniel B. of Pittsburgh, a brother Charles of Omaha, Neb., a half brother Lyal Dimond of New Haven and two half sisters, Miss Jessie Dimond of Springfield and Mrs. Warren of New Haven.

NUMBER FIVE

A 25 per cent reduction on taxes payable next year.

General revision of both the normal and surtax rates, amounting to a 50 per cent cut on taxes levied against incomes of $8000 and under.

An additional reduction of 25 per cent which may be made on earned incomes. For purposes of this reduction all incomes of $5,000 and under are defined as earned. The cut may be made on such incomes up to $10,000.

Exemption for heads of families with incomes of $5,000 and over is increased from $2,000 to $2,500, the same as now allowed heads of families with incomes of $5,000 and under. No change is made in the present law allowing an exemption of $1,000 for single persons.

Miscellaneous and Excise Taxes

The miscellaneous and excise taxes repealed and the amount of revenue involved are:

Telegraph and Telephone messages $24,000,000; beverages $10,000,000; candy 13,000,000; knives, dirks, daggers, etc., 30,000; [illegible]veries, etc. 140,000; hunting [illegible] and riding garments 18,000; [illegible] and motor boats [illegible]; carpets, rugs, trunks, purses, etc., 1,800,000; drafts and promissory notes 2,150,000; theatres, shows, circuses (floor space) 1,600,000.

In addition numerous other excise taxes are reduced. Theatre tickets of fifty cents and under are exempted; automobile trucks, the chassis of which sell for $1,000 or less and the bodies for $200 or less are exempted from the 3 per cent tax; while the five per cent levy on automobile tires, parts and accessories is cut in half.

Articles selling for $30, or less and watches selling for $60 or less are exempted from the five per cent jewelry tax, as are also surgical and musical instruments, eye glasses, spectacles, silver plated flat tableware and articles used for religious purposes. The tax of two cents on each $100 sale on produce exchanges is cut in half.

The tax on playing cards was increased from eight to ten cents a pack.

The same brackets of amounts to which the estate tax is applied in the present law are retained but the rates are increased so that the minimum is 40 per cent on amounts to $10,000,000 and over instead of 25 per cent. It is estimated this increase will bring in $12,000,000 additional revenue annually.

New Gift Tax

The new gift tax, imposed, its authors said, largely as a complement to the estate tax and to check evasions of the latter, carries the same rates as the revised estate tax. It allows an exemption of $50,000. Also numerous other exemptions would be allowed including gifts to public purposes and charitable, educational and religious organizations. The tax will be levied on the donor and against the total amount of the gifts during the year. This tax goes into effect as of last January 1. The rate would start at one per cent on gifts not in excess of $50,000. It is estimated this tax will bring in $2,000,000 revenue annually.

The new tax on Mah Jong sets is 10 per cent and it is estimated this will result in collection of about $2,000,000 annually although accurate statistics are not available for such a calculation.

Rates in Individual Incomes

The new normal tax rates on individual incomes are two per cent on incomes of $4,000 and under; four per cent on incomes between $4,000 and $8,000 and six per cent on incomes above that amount. The surtax rates range from one per cent on incomes between $10,000 and $14,000 to 40 per cent on incomes of over $500,000.

Tax for Married Man

The following table shows the amount of tax a married man, with no dependents, will have to pay, considering that only $5,000 of the income is earned, as compared with the present law:

Net Income	Present Law	New Law
7,500	220	7.50

I-CAR-DE MAYONNAISE

A Pure Food Product in Sterilized Jars

"Positively Different"

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

Having been held over by popular demand, the Misses Higgins and Hurd more than pleased the large audience that turned to greet them yesterday.

The vocal range of the two reached great heights in their rendition of Extracts from Carmen. A few popular numbers complete their very fine offering.

Cecil B. De Mille's newest Paramount production, "Triumph," which opened yesterday at the Broadway theatre, has for its central idea the change overnight of a rich man to poverty and a poor man to wealth, with all the dramatic reactons such as that would be sure to entail.

The story of May Edginton, from which Jeanie Macpherson wrote the screen play, told of two men, half brothers, one rich, the other poor, who exchanged positions over night. De Mille has considerably expanded this material, particularly enlarging the part of Anna Land, played by Miss Joy, who provides the love interest in the original story, while the two boys represent two phases of American life and discontent.

La Rocque gives his usually satisfying performance and Varconi—this actor will bear watching. De Mille predicts great things of him.

"Triumph," all in all, rings true to De Mille's reputation for providing strong box-office attractions.

Other subjects included a comedy and news weekly.

Casino Arena, Danielson

A variety of diversion and entertainment is arranged for those who attended the whist, vocal and instrumental concert and dance arranged to be held at the Casino Arena, Danielson, Thursday evening of this week under the auspices of Rose of Lima council, K. of C.

Whist will be played from 8 to 9:30 standard time. An entertainment will follow. Included in the numbers will be a new line of songs, jokes and special fun by Bodo brothers. Yvette and Rene Peloquin, child entertainers, will play some violin and piano numbers. Albert Deforest will appear as a monologist and will sing. Alma and Anita Buteau will please with piano and violin solos. Doris Burke, soloist, with Rachel Phaneuf as accompanist, also will appear and numbers also will be given by Earl Winslow, tenor, and a male quartet. Dancing will [illegible] ment.

School Experiment Helps Students' Efficiency

The question of what to do with the backward child, the perplexing problem of educators since schools began, seems almost to be answered at last by the results of an experiment made in a Boston public school.

During pleasant weather, backward pupils from all grades in the school carry on their studies in an outdoor class room specially constructed for its purpose in one corner of the school yard.

Sunshine and fresh air, together with hot Horlick's Malted Milk served during recess, morning and afternoon, have worked wonders

The pupils are brighter and more attentive. They are gaining weight, averaging an increase of three pounds the first month. Their eyes and complexions are noticeably clearer. And they are more ambitious to learn.

HOW PAYMENT OF TAXES MAY BE MADE THIS YEAR

Washington, June 2—The provision for a 25 per cent. reduction in the taxes payable this year, contained in the new revenue law may be put into effect by the taxpayer immediately. Persons paying on the instalment plan may cut their second payment due June 15, by one-half and the last two installments by one-fourth each. Those who paid the full tax on March 15 will receive as soon as is possible a refund of one-fourth from the treasury without making application for it.

Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound First. Proved Good Advice

Chicago, Illinois.—"Just a few lines to let you know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I was married going on for three years, and went to a doctor and was taking treatments twice a week for pains every month. I used to lie in bed three or four days with them and the doctor would call and inject something into my arm to put me asleep so I would not feel the pains. At last she said I would have to be operated on if I wanted any children. Well, I just happened to go to see a friend with her first baby and I told her I was going to the hospital, and she said, 'Don't do it! You go and get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you won't need any operation.' So my husband got me a bottle right away. Now I have two lovely children. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to every woman. It has helped me and a lot of my friends." —Mrs. A. McANDLESS, 1709 South Morgan St., Chicago, Illinois.

PALACE THEATRE

Medieval history chronicles many of the most excrutiating tortures the world has ever known. One of the most agonizing of these is pictured in one of the sequences of John S. Robertson's production, The Fighting Bade, a First National picture in which Richard Barthelmess is starred and which is now being presented at the Palace theatre.

Richard Barthelmess is victim of this torture. His role in the picture is that of Karl Van Kerstenbroock, a Flemish soldier of fortune whose fame as a duellist precedes him in England, whither he goes to avenge the death of his sister. He vanquishes his foe, and friends of the latter, members of the Cavalier party, the Roundheads, who are determined upon the overthrow of Charles I, and thus becomes the enemy of all cavaliers.

Also Will Rogers in The Cakewalkers latest Pathe news and special musical presemations by Palace supreme orchestra.

Next Thursday, Friday and Saturday Painted People with Colleen Moore the Flaming Youth Girl.

Anna Q. Nilsson, almost as famous for her hair cut as for her success in pictures, makes her first screen appearance since that production in support of Colleen Moore at the Palace theatre. This First National picture is Painted People, and gives Colleen Moore splendid scope for her magnetic personality. Clarence Badger directed from Richard Connel's magazine serial.

Broad Theatre

That section of Broadway which has won fame the world over as The Great White Way is finally to go down in the annals of silver screen history as the site of a motion picture. Owing to the fact that H. C. Witwers story, "Cain and Mabel," the picturization of which has just been completed, is woven around a phase of life on Broadway, the Cosmopolitan Corporation will present the new film on the screen under the title of "The Great White Way."

It is fitting that the new film should appear under the title of "The Great White Way," inasmuch as its cast includes a host of world-famous celebrites. Anita Stewart is featured and in her support are such prominent as Oscar Shaw, T. Roy Barnes, Tom Lewis and others. In addition there are Witwer, the author; Irvin S. Cobb, Tex Rickard, Harry Hershfield, Damon Runyon, "Bugs" Baer, Joe Humphreys, Johnny Loftus, Johnny Gallagher, who refereed the Dempsey-Firpo fight; Johnny Basham, British lightweight champion; Pete Hartley, popular lightweight, who has fought all the top-notchers; Kid Broad, Tammany Young and a score of others well known in the roaring forties. The Broadway atmosphere is further increased by the appearance of the famous Ziegfield "Follies" beauty chorus, who appear in scenes specially produced for the film by Ned Wayburn.

"The Great White Way" is a fast moving picture, with its scenes ranging from Broadway and its lights to Belmont Park and to a championship prize fight. E. Mason Hooper directed and Luther Reed adapted the story for the screen.

More Greeneville Property Changes Hands

James L. Case has sold for the Groton Park Development Company, the tract of land having a frontage of 120 feet on North Main street, with a large frame building thereon standing, known as the store and nursery property, formerly owned by the Shetucket company.

The purchaser is Francois Mathieu and the property is to be used for an automobile sales room and garage, for which it is particularly located and adapted.

The Bigelow-Hartford Carpet company posted notices in its plant at Clinton, Mass., that starting this week the factory will be operated but three days a week, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday until further notice.

PUTNAM

Bright skies Monday morning welcomed the opening of the twenty-eighth annual convention in Putnam of the Federation of Conpecticut French societies with 200 or more delegates in attendance. The opening of the session was preceded by a parade to attend mass at St. Mary's church.

The line formed in front of St. John's hall on Providence street under the direction of the marshal, Rosario Beausoliel and his assistant, Ernest Durand. Headed by a detail of police and the Canadian band, the line proceeded east on Providence street to Main, to Union square, countermarching to Bridge street, to Church street to Woodstock avenue, to Providence street and to the hall. The marchers passed between banks of the national colors and American flags. The city had flung a large banner to the breeze over Union square bearing the word "Welcome."

Following the parade there was a solemn high mass at St. Mary's church, Rt. Rev. Bishop Nilan did not arrive in time to participate in the celebration of the mass, but addressed the large gathering following the offertory.

After the mass the first session of the convention was called to order in St. John's hall by the president of the Federation of Connecticut French societies, A. A. Brodeur. President Brodeur extended a hearty welcome to the guests of Putnam and assured them that everything possible would be done for their comfort and entertainment.

Lieutenant-Governor Bingham made a short address, as representative of the state, and State Treasurer G. Harold Gilpatric also addressed the assemblage. The main address of welcome was delivered by Mayor Victor Chapdelaine, who gave the delegates the freedom of the city. An eloquent address was also delivered by Attorney Jalbert of Woonsocket, president of the Catholic Federation of Franco-American Society of the United States.

Most of the afternoon session was taken up with reading of the annual reports of officers and the report of the committee on credentials. Several short addresses were made during the session and matters of business were discussed.

At eight o'clock in the evening a banquet was served in St. Mary's hall. The hall had been made attractive by a firm of decorators and there was a fine display of flowers. Music was furnished by an orchestra. Nearly 300 sat down to the tables.

Among the speakers and toasts responded to were: "To the Pope," Rev. J. C. Mathieu, Wauregan; "To the President of the United States," Attorney Telesphore Lebeouf, of Webster; "To Canada," Rodolphe Bedard, Montreal; "To the Newspaper," Napoleon Lussier, Holyoke; "To the National Federation of French Societies," Henri Ledoux, Nashua, N. H., president of the National Federation; "To the Ladies," Attorney Harry O. Gaucher, Willimantic. Interspersed with the speaking were selections by the orchestra and by the Gounod quartette of Worcester.

During the day words of appreciation and commendation were spoken by visiting delegates for the wholehearted manner of their welcome and the excellence of their entertainment.

Patrolman John Ryan, arrested last week, charged with illegally transporting liquor, has asked for and been granted a leave of absence from duty. The common council meets this (Tuesday) night, but whether any action will be taken on the case or whether it will come up at the meeting, is not known.

At Sacred Heart church, West Thompson at eight o'clock Monday morning, relatives and friends gathered for the marriage with a nuptial mass of Miss Margaret O'Brien, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah O'Brien of Mechanicsville, and John McNiece, of Boston. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George J. Donohue, who also celebrated the nuptial mass.

The bridesmaid was Miss Mary McNiece, sister of the bridegroom. John O'Brien, brother of the bride, was best man.

The bride wore a blue dress with hat to match and carried a bouquet of bride roses. The bridesmaid wore a slate colored dress, had a hat to match and carried a large bouquet. For her going-away gown the bride wore a suit of brown with hat to match.

Following the mass a reception was held at the O'Brien home where many gifts to the bride were displayed. Following a trip to New York, Baltimore and Washington, Mr. and Mrs. McNiece will reside in Boston.

Funeral services, with a high mass of requiem at St. Mary's church, were held at 8.30 o'clock Monday morning for Alphonse Von Flatern, a N. Y. N. H. & H. railroad conductor, who died last Thursday night in a Boston hospital from heart trouble. There was a large gathering of relatives and friends including a delegation of railroad employes. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Members of the Arcanum club were startled Sunday evening when a man rushed in and told the members gathered in the club rooms that the club house was on fire. The roof of the building had caught from the chimney. The fire truck was summoned and the fire was quickly extinguished.

Late Sunday afternoon the fire department was called out to extinguish a blaze in the woods that was threatening the cottage of Dr. M. J. Bullard. Just noth of the Day Kimball hospital. After the truck had returned to headquarters it was called again to the place as the blaze had started up again.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Blanchette of Lowell, formerly of Putnam, are in the city during the French societies' convention.

Attorney Howard C. Bradford and family called on friends in Providence, Sunday.

Henry Lamber of Worcester, formerly of Putnam, spent the week end with friends in the city.

The police have a "white" elephant on their hands in the form of a little twelve year old colored boy. What to do with John Meranda is bothering the officers and Probation Officer Peter Gardner. John is not helping the officers any, in fact he tells so many stories that the officials do not know what to believe.

The lad was picked up wandering around in the outskirts of the city by some men who thought he was lost. It is clearly a case of a runaway boy, but John will not tell where he came from or what he is doing or where he is going. It appears emphatically that the lad does not want to be sent home.

John first told the captain of police that his home was in Onset, Mass., down on Cape Cod. Captain Jarvis got in touch with the officials of Onset but no colored boy is missing from there. John then told the captain that he came from near the state line, which did not help the officers much.

The lad remained in the custody of the probation officers during the day but for fear he would run away he was put in the police station for the night.

The boy is small, rather emaciated and not very well dressed. He is too young to be turned loose upon the broad highway, but what is to be done with him unless it can be learned where he came from is a problem.

PLAINFIELD

Plainfield High meets its old rival, Killingly High, this (Tuesday) afternoon. Plainfield enters this game with a formidable string of victories, among them being two from Chapman Tech, and one from Norwich Free Academy. Killingly's record is not so good, and the local players hope to bring home the bacon from this afternoon's game.

Emery F. Campbell, of Jewett City, of the Norwich corps of the Salvation Army, visited in town Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lee spent last week in Pennsylvania, visiting Mrs. Lee's mother.

The O. J. S. Sunday school class held their monthly meeting in the vestry of the Congregational church, with a large number attending. There was a short programme, after which refreshments were served by the committee.

The baseball team from the Plainfield Grammar School is to play the Moosup Gramar School team at Moosup this (Tuesday) afternoon.

HOPKINTON

The five acre tract of land near the town farm, owned by Erwin A. Kenyon, has been sold to J. Tagger, of Canaan, Conn.

Daniel A. Crandall is seriously ill with heart trouble at his home.

George A. Crandall slipped on the oily floor of the dye shop of the Ashaway Woolen company last Monday morning and was severely burned on the front of both legs by boiling soap suds which he was carrying.

At a recent special meeting of the Hopkinton school committee it was decided to transport the High school of the Hope Valley school to Ashaway leaving one High school instead of two in town. Construction of the new state road makes the question of transportation of pupils easy ot solve. It is estimated that the town will save about $2,000 by the consolidation.

Harold T. Lowe will be returned as superintendent of schools in this town for another year.

Memorial services were held in the Ashaway church Friday afternoon with prayer by Rev. E. P. Matheiwson, singing by the church choir, Miss Mildred Taylor being at the organ. A patriotic address was given by Rev. A. L. Davis and recitations by Ralph M. Briggs, Jr., A. Lloyd Briggs, Jr., and Ruth Briggs. After the exercises, veterans of the wars, boy scouts and girls scouts and school children, led by the Stonington Band, marched to Oak Grove cemetery and decorated the soldiers graves. Only three veterans.

Children's Day was observed in the First Hopkinton S. D. B. church on Saturday morning.

Friends of Emory C. Kenyon were pained to learn of his death at his home in Rockville Saturday.

SHARP FLUCTUATION IN PRICE OF FRENCH FRANCS

New York, June 2—Early selling of French francs, induced by reports that Edouard Herriot, pfremial premier, had attacked the terms of the $100,000,000 Morgan credit, today caused a break in the price of 26 points to 4.87 cents. The rate rebounded sharply, however, to within a few points of 5.13 the closing quotation Saturday, when M. Herriot denied statements attributed to him.

Simultaneously the French government in an official statement made public the details of Morgan advance of $100,000,000, noting that the methods of checking too brusk variations in the franc had been approved by M. Herriot and former premier Painleve, May 21.

Sterling after dropping to $4.30 5-8, rose again to $4.31 4-5, fractionally higher than Saturday's close.

ALBANIAN INSURRECTION HAS REACHED SCUTARI

Belgrade, Jugo Slavia, June 2—The Albanian insurrection, according to a Serbian press bureau communique issued today, broke out in Scutari on Saturday when two deputies, heading a force of 1,000 Albanians and others, attacked the government partisans and the gendarmes. By Sunday morning the insurgents had already occupied half of the city of Scutari.

The insurgent forces totaled 1,700, the communique asserts, with four mountain guns and eight machine guns, against the government forces of 700 armed with only a few automatic rifles.

DISAPPROVAL OF OPPOSITION TO COOLIDGE IN CONGRESS

Cincinnati, June 2—Strong disapproval of the action of republican senators and representatives "in embarrassing President Coolidge," was expressed in a resolution adopted by the Commercial Clubs of Boston, Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati, says a White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. despatch published today.

The resolution, telegraphed to President Coolidge, asserted that the clubs "heartily endorse the sane and courageous attitude of the president of the United States in matters relating to vital legislation and the country's welfare."

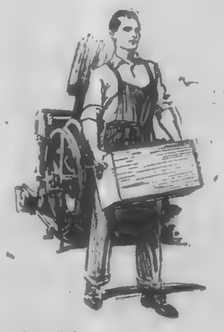
LETTERS HOME

Will the world bid them welcome?



Health wins advancement

He is vigorous, courageous and good looking because you have taught him to guard his health by keeping clean. Those qualities win success.

AFTER school or college—what then? Your babies have suddenly become men and women. They have gone out into the world to fight their own battles, to make their own mistakes and to enjoy their own rewards.

How have you armed them for the struggle? With money? That is soon spent. With influence? It merely opens doors.

Health—that is what wins. The world welcomes health. Health gives courage, personality, endurance, charm. It makes friends, seizes opportunity.

Your children are well because you have taught them to live wisely—and to keep clean. Their skins are clear and fresh because you have taught them the need of antiseptic cleanliness.

Why has Lifebuoy Health Soap become the most widely used toilet soap in the world?

It is because American mothers worship health and have learned that Lifebuoy is a valuable everyday protection to health. It is because Lifebuoy makes friends.

Everyone loves the gracious, creamy lather and the delightful feeling of freshness imparted by the gentle antiseptic. Everyone appreciates the softness, fine texture and rosy glow of skin cleansed regularly with Lifebuoy.

Try Lifebuoy. The proof comes quickly. The benefits are lifelong.

THE ELECTION RESULT.

According to the result of the city election it is impossible to regard it otherwise than an endorsement of the administration that the city has been getting for the past two years, [illegible] glaring displays of [illegible] and inefficiencies.

Mayor Myers and the entire democratic [illegible] meaning democratic control for the next two years. By the votes of the citizens the administration has been [illegible] the policies that have prevailed and the methods that have been followed. There is a reduction of 252 in the majority received by the mayor over two years ago but he was clearly the leader of his party, and as in the past he will hold the balance of power in the council.

With a smaller number of votes than two years ago and with a display of apathy during election day that gave indication of disinterestedness, it is evident that party lines continued to hold and the number of stay-at-homes was large.

[illegible] election that required the [illegible] democratic ticket [illegible] to prevent a change in control. The democrats accomplished their purpose with no great difficulty.

THE TAX REDUCTION BILL.

The signing of the tax reduction bill by President Coolidge does so not because he is highly satisfied with the legislation, but because there is a part of what was needed and there is some improvement over existing tax laws.

The same clear and consistent course in which he has sought to obtain tax reduction, and in which he has called out other conditions considered the national welfare, the president put his finger on the weak spot when he says so. He not only declares that the tax reduction measure [illegible] in a number of respects [illegible] holds that the tax reduction measure is harmful in a number of specific [illegible] but he proceeds to point out [illegible] to tell why in his judgment early efforts should be made to [illegible] so that the [illegible] facts, and by the provisions of the [illegible] words of the president it still has [illegible] outstanding [illegible] before the [illegible]

THE CALIFORNIA FIRETRAP.

The frightful loss of life in the asylum for deficient children in California lends new emphasis to the practice of using such fire traps for the housing of young and old, especially where mental deficiency or physical disability are involved.

There is no better food for the flames than an old summer hotel, and a worse place than a breach for the scene of such a fire, but it was clearly not a building where so many lives should have been placed at stake with so few facilities for protecting them.

Great as is the need of fireproof buildings for the housing of children, the mental deficients, the insane, the feeble and infirm, it is most unfortunate that such buildings as that at Playa Del Rey, California, are invariably selected for [illegible] work in spite of the upmarket [illegible] and the known experiences in other places.

Old buildings, wooden buildings, firetraps are picked in all probability because they are cheaper. The expense of getting and maintaining asylums, homes or hospitals in such places is the chief factor in their selection, aside from the fact that they are ready for occupancy in short order and no long delays necessitated by new constructed are required.

But every fire of the kind and every instance where there is a loss of life accentuates the need of placing greater safeguards about the unfortunates who are obliged to depend upon such places for care. What the cause of the California fire was has not been determined. The fact that the windows were locked and the means of escape were shut off in a building that was so highly inflammable indicates the danger that had surrounded that home from the beginning. The destruction is apparently such that it will never be utilized again, but California has reason for looking over other institutions and seeing that any similar conditions are overcome and any new efforts in that direction prevented.

A NEEDED PROVISION.

In connection with the adoption of the new immigration law it is to be regretted that there was not included therein a provision for the registration of all aliens in the country.

While the number to be admitted under the new quotas will be smaller than under the present law that very fact in itself will mean a greater incentive for the smuggling of aliens into the country. Under present conditions there are those who are engaged in the business of getting them across the borders or onto the shores of this country in violation of the law and without meeting the requirements imposed under immigration requirements when there were no quota restrictions.

Smuggling becomes more profitable the greater the restriction on the number of new comers. It will mean more business for the smugglers and a higher fee. If it were so that the immigration authorities knew everyone that was admitted there would be no reason for the registration of aliens. But under the admission of the immigration bureau they do not, and it is only a few of those illegally gaining entrance who are caught and deported.

If it were the case that all aliens were required to have registration cards there would be few if any loopholes [illegible] their registration would be sufficient ground for deportation, and with those who cannot meet the immigration tests or who cannot come within the fixed quotas unable to obtain such cards an effective means of keeping them out or of learning of their evasion of the law would be available.

This is one of the provisions of the immigration bill that was urged but ignored when it came to draft and adopt the legislation.

WHERE ALL SHOULD HELP.

This is the season of the year when the countryside is invariably covered with the nests of the tent caterpillars. The harm that they do to vegetation is very well known. They raise havoc with the wild cherry trees, for which no one cares. But they likewise cause the same damage to fruit trees which means much to the owners first and last and has a serious effect upon the crops.

The unfortunate part of this devastation is that while it might be effectively dealt with at the beginning, when the tents are first appearing, there is a disposition to pay little or no attention to the pest, to bewail its appearance and let it go at that until it is too late to prevent the stripping of the trees and the loss of the fruit crop.

In connection with this pest it is also the case that where one individual is ready and anxious to do his part, to keep his property clear of the caterpillars by destroying the nests, there are others who manifest that indifference which gives encouragement to the common enemy. The efforts of the one and the indifference of many [illegible] present a [illegible]

[illegible] have been times when much [illegible] has been placed upon the aid [illegible] not children can give in the [illegible] of this pest. It is unquestionably an opportunity for their service employed in a good cause. In New Jersey and about New York [illegible]

June will be welcomed, but in view [illegible] get an expression of intentions.

Two bushels of hip flasks were seized at a dance in Pittsburgh. Is that the echo of home influences?

There are days when one has to smile at the claims which some make that the world is growing better.

Some members of congress who think they can get away with anything are having a chance to revise their views.

We may think Europe slow about adopting the Dawes plan, but it isn't utilizing as much time as we are over the world court.

Now that the French cabinet has resigned there'll be a chance for the others in Europe to begin going around the circle again.

The United States senate may veto the indictment of Senator Wheeler but the unnamed jury in Montana may decide to override it.

[illegible] is [illegible] than no loaf but what is bothering the taxpayers is that the reduction which congress will permit is only half a loaf.

When the governor of Pennsylvania spoke in Atlantic City he advocated cutting electric light rates, but he didn't make any reference to the reduction or elimination of the coal tax in his own state.

ENERGETIC IMOGENE

"It's worse than the [illegible] nadir!" The Hyde Park man bemoaned his fate when he caught his friend from Woodlawn looking absent-mindedly sympathic. "If I could put something in Imogene's coffee or inoculate her against it there might be hope, but I'm telling you this contest fever is raging free and unconfined in my once happy home and whether there is a button or not on the next shirt I try to put on, I dunno!"

"I thought all women were always contesting something," demonstrated the friend from Woodlawn. "What's all the shooting about?"

"Listen!" proceeded the Hyde Park man firmly. "I come home to dinner all primed for steak and onions and find Imogene sitting amid a swirl of papers and pencils. She looks up in an abstracted way and sees a human being before her. Otherwise, I fan to register and all.

"I believe I have something this time!" she carols blithely. 'You know the Haymow Breakfast Food people are offering $100 for the best name for their new porridge. How about "Leaves of Grass"? It sounds so sort of literary and I am sure Walt Whitman wouldn't mind! When I get that hundred I shall buy new dining room curtains and a crepe romain dress. Or, maybe, I'd better buy a savings bond for our old age.

"It worries me dreadfully trying to decide what is best to do with the money! We'll have to go around the corner to the cafe for dinner, dearie, because I have been too busy to do a thing in the kitchen.'

"When we return from our dabby dinner and I would talk over the cares of the day Imogene gets out more blank sheets of paper and goes into a great trance. Nothing short of the neighbors coming in to mah jong will arouse her, for she is in the agonies of composing a letter to win $500 offered by the Straightline railway which has announced that anybody writing the best 500-word letter descriptive of any natural beauty along its right-of-way is entitled to a bunch of greenbacks. Of course, as Imogene admits, she has never traveled over the Straightline railway; but what is that to a vivid imagination?

"After she has written her introduction to the brochure and discovered that she has used 867 words before she has even begun the main part of her treatise, so to say, she has a brainstorm and wants to know why the world is so cruel to those who really endeavor to do something. She is so upset she forgets to mark the cream for breakfast or order any rolls, but by that time she is engaged in trying to concoct a recipe for the Primrose Preserve people who are advertising broadcast that they are going to give hundreds of dollars to the three fortunate cooks sending in the best original recipes using Primrose Preserves in their concoction!

"Naturally, she has to cook the ideas she evolves and I find Primrose Preserves in my shaving mug on the library table and jam in the coal cellar. She tries to make me eat Primrose Preserve soup, which she says is certain to win first prize because it is so odd nobody else in the world ever would have thought of it. What if I do hesitate at the idea of a sweet soup? Just because I have my mind made up that soups are not sweet is no reason for my being stubborn, obstinate and narrow!

"She got hold of a magazine ad coming home from the theatre the other night which said a movie company offered big money for a striking name for their new show just coming out and she almost stopped the train, so intense were her brain waves. When I pointed out that she did not know what the play was about she said indignantly that it made no difference at all! Nobody, she explained, ever could figure out the connection between the name and the play and all she had to do to decide on something brilliant, catchy, dignified and to the point and if I hadn't tried to argue with her she'd have had it right away and it was all my fault if she lost the 50 cents or the $1,000 or whatever was the prize.

"Unless everything gets named or invented right quick and the fever dies out something is going to crash at my address and don't you forget it!"

"You don't appreciate that girl!" declared the Woodlawn man distantly. "I hope she enters a contest to see who can cut out the best looking home made suit of clothes for a man and makes you wear it, doggone you!"—Chicago News.

NEW BOOKS

Tongues of Flame. By Peter Clark Macfarlane. Illustrated by Walter Louderback. Cloth, 405 pages. Published by Cosmopolitan Book Corporation, New York. Price $2.

Back from Europe, the hero of Tongues of Flame decides to settle down in the Puget sound region at Edgewater for the practice of law. It was a long and lone fight. Harrington is popular though poor, but when the head of the Boland industries begins to favor him his rise is rapid. Changes bring home the daughter of the industrial chief and she is impressed by the way in which he turns back a lynching mob. It is the beginning of an interesting feature of the story until Lahleet Marceau, an educated half-breed teacher appeals to Harrington to champion the cause of her people which he does in a telling manner.

The hero finds he must choose between Boland and his own ideals of honesty and justice, and to make it harder the woman he adores stands squarely with her father.

There is drama in the events which pile up in an avalanche of disaster. Fame, fortune and happiness seem gone forever. But the author is a masterly mechanic. The unusual happens and lovers are brought to each other's arms and a delightfully told, interest-gripping story is at too early an end. Tongues of flame is a worthy follower of the author's previous volume, Man's Country.

Re-Creations. By Grace Livingston Hill. Cloth, 376 pages. Published by J. B. Lippincott company, Philadelphia. Price $2.

This springtime romance is as fresh, vivacious and gay as the daring color schemes that flit through the artistic life of its pretty heroine. It is the kind of love story everyone loves at heart and that makes one wish for more like it.

Planning to become an interior decorator, Cornelia Copely is summoned home from college to face a discouraging situation with a shabby home, her mother in a sanatorium, her father suffering from financial loss and her brother going a lively pace with pleasure-mad Clytie Dodd. She overcomes her sadness as quickly as possible and makes a home that causes the brother to take notice and to see the contrast with his frivolous friend.

The most interested observer of Cornelia's experiment with decorating at home—though he does not long stay as a mere observer—is Arthur Maxwell, who does a little comparing on his own account. For in his life is another girl, Evadne, beautiful but shallow, who holds him through his sense of chivalry. It is Clytie who precipitates the danger which shows Maxwell where he stands and brings about the happy ending of two delightful love affairs.

It is the kind of book Mrs. Hill writes for every member of the family and by it adds new friends to those already made in "Tomorrow About This Time."

White Light Nights. By O. O. McIntyre. Cloth, 274 pages. Published by Cosmopolitan Book Corporation, New York. Price $2.

In this volume the author leads you through the byways of New York. He knows the city and he is able to turn [illegible] He exposes its vices and its shams as well as its magic and splendor. He realizes that New York is the Aladdin of cities and [illegible] and the piteously poor. He finds the quaint spots where history peers through [illegible]

McIntyre lives somewhat after the [illegible] there must be no dull moments. He knows confidence men and he knows millionaires. He is a true cosmopolite yet one of the best chapters of his book is devoted to the folks back home. You will recall each one of the characters he portrays. They belong to every Main street.

White Light Nights is really a visit [illegible] I see it torn [illegible] book. And [illegible] visitors will [illegible] have only scratched the surface.

"My Story That I Like Best." By Edna Ferber, Irvin S. Cobb, Peter B. Kyne, James Oliver Curwood, Meredith Nicholson and H. C. Witter, with an introduction by Ray Long.

This is a volume for complimentary distribution to the readers of the Cosmopolitan, whose editor invited the six authors to tell about what they consider the best story which they have written.

It is an interesting volume in which the respective authors reveal their personalities in an entertaining manner, setting forth their preferences and explaining their motives. The stories and forewords are well worth reading, the clear expositions of the conscious processes in writing and as confessions to the unknown quantity of the subconsciously creative forces will appeal particularly to other authors.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Child's Resolution Had to Wait

Unable to get food "like mother cooked back on the farm," William Childs conceived an idea and made a resolution, but he had to wait until he could follow them.

Born on a farm near Basking, N. J., he had to help in the fields while attending public school at Bernardsville, near by. When 19 he went to North Dakota and became a day laborer in a wheat field.

In his travels he could not get a square meal at fair price. Then came the thought that a restaurant serving home-like food at reasonable prices would succeed. The resolution to start one followed, but his father advised that he get a job and think over the plan until he could afford to embark.

At 20 he started work in a saw mill at $9 a week—and was fired. Starting a milk route, he rose at 2 o'clock in the morning, delivered bottles until 8 and taught school during the day. In two years he had saved $1000.

His brother was being trained as manager in a New York restaurant and William joined him, but the two studied the business so diligently that other employes became jealous and the brothers were virtually discharged in six months.

Again came the resolution, and they opened a restaurant in Cortlandt street, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

SHE SAYS:

"I Am Thin"

HER FRIEND SAYS:

"She Is Skinny"

If she only knew that she could put on at least 5 pounds of good, healthy flesh in 30 days she wouldn't be worrying about her peaked face and run-down looks.

She has tried Cod Liver Oil, but the ill-smelling, nasty tasting stuff upset her stomach and made her feel worse than before.

Doctors and good pharmacists know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitamines that make flesh, creates appetite, builds up the power to resist disease and chases away nervousness.

But it's horrible tasting stuff and every day fewer people are taking it for doctors are prescribing and the people are fast learning that they can get better results with Meyer's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, which Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists all over the country are using a tremendous demand for. It's a wonderful upbuilding medicine for children, especially after sickness, and sixty tablets only cost 60 cents.

One woman gained 10 pounds in 30 days and if any skinny man or woman can put on 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist will gladly return the purchase price.

Take Cod Liver Oil Tablets.

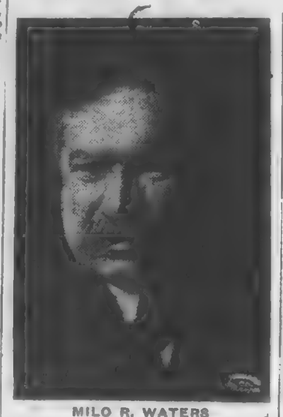
MAYOR WATER RE-ELECTED BY 386 MAJORITY; ENTIRE PARTY TICKET WINS



MILO R. WATERS
Re-elected Mayor

Mayor Milo R. Waters, democrat, was re-elected to that office by a majority of 386 over his republican opponent, Attorney Edmund W. Perkins, in the city election Monday and the entire ticket of the democratic party went along with the mayor to victory over their republican opponents. This gave the democrats two aldermen and four councilmen in the common council, a tie with the republican aldermen and councilmen who hold over, but the democrats will have control of the city government for the next year through the deciding vote of the mayor in the council.

The council members elected were Aldermen Henry Gebrath and Patrick Sweeney, both re-elections; Councilmen Frank H. Quinley and William H. Aldrich, both re-elections; and Frank L. Rinella and Nicholas J. Spellman, two new members.

Mayor Waters was given 2,738 votes to 2,352 for Mr. Perkins, who ran about 100 behind his ticket while the mayor ran about 100 ahead of the democratic field. The mayor was given a majority in each district, scoring 45 in the first, 106 in the second, 214 in the third, and 17 in the sixth. Two years ago when Mayor Waters was first elected he had a majority of 638 over Rev. C. H. Ricketts. At that election he received 2977 votes and Mr. Ricketts 2339. Monday the mayor received 239 votes less than he did two years ago, but Mr. Perkins received 13 more votes than did Mr. Ricketts. The total vote cast this year for mayor was 5,090. Two years ago it was 5,316.

HENRY GEBRATH
Re-elected Alderman

The regular democratic party majority Monday as shown by the vote on water commissioner was about 188. Two years ago it was 460. As nomination to this office is equivalent to election, both Charles A. Hagberg, republican, and John J. Corkery, democrat, are elected water commissioners.

City Treasurer Contest.

Stephen H. Reeves, republican, and Charles S. Avery, democrat, who have before been opponents at the polls for the office of city treasurer, to which Mr. Avery was elected in 1922, but was defeated in 1923 by Mr. Reeves, were again opponents and this time it was the democratic nominee who won, his majority being 195.

Mayor Waters polled the highest vote on the democratic ticket and Maurice Looby, candidate for city sheriff, had that satisfaction on the republican ticket, although his total of 2,489 votes was not enough to elect him.

The polls opened at 5.30 a. m., standard time, and closed at 5 p. m., standard time. The vote was a light one, though at times there were sudden spurts of activity that made it appear as if a heavy vote were to be recorded.

A fleet of automobiles was assembled on Union square, whence they were sent out by the party workers to bring in voters as the lists from the checkers were looked over to determine who had not yet appeared to cast a ballot.

Five minutes before the time for closing the polls at the town hall in the first district Moderator M. E. Jensen announced that there was only five minutes left in which to vote and there were one or two citizens who rushed in at the last minute. The moderator closed the polls promptly as the clock finished striking 5, and then took the count of the vote from the four voting machines, assisted by Registrars Tyler D. Guy and Cornelius J. Downes. In fifteen minutes after the polls had closed the entire vote had been tabulated from the four machines that were in use.

The checkers' total of votes was within one of the total shown on the machines.

Annual City Meeting Next Tuesday.

Mayor Waters called the annual city meeting to order soon after the polls had closed and in accordance with the usual practice it was at once adjourned. The motion to adjourn was made by Corporation Counsel William H. Shields, Jr., who moved that adjournment be taken to next Tuesday evening, June 10. This was voted. At that time the estimates in the city budget for next year will be taken up and voted upon.

Counting the Vote.

The sixth district, East Side, was first of the other districts to bring in its report on the vote. Moderator George H. Dolan arriving shortly after the central district vote had been counted. Moderator William W. Ives came in soon afterwards with the vote from the second district, West Side, while the third district, Greeneville, was last to come in. Moderator William H. McClafferty arriving with the figures at about 5.45, standard time.

The complete vote had been assembled by 8 o'clock, standard time, when Moderator Jensen read the figures to the three or four men who still remained in the town hall.

The district reports showed the following men and women registered and voting:

DEMOCRATS CELEBRATE WITH PARADE IN AUTOMOBILES

The democratic party celebrated its victory over the republicans in the city election Monday by holding a street parade in the evening. News of the democratic victory spread rapidly as soon as the result of the vote became known shortly after 5 o'clock. Enthusiasm was running high and plans for a celebration parade were soon in the works. Party leaders and most of the newly elected city fathers began to gather at Union square as early as 8 o'clock and as [illegible] was not long before the square was crowded with automobiles of all sizes and makes. The women took as much interest in the party celebration as the men and it was difficult to tell which were in the majority.

The party leaders had evidently anticipated the celebration for they came well stocked with red fire which was quickly distributed. The parade was scheduled to start at 9 o'clock but the Italian band, secured for the evening, was somewhat late in arriving. The band gave several concert numbers on the square while waiting for its chartlet to put in an appearance. Shortly before ten o'clock the members of the band were finally seated in the band wagon and the procession was ready to move.

With the band in the lead and Mayor Waters and members of the council immediately behind, the nearly half hundred automobiles, all filled with a joyous crowd of men, women and girls, fell in line and the parade started on its victorious way down Bath street and into Chestnut street. As the long line of machines passed the Central Fire station the sirens and bells on the fire apparatus let loose a din that could be heard for blocks.

With red fire burning, horns tooting, and cheering the procession wended its way to all sections of the city, including McKinley avenue, Greeneville, Laurel Hill and Thamesville and it was getting on for midnight when the automobiles left the line and headed for home.

VOTES $30,000 FOR NEW VERSAILLES SCHOOL

(Special to the Bulletin)

Baltic, June 2—At a special town meeting held tonight in the town hall the voters of the town of Sprague authorized an appropriation not to exceed $30,000 for the purpose of erecting a new school house to replace the school house burned several weeks ago in Versailles. There was an attendance of about 200 at the meeting which was opened at 7.30 o'clock by Selectman Raymond J. Jodoin. J. W. Willington was appointed chairman of the meeting and Lawrence G. Dreschel clerk.

The following were appointed a committee to secure a location, plans and specifications for the new school: Raymond J. Jodoin, chairman Allison Ladd, J. F. Conway, C. F. Charon and J. W. Willington.

It was also voted that the selectmen be authorized to make arrangements with the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. for 24 hour street light service at a cost not to exceed [illegible] a year.

REFUSED TO SLEEP ON GOVERNMENT BOAT

Engineer Ralph Hazard, who is one of the party of government engineers in the Thames river survey here recently, has just handed in his resignation from the government service rather than obey orders issued to him at New Bedford to sleep aboard a converted power boat Gazelle. The boat was sent to New Bedford for the surveying party to use as quarters, but the members of the party promptly refused to sleep in the dark-ened quarters on the boat and continued to keep their rooms on shore while they made a protest to the government authorities at Providence. When the authorities refused to make any change in the orders, Engineer Hazard promptly sent in his resignation and declared that the Gazelle "was lousy and ought to be sunk."

He was supported in his stand by Mr. Nordquist and Mr. Regen of Providence, who were with him in the Thames river survey.

The clash with the authorities seems to have been adjusted as the men are now at Block Island in government service.

WALKER COMPELLED TO TRAVEL FAST DEFENDING TITLE AGAINST TENDLER

Philadelphia, Pa., June 2.—Mickey Walker of Elizabeth, N. J., world's welterweight champion, successfully [illegible] a title against Lew Tendler, Philadelphia southpaw in a furious ten round bout in the National League park here tonight. The challenger put up a strong fight against the youthful champion but was outpunched in the infighting.

The southpaw's long left bothered Walker to some extent but when the battle got inside the challenger's [illegible] favored heavily to Tendler's [illegible] the Philadelphian was the one. He met Walker at every turn, saw for blow, carried the fight to [illegible] and even forced the champion to cover the furiousness of his attack.

Walker fought a crafty fight. He [illegible] Tendler, swinging frantically with both hands while Tendler boxed [illegible] to clinch. The challenger started off a lot awed by the championship aspect of the bout but real courage as the hour progressed [illegible] was holding his own with the Elizabeth mauler. Tendler, egged on by his success against Jack Britton's conqueror, moved up in the final rounds of the [illegible] and rushed the titleholder, carrying the fight to him but Walker's lead in the early rounds was too great to overcome, and the decision went to champion by a unanimous vote of the judges.

Fight By Rounds.

[illegible]—They met in the center [illegible] clinched. Walker got in the first blow. It was a hard right to Tendler's jaw. The southpaw was fighting purely a defensive fight. In the clinches Walker scored heavily to Tendler's body. Walker was forcing the fighting, driving his challenger [illegible]. The Philadelphian missed many times [illegible] Walker missed repeatedly and Tendler fell in a clinch. The champion was concentrating his [illegible] Walker tagged Tendler with a left and a right as they broke away.

Round three—Walker hit Tendler in the jaw with a hard right and the latter fell into a clinch. He followed with another vicious right to the head and drove Tendler around the ring with a furious attack. Walker [illegible] driving the challenger from rope to rope with a hard swinging attack. Tendler missed a wild right. Walker [illegible] and almost drove Tendler through the ropes. They were in a clinch at the bell.

Round four — Walker staggered [illegible] fighting. Tendler got [illegible] Walker got Tendler in the corner and scored two rights to Tendler's jaw. Tendler came back strong, however, to Walker's jaw and body.

Round ten—Neither showed any outward signs. They shook hands to start the final round. Tendler boxed in on the fighting champion. Tendler's left found Walker's jaw and at the same time blocked a counter. The champion was fighting frantically. He rocked Tendler's head with a hard right. Walker hit Tendler three times as he chased him across the ring. There was much clinching. They stood toe to toe in the center of the ring and exchanged blows with honors about even. Walker evaded Tendler's long reach to score twice to the challenger's jaw. They were clinched at the bell.

SENATORS WIN 8 TO 3 OVER PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, June 2.—Washington and Philadelphia stopped off here today on the way west for a single game and the Senators won 8 to 3.

Heimach received poor support from the infield and several hits that should have been fielded gave the visitors a lead that the home team could not overcome. Walter Johnson was master of the situation at all times and fanned seven of the Athletic batters.

WAUREGAN PLAYS LONG GAME THAT ENDS EVEN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Wauregan, June 2.—A ninth inning rally by Wauregan in the game here Sunday with Mechanicsville brought in 2 runs tying the score and prolonged the game. Fourteen innings were played and the game was called on account of darkness.

It was the most thrilling battle seen here in many a day being a pitchers battle between Johnson who allowed 8 hits and Peloquin who allowed but 6 hits, all well scattered. Six of the hits went for extra bases but had little to do with the scoring.

In the ninth Dessert for Wauregan hit for two bases starting the rally. Gastorek hit a mean hopper to short and was safe. Beauregard followed with a clean drive through short and both men scored.

Next Sunday Wauregan plays Plainfield at the Cadet grounds. Score of Sunday's game:

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch, Captain New York Giants

Two men are out and there are runners on first and second bases. The catcher drops the third strike called on the batter.

How should the catcher make the play—to catch the runner coming from second to third, or the batter running to first base?

The logical play is to catch the batter running to first base even though some think it is easier for him to throw down to third. Remember that a runner going from second to third rarely takes the chance of advancing to third unless the ball rolls a good distance away from the catcher. In situations of this kind he usually has a good lead so the chances of getting home at third are very poor.

Sometimes under these conditions the man on second and the batter will get good starts whereas the runner on first will be caught flat-footed. In that case it is easier for the catcher to throw to second in order to get the third man out. Such a play is made according to the position of the two runners and the batter when the third strike is called.

TAFTVILLE BREAKS EVEN IN WEEK END GAMES

Taftville A. A. broke even in the week end games, winning at home Saturday from the Corbin Red Sox of New Britain, 10 to 6, and losing to Webster, at Webster, Sunday, by the score of 5 to 3.

In the Corbin Red Sox game Taftville took an early lead and Davis was in control at all times. Three homers speeded up the game, all coming with bases empty. "Buster" Murphy, Dugas and Corbin were the circuit drivers.

At Webster, Sunday, it was just the reverse, although Taftville made a bid for the game in the sixth, scoring four runs. Webster ended the hopes of Taftville by getting three in the seventh. De Forest for Webster featured getting a triple, double and two singles in four trips. The score of Sunday's game:

MISS COLLETT LEADING FIELD BY TEN STROKES

Newton, Mass., June 2.—Miss Glenna Collett, of Providence, defending champion, led the field by a margin of 10 strokes in the first round of the Women's Eastern Golf Championship at the Brae Burn country club today. Incidentally in covering the first half of the 36 holes of medal play for the title, Miss Collett broke the women's record for the course with a 76, made up of 38 for the first nine holes and 37 for the inward half.

Her card was but two strokes higher than the men's record for the difficult course, one from the amateur record, and two above the best mark made by the professionals. Miss Collett's nearest opponent was Mrs. F. H. Baker, of Oakley country club, who took a pair of 43's for an 86. Next in line, twelve strokes from the leader and two from Mrs. Baker was Mrs. H. A. Jackson, of New York. Her card was 42-46—88. One other in the field of over 100 starters broke 90. This was Mrs. G. H. Stetson, recent winner of the Philadelphia women's district championship. The required 83, a 46 out and 43 for the inward nine. Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd and Mrs. R. H. Barlow, both of Philadelphia, required 90's.

FULLER HURLS WATERBURY TO WIN OVER SPRINGFIELD

Waterbury, June 2.—Moist Ball Fuller twirled one of his masterful ball games for Waterbury today and Springfield was defeated 2 to 1. The game was a pitching duel between Braxton for the Ponies and Fuller. The former's support weakened in the fourth and with two hits Waterbury scored its runs. The score:

YALE AND HARVARD CREWS REPORTED IN FINE CONDITION IN TRIALS MONDAY

Gales Ferry, Conn., June 2.—Bucking a high wind and choppy waters, the Yale junior varsity, freshman and combination crews took to the water late this afternoon for a light four mile paddle while Coach Ed Leader brought out the varsity crew for an individual workout. Despite the roughness of the water the workouts were without incident.

Earlier in the day the combination crew came near swamping when the white caps rolled over the shell but the boat finally reached the float although almost submerged in the water.

The seating of the combination crew was announced tonight as: Coxswain, White; stroke, Ives; number 7, W. L. Goodwin; number 6, Lambert; number 5, Hudson; number 4, Wardwell; number 3, Mosle; number 2, Callender, and bow, Davidson.

No changes were made in the varsity crew today but it is expected that one or two changes may be made in the junior varsity seating within the next few days.

Harvard Also Out.

Red Top, Conn., June 2.—The three Harvard crews were taken over an eight mile course early this evening and though hampered by a strong breeze from the southwest, made the row in good time and returned to the float in excellent condition. The high wind prevented Coach Stevens from putting through an extensive workout as planned. No changes were made in the lineup today.

BULKELEY'S TITLE AT STAKE DURING WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 2. — Bulkeley's chances for the high school championship of the state will be definitely decided this week, when the Orange and Black nine will meet two of the strongest contenders for the state high school crown, at present worn by the Orange and Black. These two teams, who are feared by the Bulkeley team, are the New Britain and Crosby High school nines. Both games are as tough as will be experienced by the Bulkeley players this season. The fact that Bulkeley will play these teams on successive days, Friday and Saturday, and that the Crosby contest will be played away from home, will have something to do with the ultimate outcome. Besides the games with the two teams mentioned above, Stonington High will be played this (Tuesday) afternoon at Morgan park.

The question of pitchers is the only thing that worries the Bulkeley mentor, Robert T. Aldrich, at present. Tillie Daniels, the ace of the Bulkeley outfit, will be saved for the contest with Crosby High school on Saturday at Waterbury. Just who will do the twirling on Tuesday against Stonington and on Friday against New Britain is a question that will not be decided until the teams actually take the field. Tillie Daniels may get the assignment to begin the game against Stonington on Tuesday and Geno Montali will relieve him before the game is half played. Dizzy Parisi it is expected will receive the order to take up the hurling assignment against New Britain.

Little opposition is expected from Stonington on Tuesday afternoon, but the Bulkeley team is not under estimating the ability of the Brown and White. The one thing that is uppermost in the minds of the Bulkeley players is to send the Stonington nine down to a defeat by a much larger score than Westerly defeated that team on Memorial day. A comparison of scores is the only way to tell just how strong these teams are, since the breaking of relations by the Westerly High school makes it impossible to have these teams meet. Both Bulkeley and Westerly have a clean record for the season thus far, but it is quite obvious that the teams played by Bulkeley are much stronger than those opposed by the Rhode Island state team.

FORMER BULKELEY BALL PLAYER STARRING IN MAINE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 2.—The playing of Bernard Peck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Peck of this city, was the bright light of the Bates university victory over University of Maine Saturday afternoon. Bernard Peck, who was captain of the Bulkeley baseball team last year, and whose brilliant first base play helped the Bulkeley team to win its second state championship in a period of nearly 27 years managed to get a chance in the contest against University of Maine and his single brought in the winning run in the eighth inning. In this same eighth frame, Bernie Peck helped to bring the three runs across the platter that gave his college the tying and winning runs.

The hitting of the New London boy was anything but heavy in the games he played with the Bulkeley team last year. His weak stick work at the Main institution is only one reason for his not being a regular. The regular first baseman position is at present being filled by Jordan who is more of a heavy slugger than expert fielder. Jordan injured his ankle in this contest and his position was then taken by Peck, and from all advance reports coming down from the Pine Tree state, Peck is expected to be retained at the first base position, but in order to be kept in the regular lineup Peck must hit the ball.

The victory in which Peck took such an important part is all the more significant, considering that it put the Bates college nine back into the running for the state of Maine championship. Peck fielded in faultless style, making five putouts in the time he stayed in the contest.

NEW LONDON CITY LEAGUE OPENS SEASON TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 3.—The champion Corticelli Silk Co. nine of the City league will meet its first real rival for first place honors this (Tuesday) evening when the Fort Trumbull Stars are opposed at Morgan park at 6.15 o'clock. The Silk Makers have already taken a hold on first place by winning the opening contest of the league last week against the Tabs. The other contest scheduled for this week is for Friday evening and the Knights of Columbus will make their 1924 debut against the Tabs.

The Corticelli team under the leadership of the diminutive Charles Chester, has one of the best teams in the league. His pitching staff comprising of Chappell and Posick, who bid well to keep the Silk Makers on the winning side of the contests. Sheflott will appear behind the bat for the Corticelli team. The Stars will have Zepp on the mound and either Farrell or Gadbois will be on the receiving end.

Tuesday evening's game is really the opening date of the twilight ball playing in the city. After this date there will be something doing on Morgan park every night.

MOTION PICTURES TO SHOW CONTEST FINISHES

New York, June 2.—Motion pictures as final arbiters of finishes in the intercollegiate track and field championships, tested for the first time officially in the title meet at Cambridge last Friday and Saturday, probably will be a fixture in the conduct of the annual games, officials of the I. C. A. A. A. A. said today.

The value of the new scheme to correct possible mistakes of judges at the finish mark was demonstrated, officials pointed out, when the slow motion pictures of the 100 yard dash trials on Friday showed the third and last qualifying place in a heat had been given erroneously to Chase of Harvard instead of Barber of California, as a result the judges' verdict was overruled.

The pictures of the finals on Saturday, when Yale won the title by a single point from Pennsylvania, have not yet been exhibited, but I. C. A. A. A. officials said they foresaw no prospect of a change in order of finishes, in asmuch as no question over any of them had been raised.

PLAY SEMI-FINALS IN OLYMPIC SOCCER TODAY

Paris, June 2.—(By The A. P.)—The semi-final round of competition for the Olympic soccer football title will be played Thursday and Friday. Sweden will meet Switzerland on Thursday while Uruguay, favorite for the title, will play Holland Friday.

Switzerland won its way into semi-finals today by eliminating Italy in a thrilling match, the result of which was in doubt until the last minute of play. With the score 2 to 1 against them, the Italians attacked furiously for the last five minutes, peppering shot after shot at the Swiss goal while a crowd of 15,000 persons cheered wildly for them to even the score. When the final whistle blew, however, Italy was still on the short end. Experts believe that the Swiss players will not be able to cope with either Sweden or Uruguay, both of which teams are looked upon as certain finalists. The Dutch team which defeated Ireland today, 2 to 1, is not considered to have anything but a mighty slim chance against the Uruguayans.

NEW HAVEN-HARTFORD GAME STORMY SESSION

New Haven, June 2.—New Haven took the odd game of the series with Hartford here today 6 to 5. The game was the scrappiest of the season in this city there being continual wrangles between players, managers and umpires. Martin was ordered out of the game by Umpire Harmon in the eighth, then re-instated and finally evicted when Manager O'Connor appealed to Umpire Summers. In the eighth Sloan batted for Johnson but the substitution was neither reported or announced. Upon Manager Milan's protest Umpire Harmon ruled Sloan out and ordered Hesse to take his turn at the bat. Umpire then notified the official scorer that Manager O'Connor was playing the game under protest. The score:

Hartford	1	1	0	0	0	1	0	2	0	—5
New Haven	2	0	0	1	0	3	0	0	x	—6

Two base hits, Hauk, Redman, Milan, Dowd. Three base hit, Hauk.

OLD DAYS REVIVED WHEN COOMBS AND COAKLEY MEET

New York, June 2.—Jack Coombs and Andy Coakley, former major league pitching ace, brought back memories of bygone greatness today when they opposed each other for three innings in a game between Columbia University and the New York Athletic club for the benefit of the Olympic fund.

Coakley had a little the better of the duel allowing only three hits and one run while in the box for Columbia, where he is now diamond coach. Coombs was touched for five blows and three runs. The final score was 6-4 in favor of the college nine.

SUCCESSIVE HITS WIN FOR ALBANY, SCORE 6 TO 2

Albany, N. Y., June 2.—Four successive hits after two were out gave Albany four runs in the fifth inning and enabled the home team to make it two straight over Pittsfield. The score was 6 to 2. A home run by Autrey accounted for Pittsfield's runs Genin's fielding and his timely hitting featured. The score.

Albany	0	0	0	0	4	1	0	2	x	—6

Three base hits, Genin. Home run, Autrey.

GEORGETOWN DEFEATED BY BOSTON COLLEGE 20 TO 6

Newton, Mass., June 2. — Three Georgetown pitchers were hammered by Boston college batters today for 19 hits and the Eagles won, 20 to 6. Jenkins, pitching for Georgetown, weakened in the seventh and Boston college amassed eleven runs in a single inning. The score by innings:

Georgetown	0	0	0	2	4	0	0	0	0	—6
Boston College	2	0	2	0	3	2	1	1	0	x—20

Jenkins, Gillespie, Brennan and Sukeforth; Mullowney and Phillips, Mooney.

PRINCETON NOW HOLDS POLO CHAMPIONSHIP

New York, June 2.—Princeton, eastern titleholders, captured the national intercollegiate polo championship today by defeating the University of Arizona, western champions, 8 to 0, in the second and deciding game of their series at Fort Hamilton. The Tigers had won the opening game last Saturday, 6 to 2.

STARS ARRIVE AT BOSTON FOR OLYMPIC TRY-OUTS

Boston, June 2.—A batch of entries from California which arrived today were the first received by William C. Prout, chairman of the games committee, for the final Olympic track and field tryouts at the Harvard stadium on June 13 and 14. Included in the list were the winners of sectional tryout events at Stanford on May 17.

The outstanding stars in the list are C. S. Cochran, of the Olympic club, San Francisco, and Glen Hartranft, of Stanford. The former in the sectional tryouts won the 400 metres run in 48 7-10 seconds, half a second short of Olympic games record, while Hartranft in the intercollegiates last Saturday won the shot put and discus events, establishing new intercollegiate records.

Chairman Prout announced today that the games would start at 2 p. m.

DUNDEE GETS DECISION IN FIGHT WITH VICENTINI

New York, June 2.—Johnny Dundee, grizzled veteran of more than 300 ring battles, defeated Luis Vicentini, sensational Chilean lightweight, tonight, at Madison Square Garden, and abruptly checked the march of the young South American toward a title fight with Benny Leonard.

Dundee, calling on all his experience and speed to outgeneral his aggressive, hard hitting opponent, gained the judges' verdict after a closely fought but unexciting 12 round contest before a crowd of nearly 7,000 that paid $19,000 to witness it.

The decision was greeted with disfavor by a large portion of the crowd that seemed to believe the Chilean's stiffer punches had given him the edge, but a concensus of ringside newspaper opinion supported the official verdict. Recapitulation of the rounds showed that Dundee had an advantage in five and Vicentini in three, while four appeared even.

Vicentini tried hard to penetrate Dundee's crafty, shifty defense but seldom was able to land effectively on his bounding target.

Once or twice, however, the Chilean got through his long right and jolted Dundee, but the veteran seldom gave ground.

Vicentini's last and most effective spurt came in the twelfth and last round but it was too late. With but a few seconds remaining the Chilean staggered Dundee with a swinging right. As Dundee backed away, Vicentini followed with a battery of stinging lefts and rights to the head. The crowd was in an uproar for a moment as Dundee seemed to wilt, but before any real damage was done, the final gong rang and the veteran Italian jumped back, then shook hands with his young opponent, apparently as fresh as at the start.

Once in the seventh and twice in the eighth, Vicentini jolted Dundee with slashing rights, but except for these rounds, when the Chilean was at his best, Dundee was master of the situation. The Italian, weaving in and out of reach like a panther, had Vicentini swinging wildly in nearly every round, while he stepped in with lightning like jabs. Dundee's punches coming from all sides, apparently did not bother the Chilean but they spiked his offensive and enabled the Italian to pile up his winning margin.

ACADEMY TENNIS TEAM WINS FROM BULKELEY

The tennis team of the Norwich Free academy defeated the Bulkeley tennis team in its first tournament held Saturday morning at the Golf club. The attendance was very much interested in the fast playing displayed by both sides, the doubles match being particularly close. The Norwich team showed its superiority in various stages of the match. The Academy was represented by Scott, Ely and William Disco. Henkell and Whimple played for Bulkeley. In the single matches Disco defeated Whimple 6-1, 6-2, while Scott lost to Henkell 6-4, 6-3. Scott and Ely outstriped Henkell and Whimple in the double match with a score 2-6, 6-3, 7-5.

RICKARD AND OTHERS WILL FILE DEMURRERS

Newark, N. J., June 2.—George L. "Tex" Rickard, Fred C. Quimby and Frank B. Lourroy, all of New York, who today pleaded not guilty to federal indictment charging them with illegally transporting in interstate commerce motion pictures of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight, within ten days will withdraw the pleas and file demurrers to the indictments, counsel for the defendants stated.

Fred C. Quimby, Inc., a corporation, is also under indictments. The individuals were named under bonds of $2,500.

BIG FIGHT NO VIOLATION OF INDIANA FIGHT LAWS

Indianapolis, Ind., June 2.—The Gibbons-Carpentier bout at Michigan City, Ind., last Saturday did not violate the state law prohibiting prize fighting, Adjutant General Harry B. General Smith said no title was at stake and the boxers were working for a stipulated sum of money known before they entered the

ON CORONER'S PERMIT, REAVES' BODY LEAVES NEW LONDON FOR NO. CAROLINA

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 3.—Although Coroner Jeremiah J. Desmond of Norwich has not rendered his finding in the death of Frederick Reaves, colored, who was found dead several days ago at his lodging place, 29 Water court, it is known that the coroner does not agree with the notion that Reaves met with foul play. This afternoon he gave permission to Undertaker Keeley to forward the body to Reaves' former home in Wilmington, N. C. FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS NARROW

New York, June 2—Stock prices today drifted within narrow limits until the final few minutes of trading when the vote of the house of representatives to adjourn congress at the end of this week furnished the basis for a brisk upturn in the market leaders. With speculative interest at a low ebb, total transactions shrunk to the smallest volume of the year, barely exceeding 300,000 shares.

Predictions by the federal reserve board in its review for May of an early turn for the better in the business situation gave a firm undertone to the market despite narrow price fluctuations. The inactivity which followed resumption of trading after a triple holiday, however, indicated that commitments either way would be restricted pending further political developments.

Action of the foreign exchanges commanded more interest than usual in financial circle sin view of apathetic stock trading. The unsettled French political situation and reported dissension among the leaders on the terms of the $100,000,000 Morgan credit caused an abrupt decline of 26 points in the price of the franc to below 5 cents shortly after the market's opening. The rate rebounded sharply, however, when the French government issued an official communique upholding the operation and Edouard Herriot potential premier, denied making any attack on the bankers who aided France. At the close of the day the currency had recovered virtually all of its early loss. Sterling, after an early decline, moved fractionally higher to around $4.31 3-4.

Railroad and public utility shares displayed the most consistent strength throughout the day's sluggish trading. Norfolk & Southern reached the year's best level at 16 on reports of a possible segregation of its lumber properties and publication of a favorable earnings statement. Pittsburgh & West Virginia preferred also reached the year's highest price at 97 3-4 and investment buying buoyed up other high-grade rail issues, including Canadian Pacific, which advanced two points. North American and Public Service of New Jersey established new 1924 top prices at 26 1-4 and 48, respectively.

Pivotal shares, including Baldwin, American Can and Studebaker, wavered uncertainly until the last minute spurt when scattered short covering carried prices above the previous close. Gains of a point or so were registered by Baldwin, American Woolen, American Locomotive and Colorado Fuel. Republic Steel, however, established a new low for the year at 42 3-4.

Selling was effective in a number of the oil shares, including Atlantic Refining, Royal Dutch and Phillips Petroleum. Middle States Oil was subjected to heavy selling pressure on the filing of receivership proceedings and dropped to the lowest level of the year at 2 3-8. Price movements in the entire group, however, were conflicting, with Pan-American issues, Superior and Sinclair registering moderate improvement.

Money continued in plentiful supply. Call funds were quoted at 3 per cent. all day and a few times loans were arranged at rates of 4 and 4 1-2 per cent. Commercial Paper discounts ranged from 4 1-2 per cent. to 4 per cent. for prime names.

BOND MARKET

New York, June 2—Contrasting price movements featured today's bond trading, with the market for domestic corporation liens displaying a firm undertone and unsettled political situations causing recessions in French and Japanese obligations.

Announcement that President Coolidge had signed the tax bill came too late to exert any effect on the day's trading, but it was felt in investment circles that he action would be a stimulating influence. Liberty Bonds scored moderate improvement today in anticipation that the president's approval of the measure would not be long delayed.

Uneasiness over the retirement of Premier Poincare and demands for President Millerand's resignation were reflected in liquidation of French government and municipal bonds, but the republic's issues later recovered most of their losses with the improvement in the franc. Scattered selling of Japanese bonds was attributed to the situation arising from the American exclusion of immigrants from Japan.

Few significant price changes marked today's trading, but Wilson & Co., convertible liens scored substantial gains on announcement that June interest payments 3 1-2 points, also a result of arrangements for interest advances. The 7 1-2s, with warrants, however, fell back 1 1-2, duplicating the year's low price of 39.

Reports were current that a $26,000,000 "Nickel Plate" bond issue would be placed on the market this week on a 5.60 basis. Preliminary discussions between bankers and representatives of the Argentine government for refunding a $20,000,000 note issue also were understood to be in progress and rumors were in circulation that Mexican loan negotiations had been transferred to a new banking group.

CURB MARKET

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, June 2—General selling, variously accounted for as due to an adjournment vote at Washington and to hedging sales from the southwest, led to a sharp break in wheat prices late today. There was an unsettled closing, 1 7-8 to 2 3-8c net lower, July $1.03 5-8 to $1.03 3-4 and September 1.05 1-2 a 5-8 to $1.05 5-8. Corn finished unchanged ot 1-2 a 5-8c down, and oats 1-8 to 5-8c off. In provisions, the outcome was 13 to 15 to 17 a 20c advance.

In contrast with the pronounced weakness which developed during the last part of the day, the wheat market earlier showed considerable firmness owing chiefly to 1924 unofficial domestic crop estimates. Those crop figures suggested a production 103,000,000 bushels less than was harvested in 1923. Bullish sentiment was also temporarily encouraged by the fact

Piles Are Absorbed Never To Return

After years of patient, painstaking effort on the part of a well known doctor, a prescription has been found that will actually heal Piles and absorb them never to return.

No man or woman need suffer another hour with any discomfort, pain or soreness arising from rectal troubles—Piles—now that this wonderful prescription known as MOAVA can be obtained for a moderate price at any first-class drug store on the money back if dissatisfied plan.

You'll be amazed to see how quickly it acts. Blessed relief often comes in an hour; even in cases of long standing with profuse bleeding, really wonderful results have been accomplished.

Simply ask Lee & Osgood Co. for a small box of MOAVA SUPPOSITORIES, being careful to follow the simple directions that come in each box.

that for the first time this year the July delivery at Winnipeg commanded a premium over Chicago. Apparently, however, bullish aspects of the crop estimates made public here had been already discounted, and notable lack of support became evident when selling broadened out in the final hour.

Moves toward to congressional adjournment were construed in some quarters as pointing to defeat of farm legislation, and were said to have checked buying, as well as given impetus to selling. The fact that houses with southwestern connections were free sellers seemed also to imply hedging pressure. In any event the rapid declines which ensued swept and thus stop further losses to holders.

Corn and oats followed wheat. Increased receipts of corn were predicted. Weather, too, favored the selling side.

Provisions were responsive to firmness of hog values. Furthermore offerings were light.

RELIEVED CONSTIPATION

"I have been troubled the last 4 or 5 year with constipation and have tried everything under the sun, but could not find any relief until I got FOLEY CATHARTIC TABLETS, and you can bet they are the pills," writes Robert E. Smith, 417 N. Robert St., Ludington, Mich. FOLEY CATHARTIC TABLETS give quick relief from constipation, also act on the liver. Especially comforting to stout persons. Refuse substitutes. BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

Forty-three building permits were issued during the month of May by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton, the number for the month being above the average. This number was considerably larger than for April when 29 permits were issued and indicates that building is on the increase in Norwich.

The report of Fire Marshal Stanton for May shows permits issued as follows:

New frame houses	12
New frame garages	16
New brick [illegible]	1
Alterations, [illegible] buildings	14
Total	43

The total value of the above permits was $82,285., a large amount for May.

Permits for May have been returned and every day brings in applications which tend to give June a fast start and the total for the month is expected to beat that of the past month.

Building Permis

During the past week the following new permits were issued, the work to cost about $3,500.

To Oscar Lecroix to add veranda 10x40 feet to present house on rear of Broadway.

To William E. Mulholland to erect a [illegible] garage on Boswell avenue, [illegible]x29 feet.

To Mrs. Bridget McKelvey to erect [illegible] rear of 11 Elm street. Cement floor, hollow tile construction.

To Paul Beaudoin to add veranda [illegible] Nelson street, size 7x16 feet.

To [illegible] Cote to erect frame [illegible] Fourth street, size 15x15 feet. Concrete foundation and floor, side and roof paper shingled.

To James Brady to erect frame garage on Prospect street, size 19x20 feet. Wood and cement construction.

To [illegible] W. Lyons Jr., to erect frame double garage on Prospect street, size 20x20 feet. Cement floor, wooden construction.

To Samuel W. Loskin to add frame double veranda to house at 120 High street.

To Fowler and Rathbun to erect one garage on Mechanics street, 12x18x8 feet. Cement floor.

NEW LONDON

It is understood that work is to be started shortly on the new dormitory at Connecticut College. The preparation of plans and awarding of contracts is being arranged by the donor of the buildings, whose name has not been divulged by the college authorities. The structure will be of colonial design, 170x48 feet. It will serve as a combination residence hall and social center. The first floor will be arranged for one large living room with two smaller parlors and a dining room connecting from an ample hallway. Twenty-four single rooms will lead off from an 8-foot corridor on the second floor. Showers and tub baths and toilet facilities will be provided in each of the single rooms.

The contract for the proposed alterations to the state armory has been awarded a local contractor. The plans for the changes, call for improvements which will provide additional office and storage space. Interior decorations will also be made.

Applications for Building Permits

M. Zimmer, addition, Willetts av., $175.

Richard White, addition, 37 Grand street, $300.

N. Y., N. H., and H. R. R. Co., addition, 46 Goshen street, $200.

John Lasky, garage, 31 Chapel st., $500.

W. J. Brady, store building, 464 Ocean avenue, $2,500.

Louis R. Ely, garage, Bishop ter., $200.

Joseph F. Bates, alterations, Colman street, $1,000.

Number of permits issued for the week, 11; estimated cost of buildings, $5,900.

Mystic

Sub-contracts have been awarded to various concerns for the metal and cornice work and for the artificial stone for the dormitory at the Mystic Oral School.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the past week in Norwich there were 25 sales of real estate as compared with 19 sales in the same period in 1923. During the respective weeks the mortgage loans were $293,550 and $75,675.

During the past week in New London the real estate sales were 10 as against 11 in the same week in 1923. During the respective weeks the mortgage loans were $48,950 and $[illegible].

State Building Situation

Hartford again leads the cities of the state in the amount of new building for which permits were issued this past week showing an increase of [illegible] the number of permits issued and $887,710 in the cost of new construction work. The other towns of the state reported in The Commercial Record, show the average amount of building expected at this time of the year, but in no city is there considered to be any great boom. Permits for the week amounted to 443 as against 358 for the same week of last year, and 231 in the last week of May, 1922. The total cost of new projects this week amounted to $1,785,559, which is a slight increase over last year, when $1,501,095 was expended on new buildings and a still greater increase over the like week in 1922, when the cost of new construction work amounted to $1,102,293.

GALES FERRY

POETRY

Blue and Gold

The warm June day was full
Of colors as it could hold;
"Now which is the sweetest blue,
And which is the brightest gold,
In all that your little eyes can see,
In cloud-land, earth, or the water world?"
I said to the children three.

We were on the fresh green grass,
And the pretty hammock hung
Like a web between the trees,
And in it the baby swung.
'Twas as if a spider, busy and sly,
Had its meshes there, white and light
And caught a butterfly.

A moment's silence fell
On all, till Teddy guessed—
He had eyes for every bird,
And eyes, too, for its nest—
And he cried—the eager little soul—
"The bluest bird is the bluebird.
And gold is the oriole."

Then Flora, who loved flowers,
But had not spoken yet,
Whispered that gold was a crocus,
And blue a violet.
And Edith, the more emphatic one,
Said: "No; the bluest blue is the sky,
And the goldenest gold the sun!"

I pointed to the web
That hung so white and light,
In which the baby cooed
As a nestling pigeon might:
"I can answer the best of all," I said
For there is not in water-world, earth or skies,
No blue so sweet as that baby's eyes,
No gold so bright as his head."
—Mrs. Clara Doty Bates.

Wood-Song

Love must be a fearsome thing
That can bind a maid
Glad of life as leaves in spring,
Swift and unafraid.

I could find a heart to sing
Death and darkness, praise or blame
But before that name,
Heedfully, oh, heedfully
Do I lock my breast!
I am silent as a tree.
Guardful of the nest.

Ah, my passing Woodlander,
Heard you any note?
Would you find a leaf astir
From a wilding throat?

Surely, all the paths afar
Unto such a gentle quest,
Would you take the nest?
Follow where the sun-motes and Truly 'tis a sorrow
I must bid you fare so far;
Speed you, and good-morrow!
—Josephine Preston Peabody

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Is he a faithful dog?

Yes, indeed. I've sold him four times and he's always come back.—Songdags-Nisse (Stockholm.)

Mistress — Ah, Marie, your dress looks like a bag on you!

Maid—I dare say. You are wearing the dress which suits me best!—Sans Gene, Paris.

Small Young Thing—Oh, what's the matter with that ape? The poor thing.

Keeper—He sprained his arm.

S. Y. T.—Oh, I see; a monkey wrench.—New York Medley.

A woman of 40 who gave evidence at County Court was followed in the box by a girl of 20.

Solicitor—Is the last witness your mother?

Girl—Excuse me, my stepdaughter.—London Titbits.

Man Dressmaker—Well what now? Apprentice—I have discovered a way to make a woman's dress so that she will look like a hump-backed baboon with bat's wings.

Man Dressmaker—Glorious! It will become the rage. — New York Telegraph.

At a tea party recently a prodigy was introduced by her mother.

"This is my little daughter," said the proud mamma. "Isn't she a bright little soul?"

Then, to Miss Bevan's astonishment, the coy child inquired. "What was that clever thing I said yesterday, mamma?"—Exchange.

The Spanish government has granted women in Spain the right to have a voice in municipal affairs.

The navy barber aboard a United States warship that visited Guam did a flourishing business the entire time the ship was in port bobbing the hair of the native girls and women.

Refusing to accept a dare from his chums, thirteen-year-old Harry Newman called on Mayor Kendrick, of Philadelphia, with his violin and entertained him with a series of classical selections. The mayor then took the fiddle and sawed off Hail, Hail the Gang's All Here, and There's No Place Like Home.

At Lake Prince dam, a few miles from Norfolk, Va., buck shad are being caught with baskets and rakes or any implement that will haul a fish out of the water. A big run of the fish came up from the sea. Stopped by the dam, they have gathered there by thousands, and motorists are bringing home all they can carry.

In the Structural Materials Library of the Lewis Institute, Chicago, there is a special "library" consisting of 2,500 bottles of sand. It has taken ten years to make the collection, which is said to contain specimens from every foreign state in the Union and from many foreign countries. The purpose has been to make tests and mortar work and to have the findings on record.

The Congressional Record is a journal of the proceedings of the congress of the United States, dating from 1789. Prior to that date the senate held secret sessions only, but thereafter publication was required, save in the case of "executive sessions." Record has been the title since 1875, before that date the journal was entitled, Annals of Congress (1789-99 for the house, and 1799-1824 for both branches), Register of Debates until 1837, and through 1874 Congressional Globe.

The folding rooms of the Capitol are filled with thousands of publications that are either obsolete or worthless for public distribution, the public printer declares. In the storage vaults of the Capitol may be found annual reports on finance dating as far back as 1876, agricultural yearbooks of the crop of 1878 (although new editions are printed at the rate of 400,000 copies annually), reports on the Paris exposition of 1878, ten-year-old nautical almanacs, prayers of the chaplain of the Sixty-second congress, army regulations dating back to 1895 and thousands of obsolete congressional directories.

PLAUT LETTER DESCRIBES SHANGHAI, PARIS OF FAR EAST

Because of the general public interest in reading the letters of R. C. Plaut descriptive of the places he visited in his trip around the world, The Bulletin will publish the remainder of the series, although Mr. Plaut has reached home before they could all be used.

The following describes his impressions of Shanghai as the Paris of the Far East:

In the Japan Inland Sea,
April 24, 1924.

(Just one month and we are at Vancouver—"Hooray".)

My dear Ed and all at the store:

I have been to Shanghai, the place that in my younger far distant days, I had always read about with delight, how the crew of some ship would go ashore at 'Frisco—grab some fellow and "Shanghai" him on to the boat, and when he awakens, he will repeat the old "Chester de Vond" stuff from his 10-20 and 30 cent melodramas, "Where am I?" You remember, Ed, the night we went to see him at the old Broadway theatre. The late Charlie Case was the manager. Chester could not raise the door. It became fastened somehow, and how we all did laugh. Well, those were the happy days.

But getting back to my subject. It was not such a pleasant morning when we awoke at Shanghai on "Easter morn," but we were glad that we were that far. We saw the new Chinese flag, with its five stripes, which is to signify the five great Chinese races—Mongol, Manchu, Türkl, Tibetan and Chinese. The relation of the United States to China has consistently been of an altruistic character, and she has steadily striven to sustain China's integrity. Lilliang Chang (whose statue we visited), after the Boxer Rebellion, used these words. "I tremble to think what might have been China's fate but for the stand taken by the American government."

Our boat came to anchor at Woosing (the port station thirteen miles from Shanghai), at the point where the Whangpoo and Yang-tze rivers meet. They loaded us aboard swift moving tenders on our way to the big city. On the Whangpoo river we saw such a variety of boats. Among the most noticeable were the Chinese craft, for on either side the customary eye is painted, as the Chinaman says, "No eye, no can see." It is presumably to enable the boat to see where it is going. There were great modern steam boats, passenger steamers from all parts of the world, "bumboats," rowed by means of the long "yuloh", large sampans, spreading out their brown sails, in sharp contrast to the smaller ones, stern wheeled boats, operated by "rice power," with 24 coolies on a treadmill, gaily decorated flower boats, hundreds of cargo boats, piled high with everything from bags of sand to coffins, Chinese naval cruisers, luminous with white paint, which altogether presented a wonderful panorama as we approached the city. Now, no matter what we had pictured in our mind's eye, a beautiful city faced us—not the Shanghai I had expected to see, Ed, but a real "honest-to-goodness" beautiful city faced the waterfront. I might compare it with Michigan Ave. waterfront in Chicago. Shanghai is the Paris of the Far East and has a population of over 1,538,500. It has, however, the distinction of having a gay world city of 20,000 foreigners, of whom 1,500 are Americans. Shanghai has the reputation of being a notoriously immoral city. Intelligent Chinese gentlemen will not permit their sons to come to Shanghai as students, less they be ruined by the lax morals prevailing there. It is as attractive as Paris and as cosmopolitan as Cairo, but is outdoes both these cities in its festive wickedness. The Shanghai club, one of the fashionable centres of dissipation, has a bar a hundred and ten feet long, the largest in the world, and during the noon hours it is crowded with five deep in front of the long bar [illegible].

We had the good fortune of having at our disposal the limousines of The Plaut-Cadden company's purchasing agent here, and we drove past the Bubbling Well Road, where we passed all the latest model automobiles. Handsomely gowned women everywhere displayed the most advanced Parisian fashions. Everywhere one sees great office buildings, warehouses, factories, and every sign of modern business life. The fact that Shanghai is in reality an "international city" makes a complication of judicial courts. Every foreigner is responsible only to the laws of his own country. This results in the condition that the citizen of one country may be fined or imprisoned for what the citizen of another country may do with impunity. There is in Shanghai a mixed court for cases between foreigners and Chinese with two magistrates—a Chinese and a foreigner. Shanghai is dominated by foreign people and influences. Great manufacturing plants have been established, as the natives are quickly trained and prove themselves industrious workers. The fact is that these great commercial centers of China, with their foreign capital and cheap and skilled Chinese labor, in process of training, together with raw materials almost at their doors, will be able to undersell the whole world in a very few years.

The street scenes are full of color with every sort of national costume. It looks like [illegible] day in Norwich. There are Chinese from every province, natives from all parts of India, Japanese, Russians, Englishmen, Frenchmen, Americans, Maylays, Parsees, Koreans, Cingalese, Persians, Turks, Javanese, in fact, every country under heaven is represented here. The highest buildings are only six stories high, as the mud foundation makes higher buildings impracticable. The Foochow road is a sort of "Great White Way," with gay theatres and elaborate restaurants, making an attractive place for an evening visit, and, as I said before, the Bubbling Well Road is an old and famous residence street. Here is the race course in the heart of the city, and cricket grounds, tennis courts and a bandstand. The American colony is in the French Settlements, having many beautiful homes on Joffre avenue. We were fortunate in visiting the pagodas on the Sunday we arrived, as it was a religious day for women and they sure were out in droves, with their little [illegible] worshipping their gods. One would walk up, hit a big drum with a stick to attract their god so they would be recognized. Another would hit a big bell. Women were burning joss sticks in big bundles. Others were burning silver papers or were praying and putting money in containers. Priests were walking around. This interesting temple is dedicated to the god of Shanghai. The conspicuous seven story pagoda is connected with Loong-wha-loy temple, which makes a worthwhile visit for one who is not all fed up on temples.

The Chinese are devoted to the movies and enjoy American films. Charlie Chaplin is their favorite.

Ed, if I were a Catholic, I sure would be proud of what the church is doing in the Orient. One finds much to interest and entertain him in Shanghai and here the Catholics may well be proud of their work. The Convent, established there for Chinese girls, is a model. The lace they turn out is so exquisite that even to one like myself, who does not understand pretty laces, etc., it is something to dream about. The Jesuit college is equally efficient. Here the boys make superb furniture, the carvings on which are considered wonderful. Every tourist, no matter what his faith, should visit these two places. Otherwise, he will miss something worth seeing. It is called the Siccawee Settlement (Catholic). The large output makes this work profitable as well as useful.

The Nanking road is the most conspicuous shopping street. Two large Chinese department stores, one on each side of the street, with restaurants and roof gardens, and a great variety of merchandise, show that these people are up to date. The best native shops are found in the International Settlements and silks and furs in the Honan road. They make the Mah Jongg sets right on the sidewalk and it is very interesting to watch the dexterous engravings. Here we also find Chinese jewelry, jasper, jades, lain, carved chopsticks, idols, brocades, antiques, jade, mandarin coats, and embroidered linens and silks, all of excellent qualities and reasonable prices.

Hu-tsen, or "the city" is the native quarter. It has many narrow, filthy streets, which, however, contain some fine shops, with silk brocades, curios, jewelry and many forms of ivory work.

In the center of Shanghai is a small artificial lake, in the middle of which is the "Willow Pattern Tea House," so famous in pictures and sometimes seen on China plates, with its romantic story of the eloping lovers, who fled from here and were turned into doves. They not only serve tea in this charming retreat, but there are booths for shoppers, curios being a specialty. From the top of the tea house one gets a very charming view of the city. Many Chinese men bring their birds with them, as it is their custom to take these birds out for an airing. The bird cages are gaily decked with tassels and there have fancy cups for food and water. The members of the family are often left at home but the birds are never forgotten.

We selected some beautiful rugs here, both large and small sizes, and I know you will be pleased with them when they arrive.

We were very well impressed with our Shanghai representative and we know that he will be quite an acquisition to our organization. Gladden spent a good deal of his time in selecting Mah Jongg sets. This is a wonderful place for skins of all kinds.

THE HUT IN THE WOODS AT CAMP HAZEN

NORWICH BOYS ENROLLING FOR VACATIONS AT CAMP HAZEN

The committee responsible for the promotion of Camp Hazen, the State Y. M. C. A. Boys' Camp at Chester, Connecticut, has planned for many new features at this popular summering place for the boys of the state. Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Montgomery, of Norwich, have provided a fund to erect an outdoor chapel at the camp as a memorial of their son, Robert, who had been a camper and tent leader for some years, and who lost his life last fall in a drowning accident on the sound.

A new building has been erected on the property to be used for an infirmary and doctor's headquarters. Here all slight illnesses can be taken care of in the proper way. "Doc" Cowles, a junior of the Yale Medical school will serve as the camp doctor for the second season.

A new pier is being erected to extend out into the lake 64 feet and will be supplied with diving tower and spring board. The new buildings include also a camp director's cottage and a "commodore's" hut, both situated on the shore front. Tana Kwai, popular member of the Yale swimming team, will be at the camp all summer and will have charge of the swims and be instructor of swimming.

July 26th will be Governor's Day at the camp for Governor Templeton has agreed to be present and make an address at that time. A special programming of athletics, aquatics and social events is being planned for this [illegible]

The camp committee is co-operating with the local Y. M. C. A.

REV. C. H. RICKETTS SPEAKS AT RICHMOND RADIATOR

At the noon meeting Monday at The Richmond Radiator Co., Rev. C. H. Ricketts spoke under the auspices of the local Y. M. C. A. taking for his subject: The Significance of Walking [illegible]

He said in part:

Of Enoch, one of the old patriarchs, it is remarked that "he walked with God and was not, for God took him." There were eleven generations between and including Adam and Noah, covering a period of about 2,000 years. Of these Enoch and Noah seem to be the only ones worth mentioning. The rest were simply non entities as far as the second goes. Enoch was remarkable for being the father of the oldest man who ever lived, but there was no special credit in this. Living to be nearly a 1,000 years old must have been mighty stupid for seven-eighths of the time. It is not the accumulation [illegible] but the moral earnestness we put into the years that [illegible] counts with God.

Enoch shares with Elijah the singularity of passing into the eternal [illegible] dying. It is generally [illegible] he was translated, but even that was not an affair of much importance. The real thing is to get [illegible] in, not how we get there.

[illegible] thing about Enoch was that "he walked with God" and this is the biggest thing any man can do, because there is so much in this world to pull him away from God. The speaker then went on to elaborate the following four points:

1. Walking with God implies concord and friendship with God. 2. It implies nearness to Him. 3. It implies communion with Him. 4. It means that we are going in the same direction with God.

DIES WHILE VISITING AT CENTERVILLE, MARYLAND

(Special to the Bulletin)

Baltimore, Md., June 2—Visiting her old home at Centreville, Md., where she had lived virtually all of her life until a few years ago when she removed to New London, Conn., Miss Catherine Adelaide Bayard, is dead, burial having been made in the Chesterfield Cemetery, near Centreville.

Miss Bayard was a sister of Mrs. Julia A. B. Martin, New London and an aunt of Mrs. William E. Hoyt, of Winsted, Conn., Charles H. Martin, New London; Robert B. Mather, Norwich, Conn., and Wilford B. Mather, Hartford, Conn.

Miss Bayard arrived in Centreville a few weeks ago to visit her old home and many relatives in that city. Death came at the home of a cousin, Henry W. Chambers. A number of Connecticut relatives attended the funeral.

EXPECT LARGE ENROLLMENT FOR CAMP DEVENS

Enrollment of applicants for the Citizen's Military Training Camp at Camp Devens is progressing very favorably and every indication points to the largest enrollment that the First Corps Area has ever had.

The number of former students enrolled is larger than ever before and the same is true of the basic students. The proportionate number of white students enrolled however is somewhat below the others and the Citizens Military Training Camp authorities are making every endeavor to secure the enrollment of additional men who are eligible for the white course. At the present time there are approximately [illegible] vacancies for White students, but if this quota is not filled within a very few days the authorities will accept additional basic students to fill these vacancies. Former students eligible for the white course are, therefore, urged to send in their applications at once if they desire to attend this year, otherwise they are sure to be disappointed.

War Department officials attribute the increased interest this year to the wonderful results achieved in previous camps. The constructive work which every officer has undertaken in better fitting our young men physically, mentally and morally for the battle of life is now bearing fruit.

Applications should be made to the Officer in Charge, 2. M. T. C. Affairs Army Base, Boston, Mass.

Spoke at Sunday Meeting.

Secretary Edwin Hill was the speaker at the Sunday afternoon meeting at the local Y. M. C. A. There was a good sized attendance at the meeting. The opening exercises consisted of the singing of familiar hymns, vocal solos by Hugh Kinder, Scripture reading and prayer.

Several reels of moving pictures were shown, including a reel on the early life of Moses, one on Character Analysis and Tom Tit and Robin Red Breast. The Home Sweet Home picture, which was advertised, miscarried, but will be shown next Sunday. Between the reels Genera. Secretary Edwin Hill gave a brief talk on the topic, "All things work together for good to those who love God," and he said in part:

"It is interesting to think of the providences of God. I thought of this during my recent illness. God was ever so good to me in many ways while I lay sick, and I learned lessons of trust. Someone has said if we take our disappointments and substitute for the first letter D, the letter H, it will spell His-appointments. It must have been a great disappointment to Fanny Crosby to find that she was blind, but God's providence worked through her and she has given us many beautiful hymns, that we probably would not have had otherwise. George Matheson never would have written that touching hymn, O, Love That Will Not Let Me Go, if he had not had that very sad experience of becoming blind. Saul of Tarsus was a great leader of his people, and he was struck down on the Damascus road, and finally became the great leader for Jesus Christ. When Moody urged Sankey to leave his business and sing for him, Sankey could not see it that way, but finally yielded, and has probably sang nearly as many into the kingdom as did Moody with his preaching, especially as he rendered so many times, The Ninety and Nine. So in the case of Moses; it looks as though everything was lost, but note how the providence of God worked in his case, and what a great leader for Jehovah he became. Let us always remember that God's providence is in this old world, and that in a real sense "all things work together for good to those who love God."

POQUETANUCK HELD MEMORIAL DAY PROGRAM

CLAIMS LIME STARVATION CONDITION OF CONSUMPTION

The claim that lime starvation is not only one of the most important of the symptoms and conditions of consumption but that it can be relieved by administering certain salts of lime to patients was the claim made in a paper which was read at the meeting held Monday at Cedar Crest sanatorium by the medical officers of the state tuberculosis sanatoria. It was presented in a paper prepared by Dr. Max M. Teplitz, of the Cedar Crest staff, formerly of Norwich. He reported a long list of experiments in which the lime contest of the blood of the patients was carefully studied before and after the giving of the lime salts. In all of these cases a marked increase in the amount of lime found in the blood was reported. This series of experiments, which were discussed by the medical staff of the five state sanatoria, was pronounced of general interest because of the conflicting opinions on this subject which are held in various scientific centers. The lime salt used by Dr. Teplitz was calcium lactate combined with thyroid extract.

Dr. William M. Stockwell, superintendent of the Cedar Crest sanatorium, reported that tuberculous guinea pigs which have been treated with the Dreyer vaccine lived a shorter time than those untreated.

Monday's medical meeting of the staffs of the state sanatoria closed a series of monthly sessions the past year to discuss papers prepared by the tuberculosis experts involving a variety of researches into current tuberculosis problems.

SALVATION ARMY CAMPAIGN FOR $5,000 BEGINS JUNE 16

Announcement was made at a recent luncheon of the Lions club that the president, George A. Finn, had kindly consented to aid as chairman of the Home Service appeal for the Norwich Salvation Army, the dates of the campaign are set for June 16th to 21st inclusive and the quota is $5,000. A resume of the activities and accomplishments of the local corps since its occupance of the building on Cliff street and the details of the need of financial assistance at this time for maintenance and intensive work will be published in the near future. W. A. Nicol of Boston, well known in Norwich as the director of last year's building campaign will have the general oversight of the organization of this present appeal.

Kellogg's Bran did more in two weeks than medicine taken in 20 years

Out of regard for your own health, read this letter:

Gentlemen:

Your "Krumbled Bran," used by me as a cereal, has done more for me in two weeks than the hundreds of dollars' worth of medicine I have taken in last twenty years for constipation. It is wonderful, and it is so simple.

Yours truly,
Arlington H. Carman,
Patchogue, N. Y.

Mr. Carman's experience has been duplicated in thousands of homes. Why does Kellogg's Bran succeed when drugs and pills fail? The answer is simple. Drugs have an unnatural effect upon the bowels. They irritate the intestines. The more they are used, the more one has to use. Finally, they have no effect at all.

Kellogg's Bran STIMULATES the intestines. It cleans, sweeps and purifies them. It acts exactly as nature acts. And it is never necessary to increase the amount eaten. If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran is guaranteed to bring permanent relief to the most chronic cases of constipation, or your grocer returns your money. For Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be so effective. That is why doctors recommend Kellogg's.

The wonderful, nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran is exclusive. It is delicious—totally unlike ordinary brans. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream and in the recipes on every package. Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is made in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers.

ASTHMA CONQUERED IN 24 HOURS BY NEW METHOD

Specialist Guarantees Complete Relief from Every Form of Asthma Within 24 Hours—Or No Cost

All that agonizing coughing, gasping and wheezing goes within 24 hours, and you sleep the night through at once without a break—through a remarkable new internal prescription developed by a Cleveland specialist.

It doesn't matter how long you have had Asthma or what your age, this new treatment allays the severest spasms in 30 minutes or less, and is positively guaranteed to bring complete relief within 24 hours—or it costs you nothing.

Science now proves that Asthma is not a mere external disease but is due to a fundamental internal condition—protein sensitiveness of the system. Most remedies—burning powders and the like—are merely temporary, and do not at all prevent the trouble from growing worse.

But this new treatment known as Rinex, and taken in simple capsule form, goes direct to the internal cause and neutralizes it completely—without harmful drugs or bad after-effects. So every symptom—all the coughing, gasping, wheezing and that terrible night strangling—is controlled within 24 hours.

Every Asthma sufferer is urged to at least try Rinex. It is the only Asthma treatment on the market originated and developed entirely by physicians under scientific clinical conditions, manufactured by reliable ethical manufacturing pharmacists and approved and prescribed by physicians. And it is guaranteed. Money back instantly if not fully relieved in 24 hours.

Free Trial Offer

Just now, through a special introductory arrangement, you can obtain a trial treatment entirely FREE. Simply go to one of the drug stores named below and ask for a trial package of RINEX. No obligation at all on your part. But be sure to ask for your free treatment within the next three days—this offer is limited. It may be obtained in this city at:

WILLIMANTIC

James P. Bath was elected president at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, held Tuesday evening with a small but enthusiastic attendance of members. President Valentine L. Murphy opened the session. Secretary Channing H. Morrill read his report, also the report of Tresurer G. Raymond Young, in the latter's absence. There are now 488 members in the chamber. The cash on hand approximates $900. These reports, with that of Collector M. E. Sullivan were voted accepted.

An excellent report of the activities of the past year was given by President Murphy who also made several recommendations for furthering civic work of the chamber in the future included in his suggestions were the completion of the work of revising the city charter, increasing the dues so that a permanent secretary could be secured and the formation of a ladies' auxiliary. Chairman J. B. Fullerton of the nominating committee then presented the following names of officers, all of whom were unanimously elected: President J. P. Bath, first vice president Augustus E. Greene, second Roland B. Jordan, secretary C. H. Morrill, treasurer, E. R. Young, corresponding secretary W. C. Norris and financial secretary M. E. Sullivan; directors, J. F. Ahern, Harry Blanchette, Nelson A. Daniel, P. D. Donovan, J. B. Fullerton, C. W. Hill, Frank P. Rafferty, C. R. Pomeroy, John Reilly, C. F. Risedorf, Andrew Roux, Valentine L. Murphy, Louis A. Kingsbury, Frank H. Foss and George Gurley.

The newly elected president, James P. Bath, then took charge of the meeting and was given a salvo of applause as he took the chair. Remarks were made by J. B. Fullerton, F. H. Foss, C. W. Hill, Charles Larabee, A. E. Greene, H. W. Standish, A. B. Smith, E. A. [illegible], J. F. Toomey and Amos Fowler, steward of the chamber. Outstanding suggestions were that concentrated effort be made to secure new industries to Willimantic and that the influence of the chamber be directed toward having a through road toward Middletown to Boston via this city completed this year. Adjournment was taken at 9:30 with the serving of coffee and doughnuts.

A delightful entertainment was given at the Methodist church Tuesday evening for those who participated in the [illegible] at the church this year. Rev. [illegible] was in charge of the [illegible]. The feature musical numbers on the programme were rendered by entertainers under direction of Michael J. Farrell of Connecticut Agricultural college. Popular selections were given by Osterhoudt's orchestra and were followed by a social hour.

Mrs. James N. Blackburn of Prospect street has returned, after a week's stay with her daughter, Mrs. George F. White, of Linden, N. J.

The Country Parson and his family of musicians appeared before a large audience at the Town hall Tuesday evening at an old fashioned entertainment and social. The proceeds were for the camping trip of the Boy scouts troop No. 1.

At Connecticut Agricultural college the annual commencement week exercises and graduation of the class of 1924 will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. According to a decision handed down Monday in the supreme court of errors, error is found, judgment is set aside and damages of $1 ordered for the defendants, in the case of Herbert L. Switzer vs Peter Turansky and others, in an action of replevin tried before Judge Waldo P. Marvin in the superior court in this city. Judgment was erroneously entered for the defendants on a counter-claim. The decision is per curiam.

Walter Abbe traced the growth of the paper industry from the papyrus age of the Grecian days to its present development, in a talk before the Willimantic Rotarians at their weekly luncheon Tuesday noon. His topic was "The Manufacture of Paper" and the talk was a most interesting one. President Harry W. Standish was in charge of the business session and he introduced Miss Heinman of the state children's aid department who was a guest. Miss Heinman held the attention of the members by telling of the work which the department was performing in Connecticut. A report of the spring conference held at Springfield, Mass., Thursday, May 29, was given by President Standish. The business methods talk as given by Mr. Abbe came under a program in charge of Louis A. Kingsbury, chairman of that committee. Next week the Murphies will cater to the Hot Mustards at 6.30 o'clock in the evening, when they stand the expense of a banquet at Spring Hill, in payment of a wager for an attendance contest held some time ago.

As the result of a recently issued challenge the Flying Wampuses captained by Ralph Gates met the Scratcher aggregation led by G. Raymond Young in a hard fought pocket billiard game here Monday evening and suffered defeat in two out of three games. The battle was at the chamber of commerce club room and a decided thriller. Dr. T. J. Keegan scored high single with a run of 18 pills in favor of the Wampuses. "Flashy" Doe was high man for the upper dogs, with a run of 15 consecutive balls.

Andrew M. Litchfield, 60, who died at his home in East Windsor Monday night after a brief period of illness, was a native of Hampton. Com. Twenty year ago he came from Portland, Me., to Chaplin where he located on a farm and later conducted a store for several years. He was clerk and treasurer of the town of Chaplin for six years. He leaves his wife, Lucy Andrews Litchfield and two daughters, Mrs. Ines Myers of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mrs. Helen Stoughton of East Windsor and three grandchildren.

Miss Anna O'Connor and John J. Buggie of Portchester, N. Y., were married Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock in St. Joseph's church by the pastor, Rev. John E. Clark, who also celebrated the nuptial high mass. The organ music was by Mrs. E. R. Portelance. Miss Agnes Sullivan, cousin of the bride was maid of honor and James E. Lynch was best man. The bride wore a gown of brown canton crepe with a picture hat to match and carried roses. Miss Sullivan was attired in a gown of Nile green with hat to match. She carried pink carnations. The ceremony was followed by a breakfast at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Morris Johnson. The groom is a general contractor in Portchester. Mrs. Buggie is a graduate of St. Andrew's hospital, London, and up to recently was supervisor of the United Hospital, Portchester.

At a meeting of the Sunday school board of the Methodist church held this week plans for the annual picnic were formulated. The affair will be held in June in charge of a committee, E. Byrd Freeman, Walter H. Parkhurst and Claude Ide.

Eugene Fancher, Arthur J. Dubreuil and Alfred J. Lariviere pulled into this city Tuesday with a handsome string of forty bullheads and a four pound eel. The catch was made at Exeter pond during the night.

Inmates of the almshouse were presented flowers and cheer was brought to them Sunday in a service held by the Christian Endeavor society.

The high spirits of the general public felt in the springtime, seem somehow to be lacking this year. Grouchy looks and gruff answers are not uncommon, but these on the most part are manifested by people who otherwise would be complaining of the extreme heat. True enough, the mental and liquid spirits are low locally, nevertheless one has to hand it to the residents of Willimantic for the excellent manner in which they bear up under reverse circumstances.

Personal and Social

Arthur E. Morrill who has been at St. Joseph's hospital for about six weeks is improving steadily.

JEWETT CITY

Mrs. A. A. Young and Miss Marguerite Young are registered at the New Willard, Washington for the week. Today (Wednesda) they will go to Annapolis where they will attend the graduating exercises and farewell ball at the naval academy.

The beautiful wistaria in full bloom at Mrs. G. A. Haskell's is the largest ever seen in this section. The great vine, besides covering the front and one aid of her residence, has climbed a Norway pine to the height of over 30 feet. If one lived to the age of Methuselah he would have to make it snappy to count the single blossoms.

The librarian at Slater library was surprised during Monday forenoon to hear a faint peeping coming from the direction of the fire place in the reading room. She found two baby chimney swallows dead in grate, and another fledgling able to fly a little ways, dodging around the room. He was carefully caught and liberated outside, with no cats in sight. No native bird carries on her housekeeping under more precarious conditions. The nests are often disloged by extra strong drafts of air up the chimneys and all maternal plans are ruined. These swallows often meet with bad luck by trying to breed in a chimney that becomes choked with coal gas. In the great flues where they used to thrive and raise two families a year, they were happy in a good draft of wood smoke.

On Mothers' day in one of the local pulpits, the speaker, to illustrate the devotion of the mother, cited the instance where a chimney swallow's nest containing young birds had become dislodged and fallen into an open fire. The mother bird darted down, as the watchers were astonished to see, and flew without a moment's hesitation into the blazing hearth, where she coul see her baby birds. 'She herself soon fell and was burned, in a futile effort to save her young.

Reports from the farming districts ronud about the borough are to the effect that not in many years has general spring planting been at the delayed stage that the first week in June finds it this year. By a curious natural condition in May the exceptionally cold nights were too cloudy for frost. One tomato grower set out his plants the sixth of May. He says they are alive yet, and have changed in color first from green to yellow, then to red, then to blue, now after being in the soil a month they are assuming normal green.

The hay crop promises to be a record breaker; seldom has the grass been as forward or the bottom growth so thick.

One local farmer says he could stand the adverse weather conditions if he could find some way of solving the farm labor problem. An advertisement in The Bulletin brought one farmer in the south part of Griswold 21 letters, but the men he would have set his plow and take into his family wanted just four times what he got when he was a farm hand working by the day.

A man in town has to show several photographs of the great mortars, hewn into the ledge on the top of Tiltstown mountain, by tribes of early Connecticut ndians.

Among the interesting and now quite rare flowers, brought into the Riverside grammar school Tuesday was the pitcher plant. According to the current issue of the National Geographic, this plant, has a range of vernacular names wharacteristic of its widely distributed communities Huntsman's cup, and whippoorwill's boots are among the local aliases. Adam's pitcher, fever cup, small fox plant, fly trap, and side saddle flower, are other names. Many insects meet with death by drowning in the water that collects in the cups. The latest authority declares that the plant seems to have more need of nitrogen compounds than most flowers, and these its draws from the decaying bodies of the imprisoned insects. Several hundred species of carnivorous plants grow in this locality.

Dr. G. H. Jennings, health officer of the town appeared before the warden and burgesses at their meeting Monday evening to discuss the very important matte rof the disposal of the garbage collected by families. Especially during the summer it is a serious question fo revery housewife, the one fact that numbers of children are in the habit of visiting garbage piles every day, poking them over and carrrying away refuse food is a serious phase. The breeding of flies is another. The health officer advises the purchase of an incinerator which is not very expensive, and the collection of refuse once or twice a week. The borough officials say they must look at the expense necessarily incurred and how it should be met. It has already cost nearly twelve hundred dollars to employ five men and two trucks to remove the winter's collection of garbage. Many families would probably be willing to furnish a can and pay something toward the removal of disease-breeding refuse, and the proper disposal of it. Economy where health is concerned is not good judgment.

Capt. Will A. Dietrick, the first advance worker of Chautauqua is expected to arrive at Ashland club today (Wednesday) and be here two days. He comes in a Ford car, Henry the 11th, and has a powerful radio receiving set. He expects to give a camping demonstration to the Boy Scouts, and this evening give a public stereopticon lecture on The Immensity of the Universe taken from the microscope and the telescope. He has traveled all over the world, and is said to be a great character.

In connection with the annual home service appeal of the Salvation Army in Connecticut, a partial canvass for funds toward the maintenance and upkeep of the Army's rescue and social institutions, was made in Jewett City the early part of this year. The total amount received in this partial canvass, including contributions from Pachaug grange, Foresters of America and the Harmony club, amounted to $112.44. An effort is now to be made to complete the canvass and to give everyone in Jewett City a chance to help in this good cause. An authorized and uniformed representative of the Salvation Army will visit Jewett City in the course of the next few days or [illegible] everyone who has not yet contributed will have an opportunity t[illegible] E. PLAINFIELD

At 5 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Lillian Roode, her daughter, Dorothy Leota Roode was united in marriage with Albert Oscar DeMange, by Rev. William C. Prentiss, the double ring service being used.

The bride was gowned in white crepe de chine, and carried a shower bouquet of pink and white carnations, and bridal daisies. Her maid of honor, Miss Grace Smith, of Canterbury, was dressed in pink georgette, lace trimmed. The groom was attended by Clarence Fitch of Canterbury. The ring bearer was Morgan Mathewson, little nephew of the bride, and the flower girl was Frances McArthur.

Many guests from out of town were present at the wedding. The bride was presented choice gifts of cut glass, linen, electric lamps and silver. After coffee, cake and ice cream were served, Mr. and Mrs. DeMange left for a wedding trip through New Hampshire and Vermont. When they return they will reside with Mrs. Roode, mother of the bride.

Plainfield grammar school upheld its reputation as a school possessing a fast baseball team, when the nine defeated the Moosup Grammar school team, on the Carpet Grounds, Moosup, Tuesday afternono, 7 to 3. MANSFIELD CENTER

Memorial day services were held Friday morning in the cemeteries at Atwoodville, Spring Hill and at the old and new cemeteries in this village. A procession or Sons of Veterans, soldiers of the European war, Citizens and school children led by the standardbearer, marched to the music of fife and drums from Mansfield Center church, at ten o'clock, to decorate the graves in the two cemeteries here. Returning to the church at 11 a. m. there was an address by Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones. Melvin Nichols of Groton, the only veteran of the Civil war present, spoke briefly, of his experiences in the war, during a service of four years. The Gettysburg address was read by Miss Frances Crane and there were selections by a quartet, Axel Erickson, G. H. Wyman, Leslie Nichols and R. L. Stearns. The music of the fife and drums, Leslie Nichols of Groton and Messrs Walker and Todd of Conantville was also especially appreciated and added much to the spirit of the day.

Mrs. C. E. Perry motored to New York this week returning with Master William Perry and Miss Cora Reilley.

The Ladies' Aid Society is to meet this (Wednesday) afternoon with Mrs. Paul Benson.

The Beauty Spot of Canada. Is the subject of the illustrated lecture which Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones will give Friday evening.

At a metting of the directors of the Mansfield Library it was voted that the association as in former years sponsor a Fourth of July celebration. Rev. Mrs. Jones, was appointed chairman of the celebration.

RUM CASES OCCUPIED COURT IN PORTLAND

Middletown, Conn., June 3.—Two of the four New Haven men arrested yesterday charged with rum running were in Portland court today. The others will be heard Friday. Antonio Esposito was released as he declared he was a passenger only in Carmine Riolino's car.

Riolino was fined $200 and costs and given 30 days in jail by Justice of the Peace Ronan.

The state police caught another rum runner today, he being Antonio Muraca, 26, of New Britain, who in the Middletown court was found guilty and given 15 days in jail and fined $200 and costs by Judge Carl F. Anderson. Alcohol to the amount of 150 gallons was in the truck which, Muraca said, was owned by another New Britain car. The capture was made by Officer Thomas White, of the Hartford barracks on the Portland-Middletown bridge.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Community Picnic.

All those who are planning to attend the Community Picnic in Lowthrope Meadows on Friday June 6th, from 6 to 8 p. m. (daylight saving time) may not know the origin and history of its growth.

Miss Elizabeth Huntington, under the auspices of the Norwich Playground association sponsored the first Community Picnic in 1920. All parts of the city and town were represented. Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls and many sailors from the Submarine Base were among the 300 or 400 people who attended this first picnic, coming with their picnic baskets on foot, by trolley and automobiles.

All joined heartily in the out-of-doors singing led by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, from song sheets provided by the Girls' Community club "paid brough" an equally successful picnic under the same auspices. In 1922, the Playground association having been taken over by the city, the Norwich Rural association formed itself heir to the Community Picnic naturally enough, and since then the picnics have been successfully and enthusiastically conducted under its auspices.

Last year the spirited singing was led by Grosvenor Elv. then president of the association assisted by a volunteer quartette. It was the original plan of the picnic that anyone who wished might provide [illegible] making a group of [illegible] each group to bring its own supper. The original plan is followed to a marked degree.

While speaking of all happy Community Picnics which are so particularly a part of the Rural association's spirit and work, it seems fitting that we should remember that Lowthorpe Meadows where they are held each year, were given by Miss Emily S. Gilman and Mrs. Louise G. Lane, as an expression of their love of and good will toward the inhabitants of Norwich, in memory of their [illegible] Miss Marin Perit Gilman and their Lathrop ancestry, to be held as a free and open space for the public good, unincumbered by dwellings, barns, or any other building whatever, that there may be a pleasant place of recreation for the people of Norwich.

They have a refrigerator display that is worth seeing and values are worth looking into.

LARGER FARM CROPS WITH FEWER FARMS

Washington, June 3.—Larger farm crops are being produced with fewer farmers than ten years ago, the department of agriculture announced today, stating that farm labor had become 18 per cent more effective in crop production in the last decade.

Use of more and better machinery, saving of time by use of automobiles and better work by farmers and their families because of farm labor shortage and high wages were the chief causes to which the in ceased efficiency was attributed. Farm workers decreased more than 4 per cent in the last ten years while the mass of crop production increased about 13 per cent.

Deepening to seven [illegible] Fox river from Green Bay City, Wis., to Winnibago Lake, and extending for three miles the existing deep water channel from Green Bay to Green Bay City, at a total cost of $404,000, would be authorized under a proposal of the board of army engineers approved by the house rivers and harbors committee.

A Boon for Women!

The daily cleaning of rugs and carpets is no longer a task to be dreaded. With the modern vacuum cleaner—the non-electric Vacuette—all the work can be done—and done perfectly—in a few short moments.

And the Vacuette cleans both by brush and by full vacuum suction. It gets the surface lint and deeply embedded dirt—all of it. Best of all, it's always ready for use. No bothersome plugs or tangled cords—no heavy electric motor. So it's much lighter and easier to handle.

Its moderate cost will surprise you. Convenient terms, too, if desired. Our representative in your neighborhood will gladly show you Vacuette's effectiveness on your own floor coverings. Phone for a demonstration or USE THE COUPON.

Intensive discussion in a big way of American trade problems will characterize the National Foreign Trade Convention, which meets in Boston today for a three-day session. The opening address will be delivered by President James A. Farrell of the United States Steel Corporation.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

A very good programme of real acts and photoplays have been secured for the last half of this week at the Broadway theatre that is sure to draw capacity audiences.

The feature de luxe is James E. Morton and His Happy Family in a melange of songs, dances and comedy.

Mr. Morton has discarded chalk face and is appearing as his natural self. As natural he is funnier than au blanc. His travesty is keener, brighter, quicker and more enjoyable than ever.

Other star acts will also be on the same programme.

On the screen is seen the "White Sin," with Madge Bellany featured. If you saw the first Big Palmer photoplay, "Judgment of the Storm," you'll certainly want to see this second big Palmer photoplay. "The White Sin," for if there ever was a story true to life, and wonderously told upon the silver screen—"The White Sin" is that story. And the cast is great.

Breed Theatre.

In singing paeans of praise to "The Great White Way," the big picture of life in New York which is now playing to capacity twice daily at the Breed theatre, film critics and prize fight authorities have marvelled at the exceptionally realistic fight waged by Oscar Shaw, leading man of the photoplay, in the big prize fight scene. Many sporting authorities, including Tex Rickard, have contended that Shaw, had he chosen the ring, might have established himself as firmly as a boxer as he has behind the footlights. The actor's film battle with Pete Hartley, one of the leading contenders for the lightweight title held by Benny Leonard, achieves the acme of realism. Before being able to withstand the savage lunges and hard punches of the rugged Hartley, the actor-fighter had to undergo a rigorous course of training that lasted more than three months. Johnny Hennessey, well-known conditioner of fighters, was engaged to take the actor in tow. He immediately put Shaw through a regular professional course of training. When the fight scene was shot, Shaw was in perfect condition. Even Hartley admitted that the actor was a tough or tougher, than many professionals he had met. The prize ring scene is only one of the many spectacular episodes that have made "The Great White Way" the photoplay sensation of the season.

Palace Theatre

The engagement of The Fighting Blade, the magnificent romance of the Cromwellian era, in which Richard Barthelmess rises to greater heights than ever, comes to an end at Palace theatre today.

In this production John S. Robertson has contributed a notable achievement. To have missed it thus far this week is a matter to be regretted, but an opportunity which may be retrieved by attending one of today's performances. The picture is the first so far touching upon an era as significant to the British as our own war for Independence it to us—the revolt of the people, led by Oliver Cromwell, against Charles I, which laid the foundations for the present popular government in England, and because of this and the power of the story and its sincerity in detail, it is one of the most worthwhile pictures. Also Will Rogers in his best comedy The Cake Eater, Pathe News and Palace supreme orchestra.

Some persons prefer comedy as the piece de resistance of their motion picture bill of fare; many like pure romance; others confess a desire for adventure and hair-raising "thrillers." All of these classes will find their wishes fulfilled in Painted People, a First National picture featuring Colleen Moore, which is coming to the Palace theatre on Thursday for a three day engagement. Clarence Badger directed it from the Collier's Weekly story, The Swamp Angel.

The author, Richard Connell, is one of the foremost humorists of the day and he has supplied laughs without end.

Threading the footage is a love story of tender appeal—one that will be relished by every type of theatre [illegible] with Ben Lyon playing opposite the star.

An there are plenty of thrills, which include the stopping of a runaway horse and a sandlot baseball game. These elements combine to make [illegible] entertainment.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Upwards of $91,000, representing collections during April and May, was turned over to the town Tuesday afternoon, by Tax Collector James R. Walsh, who since taking office, late last fall, has made tax collections in excess of $120,000, a collection record that stands unqualified for a similar period in the history of Killingly.

Collector Walsh records to date are in exact balance with the rate book for the collections handled and with the local bonded records. The splendid record he has made represents a great amount of labor and attention to detail, long hours of hard work and conscientious effort. Mr. Walsh will not pause to rest upon the laurels he has won, but will continue consistently to obtain every available dollar owed the town on the list last completed and on previous lists. In carrying out this object he will be doing every taxpayer a favor, inasmuch as Killingly will not have to borrow money in anticipation of taxes, thus saving the interest charges which one may be compelled to pay for a further collection on the list made next year.

Harry Magoon, Killingly chairman of the drive for $100,000 for Windham house at Connecticut college, said Tuesday that the real effort to raise money in this town will get under way today. Following Monday afternoon's conference at the community house in Plainfield Killingly being represented at the gathering by a delegation of 13 Mr. Magoon was optimistic over the possibilities of the campaign and this feeling was shared by his co-workers, all enthusiastic for the success of the campaign in which they are engaged.

UP TO THE STATES.

Getting the child labor amendment through congress, even though a two-thirds vote was necessary, was not very difficult. It was accomplished with the same feeling on the part of the legislators that was manifested when congress passed child labor laws some years ago. The amendment [illegible] was the direct result of the court decisions faced by congress in enacting legislation along that line. When it was determined by the highest court in the land that the legislation adopted was unconstitutional and that congress was limited in its ability to pass such legislation, it was evident that the thing to do was to give it the authority it lacked. This is what the amendment is intended to do. When the ratification of the amendment by the states congress will then proceed to adopt legislation [illegible] restriction of child labor [illegible] to be inferred may be in keeping with the requirements under the laws that were declared unconstitutional.

The opposition to the amendment in congress may or may not indicate the opposition that will be raised in the various states when the question of ratification comes before the legislatures. There are states which are certain to refuse ratification. There are those that will hasten to give their approval and in others it can be expected that there will be a fight waged against the amendment because of the belief that it is a matter which should be left entirely for state regulation. The idea of asking the government if you can go to work is repugnant to many, while there is no small number who oppose the idea of giving congress authority to restrict employment up to the age of 18.

Congress has, however, done what it has repeatedly indicated its desire to do in the way of overcoming the attitude of certain states to child labor laws. The states will have the opportunity to say whether they will yield [illegible] upon the fight takes on new interest.

REWARDING THE FAITHFUL.

So many are the instances where the intentions of the person making a will are good, only to have them completely upset when it comes to the time for carrying them out, that it is interesting to note the plans of certain ones who have evidently noted the situation and figured to avoid it.

It was only a few days ago that a clothing manufacturer in Cincinnati announced the early turning over of his business to his employes as a reward for their faithfulness. Similarly the publisher of the Buffalo Courier and Enquirer has given stock to the value of $50,000 to 33 of his veteran employes who, he says, "helped me accumulate my wealth. For that reason I want to divide it with you. I have a half million dollars to split up with you and I want you to enjoy it while you are alive. I will not put it in my will . . . I am contributing a half million dollars now and I hope I may live to see the day that I can make it $1,000,000 more."

Much has been said in commendation of the advice which urges the scattering of flowers while a person is alive instead of waiting until they are dead. This same idea is employed in connection with the distribution of gifts not only while the giver is alive but while those for whom the distribution is intended are at an age and in condition to make the best use and get the benefit of such gifts.

The importance of guarding against the dissipation of such [illegible] which is done by putting [illegible] in trust. There is also much to be said in protecting estates [illegible] from the detrimental effects of reorganization by similar provisions, but the idea of making sure that those for whom these gifts were intended should get them is evidenced from the plan adopted. Contests are avoided and those who are considered worthy of such gifts not only get the benefit but have a chance to show their appreciation.

THE PARKING PROBLEM.

The increase in the number of automobiles is not only creating new problems on the highways in order to insure safety but it is necessitating what is referred to in some cities as new traffic regulations daily in order to overcome congestion.

A writer in the Philadelphia Ledger declares that the way to prevent congestion in the streets of that city is to stop parking. He advises, "Stop parking on all our streets; don't try to but STOP it and we will soon see this question of traffic congestion solved and the streets kept open for moving traffic—just what they were intended for."

The parking of cars is unquestionably the cause of much congestion and not a few accidents. Even in a city the size of Norwich it is repeatedly noted that half the width of the street is occupied by parked cars and in some instances where ordinarily four or five cars might pass abreast it is impossible for two cars to pass because of the violation of parking limits and the method of parking. The Philadelphia writer realizes that something must be done with the cars that are parked and he says, "Put the idle cars in vacant lots o rbuildings; when people used to drive their horses downtown they did not let them stand in the street but put them in a stable. Keep the idle cars and the empty taxicabs off the streets."

The parking problem is one that has not only bothered but is certain to cause steadily increasing trouble. The large number makes the situation much worse than it would have been had those in other days owning horses made it a practice to keep them in the streets from a half hour to all day.

Drastic is the remedy which the Philadelphia writer would apply in order to clear up a bad situation, but if that is the only way in which Philadelphia can accomplish it it cannot very well overlook the fact that congestion in the streets of a city must be prevented and if parking is the cause of it parking must yield.

PROPERLY TREATED.

The defeat of the McNary-Haugen bill must be regarded as the proper disposition of that proposed piece of legislation. Such action was forecasted and it was probably no surprise to the supporters of the measure by which it was sought to extend relief to the farmers of the northwest.

It was not because it was a farm relief measure that it was beaten, but because of what it undertook to do and the method of doing it. Advocated admitted that it would permit indulgence in questionable practices, that it would boost prices and prove more harmful than beneficial. Branded as unworkable, impracticable, expensive if operated, socialistic, a violation of all sound economic principles and the opening of the door to government purchase of all commodities the producers or makers cannot sell in the open market it created opposition by its own character and provisions.

This disposition of the bill does not necessarily mean the defeat of farm relief. It opens the way to the enactment of a sane measure that will eliminate the undesirable features of the bill that has been killed. The difficulty that has been faced in connection with a relief measure of this character has come from the unlimited and unwise demands. The way is now paved for action upon a compromise bill. The time is short in which to deal with it but even the vote upon the McNary-Haugen bill gives indication that no great trouble will be experienced in putting through a reasonable bill. Class legislation always invites opposition but it is sure of getting all the more when there are wild and dangerous provisions worked into it.

MUSCLE SHOALS.

Endeavors to force action upon Muscle Shoals at this session of the congress seem doomed to failure. This is one of the matters over which there has bee nno apparent desire to hasten a decision. It is one of the matters which was dealt with by the president in his message to congress but as yet no effort has been made to comply with his suggestion. Instead the fight seems to have centered on the Ford proposition with those advocating approval and others opposing without anything being reported concerning the merits of the other bids that have been made.

It was the suggestion of the president that Muscle Shoals should be disposed of, that such a proposition ought not to be allowed to remain idle, that consideration should be given to the production to be obtained quite as much as to the price and that a commission should be named to consider the details and report the result of their study for action.

The president's aim was to have the matter settled on its merits, td eliminate prejudice and to get down to business quite the same as a private corporation would if faced with the problem of the wisest disposition of such a valuable holding. Congress has done its best to play politics with this matter quite the same as it has with others. There is brought forth at the eleventh hour a committee report favoring government ownership. Such a report coming from the radical source it does fails to get a kindly reception and for the good of all concerned the sanest action on this matter will probably be obtained if it is put over to another time, even though it does mean delay.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Washington, D. C., June 3.—As all roads led to Rome, so now all roads lead to the two great national conventions, and no matter what question a newspaperman asks any person of political prominence the reply is sure to contain some reference to Cleveland or New York, no matter how far-fetched the query may have been.

Whether or not congress adjourns the 7th of June, there will be scarcely a baker's dozen prominent men of either party left in Washington.

Even now they are dropping out one by one, except those whose congressional duties keep them tied to the capitol till the last gun is fired.

Both parties will play for sectional preferences and prestige and the man selected for second place on both the major tickets will undoubtedly be selected to please the opposite faction or locality from which the president is selected.

That means a western man of somewhat progressive tendencies as the candidate to run with Mr. Coolidge, but until the votes are cast at New York and the fight over the head of the ticket settled no one can predict who the democratic vice presidential candidate will be. There is a good deal of talk about Carter Glass of Virginia getting second place if the presidential nominee comes from the west. Glass is a stout partisan, but somewhat more conservative than McAdoo, though not equal to Underwood in that respect. Should Underwood get the nomination, Glass is out of the running, but might stand a fair show with McAdoo or even Ralston.

More than 100 women delegates and 200 women alternates will attend the republican convention at Cleveland and the democrats have made practically the same allotment for their New York convention. If the 27,000,000 women voters of the country see to it that they all register and then vote at both primary and November election, they will cut a big figure in the results. If they do not assume the responsibility of aiding in selecting a candidate, they cannot justly find fault with who is elected or whether the election of city, town or state officials is to their taste.

But the main point, according to political leaders of both great parties is that women cling to the traditions or one or the other of the two major parties, instead of skidding down an untried path chasing will o' the wisps or following unknown leaders down roads whose ends they cannot see.

There are plenty of women talking politics this year, in organizations and otherwise, but unless they remember that politics is not a fireside game, but must be played at the polls, they will cut no figure in the November election.

A new shrine to American valor will soon be erected on the banks of the Potomac not far from the Lincoln memorial. It will be in honor of all Americans who have lost their life at sea, and will be a tribute to men and women who have gone down to death in ships since the creation of the navy and merchant marine. The monument will be of bronze and its estimated cost is $500,000.

Just where Bob LaFollette gets off is still a question that every one is discussing. Will he have the same influence over the insurgents throughout the country that he has over the insurgent element in congress? 'Tis hard to tell. LaFollette comes back to Washington "in his old vigor," say his friends—"physical wreck," say his enemies. That, too, is a hard matter to decide. He looks fairly well, but when a man of his age has recently undergone several major operations, had pneumonia within six weeks and before that had been in hospitals fully one-third of a year, it seems impossible that he is really "fit" for executive or legislative work at this moment.

But when LaFollette got to Washington after many months' absence the political fur began to fly without loss of time.

First he fixed things in the senate so to attemt to block adjournment before the conventions unless the senate yields to his demands on the Howell-Barkley bill which would do away with the labor board. That is one of LaFollette's pet schemes and in it he has the backing of the railroad brotherhoods, who will cast thousands of votes this fall. With that matter stirred to fighting pitch, he next sent for his right hand man in the house, who is Nelson of Wilconsin, leader of the insurgents in the house. With him the matter of the same bill was taken up, and other plans laid to beat out the nominal republican majority, should the test come this week.

Coalition will be the watchword, and it is not improbable that the same tie-up will come this week as occurred in the opening of the session, when the little handful of LaFollette men could balk all legislation, by keeping on the fence and preventing a majority vote, or by tying up with the democrats and putting the administration and regulars in a hole. LaFollette declares he will prevent adjournment unless his pet measures are passed this week.

"Stand by the president" is the announced policy and also the slogan adopted by Speaker Gillett of Massachusetts, who will leave the house and become a candidate for the senate, could equally be made the slogan of members of the Connecticut delegation, especially Tilson and Merritt, who have not failed once during the entire session to "stand by the president."

Mrs. Coolidge has lost none of her love of country life, and the old fashioned flowers appeal to her now just as much as when she was a little country girl in a New England small town. At the flower show this week Mrs. Coolidge admired the splendid roses named in her honor, but it was a clump of red clover, banked against a wall of gray, that showed its color to perfection, that won her heart. "I must have some clover like that in the White House gardens," said Mrs. Coolidge, "and I know just the corner where it will fit in splendidly." So Secretary of Agriculture Wallace is to see to it that the White House gets a plentiful supply for next year's blooming.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Responsibility for the disbursement of the soldier insurance bonus, one of the biggest tasks of its kind ever undertaken by the United States government, rests on the shoulders of Gen. Frank Hines, director of the Veterans' bureau. Gen. Hines is a retired army officer. He was the youngest brigadier-general in the regular army at the time he resigned to become associated with the Baptic Steamship Company after the war. During the war he was chief of the Army Embarkation Service and in that capacity directed both the movement of the army to France and return. He is a native of Utah and began his military career as a private in the National Guard of that state. During the war with Spain he distinguished himself in the Philippines and in 1901 entered the regular army as a second lieutenant of artillery. For his services in the world war he received both the army and navy distinguished service medals.

LEFT BEHIND

"I left my umbrella on the street cars yesterday," said the out-of-town customer. "It was raining when I left home and the wife said I had to carry the plaguey thing. I got it back all right, at the car barns, but I had to waste a lot of time trotting after it. You should see the junk they've got up there; it's a fright. I didn't suppose there were so many careless people in all the world."

"I've had to chase after a lot of things in my time," said Wilkinson.

"In my young days I used to have to travel around with a lot of cash in a bag," said the out-of-town customer. "It was for a pay roll and it was a big sum, so I was always having a fit for fear I'd lose it somehow. To this day I often dream that I've left it behind on a train or a street car and I wake up frightened almost to death. But they do not all carry their treasures around.

"My wife knows a woman and her only daughter," explained the customer, "who never leave their house at the same time. One or the other is always at home, because they have so much jewelry they are afraid to leave it alone. My wife thinks I am heartless because I say there will be lots of fun if a burglar gets in some day when one of those women is standing guard."

"Blessed be nothing!" laughed Wilkinson. "I often tell my wife that we have somethings we should be glad to lose."

"If you've ever tried to lose what you want to lose you can't lose," said the out-of-town customer.

"I threw away an old hat once," said Wilkinson, "and every time I cast it off somebody would bring it back to me, thinking it had blown off. It had my name in it, and I didn't think to tear it out until after it had come back several times. Finally I lost it for good and felt quite relieved. That occurred on a local train, where the racks overhead make it easy. People stick their packages up in a rack and nine chances out of ten they get off in a hurry and forget they have been carrying anything at all."

"Yet you simply cannot hold everything on your lap," said the out-of-town customer. "Especially if you are a surburbanite."

"A surburbanite has it easy," contradicted Wilkinson. "All he has to do is to impress on his mind that he always has something to carry and then he'll be safe. He may walk off with somebody else's package, but he won't mind a little thing like that."

"When I came up here the train was packed," said the out-of-town customer. "I was lucky enough to get a seat, for a man was kind enough to take a large package on his lap that had been on the seat and so let me sit down. After a while he got tired holding it and put it up in the rack, where he kept his eye on it even while we talked. He was a Chicago man who had been downstate on business and had taken a little time off to visit relatives. He had had a very good time and we had a pleasant visit about prospects and one thing and another. The fellow sitting opposite with his wife joined in now and then but usually was content to listen. It gives a man a pleasant sensation, by the way, to have somebody sit that way and just listen.

"When finally we reached this burg the Chicago man and I hustled off and were just shaking hands and saying good-by when the car window opened and the man who had had the opposite seat called to us. He was taking down his things from the rack and had found the other fellow's box that had been forgotten. As soon as he had attracted our attention he tossed it out on to the platform and went on gathering up his duds."

"Well," exclaimed Wilkinson. "That was vertainly kind of him."

"Depends on how you look at it," said the out-of-town customer, helping himself to a cigar. "That Chicago man was bringing that box home to his folks and it held three dozen eggs—until it fell on the platform."—Chicago News.

Lane's Years of Sacrifice

Franklin K. Lane worked hard at many tasks to gain an education and won a reputation for brilliancy, but during the greater part of his life, received small pecuniary compensation.

From Prince Edward Island where he was born in 1864, he was taken to Oakland, Cal., by his parents. Graduated from high school at 16, he worked as printer's devil and typesetter, then as reporter while making a record as one of the most brilliant students who had attended the University of California up to that time. He worked for San Francisco newspapers while studying law and later represented them as a New York correspondent.

Buying a half interest in a Tacoma newspaper when 27, he chased the professional gambler boss out of the city. He had just married, two years later, when the Tacoma boom burst. Selling his interest for just enough to take himself and his wife to California, he lived in San Francisco four years on a slender income from the law.

A gifted orator, he joined the reform forces of the Democratic party and framed the San Francisco charter designed to abolish bossism. Nominated for corporation counsel, so he could uphold the charter in office, he was unable to contribute the $250 which each of the other candidates gave to the campaign. It was humiliating, but he stayed in the fight and won by 800 votes. He was reelected by 10,000. Named for Governor in 1903 he carried San Francisco, but the republican south of the state beat him. Again he sacrificed himself for his party and was defeated for Mayor.

Meanwhile he had won the admiration of President Roosevelt, who made him a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Next an effective Secretary of the Interior under President Wilson, he left the office poor. Then as head of an oil company in New York, he was making money, and at the time of his death was honored as a writer, statesman and a man.

IN KANSU REGIONS

Curious peoples, lost tribes of early Asiatic migrations, were found in unmapped Kansu regions by a National Geographic Society expedition which made its way, in part, along the Yellow river aboard a raft of 72 yak skins.

Frederick R. Wulsin, leader of the expedition, reports principally upon the non-Chinese tribes of northeast China, but he mentions also blonde Chinese with curly, yellow hair.

In some localities mosques like pagodas, with towers for minarets, betoken the presence of Moslem settlements—remnants of Arab and Turkish penetrations of this long-deserted racial crossroads.

Most interesting of all the groups, from the standpoint of race history, are the "To Runs," a distinct population, whose name is a Chinese expression literally meaning "earth men," which is taken to mean aborigines, or natives. They flee from a camera as they would from a rifle, they seem to keep no track of their ages, the women frequently wear woodcutters' hatchets thrust in their girdles, their most cherished articles of adornment are earrings and a peculiar "head harness."

"I was informed that unmarried girls wear from 20 to 30 braids which hang loose all around; married women do their hair in a knot at the back of the head, covered with a little brass cap which is held in place by a harness of red or black cloth," Mr. Wulsin writes.

"What front and side hair is not caught in the knot hangs loose over the cheeks and shoulders. The harness in question consists of a cloth band which goes around the head at the height of the temples, and a central strip which lies on the top of the head, sewed to the first strip at the forehead and back."

The To Runs have their own language. It is not written, and its origin has not been determined.

A To Run house has a "built in" pigpen and stable. Its rooms are arranged around a tiny courtyard, at one end of the court is a mudfloor porch, and around the establishment is a mud wall, six or seven feet high.

Other non-Chinese groups noted by Mr. Wulsin are the Alashan Mongols, who inhabit the desert north of Kansu; the aforementioned Moslems, whose stronghold is in western Kansu; Tibetans, both nomad and sedentary, found principally around Kokonor lake and in the southwest of the province, and the so-called Choni Tibetans, who live along the Min Shan range on Kansu's southern border.

Women's invasion of industry, easy divorce, and even "free love," are far from modern ideas, as the customs of the Kansu Tibetans show.

"The women seem to do all the work; the men are idle at home," Mr. Wulsin writes. "In one place we visited the whole house seemed living because of our hostess, who was always on the run, smiling; first upstairs for fuel, then downstairs for cooking, to the valley for water once more to watch us. She nursed her baby at any spare moment. Her husband seemed merely a very idle boarder.

"Monogamy is the nomad custom, but married people can separate at will. Some women prefer not to marry; marriage means looking after a husband, and if their property is enough they can live the usual life of a nomad, bringing up any children they may have as a reult of passing attachments."

The Choni Tibetans retain their individuality partly because they inhabit inaccessible mountains. At their capital, Choni, on the Tao River, lives the hereditary Chinese ruler of 48 tribes of this people. He can levy taxes, quell rebellions, and administer punishment, but the Chinese say of him, "He has the pig's head, but cannot find the door of the temple." They imply that he is willing to give bribes to keep his position, but too many officials expect them, and he cannot tell which deserve the largest.

Mr. Wulsin's study of the province includes also extensive botanical and zoological observations. One tree he mentions, known locally as the "red birch" is a boon to traders. It has a shining, brown, papery bark which peels off in large, thin sheets which are used by Tibetans and Chinese for wrapping butter and other food articles.

Stories That Recall Others

Somebody Spoiled It.

In his three years, little Enoch has done very little riding at night. He had seen the full moon only a week before. It was while the family was out in the sedan that he caught sight of Luna nearing the first quarter.

"Who broke dat ball?" he demanded.

And If You Smile.

Despite the fact that he had been fined twice for drinking too much of a vicious brand of present day liquor the prisoner faced the judge for the third time. He admitted that he had been successful in the past in talking and smiling himself out of a sentence to the state farm, but he appeared puzzled when asked how he again happened to get drunk.

"Well, judge, it sort of slipped up on me," was the reply.

"Suppose we omit the farm sentence this time, what then?" the judge asked.

"Judge, I don't know what that word means, but I sure wish you would cross it off," he replied.

He escaped the sentence.

Buys His First Registered Ayrshires.

Christian Hansen of Norwich Town, according to information received from the Ayrshire Breeders' Association of Brandon, Vt., has purchased his first registered Ayrshires. He begins with this noted Scotch dairy breed when it is rapidly increasing in favor with dairy farmers. The calves are strong and healthy at birth and are easily raised so it will not be long until he has a whole herd of these red and white profit makers.

Gum Chewing Aids the Teeth

You have the authority of doctors and dentists for this statement. Your own experience will prove it, if you will use WRIGLEY'S after every meal.

The following quotations from a recent work on teeth and health are worth remembering:

"Dentists have found that the exercise of gum chewing brings about a better nutrition of the teeth . . . ."

"The cleansing action of the gum between the teeth helps to keep them free from the particles which lodge in the crevices and cause decay."

The busy man—or woman either—rarely has time to clean the teeth after eating. Yet they should be cleaned, and will do it. Also it will aid digestion and furnish welcome refreshment to mouth and throat.

WRIGLEY'S

INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE TO START IN NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 3.—The opening day of the Industrial Baseball league has been definitely set for today (Wednesday). The two teams that will open the league are the Connecticut Power and the newly entered Post Office nine. At a recent meeting of the Industrial league, it was decided to have but a four team league and the teams that will make up the league are the Connecticut Power, New London Ship and Engine, Post Office and Robert Gair.

At this same meeting the managers selected Bert Farrand of the Connecticut Power Co. plant to the position of president. Jack Russell of the New London Ship and Engine, vice president; secretary, Dr. A. B. Dawson; treasurer, John Masterson. With the league officers installed the Industrialites only await the opening date of the league. "Joe" Barry, sports writer for the Norwich Bulletin, was elected official scorer.

The Industrial league will play twice a week, on Wednesdays and Saturdays. It is the second league to join the twilight ranks in the city and another successful season is expected. The controversy that arose over the using of Morgan park has been successfully ended to the satisfaction of the City league, Church league and the Industrial league. The City league will have the use of the park on two days a week instead of three as was previously scheduled. The Church league will have the use of the park twice a week and the Industrial circuit will have it but twice a week.

The playing of Saturday games is somewhat tardy with the Industrial league. Last season the games were played on week-day evenings, but this season the Robert Gair team asked to have this team play games on Saturday afternoons only, due to the fact late evenings and twilight games hurt that the shop up the river is working the team will be impossible.

BULKELEY'S CHANCE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP IS GOOD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 3.—There were some unlooked-for upsets in the race for the state high school championship during the past two weeks. Only one team has emerged with a clean slate after the two weeks' play and that is Bulkeley. New Britain, Bridgeport, Crosby High of Waterbury, Wilby High of Waterbury, Ansonia, New Haven High (Commercial), Naugatuck, Hartford, Torrington and Meriden Highs have lost games in the past two weeks' campaign that puts these teams one to three games behind that of the Bulkeley High school nine.

New Britain during the past two weeks has put the quietus on several teams and among those teams that repose on that team's winning side of the ledger are the Bridgeport and Naugatuck High nines. Bridgeport was decisively beaten by a 7 to 1 score and Naugatuck lost by a 19 to 0 score to the New Britain nine. Hartford High and Gilbert High were both beaten by the New Britain outfit. But on the losing side of this team's ledger is the contest with Crosby High. New Haven Commercial High. New Haven Commercial High had one of the best chances for the state title until the contest with Bridgeport High a week ago. Bridgeport won this game by a 3 to 0 score and gave New Haven Commercial her first setback of the season. New Haven Commercial holds a 6 to 5 victory over Crosby High.

Bulkeley High of New London with a clean slate so far this season leads in the race for the crown. Bulkeley's victims number nine in this state and two out of the state. Bridgeport, Naugatuck and Torrington are three of the principal teams that have met with a defeat at the hands of the Orange and Black. This week's play will have an important part in declaring the winner of the high school championship. The other teams besides Bulkeley have important games scheduled for this week.

Crosby High of Waterbury is a strong contender for the title and will meet Bulkeley on Saturday in what will be the turning point for both teams. Crosby has an enviable record to date, and the victory this team gained over New Britain will stand out against that team. Only one high school team has found the measure of the Waterbury school and that is New Haven Commercial High. Wilby High, also of Waterbury, was eliminated early this season by successive defeats at the hands of both Naugatuck and Torrington High nines.

Bridgeport High by receiving a defeat at the hands of Crosby High, 2-1; New Britain 7-1, and Bulkeley by 8-3, is hopelessly out of it. Hartford High which had a clean slate up until the game with New Britain last week, lost to that team by a 7 to 4 score that almost eliminates that team. Meriden, Naugatuck, Ansonia and Torrington are occupants of the last four places in the standing in the order named. There is no hope for these teams to come up in the standing as they have lost almost the same number games that they have won, which is five.

WEDDINGS

O'Callahan—Heneault

At 9 o'clock Tuesday morning in St. Patrick's church Jerome H. O'Callahan of Hartford and Miss Eva M. Heneault, daughter of Mrs. Philip Heneaut of No. 77 Church street, were united in marriage by Rev. M. H. May, rector of the church. For fifteen minutes before the ceremony as the guests were assembling in the church, Prof. Frank L. Farrell gave a group of organ numbers, including the Sonata, First Movement, by Guilmant; Pastoral by Dethier and Spring Idyll by Storer. As the wedding party entered the church the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was played by Prof. Farrell and during the ceremony Orange Blossoms by Friml was softly played. As an offertory, Ave Maria by DuBois was sung by Mrs. Farrell. Prof. Farrell also rendered during the ceremony Largo by Dvorak, a Minuet of Prof. Farrell's composition and the Souvenir Nuptial by Tuner. The Wedding March, by Mendelssohn was the recessional.

Miss Genevieve McCormick of this city was the bridesmaid and the best man was Frank O'Callahan of New York, brother of the groom. The bride was beautifully gowned in sand colored georgette, trimmed with chantilly lace. She carried a shower bouquet of mixed flowers. The bridesmaid was also gowned in sand colored georgette, trimmed with lace and carried a bouquet of bronze roses and sweet peas.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Norwich Golf club. After thier wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. O'Callahan will be at home in a newly furnished apartment in the Mark Twain apartments, Farmington avenue, Hartford. The bride's traveling gown was a blue tailored suit.

The bride received numerous beautiful wedding gifts, including silver, money, furniture, etc.

Mr. O'Callahan is employed in the business department of the Hartford Courant. His bride is well known and popular with her many friends. She was born in Providence, but has made her home in Norwich for some years. Mr. O'Callahan is a native of Hartford and is the son of Jeremiah and Sarah J. Whalen O'Callahan.

Peck-Browning.

On the lawn of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cole Browning, Plain Hill road, Tuesday evening at 7.30, their youngest daughter, Miss Jessie Balfour Browning, was united in marriage with Olmsted Skinner Peck, son of Mrs. George Peck of Plain Hill road.

Under an arch of wisteria and laurel leaves the double ring service was performed by Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, pastor of the First Congregational church, Norwich Town, of which both bride and groom are members. Prior to the ceremony, "Oh, Promise Me," was rendered by Miss Lois A. Manning of Yantic, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Irwin, pianist. The Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was sung as a processional by Miss Manning, accompanied by Mrs. Irwin.

Preceding the bride was little Miss Betty Browning as flower girl and Master John Browning, ring bearer, niece and nephew, respectively, of the bride. The bride walked with her father who gave her in marriage. Her gown was of white crepe de chine trimmed with Spanish lace. She wore a veil with wreath of lily-of-the-valley and carried a shower bouquet of rosebuds and lily-of-the-valley.

The little flower girl wore a dainty frock of pale lavender and carried a basket of white flowers. The ring bearer was in a white sailor suit.

Following the reception a luncheon was served, the wedding cake being cut by the bride. During the luncheon Mrs. Irwin, pianist, and Miss Barbara Irwin, violinist, entertained with several selections; and "I Love You Truly," was sung by Miss Manning. The lawn was effectively decorated with Japanese lanterns.

The bride received many gifts, including furniture, gold pieces, cut glass, silver, linen, etc.

The bride's gift to the groom was a white gold stick pin with diamond setting and to the musicians silver bar-pins. To the little flower girl and ring bearer she presented rings. The groom's gift to his bride was a string of pearls.

Guests were present from New York, Providence, Bridgeport, Hartford, East Hampton, East Haddam, Ledyard and Colchester.

The bride's going away gown was a seal brown satin-faced crepe, with which she wore a tan flamingo coat with hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Peck left by automobile for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls. The bride is a graduate of Norwich Free academy, '16, and has taught in several of the surrounding towns.

The groom attended Bacon academy and has been in the real estate business in Hartford.

CLASS OF NINE GRADUATED AT BACKUS HOSPITAL NURSES SCHOOL

A class of nine nurses was graduated Tuesday evening at the H. H. Osgood Memorial parish house by the Backus Hospital Training School for Nurses. The parlors were beautifully decorated with cut flowers and there was a very large attendance of relatives and friends of the graduating class. With Charles A. Saxton, one of the corporators of the hospital, as chairman, the exercises opened at 8 o'clock. As the processional was played by Swahn's orchestra, the alumni, graduating class and student nurses took seats reserved for them. Following a selection by the orchestra the invocation was said by Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, pastor of the First Congregational church, all joining in the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. William Crowe Jr., was heard in an excellently rendered vocal selection, accompanied by Miss Olive Linton. Mr. Saxton introduced as the speaker Rev. William A. Keefe, rector of St. Mary's Memorial church, a corporator of the hospital.

Rev. Father Keefe delivered a splendid address to the nine graduates. I believe I bespeak the sentiment of the community when I express our sincere gratitude to you young ladies for the many services you have rendered, said Father Keefe. The word "service" is used continually, but how often the spirit of service is forgotten. If there is one place in the community where the spirit of service is put into active practice it is in the hospital. In a spirit of gratitude it is our duty to combine and serve those who have served us so well at the hospital. I believe that mingled with the spirit of congratulations and advice we might inject the word gratitude and The word service might be taken home and written into our mottoes. If we admire the nurses' work we must make their work easy, efficient and first class. The only way we can do that is in service for the hospital.

It was the spirit of service that inspired Fabiola in ancient Rome to create the first Christian hospital. It was the spirit of service that inspired the early hospitals. It was the same spirit of service that inspired the pope to institute the first city hospital. It was the same spirit that inspired those wonderful characters, the crusaders, in all their great undertakings. It was the spirit to service that inspired those wonderful characters, the Sisters of Mercy and Charity, that inspired Clara Barton and a great army of consecrated women to build up 600 hospitals and to care for, as nurses, no less than four millions of people a year.

Service inspired all those wonderful characters who in the days of the World war became leaders of that wonderful army, the Red Cross. The young ladies who are leaving the hospital tonight will be called upon in many departments of work. They carry the spirit of service not only in the sick room, and in the hospital but they will go into our schools to give our children advice and into the factory districts to carry their message of love and kindness. They are the link that binds the classes together. They know no creed nor color nor racial distinctions. No danger is too great for the nurse who is worthy of the name of nurse.

To the graduating class Father Keefe said in closing: We thank you for the service you have already performed and we pray Almighty God that He may bless your work that you may serve during many happy years.

After a selection by the orchestra Mr. Saxton presented the diplomas to the members of the class. As each graduate received her diploma she was presented a large bouquet of flowers. A vocal selection by Mrs. Crowe was followed by the presentation of the class pins and companion cases, gifts of the executive board of the hospital, by Judge Arthur F. Libby.

The class was presented two large and beautiful baskets of flowers, one the gift of Mrs. Harry E. Higgins and the other the gift of Mrs. Edward J. Brophy. Miss Kathleen A. Dowd, superintendent of the nurses' training school, was also presented a basket of flowers, the gift of Mrs. Harry E. Higgins. A selection by the orchestra brought the exercises to a close, after which a reception was held at the Wauregan House ball room.

There were about 300 at the graduation exercises last evening proving an enjoyable one for all present. During the evening refreshments were served by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Backus Hospital.

The members of the graduating class are Amy Bergman, Lucy Bolton, Mary Nelson, Winifred [illegible], Dorothy Noyes, Alice [illegible], Ruth L. Morgan, Norma [illegible], Hettinger, Nora [illegible], Ruth E. Sweet, Nora [illegible], Doris E. Bailey.

The [illegible] of the Backus Hospital Trustees [illegible] of the hospital.

Friends of the hospital loaned the use of their machines to transport the graduates and nurses to and from the hospital.

The class supper was held Monday evening at the Mohegan hotel, New London. The menu was as follows:

Salted Nuts Olives
Celery Radishes
Clam Bullion
Croutons
Broiled Salmon, Lettuce
Baked Potatoes
Mashed Potatoes Creamed Spinach
Asparagus Tartare Sauce
Cucumbers Cake
Strawberry Ice Cream
Small Cakes
Coffee

Dr. Edward J. Jacobs, Dr. J. W. Callahan and Charles A. Saxton hosted the supper and were the guests of honor.

WILL RECEIVE PHEASANTS FOR DISTRIBUTION HERE

A request for pheasants for distribution here has been made to the state fish and game commission by the Norwich Fish and Game association has been acknowledged and the pheasants are expected.

A large consignment of trout fingerlings is expected soon by the Norwich Fish and Game Association from which eleven brooks in this vicinity will be stocked.

It will be of interest to fishermen to know that two brooks in this vicinity that had formerly been closed by posting are now open.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. John Cussins, of San Francisco, are week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Connor of Washington street.

Miss Flora Hall has been in New York this week to meet her niece, Mrs. Bruce Clark and child, who were returning from Nassau.

Mr. and Mrs. Eben Learned and Miss Constance Learned have returned from a week-end stay at their cottage at South Chatham, on Cape Cod, following a motor trip to Hanover, Mass., and a visit with Eben Learned, Jr., at Phillips Academy.

Fifteen members of Faith Trumbull chapter motored to Windsor Tuesday for the annual state meeting and picnic outing of the Oliver Ellsworth association, at the Ellsworth homestead. The officers who led the local pilgrimage were Mrs. George A. Ashbey, regent, Mrs. Albert S. Comstock, treasurer and Mrs. R. D. Judd, corresponding secretary.

NORWICH ENGINEERS ASS'N HAS DISTINGUISHED SPEAKERS

The Norwich Association of Engineers held an open meeting in Buckingham Memorial hall, on Saturday evening, May 31st. Among those present were: Dudley G. Kimball of Boston, national vice president, William J. Reynolds, of Hoboken, N. J., national trustee, George W. Knowlton of The George W. Knowlton Rubber Co., Boston, manufacturers of rubber packing for steam appliances, William B. Hawk, a representative of The Valvoline Co., Fred C. Satorious of New Haven, president of the Connecticut State Association, William Schurk of New Haven, president of the New Haven association, Elmer Thomas of New Haven, ex-state boiler inspector, also ex-chairman of the educational committee, P. J. Bresnahan of Waterbury, chief engineer for the Waterbury board of education.

John A. Holland of this city was chairman of the meeting and before introducing the speakers, spoke of the aims, and objects of this association and said it was the duty of every power plant man, whether he be fireman, engineer or electrician, to join this association. He outlined the benefits derived therefrom and said the educational work alone was very valuable as every man in the engineering field must keep abreast with the times if he wants to hold his job.

In introducing the [illegible] of the evening, Mr. Holland said that he had the honor of representing the Norwich association at the national convention which was held in Des Moines, Iowa, in September, 1922. He had the pleasure of meeting a man at this convention who was a candidate [illegible] [illegible] wished all members to try and swell the membership of the association by trying to get new members to join.

Mr. Holland introduced William J. Reynolds of Hoboken, N. J., national trustee as the second speaker. Mr. Reynolds spoke at length on the good and welfare of the association, also spoke of the good which was derived from the periodical called the National Engineer, which [illegible] monthly. He also said that it is not new for him to visit Eastern Connecticut, as he was born in New London, went to school with the late E. E. Mahan, and that he visits New London frequently and has several friends and relatives in that place.

Fred C. Storious of New Haven, president of the association was the next speaker. Mr. Satorious spoke on the growth of the Connecticut State [illegible] and also spoke of the good which was derived from the [illegible] Mr. Holbrook was a same [illegible] hard work and study will [illegible] director of engineering [illegible] for five years. He said Mr. Holbrook was a [illegible] and study will [illegible] director of engineering [illegible] for five years.

BUSY TIME PLANNED FOR CAMP TIPPECAN

The fourth season of the Norwich Council Boy Scout camp at Lake Tippecan, opening July 7 at Camp Tippecan, has been planned during the spring months to give scouts an instructive and enjoyable season.

The camp committee for Camp Tippecan under the chairmanship of Harry E. Prentice, assisted by the [illegible] efficient members, have made plans with Scout Executive P. A. Bell to make the fourth season better than ever.

George T. Briggs of Yantic has kindly placed the camp site at the disposal of the scouts and has extended his usual courtesies to the boys.

Many applications for camp have been received and scouts from [illegible] ville, Jewett City, Willimantic, etc., as well as scouts from home troops have already been enrolled.

F. A. Benton, the scout executive will be camp director, assisted by Victor Davis, Alfred Haring, Albert Rodgers, Lee Talbot, F. J. Benton, Jr., Jack Houston and Cook John Jenks.

Harry Jordan of East Holden, Me., has been secured to instruct the boys in the manufacture of real bows and arrows, pack baskets, and various other articles of scoutcraft. The council is to be congratulated on securing Mr. Jordan, a man of the Maine woods, who has had all kinds of experience as a hunter and camper. The scout will be fortunate who may be instructed by him.

Last year a log lean-to was constructed and a log cabin will be built alongside the old stone chimney of the ruined farm house right on the camp grounds. President George F. Ingalls has consented to furnish considerable building material for this work from his lumber operations.

Scouts will have an opportunity to learn construction.

Boating, hiking, swimming and over-night trips are some of the many things that will make up the program. Mr. Smith of Norwalk, Conn., bird lecturer of the State Fish and Game association, will visit the camp and give lectures and bird hikes. Captain Carroll L. Bryant of the National Red Cross Life Saving Corps, is expected to visit camp and give a demonstration in life saving. Further activities and scout work will be included in the program.

All red-blooded Scouts who desire to join a real scout camp, organized and conducted laong plans providing for their comfort, pleasure and instruction, will need to register before the capacity of the camp is reached.

There is to be a civil service examination for physicist, associate physicist and assistant physicist (to July 1) in the bureau of standards, Department of Commerce, at the following salaries: Physicist, $3,800 to $5,000; associate physicist, $3,000 to $3,600; assistant physicist, $2,400 to $3,000.

ACADEMY STAGES STRONG COME BACK AND DEFEATS WINDHAM HIGH 12 TO 5

Playing in a form entirely the reverse of that which characterized their playing last week the Academy team tore into Windham High at Willimantic Tuesday afternoon and handed them a beating that made them a sadder and wiser team. If Windham thought they had an easy time ahead because of the showing the Academy made against Bulkeley they were away off, for the final score favored the Academy 12 to 5, and only the brilliant playing of Windham held the score to that low figure.

McNamara for the Academy was a shining light and found his batting eye after a search of one week. "Mac" socked the pill for two long triples, and two [illegible] singles in six trips and he was closely followed by Burke who counted a double and a single. Segal on the mound for the Academy, pitched a fine game and had Windham at his mercy all the way.

His support was [illegible] while Demarest for Windham had ragged support during the four innings he stayed on the mound, being driven to the bench after a shower of hits that rained up in runs for the Academy. After the fifth Windham tightened up and held the remaining innings held the Academy to two tallies.

The change in the Academy play exhilarated fans and the boys came in for a cheer at the end of the game which showed that the old Academy fighting spirit was in the boys, and, that although [illegible] was a prodding to [illegible] the slump into which they had fallen.

With the Windham game safely [illegible] Academy team is now looking forward to the championship of the school league and with plenty of "pep" [illegible]

BULKELEY WINS SLOW GAME FROM STONINGTON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 3.—Bulkeley [illegible] its winning way [illegible] afternoon [illegible] Stonington High at [illegible] a heavy hitting [illegible] was continued and a total of eighteen safeties were made by the Orange and Black batsmen [illegible] of 25 bases. There was no doubt at any one time what the final outcome of the contest would be. The state champions began their run [illegible] early and kept up piling the runs until the total reached the high mark of 22.

The Bulkeley batsmen hit Emmett, the Stonington pitcher, with everything except the bleachers and Gumps Mahan's Studebaker. They found little difficulty in banging his offerings for long and short drives and with [illegible] steal [illegible] a game in which showing a man here and there to get on the bases without an attempt to [illegible] Almost everybody on the Bulkeley team connected for one or more hits.

Three pitchers were used by the [illegible] pitchers in their order of appearance were Dazzy Bo[illegible] Gene Montall and Tillie Daniels. Either one of these moundsmen could have kept the Brown and White batters under subjection but the Bulk[illegible] [illegible] good [illegible] Daniels was on the mound he allowed no hits and in other ways made himself agreeable to the Bulkeley cause; Montall was also in good condition as was Daniels.

With the beginning of the fourth inning, substitutes began to take the places of the regulars on the Bulkeley team, otherwise the total made by the Orange and Black would have been much larger.

Gaetano with two triples and a single out of five times at the plate was one of the two leaders with the willow. Booth had a triple, double and two singles out of five times at the plate. Pupillo led the Stonington batters with two singles. The score:

STARS COME FROM BEHIND AND WIN, 8 TO 3

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, June 3.—For five innings the Corticelli Silk Co., team played in real championship form and gave the Fort Trumbull Stars all the opposition this team was looking for. However with the beginning of the sixth the Silk makers began to throw the ball all around the lot and looked anything but a champion team. The final score was 8 to 3 in favor of the stars.

Corticelli used two pitchers, Posick and Chappell. Posick was on the mound for five and a third innings and then retired in favor of Chappell. Even behind the pitching of Chappell the Corticelli team played anything but faultless ball and the stars had no difficulty in piling up a large score for the seven innings of play.

Johnson, who was on the mound for the Stars twirled a good game throughout and held the hard hitting Corticelli crew to six hits. These hits were pretty well scattered throughout the seven innings of play and Johnstone had the distinction of being the first man to twirl a victory over [illegible]

The game was not played until the [illegible] and it was anybody's contest. [illegible] Stars took advantage of several opportunities to score in the late innings and piled up a total of five runs. Besides pitching a good game, Johnston had a triple to show for his evening's work. Emery had two hits out of four times at the plate.

BROWNS LOSE FIRST GAME TO BOSTON

St. Louis, June 3.—Urban Shocker was batted from the box in the fourth inning and St. Louis dropped the first game of the series here today to Boston. The score was 8 to 7. The game finished in a succession of batting rallies by both teams, which held the result in doubt. Boone, Harris and Sisler pounded home runs. Manager Lee Fohl of the Red Sox, former manager of the Browns, was presented with a diamond ring by the players, prior to the opening of the game. The score

HOW LEADERS IN CONGRESS ACCEPTED PRESIDENT'S CRITICISM OF THE TAX BILL

Washington, June 3.—Democratic leaders in congress today accepted President Coolidge's criticism of the tax bill in the statement he issued yesterday upon signing it as "unjust to the [illegible] and to the [illegible] revision of the tax laws."

Both Chairman [illegible] of the senate finance committee and Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee, who [illegible] the bill, declared that while the tax measure did not contain all he desired, it was a step in honest tax reduction that will give substantial [illegible] relief to all classes of taxpayers. I interpret the attitude of the president, nevertheless, as more one of disappointment [illegible] of the Mellon plan than [illegible] to the measure he now [illegible]

The statement is accepted as a declaration by the president of an electoral issue, and in this regard it is considered likely that if a republican congress is elected and Mr. Coolidge returned to the White House, he will call a special session of the new congress after next March 4.

It is generally considered that the president's tax declaration, with Representative Garner, Texas, [illegible] the democratic tax fight in the house, suggested "the president has experienced a feeling of regret" [illegible] regards the new tax law because rates were written by democrats and supported by democrats [illegible] broad and liberal-minded [illegible]

"I do not," Mr. Garner said [illegible] could much more [illegible] accurately have taken [illegible] that while the tax measure does not contain all he desired, it [illegible] step in honest tax reduction that will give substantial [illegible] relief to all classes of [illegible] taxpayers. I interpret the attitude of the president, nevertheless, as [illegible] more one of disappointment [illegible] of the Mellon plan than [illegible] to the measure he now [illegible]

[illegible] I want to say right [illegible] all have done fine in [illegible] My sister has been very [illegible], and I must not overpraise [illegible] letters from Rutherford. [illegible] written me from the convent and she writes a good letter, too. All in all, I guess I received my share, and I always look forward to getting [illegible]

There will be but two more [illegible] where mail will reach me and [illegible] is Yokohama and Honolulu, and then the shooting is all over.

The last time I wrote to you was after we had left Shanghai. The train for Peking went out under guard, because of the robbers who had been rendered bold by the war, which was then going on in certain sections of China. Only a week before they held up a train, looted it, taking all the money from the passengers, and one man was killed.

The traveling in China at this time of the year is enhanced by the bloom of the wild cherry, apple and peach blossoms, and the glorious yellow of the Chinese cabbage made beautiful the landscape. The last named flower, which the English call the rape and the Chinese know as Chinese cabbage, is like our mustard bloom in color and is beautiful from a distance. Enormous fields of it, side by side with meadows of red clover, look[illegible] huge paintings from the window of the train.

[illegible] were a sad lot when we reached Japan [illegible] the morning we [illegible] whispered [illegible] that one of our passengers [illegible] Mr. Jonass—who [illegible] joined us [illegible] Rangoon—had passed away during the early morning hours. A Japanese undertaker was on hand with an [illegible] an motor hearse and poor Mr. [illegible] was removed. He was buried [illegible] the Masonic Temple on Sunday [illegible] very impressive [illegible] that same day, unbeknown [illegible] we were going [illegible] [illegible] our boat was [illegible] as another [illegible] was very low. [illegible] afternoon that our boat puts [illegible] into the harbor of Kobe was [illegible] afternoon that we were in the beautiful Inland Sea. I tried to describe this sea to you in my last [illegible] We arrived in Japan [illegible] was unrest, due to the [illegible] exclusion [illegible] [illegible] Labor [illegible] chronic [illegible] [illegible] conditions, have [illegible] discrimination and the [illegible] [illegible] national self respect [illegible] [illegible] reason for resentment. Japan points with pride to the [illegible] within 65 years she has risen [illegible] nation to one of the world's first class powers. Personally, I would not like to give an opinion on this subject, but I do want [illegible] that Japan does not allow the [illegible] land by Americans, but [illegible] from us for her people [illegible] only 19,500 foreigners [illegible] 500 of whom are Chinese, [illegible] British and 1,800 are Americans. Even the Y. M. C. A. which [illegible] good for them, cannot own [illegible] erect their property on [illegible] and on a very precarious [illegible]. This unrest had a tendency to lower the rate of their money [illegible] yen normally, is around 50 cents, but, during our stay we bought [illegible] low as 28 cents. Mr. Cadden [illegible] National City Bank of [illegible] some money on his [illegible] credit, and as he turned it [illegible] to the dapper young American [illegible] Charlie Chaplin mous[illegible] on his lip, he said, "Are you not [illegible] Well, of course, Cadden [illegible] deny that fact and he [illegible] "Who are you?" Cadden inquired, and he said his name was Ralph Standish. He was formerly of Hanover, Connecticut, and had gone to the N. F. A. to school and had many times been in The Plaut-Cadden company's store on errands for his father, who then kept a general store in Hanover. He was really pleased to see us both. He said we were the first people from home that he has seen since his coming to the Far East. He said he had seen Wyman Carroll's name on the passenger list of the Laconia, but when he went to look him up Carroll had gone.

As far as the prospects of a war between Japan and the United States goes, they advance the argument that war with the United States would be suicidal, in that it would largely cripple her commerce. More than one-third of all her products are exported to the United States, together with 70 per cent. of her raw and manufactured silk and practically all her tea. While this sounds feasible, it did not deter Germany from a war on the allied powers. Well, am not qualified to give any opinion. What I write is what I observe and what I hear. The Japs that I have come in contact with are all right—good, sensible, hard thinking pople and have failed to see a lazy one.

Shopping Is Great Attraction

The people on our boat and Cadden and his two sisters think more of shopping than they do of seeing Japan. Of course, Japan specialties in cloisonni, screen, carved ivories, embroideries, fans, handpainted ornaments, kimonas and fancy coats, as well as every form of article where artistic handiwork is essential, and I guess the Caddens have bought some of everything. What a bunch or assortment they have accumulated and I must admit I am just as bad, but I have quit now. Cadden bought for the stores china of a very exclusive pattern in Kobe and many other things.

Wherever you go on the train they search for tobacco. (The custom authorities, I refer to.) Tobacco has a duty of only 355 per cent., except on 50 cigars and one hundred cigarette to each person. No merchandise is admitted into Japan without duty, but personal baggage is not examined. In 1920, I was told, there were 133,000 Protestant church members, and 76,000 Roman Catholics, and that the Japanese contributed $750,000 for general religious purposes. One thing, Ed, I must say about them is that they are devoted to their families and they are lovers of education. One needs to see the Jap in his own environment, picturesquely garbed, toiling cheerfully, and merrymaking in the open on holidays and festivals. One thing he seems, thought, is too d— polite, and that looks dangerous to me, but his manners and his etiquette is of the highest standard. It has been said of the Japanese that they are "great in little things and little in great things." Everything in Japan is on a small scale. The people themselves are small. They live in little houses and engage in little enterprises. Minnye asked our courier one day why they were all so small in stature, and he said it was because they always sit on the floor, the homes have no chairs, and the children who have always been raised abroad develop into large men and women. Their joys are simple enough. They delight in simple forms of natural beauty, such as going to see the cherry blossoms in bloom. They are carefree, even to excess. They never worry. In other words, they don't seem to have any nerves. The morals and social ideals of the Japs are said to be unmoral rather than immoral. Every city has its extensive Yoshiwara quarters, and I tell you, its a wide open country, but on te other hand they do not consider what they are doing a bit wrong.

Japanese Pullman Car.

The rikisha is literally a Pullman car, originated here by a missionary, in order that he might take around with him his invalid wife. There were—before the earthquake last September—about 35,000 of these rikishas in Tokio alone. Rutherford, I know, would enjoy a ride in one of these. The human horse is called a Kurumayu.

The Jap does not hesitate to ignore patents. They will go as far as to stamp goods made here with the American name and maker. The story that Chinese are used in banks, because the Japs are dishonest, is denied by them, naturally.

The cherry is the king of flowers and the symbol of virility. During cherry blossom time, the Japs are at their gayest. We were indeed fortunate in having our cruise timed so that we would be here in Cherry Blossom Time.

The Geisha girls that you warned me about are merely waitresses of an artistic design, combining dancing and singing with the serving of tea, appearing in showy silks and marvelous coronets of hair (no bobbed hair here). Usually their hair is their chief asset and as much in evidence as their fans. Unfortunately, they have sometimes, although not always, degenerated into immorality. The dance includes advancing, retiring, wheeling, rising, kneeling, and whatnot. A few of them marry and the rest are lost to view. As the guide expressed it, "Ask us whither goes the last year's autumn leaf or last year's fans."

Famous Nara Temples.

We took a train and rode for three hours to beautiful Nara, which is famous for its temples and its Buddhas. The description of the temples, which I have written to you so often, goes here as well. Almost everyone knows of the huge sitting Buddha here, eleven hundred years old, black, fifty-six feet high, with two immense gold Buddhas on either side and eighteen or twenty others and smaller ones around him. He sits on a lotus leaf, is made of bronze, but has thousands of dollars' worth of gold in his admixture. There is also a five story pagoda here with a wonderfully toned bell. It stands under a pine tree and fills anyone who sees it with wonder. What impressed me the most was the Deer Park. It is related that the founder of Nara rode up the mountain on a deer to choose a place for his home, and that on this account the deer has been protected and petted animal ever since. There were nearly a thousand dappled fallow deer. Some of them were so extremely tame that they followed people about, "nosing" them for food. At the sound of a bugle, they come running from all directions to be fed and they will eat out of the hands of tourists who have provided themselves with their favorite cakes.

At the temple they put on for us the sacred dance, which consists of short, slow, rythmic steps, forward and backward, each dancer waving a fan and a cluster of tinkling bells, from which hang long strips of bright colored silks. Near this temple is a live white horse, regarded as sacred and it is pampered with delicacies. At the edge of the town was a large sacred pond, filled with tortoises and carp. The hotel here at Nara is a very modern structure, with 70 up-to-date rooms. A performance was put on for us. The programme will explain it all and I am enclosing it.

Say, Ed, I was just handed a bunch of letters. Gee, but doesn't it make you feel good? Here there will be an intermission for a few minutes.)

Well, I read them all and I feel fine now. I was sorry to hear that Professor Geer and Mrs. Gale had passed away.

Rule Brittania.

The day I was in Nara an Englishwoman, one of those aristocratic kind, went up to the leader of a Japanese orchestra and asked them to play "Rule Britannia." I overheard it all and she was delighted and came back to the table all elated and said, "Now we will hear a real piece," and what do you think they played for "Rule Britannia?" Well, they played, "Yes, We Have No Bananas." She was sore.

We left the boat one bright day for Kioto (some spell it Kyoto). By the time we reached it we were thoroughly imbued with the spirit of these very little people, certainly the most industrious on the face of the earth. Dainty, exquisite, and always courteous as they are, however, the foreigners go about with a feeling of uneasiness. Even in the hotels, which are not Japanese (I stayed but once in a strictly Japanese hostelry and it was really a monastery), the partitions were naught but little screens. No matter where we stayed, we could hear them sliding softly in the night, and we were never without the feeling of being gazed upon. A lady friend told us that we were looked upon more often—far oftener—that we were aware of—that as she one day stood ready for her bath, she was looking into the water into which she was about to plunge, when a voice from somewhere said, "Lady, that water is not meant to get into, but to be poured over you."

We certainly saw and bought many pretty things in Kioto. Lacquer work, silks, Kano screens, etc.

These were the things we had dreamed of seeing in Japan and our dream was coming true.

We saw here two or three brides of the wealthy class. They were always dressed in kimonas, one white, one red and the third of some darker color always. These are called ceremonial robes and are as costly as the bride can afford. Unlike our brides, she never keeps her wedding gown. She never wears it but once. Some of these beautiful robes may be purchased and several aboard bought them.

Japanese Holidays.

As I said, they have a lot of holidays and festivals and Shinto processions, where they all get drunk on Sake, the Japanese drink. These Shinto holidays last several days. Whenever a feast is going on, the city—the whole country, in fact—is decorated with flags and banners and beautiful things. One of the most conspicuous and beautiful of their banners is that of the fish. The carp is sacred in Japan. Its life is held up as a model for the young and they make a lot of ceremony over the sacred carp. Therefore the fish banners are used in commemoration and to fire the imagination of the young. We first saw and admired these lovely banners in Kobe. They range from the tiniest toy size to a monster fish. They form a riot of color—red, green, yellow, blue, purple, pink, and sometimes the combination of all these shades is to be found in the same banner. The reason the carp is held as a model to the Jap youth is because it is game fighting fish. It always swims against the current.

Kioto is by far the most interesting city we saw in Japan. It is called the Rome of the country. Its people are the most thoroughly Japanese of any that we saw. Its temples are superb and there is refinement and art on all sides. The Imperial Palaces and the Buddhist temples are of the very highest type, while the metal work, fans, dolls, silks, and other stuffs seem finer than elsewhere. The streets are clean, and regular. We revelled in its bazas. The Imperial Palaces are superb, some of the doors costing as mucht as a hundred and sixty thousand dollars each. The most venerated temple here is a Buddhist one, called "Ki yomizu-dera." It is sacred to the Goddes Kwan-non, goddess of mercy. The view from the hilltop is worth going miles to see. Two big bronze lions guard the entrance. We certainly enjoyed our two days in Kioto and regretted when it was time to leave.

Well, in my next letter, Ed, I will write you about our trip to Osaka and Yokohama, Nikko and Tokio. I guess all the mail has reached us. Tell Rutherford I heard he had a blac eye from fighting and that won't do. I am enclosing the programme of The Miyako or Cherry Dance for 1924. The dance is performed every night during the month of April only, as that is Cherry Blossom time.

Here's hoping I see you all soon with regards to all, I am as ever, fi 4 D.

President Coolidge recommended to congress the appropriation of $1,750,000 for the purchase or construction of buildings at Tokio to house the American embassy and consulate.

Such popularity must be deserved

OLD records to break, new ones to make! Grilling tests of speed, stamina, power! And for the winner—popularity, hard-won and deserved.

So with everything else. To win popularity even a cigarette must deserve it. Chesterfield, for example, has long been winning an average of over 1000 smokers a day.

One thing alone—Chesterfield's better taste — can account for such popularity.

PEQUOT CASINO LIQUOR CASE IS ON TRIAL

At the re-convening of criminal [illegible] perior court in New London [illegible] Christopher L. Avery on the [illegible] re-trial of [illegible] John J. Carney et al [illegible] Acting State's Attorney [illegible] Troland introducing [illegible] witnesses for the state.

Carney, who during the months of June, July and August of last [illegible] conducted the Pequot Casino as a [illegible]ing salon and dance hall, is [illegible] to have held liquor for sale, and [illegible]tained a place reputed to be a [illegible]ling where liquor could be [illegible] in viloation of the 18th amend[illegible]

According to witnesses heard Tuesday the place was raided on August 31, 1923, by federal, state and [illegible]lice, acting upon a search warrant issued by Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin. At the time of [illegible] the state alleges that a quantity was purchased by a federal [illegible] from Torrington, who was at the camp ground with the [illegible] He purchased the liquor at the request of Joseph P. [illegible] federal enforcement agent [illegible]

Immediately following the sale the place was raided by [illegible] of officers in charge of Sergeant Samuel Hick of the local police department and including in the [illegible] federal Enforcement Agents Phillips, Harry Avery and County Detective William E. Jackson and W[illegible] Lewis.

Federal Enforcement Agent [illegible] T. Manteffel of Torrington was [illegible] called to the witness stand by Assistant Attorney Troland after Donnell Campbell of 330 Huntington street, testified that he, as secretary of the Pequot Casino, Inc., had leased the property known as the Pequot [illegible] to Carney.

Manteffel testified that at the request of Fitzpatrick he had gone to the casino and asked the waiter if he sold any liquor. The waiter stated that it could not be purchased as a drink but that it was possible to obtain it by the bottle and would send the head waiter to him.

When approached by the head waiter, Manteffel testified, that individual asked what he wanted and he [illegible] A quart of gin was purchased by him, witness testified, and he paid the sum of $10 for it. Manteffel, in answer to a question from Attorney C. Curtis Morgan, counsel for Carney, stated that he was here on a tour of [illegible] and general reputation of the place. He also stated that he had warned Carney on the evening [illegible]

County Detective William E. Jack[illegible] [illegible] and testified [illegible] [illegible] Lewis [illegible] [illegible] Baldwin [illegible] [illegible] Montville [illegible] Daniels, [illegible] Waterford and J. Lee Beebe of East Lyme.

President Coolidge transmitted to congress a request for $125,000 for [illegible] and preventing forest fires as a supplemental item for the department of agriculture.

WESTERLY

That the Westerly plant of the American Thread company, known as the William Clark mill, closed indefinitely Tuesday night, means that the 300 operatives will be out of work for some time, as conditions in the cotton manufacturing business are at low ebb all over the country at present. The thread plant, of which A. W. Bell became the superintendent recently, following the retirement of William Clark, is located in Lower Pawcatuck, on the Connecticut side of the Pawcatuck river. An employe of the mill who has been there for thirty years has been heard to say that he never knew the shut-down to be so tight, with as little prospect of immediate resumption.

At White Rock the mill of the B. B. & R. Knight Co. has been running out the machines for some time, so that at present about half of the mill is still. Here eventually, as at the thread plant, the mill will be entirely quiet and perhaps at this time even the fires will be drawn. It is said that 400 of the help are not working now as a result of the stopping of the machines which when running full require more than 250 operatives. One reason for the drawing of the fires is said to be the intention to install the three upright boilers which were bought to Westerly from the Knights' Riverpoint mill after the fire there some time ago. The installation of upright boilers will mean the raising of the boiler house roof, as the old boilers, four in number, in use at present are of the horizontal type. The Riverpoint mill boilers were nearly new at the time of the fire, while the White Rock boilers have seen service for a long time. It is estimated that the three new upright boilers will easily do the work of the four horizontal ones. It is stated that some of the older machinery in the mill will be discarded as was done at the time of the rebuilding of the burned mill at Riverpoint.

The June meeting of St. Michael's branch, Connecticut Council of Catholic Women, was held Monday evening in the parish hall. Arrangements were made for a strawberry festival by this society and the Children of Mary. The committee from the latter society attended the meeting. The proceeds of the festival will be used in defraying the expenses incurred in equipping the school rooms on the first floor of the parish hall. These rooms will be opened in the fall, their use being necessitated by the increasing number of pupils in the parochial school.

Plans were also made for an open meeting to be held during the third week in June, which will be addressed by State Senator C. C. Costello of Meriden. His address will be particularly practical and interesting for women voters.

Dr. and Mrs. William Howard of Richmond arrived in Westerly Tuesday evening to take up their summer residence at their cottage, Metacomet, Watch Hill.

The family of Congressman Richard [illegible] of Providence arrived in Westerly this (Wednesday) morning and proceeded to their summer home on Watch Hill.

Probate Court Judge Frank H. Hinckley, of Mystic, held a regular session of the Stonington probate court Tuesday at his office, 34 West Main street, Pawcatuck. Tuesday of this week business detained Judge Hinckley at home and there was no session. The two weeks' business was transacted on Tuesday.

The Midway wrecker of the New Haven railroad passed through Westerly, Tuesday eastbound and followed the 7.30 accommodation train. The presence of the wrecker was called for by a collision of two freight trains a short distance east of the Union station, Providence, at 3.40 o'clock Tuesday morning, causing the derailment of seven cars, blocked main line travel on three of the four through tracks to Boston and caused damage of several thousand dollars. New Haven railroad officials are conducting an investigation to determine the cause of the wreck.

Freights figuring in the collision were the Tunnel Transfer and HB-4, Harlem River to Boston.

The tunnel transfer was running west from Northup yards on track 2, while the HB-4 was crossing from track 3 to 4 after having completed work in the west yard. The latter train was getting under way to proceed to Boston. The former bore down on the latter at the old Promenade street tower, and the resultant collision forced the head end of the car of the tunnel transfer from the rails, and caused five cars in the HB-4 to leave the rails and plow across the ties, with one of the cars going over an embankment.

All the cars were fully loaded, but so far as examination showed the loss by reason of damage freight will be slight. A large force of freight handlers emptied the cars into the freight houses before the work of clearing up the wreckage started.

The Pawcatuck Fire district annual meeting was called to order Monday night by Moderator Albert G. Martin at 8 o'clock at the P. S. Barber Hose house, Liberty street. Clerk William A. Hilliard read the call. There were present 50 taxpayers to take action on the various reports, petitions and officers were elected as follows: Moderator, Albert G. Martin; clerk, William A. Hilliard; treasurer, Claude I. Spencer; collector, Charles J. Norris; board of engineers, Chief Pierce Morrison; First Assistant Francis J. McMahon; Second Assistant James McKnight; Third Assistant Nola Morse.

The treasurer of the P. S. Barber Memorial Fund, Alberti R. Stillman, reported the amount on hand $632.50.

Chief Morrison read the report of the board of engineers, showing in detail the number of hydrants, number of street lights and the general conditions of the property of the district. The board acting under instruction of a vote by the district, reported that they had taken up the matter of purchasing land from the abutting owner to the district property and learned that he did not desire to sell. The report was received, accepted and placed on file.

Charles J. Norris, collector reported as follows: [illegible] levy, [illegible] $12,724.84; [illegible] 1914, 1916, 1917, [illegible] 1919, 1920, 1921, 1922, $127.39; interest on overdue taxes and lien fees, $29; total $12,873.23; uncollected balance $151.

Alberti R. Stillman, trustee [illegible] Peleg S. Barber Memorial Fund, reported the principal of the fund [illegible] 60, invested in a district note. The interest had been collected and paid over to the treasurer of the hose company agreeable to the tenor of the deed of the gift.

Edward W. Taylor reported the activities of the fire wardens for the year just closed.

Pierce A. Morrison reported for the sidewalk committee that walks had been constructed on Palmer street, Lincoln avenue and William street as per vote of the district.

Charles J. Norris, in the absence of the clerk of the committee, read the report on the garbage disposal.

The committee appointed [illegible] the subject of zoning the district, regulating the construction of buildings, establishing building lines, [illegible] reported its conclusions and outlined its purposes and intents in the proposed amendments to the by-laws of the district. The report was approved and the committee was instructed to have the general assembly petitioned to grant the right to the Pawcatuck fire district to include the same as a part of the by-laws.

The committee on the lighting of streets reported that a new contract had been signed increasing the power and number of the lights. The contract is to run for a term of five years.

The committee appointed at [illegible] special meeting of March 31, [illegible] reported that the contract for the construction of sidewalks on Main street had been let.

Salaries were voted as follows: Collector, $150; treasurer, $100; [illegible] chief, $200; each of [illegible] assistants, $50 per year; janitors, $700; truck drivers $100. This was an increase of $150 for the chief. [illegible] salaries remaining the same as the year previous.

The moderator appointed Joseph H. McGuinness and Albert Kenyon tellers. All officers were elected by the clerk [illegible] casting one ballot for the [illegible] The list chosen was as follows:

Moderator, Albert G. Martin; clerk, William A. Hilliard; treasurer, Claude I. Spencer; collector, Charles J. Norris; trustee, Peleg S. Barber Memorial fund, Alberti R. Stillman; directors, Alberti R. Stillman, [illegible] Hilliard; assessors of taxes, William A. Hilliard, Frank L. Furness, Bryan J. Peckham; fire wardens, Charles J. Norris; chief engineer, Pierce A. Morrison; first assistant engineer, Francis J. McMahon; second assistant engineer, James McKnight, third assistant engineers Nola Morse.

A tax of four mills [illegible] and payable October [illegible] penalty of interest at nine [illegible] overdue taxes.

Pierce A. Morrison [illegible] and Alexander B. Main were appointed a committee to look after the matter of garbage disposal.

Agreeable to the recommendations of the board of engineers, it was voted to purchase 500 feet of new hose. Four hundred dollars was voted to the Peleg S. Barber Hose company, $50 to [illegible] fire police. The bonds of the treasurer and collector were [illegible] each, the same to be furnished by [illegible]

Albert B. Smith shot a red fox in District No. 6, Westerly recently, which will make quite a pelt notwithstanding the fact that at this particular season extra activity in running [illegible] condition of a fox down to normal weight.

State authorities for Connecticut have been engaged in photographing the Amos Burdick livery stable on Coggswell street and getting numerous views in the vicinity.

Miss Betty Alger is ill at her home on Dixon street with chicken pox.

The Review club held a regular meeting and its annual picnic outing at Pleasant View Beach Monday.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank I. Payne have arrived at their home in Westerly after a lengthy visit with relatives and friends in Missouri.

D. W. Clarke of New Haven was a Westerly business caller the first of the week before leaving for Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Vars are to change their residence from Chestnut street to a furnished apartment on Dixon street.

The traffic lines for pedestrians across High street, between the Westerly post office and the Industrial Trust Co., are being laid in cement for permanency. To form the markings a line of paving blocks is being removed and the openings thus made are being filled with cement which when dried out will make a white line which will be there for all time. Yearly painting then will be unnecessary.

NEW LONDON PARKING LAWS STRICT CITIZENS FINED WHO IGNORE THEM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 4.—New London's streets are so badly congested at times that the city council has determined to regulate the parking of cars so that conditions in this respect will be improved. No longer are cars coming east on State street allowed to turn to the left into Main street. On Main street, the parking of cars is prohibited during the daytime, and on Bank street parking on the east side is restricted. On Golden and Union streets the same conditions exist. The facts have been made known to motorists through the papers and by signs at short intervals on these streets. That being the case it was surprising that half a dozen motorists should have appeared in the police court today for discipline for infraction of the ordinance. Five of them were fined $5 each as follows: Thomas T. Wetmore, who has resided here all his life, for parking his car on State street an hour or more; Mrs. L. Stark, for parking on the east side of North Bank street; Harry A. Cook, for parking outside of a line of cars at the curbing on State street, just east of Main street; Leroy H. Morgan, for parking more than a foot away from the curbing in front of the Crown theatre; F. J. Beers, for driving up to the curbing on State street and leaving rear wheels extending into the highway. Russell Coe parked on the east side of Main street, but the court found extenuating circumstance in this violation and suspended judgment.

Harold Herrick Crandall, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Crandall, of Phillips street, Waterford, and Miss Mildred Allen Harvey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Harvey, of 311 Ocean avenue, were married yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, by Rev. Walter F. Buck, a former pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. Roy F. Harvey, brother of the bride, was best man and Miss Helen Harvey, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid. Mr. and Mrs. Crandall left last night on a wedding trip which will include visits in New York, Philadelphia and Washington.

At the June meeting of the warden and burgesses of the town of Groton, the principal business was the decision to levy a four mill tax. At the meeting Warden George R. Hempstead presided.

The continued cases of the gang of rum-runners, arrested in New London two weeks ago when three big trucks laden with 2300 gallons of alcohol, shipped from Providence for delivery in Bridgeport and New York, were before United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson of Norwich here this afternoon, the session taking place at the police station. Patrick Murphy, John Pettee and George Talbot, drivers of the trucks were held for trial before the United States district court in bonds of $500 each. Their original bond was $1,000. The trio of drivers are also held in bonds of $5,000, each, by the police court for trial in the superior court on the charge of transporting liquor. Murphy is already at liberty on bail and arrangements are being made for the liberation of Pettee and Talbot, who have been in jail here since arrested. In the cases of Charles Becker, Morris Goodelman, Albert Brown and John Lyons, who were on the trucks when they were seized, the cases were nolled. They were not liberated however, for they are prisoners at the county jail, in default of $1,000 bail ordered by the police court for trial in the superior court on a charge of transporting. Becker, Goodelman, Brown and Lyons declare that they were not parties to the transportation of the liquor, but were simply passengers, having solicited a ride to assist them in reaching their destination.

The trucks were seized on the streets of the city when the drivers became confused in their route. The value of the alcohol and the trucks was placed at close to $100,000. The trucks and their carrces have since been taken to New Haven and placed in storage by prohibition epforcement agents.

Joseph Mallen, 40 Hempstead street, a patient at Home Memorial hospital, was able to return home today.

Cornelius Harrington, 10 Methodist street, who suffered serious burns to his left arm when it became wedged in a machine which he was operating at the plant of the Robert Gair company at Montville a week ago, is somewhat improved and it is now almost certain that the man will not lose the arm.

The New London police are maintaining a watch for an automobile, owned by Dr. George Brewer of Black Point, which was stolen in New Haven today.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Thomas F. Dorsey Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Dorsey of Ocean Beach to Miss Helen B. Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Collins of Montauk avenue.

Mrs. George J. McDonald and son of 42 Center street, are spending a few days with relatives in Springfield, Mass.

The engagement is announced of Florence Estella Grant, daughter of Mrs. Mary Grant, of 100 Green street, to Michael J. Kelley, of New Haven. The wedding will take place in New London the 10th inst.

Mrs. Herbert Malcolm has returned to her home on Connecticut avenue after spending three weeks with her sister-in-law, Mrs. John Malcolm of Wellington, Mass.

Policeman Hill took an inebriated fellow off Bank street this evening at 9 o'clock. He said he was bound to Lyme where he was employed by a Prof. Down, but he did not have a penny in his pocket to pay bus fare so his story was evidently false.

The City National bank has placed a large ornamental clock at the corner of Bank and Golden streets on its own building. The clock notes standard and daylight time. It is of Swiss design.

Tilley street has changed and improved in its appearance so that it would not be recognized except by the buildings upon it. Every tree has been taken from the street, the walks have been narrowed from two to four feet and the space thrown into the highway. The next step will be the removal of the poles carrying light and telephone wires, and the wires will be put into conduits.

The city is removing a watering trough from the junction of Bank and Truman streets that has been disgracefully filthy for a long time. The water has been allowed to overflow into the street and the paving there has been kept wet and offensive. The fountain was surmounted by a figure supposed to represent Hebe. That has been removed to Garibaldi park, leaving only the basin at the junction of the streets mentioned. The fountain is to be reestablished in the south end of the park, it is understood.

The Boy Scouts are planning a drive that will raise some $7,000. A meeting was held this evening to arrange for the drive which is to take place on the 15th inst.

The city will have to resort to the plan many times suggested and make a one-way street of Bank street. Then parking might be permitted on one side of the highway and there would be accommodation for the movement of traffic and space for the trolley cars.

Insurance company representatives are endeavoring to adjust the loss on the Odd Fellows' building and in the stores that suffered from fire last Sunday morning.

Blinman street was oiled and sanded today.

Work on the Howard street bridge has been completed. Only the laying of a small section of the highway remains to be done to complete work there.

The city may have a lawsuit on its hands because it failed to award a contract for coal to the lowest bidder. The council received a report from the city manager to the effect that past experience did not warrant him in recommending the award of the contract to the bidder who was excluded so it was not given to that bidder. It is claimed now that the bids were not solicited by advertisement in the newspapers and that the right to reject any bid was not reserved to the city, which solicited the bids. The question is one that the courts will be called upon to decide.

The body of Charles E. Burdick, found dead from accidental gas asphyxiation at his home Saturday evening, was forwarded to Mr. Burdick's former home in Hopkinton, R. I., this afternoon where the funeral and burial will take place.

Miss Elizabeth A. Gatter of Waterford, died at Lawrence hospital last night, where she had been under treatment some time. Miss Gatter is survived by a sister, Miss Josephine Gatter, also of Waterford, and who is also a patient at the hospital, as a result of becoming physically weak when she realized that her sister could not survive, a few days ago. Miss Elizabeth Gatter was a local agent of the Connecticut Humane society and in the performance of her duties was extremely active. She resided with her sister in the Gatter homestead in Waterford and during the winter months occupied an apartment at the Hotel Mochican. The body will be forwarded to their former home in Nyack, N. Y., for burial.

Mrs. Edward Chapman, Groton, Miss Harriet Wilcox, Westerly, and Mrs. George Branch and infant daughter, Waterford, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today caused the operator's license of Hugh McFadden, 635 Bank street, to be suspended.

In the effort of the police yesterday to put an end to violations of the automobile laws, the machine bearing registration number 5045 was tagged, but the owner failed to present himself in the police court this morning. The police communicated with the department of motor vehicles at Hartford and ascertained that the tagged car is owned by Frederick A. Johnson of Montville. Mr. Johnson will probably be served with a summons to appear in court within a day or two and defend the charge of violation of the parking laws.

A warrant was issued tonight calling for Johnson's arrest and appearance in the police court Wednesday morning.

Timothy O'Leary of Meridian street, Mrs. Mary Curran, 162 Green street, and Miss Mary Curran, daughter of were married at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. The nuptial mass was celebrated and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley, the pastor. Harry O'Leary of Deep River, brother of the groom, was best man, and Miss Mary Finn was bridesmaid. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. Mr. and Mrs. O'Leary left on a wedding trip at noon and on its conclusion will reside in New London. Mr. O'Leary is employed in the freight service of the New Haven railroad.

Meyer H. Hollandersky is spending a few days in New York on business.

The condition of State's Attorney Hadlai A. Hull, who has been confined to his home on Vauxhall street for several months, critically ill, as a result of a general breakdown, has so far improved that Mr. Hull is believed to be gaining strength daily. He is now able to enjoy automobile rides whenever the temperature is favorable.

James Bence, a member of the crew of the Thames Towboat company's barge Pequot, who sustained burns a fortnight ago when he fell into the hold of the barge in the sound and landed against the boiler, has suffered the amputation of the right arm as a result of that member being so terribly burned. Bence is a patient at Lawrence hospital, where it was stated today that his condition was improving gradually.

Louis Singara of Spring street, was ordered to appear in the police court tomorrow morning by Patrolman Carlos Selisnitsky this afternoon to answer to a charge of reckless driving. Singara is accused of having disregarded the signal of the officer who was performing traffic duty on Truman street, in front of the Saltonstall school at a time when children were crossing the highway to go to their studies.

Leon Keeney of Main street and Miss Celia Keeney, 34 Raymond street, were married yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride, by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, pastor of St. James' Episcopal church, in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends. Anthony Sousa was best man and Miss Geraldine Costello attended the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Keeney left during the evening and on their return will reside at 34 Raymond street. Mr. Keeney is employed by the Connecticut Power company.

Miss Helen Wills, of California, U. S. tennis champion, who recently left the United States for England, where she will play in the Wimbledon tournament before going on to France for the Olympic play.

Will Celebrate Shabuoth.

Special services Saturday evening and Sunday morning in all synagogues will mark the observance of Shabuoth, or the Feast of Weeks. In reform temples the main feature of the festival service consists fo the confirmation ceremony which is a comparatively recent innovation in Jewish life. Boys and girls between the ages of 13 and 16, who have been instructed in the essentials of Judaism and its traditions, appear on this day before the congregation and pledge lifelong loyalty to the faith of their fathers. The confirmation service, which varies in different congregations in accordance with the size of the class, is very beautiful and impressive, and it marks an annual revival of interest in religion among Jews everywhere.

The average man prides himself upon the possessions his neighbor can't afford.

Dainty Frocks for the Little Graduate

For this most important event a dress combining simplicity of design with the best of quality is necessary. There are few events in the young girl's life which assume more importance than does graduation, and it must be "dressed up to."

MANY CHARMING GRADUATION DRESSES
READY FOR YOU IN THE APPAREL SHOP

DRESSES OF CREPE DE CHINE
FOR THE ACADEMY GRADUATE — SIZES 14 TO 20
$16.75 to $22.75

Of studied simplicity of design—yet bearing the unmistakable appearance of good style and beauty. The material used is a very fine and heavy Crepe de Chine, and each frock is one that will give good service and be a delight long after Commencement is a thing of the past.

A Dress For the Little Miss
SIZES 7 TO 14.
$3.75 to $6.95

White voile is always pleasing, and the young lady will certainly almost adore these crisp little frocks of which we show so many, and in so many delightful models.

Pretty Crepe De Chine
SIZES 8 TO 14
$10.95 to $14.95

There is no sterner critic than the young lady herself, and for some days we have listened to the approving words she has spoken of these pretty graduation dresses. Let her select it today.

White Is Imperative For The Graduation Dress
And Here Are The Appropriate Weaves

GEORGETTE CREPE
$2.00 A YARD
A pure silk Georgette, is of course, the best for service, and this particular number is very good indeed. It is 40 inches wide.

CREPE DE CHINE
$2.00 AND $2.50
Probably more Crepe de Chine will be used for graduation frocks than any other weave. It is deservedly popular. The width is 40 inches.

HABUTAI
$1.50 A YARD
Also called India silk, is a soft, pretty weave of considerable firmness and a charming summer material. This is pure silk and comes one yard wide.

WHITE COTTON VOILE
55c TO $1.29
For the smaller children the fine voile is superior to silk and is a fabrics of greater utility. From 40 to 44 inches wide, at six low prices.

FLOCK DOT VOILE
59c A YARD
A pure white voile with the pleasing flock dots, which makes it a bit more individual than the plain weave. The width is good, too, 38 inches.

"St. Gall" Dotted Swiss
$1.29 A YARD
Really made in Switzerland, and of a quality which will give the greatest service, as well as being a weave of real beauty. It is 31 inches wide.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

RALLY IN STOCK PRICES.

New York, June 3.—A vigorous rally in stock prices developed today in response to the president's approval of the tax measure, the prospective adjournment of congress this week and indications of the defeat of the McNary-Haugen bill, which was killed by the house shortly after the close of the market. Gains in the active issues ranged from one to four points as the day's transactions were expanded to around 700,000 shares.

Characterized by a progressive upward movement, today's trading culminated in a broad demonstration of strength in which public utility, motor and accessories shares predominated. While the action of the market did not reflect Wall street's full approval of the final draft of the tax bill, it nevertheless, indicated relief from the strain imposed by congressional controversy and expectations that the small cut in surtax rates and the 25 per cent rebate on 1924 income taxes would be helpful to business.

The advance, which became most accelerated in the final dealings, was accompanied by reports that the McNary-Haugen bill was doomed, leading to active short covering in a variety of issues. Action of other stocks indicated a revival of pool operations which presumably had been at work previously.

American Water Works common, with a sensational advance of 10 1-2 points to the year's highest level at 65 led an assortment of public utility shares into higher ground. The company's recent expansions in the west and its lead in the super-power movement among public utility companies contributed to its strength the company's 6 per cent preferred also reached 1924 top price at 77 1-3 and other high records were established by North American common at 27, the preferred at 47; Virginia Railway and Power at 55; Federal Light and Traction at 80 1-2; International Paper at 49 1-2 and Famous Players common and preferred at 76 7-8 and 96, respectively.

Railroad shares, while making a good showing, were overshadowed by the speculative buying, however, continued to center stocks as Northern Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, Norfolk & Western, Great Northern preferred and Missouri Pacific preferred.

Market leaders were in brisk demand toward the close of the market, many reaching new high ground on the recovery at 111 7-8, up 2 1-4, and Western Pacific common, U. S. Steel and Studebaker averaging gains of a point or more.

Heavy liquidation of Middle States oils, influenced by receivership proceedings against the company, carried the stock down to a record low of 3 3-4, although it later recovered slightly. Other oil shares lagged behind the rest of the list but registered moderate improvement at the close.

Quiet improvement marked dealings in the foreign exchanges. French francs held steady around 5.18c after more than recovering from yesterday's initial decline. Belgian francs improved in sympathy and demand sterling moved up a point to around $4.32.

Liberty bonds, after opening at 3 per cent, dropped back to 2 3-4, where it held until the close. Funds were in excellent control throughout the day, with a rate of 4 per cent prevailing for time loans. Commercial Paper was inactive, with the best names quoted below the market at 4 per cent.

BOND MARKET.

New York, June 3.—A combination of favorable Washington developments and easy money today contributed to moderate improvement in bond prices. The effect of the president's action in signing the tax bill and promising further relief at the next congressional session was most noticeable in the Liberty bond list, with one issue getting a new 1924 top price and others selling around the best levels of the year.

Price fluctuations of domestic corporation liens generally were narrow and unimportant. Virginia-Carolina 7s, with an advance of two points, and Wilson convertible 6s, which gained fractionally, however, responded to elimination of the uncertainty regarding interest payments.

Under the leadership of Norfolk & Western Convertible 6s, which jumped 2 1-2 points in line with the strength of the stock, most railroad liens pointed higher. Hudson & Manhattan income 5s rallied briskly and substantial gains were recorded by St. Paul, Frisco and New Haven mortgages. Steady investment buying buoyed up the high grade list.

Sale of New York city's $67,400,000 corporate stock and bonds today at a premium which netted the city $800,000 commanded the interest of investment circles. The award was made to a banking syndicate headed by the National City company of New York on a bid of 101.1861. Public offering of the bonds will be made tomorrow at prices ranging from 100.731, including 3.50 per cent for short maturities, to 102.800, yielding 4 per cent for the long term issues. The stock will be sold at 102 1-8 and interest, yielding about 4.15 per cent.

FOUR NORWICH BOYS TO GRADUATE AT WORCESTER TECH FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Worcester, Mass., June 3.—Three residents of Norwich are to receive the Bachelor of Science degree at the commencement exercises of the Worcester Polytechnic Institute, to be held Friday, June 6. Two of them, Sidney H. Avery and Stephen J. Voech Jr., will receive them from the electrical engineering department, and one, Raymond G. Wilcox, from the civil engineering department, and the other, Alfred P. Storms, from the mechanical engineering department.

Mr. Wilcox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Wilcox, graduated from the Norwich Free Academy with the class of 1920, where he was prominent in [illegible] Kappa Kappa fraternity and graduating with honors.

Since entering the Worcester engineering college he has continued in [illegible] ball, being manager of the team this past season. He is chairman of the senior class commencement committee, was treasurer of the class for the first term of this year, and is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers. He is also a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and Skull, the honorary senior society.

Alfred P. Storms, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Storms, 575 Main street, graduated from the Norwich Free Academy in the class of 1920, where he was a member of the Rho Alpha Tau fraternity.

Since entering Worcester Tech Mr. Storms has been prominent on the college weekly, being a reporter during his sophomore year, a junior editor the next, and secretary of the association during the past year. He is also a member of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

Sidney H. Avery, son of Mr. and [illegible] West Town street, also graduated from the Academy with the class of 1919. Since entering college he has been prominent in the student class, the most prominent being the Cosmopolitan club, [illegible] Chapman Technical high school, New London, with the class of 1919. While at the Worcester college he has been a member of the Cosmopolitan club and the Newman club, holding the office of secretary in the latter during his sophomore year.

GOLDEN WEDDING DAY OF MR. AND MRS. EDWARD RIVERS

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rivers, formerly of Danielson, have had their children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren around them for the past three days in an enjoyable family reunion in celebration of their golden wedding anniversary at their home, Good Will farm, Brantwood, N. H. The anniversary could not take place on Feb. 17, as it was impossible for those far away to make the journey, so that it was decided to hold the celebration in the spring.

Mr. Rivers was born in Milton, Vt., Nov. 20, 1853. Mrs. Rivers was born in St. Charles, Canada, Dec. 17, 1853, her maiden name being Josephine Mason. Their union was blessed with twelve children, seven of whom are living. They have twelve grandchildren, the youngest being 8 weeks old, and four great-grandchildren.

After the banquet which was held Saturday, May 31st, Mr. and Mrs. Rivers were presented a purse of gold by their youngest daughter, Mrs. Emma J. Dixon, in behalf of every member of the family.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Rivers of Norwich, Conn., Joseph Rivers and family of Washington, R. I., Mr. and Mrs. William Rivers, Rochdale, Mass. (their daughter Blanche is attending school in Montreal, Ca., so was unable to be present), Mr. and Mrs. John Jaeger and family of Dayville, Conn., Mr. and Mrs. William Hillman of Providence R. I., Mr. and Mrs. Chester Rivers and family, Warwick, R. I., Mrs. Emma J. Dixon of Hartford, Conn., Mr. and Mrs. Edward McDonough and family of Mystic, Conn.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE ON WEST THAMES ST

Rose Standish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Standish of 124 West Thames street, was slightly injured about noon Tuesday when she was struck on West Thames street by an automobile driven by George L. Fuller of 248 Laurel Hill avenue. According to the report Mr. Fuller made at police headquarters he was driving past the closed side of a trolley car at about 20 miles an hour when the girl stepped in front of the machine. She had been a passenger on the trolley car.

COOLIDGE WANTS RUNNING MATE OF HIS OWN TYPE

Cleveland, June 5 (By the A. P.) President Coolidge has sent direct word to the republican party managers here describing the type of man he wants for a running mate.

The president's word reaffirms the [illegible] to change the [illegible] ty managing a pre[illegible]ibbles with [illegible] man who [illegible] president [illegible] removed one of the last [illegible]ilities for a touch of an old [illegible]shioned convention and left nothing in sight but a ratification meeting.

The fact that all the members of the Wisconsin delegation but one will cast their votes for the Wisconsin senator from the floor, still barred any possibility that Mr. Coolidge would be nominated by acclamation. The substitute platform to be offered by the Wisconsin delegation will present only a semblance of a contest.

Cyrus E. Woods Honored.

Tokio, June 4 (By the A. P.)—Cyrus E. Woods, American ambassador, who retires June 6 has been named honorary president of the hospital to be built with the unexpended balance of funds raised by the American Red Cross for relief of suffering Japanese after last September's earthquake, he was notified today.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

House leaders abandoned hope of enacting farm relief legislation at this session.

A deficiency bill to meet the first year's cost of the bonus was passed by the house.

Agreement was reached to postpone the Muscle Shoals fight in the senate to the December session.

Harry M. Daugherty notified the senate investigating committee he would not testify, and withdrew his counsel.

LaFollette supporters said the Wisconsin senator's name would not be formally presented to the Cleveland convention.

Indications pointed toward the selection of Senator Walsh of Montana as permanent chairman of the democratic national convention.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY THE IMPERIAL COUNCIL OF SHRINE

Kansas City, Mo., June 4—James E. Chandler of Ararat temple, Kansas City, today became imperial potentate of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, by action of the imperial Council, which elevated him along with other members of the imperial divan in order of their succession. Mr. Chandler succeeds Conrad V. Dykeman of Kismet temple, Brooklyn.

Thomas J. Houston, Chicago, imperial second ceremonial master.

Earl C. Mills, Des Moines, imperial marshal.

Clifford Ireland, Peoria, Ill., imperial captain of guards.

Los Angeles was selected as the convention city by the imperial council of the Ancient Arabic Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine in convention here.

SLAYERS OF FRANKS ARE CLOSELY GUARDED

Chicago, June 4.—A score of witnesses testified today before the grand jury which has been asked to indict Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, university students and sons of Chicago millionaires for murder and kidnapping for ransom in connection with the slaying two weeks ago today of Robert Franks, school boy son of another wealthy Chicagoan.

It was expected tonight that the last witnesses will appear tomorrow and the grand jury will vote then on [illegible]

INCREASE IN CONSUMPTION OF MILK BY AMERICANS

Washington, June 4.—Americans are [illegible] more milk than ever before, the department of agriculture announcing today that the household consumption of milk was 212 quarts per person last year compared with 200 quarts in 1922. Consumption of butter was 17 pounds per capita, compared with 16 1-2; of cheese, 3.91 pounds, compared with 3.74; of condensed and evaporated milk, 13.25 pounds, compared with 12.69, and of ice cream 2.66 gallons compared with 2.43 gallons.

Milk production was seven billion more last year than in 1922, the total output having been 100,736,062,000 pounds.

35 AIRPLANES ARE TO COST NEARLY $1,000,000

Dayton, Ohio, June 4.—A contract to build 35 airplanes at a cost of nearly $1,000,000 has been let to a Cleveland firm by naval officials, according to information received today by Lieutenant John Kneip, chief of the navy office at McCook field.

The planes are to be an improvement on the world cruiser type now being used by the army world flies. They will have a cruising radius of 2,400 miles.

HOPE ABANDONED FOR MISSING STUDENTS

Beaver Falls, Pa., June 4.—Hope was virtually abandoned tonight for Leonard Russell, of Walton, N. Y., and David Thompson, of Canonsburg, Pa., students at Geneva college, who have been missing since yesterday when they went for a canoe ride on Beaver river. Russell's hat was found along the bank today. An overturned canoe was found floating in the river earlier in the day. Students reported that neither Russell or Thompson could swim.

COURT ASKED TO RECONSIDER DECISION ON DEPORTATION

Washington, June 4.—The supreme court was asked today to reconsider its recent decision directing the deportation of Gittel and Israel Gottlieb, the wife and child of Rabbi Solomon Gottlieb of New York, who arrived after the quota for Palestine has been exhausted. The grounds urged were that the new immigration act which would admit the wife and child had been signed by the president a few hours before the court had delivered its opinion under the old law.

Crisis in France to Reach Climax Today

Consultation to Be Held Regarding the Formation of Ministry to Succeed Poincare.

Paris, June 4 (By the A. P.).—The ministerial crisis and the presidential crisis are now considered open as a result of the invitation sent today by President Millerand to Paul Painleve, president of the chamber, and Gaston Doumergue, president of the senate, to call on him tomorrow morning for a consultation in regard to the formation of a ministry to succeed that of Raymond Poincare.

It is expected that the presidents of the chamber and senate will confine themselves to the suggestion that Edouard Herriot, leader of the radical party, is the logical man to form the new cabinet, and that the presidential issue will only come up when M. Millerand, acting on their advice, will ask M. Herriot to come to the Elysee Palace.

M. Herriot has thus far kept his own counsel regarding the answer he will make to the invitation to form a ministry. Opinion is divided between the two possibilities with a preponderance in favor of his refusal to accept such a mission from the present occupant of the Elysee on the ground that a majority in parliament seems opposed to his remaining in office.

Many parliamentarians, however, believe that M. Herriot will make use of the liberty given him by the radical group and will accept the mission to form a ministry and then will appear before the chamber, leaving it to parliament to refuse to deal with the president of the republic by refusing to give the new cabinet a vote of confidence. This is regarded as the more parliamentary way of dealing with the situation.

The objection to this plan is that it opens up the way for M. Millerand to maneuver an endeavor to find some deputy of the moderate groups to form a ministry and thus engage in a prolonged battle with the chamber.

The opposition, which appeared discouraged and depressed during the opening session of the chamber, took courage this afternoon when its candidate for the presidency of the chamber received 209 votes, although the opposition was admittedly not polling its full strength. M. Painleve, when he took the chair, observed the difference in attitude on the part of his political adversaries, who showed rather aggressively their disapproval of some of his remarks on interior politics.

The chamber soon became unruly under his mild-mannered rule, the socialists and communists almost coming to blows. The president insisted upon the majority idea, that the election meant that France had decided to change her policies radically. He declared the league of nations must be strengthened and that the government must follow a more generous policy with immediate pardons for all political offenders.

LA FOLLETTE NOT TO BE CONTESTANT AT CLEVELAND

Washington, June 4.—Senator Robert M. La Follette will not be formally placed in nomination as a presidential candidate at the republican convention at Cleveland it was declared definitely [illegible]

[illegible] understanding, however, [illegible] will support the Wisconsin delegates with one exception and that the delegates supporting him will bring in his platform to be offered as a substitute for that presented by supporters of President Coolidge.

When the La Follette platform is voted down, his supporters will remain in the convention, but will refuse to make the nomination of President Coolidge unanimous.

Having sat out the Cleveland convention, the supporters of the Wisconsin senator are expected to actively begin to promote his campaign as an independent candidate for the presidency.

SUICIDED BECAUSE WEALTH MADE HIM "TOO HAPPY"

Quebec, June 4.—The body of an unidentified young man, who apparently had committed suicide because wealth had made him "too happy," was found today beside a limousine bearing a New York state license, near St. Come De Beauce, close to the Maine border.

A note pinned to the coat read:

"Do not mind me. My name would be useless to you. But I wish the world to know that I committed suicide because I was too happy. I always got what I wanted in my life. My parents are millionaires.

"I realized all that it was humanly possible to wish. I do not find life good enough to remain in it. I have a strong longing to find out what there is in another life and I am going away."

There was a bullet wound in the head.

19-YEAR-OLD BUFFALO GIRL NOW ON TRIAL FOR MURDER

Buffalo, N. Y., June 4.—Six jurors who will decide whether 19-year-old Stella Mackowska is to go to the electric chair for the death of Rufus Eller, a clerk, in a jewelry store holdup in which the girl took part on May 10, were in the jury box when supreme court adjourned today. The prosecution hoped to complete the jury by tomorrow afternoon and start presentation of evidence before adjournment for the week end.

Sixty-two talesmen were examined in selecting the six jurors. The greater number of veniremen barred from service were excused by the court or challenged by the prosecutor after expressing unwillingness to vote the death penalty for a girl still in her teens.

ARMY AIRMEN AT M'COOK FIELD TO STAGE CIRCUS

Dayton, O., June 4.—Army airmen stationed at McCook field here will hold an air circus late this month, probably on Saturday, June 28, during which efforts will be made to break every airplane record not now held by army fliers.

The records to be tried for will include altitude record, the planing record and various weight carrying records.

House Votes First Money For Bonus

Passed Deficiency Bill Carrying $131,943,000 to Meet Cost of Bonus For First Year.

Washington, June 4.—A deficiency appropriation bill, carrying $158,196,000 of which $131,943,000 would be for meeting the first year's cost of the soldiers' bonus, was passed today by the house.

The insurgent elements in both houses were understood to have given more or less equivocal agreement to the program, reserving the right to register their opinion on the session as a whole as opportunity afforded.

Although technically on the subject of pensions, senate debate today ran the whole gamut of congressional oratory. Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, decried the burden of "organized propaganda" under which, he asserted this session had suffered and declared if an industrial panic impended, it was manufactured by the financial interests and late in the day Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, took the floor to rebuke the farm bloc for "preventing" a vote on Muscle Shoals at this session.

"You are about to adjourn congress and you claim you were not given a chance to legislate to relieve the distress among farmers," he shouted, "and yet you stood there and objected to a vote on Ford's offer which would have saved the farmers of the country one hundred million dollars a year."

The house disposed of the deficiency bill, which would provide among other things for financing of the soldier bonus, and then turned its attention to miscellaneous questions.

HOUSE OMNIBUS BILL PASSED BY THE SENATE

Washington, June 4.—The house omnibus bill combining proposed pensions and increases of pensions to about 200 veterans and their dependents was passed by the senate tonight without a record vote. An amendment added in the senate would authorize graded increases to Spanish war veterans, according to age. A similar bill carrying about the same number of individual pension proposals was made the unfinished business for tomorrow.

DAUGHERTY DECLINES TO APPEAR AS A WITNESS

Washington, June 4.—Former Attorney General Daugherty put [illegible] if perhaps only temporar[illegible] storm-marked course of the senate investigation of his official conduct today by refusing [illegible] ness and by withdrawing counsel who have represented [illegible] longed proceedings.

WILLIMANTIC

Willimantic is in danger of having to face a critical labor situation, brought on by the existing depression in the textile business through the New England states. The Quidnick-Westham Cotton Manufacturing company with plants in this city and Quidnick, R. I., has suffered during the past three years and notices have been posted announcing that the two plants were to be shut down, beginning Wednesday, for an indefinite period. The notices in the local mills were signed by Agent Walter H. [illegible] as reasons for the [illegible] continuous business depression and the lack of demand for the output of the company. A few machines are to be run in order to complete orders now on hand. The shutting down of the mills places 350 operatives in this city on the loafing list and 400 are thrown out of employment at Quidnick. The American Thread company manufacturing department has been on a three-day-a-week schedule for some time past and previous to that ran four days weekly.

The Willimantic Woman's club spent Tuesday at the Loomis cottage on Hampton Hill upon invitation of Mrs. John Loomis. During the forenoon the members were allowed the freedom of the grounds and enjoyed the beautiful scenery. While some played cards on the veranda, others engaged in croquet matches on the lawn. A fine luncheon prepared by Miss Burnham in the old Chelsea Inn was partaken of by some sixty members and a few guests. The Hampton library was visited and later a business session was held at the cottage. The principal item of business was the voting to revise the constitution and by-laws. Punch and wafers were served by Mrs. Loomis and Mrs. Edward Tryon.

Mrs. Zacharie Angelina Garceau Martin died Wednesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Moore of Birch street, after a long illness. She leaves her husband and six children, Mrs. Joseph Moore, Mrs. Thomas Champagne, Mrs. Raymond Genereux, Mrs. Charles Charron and Orilla and William Martin of this city; fifteen grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Joseph Thifeault, also of this city. Mrs. Martin was a devout member of St. Mary's Roman Catholic parish, also a member of the Holy Cross society.

Two liquor violators presented in police court Wednesday morning decided to change their pleas from not guilty to guilty and after asking for leniency on account of large families and short working hours, allowed the case to rest in the hands of Judge Frank H. Foss. The men were Mike Mortiko of 11 Chapman street and Joseph Kusmierczak of the Yellow Row. They were represented by Attorney J. S. Gaucher who made known the financial hardships of both. The homes of both were successfully raided some time ago by local police and they were charged with actual sales, and keeping with intent to sell liquor. Witnesses for the state were ready to take the stand Wednesday morning but were not called upon. The court took into consideration that both were first offenders and suspended ten day jail sentences which were imposed. A fine of $200 and costs, amounting to $211.65 was imposed in each case and paid.

Eighty-four girl students of Windham High school are now enrolled in the four classes of a course in home economics, inaugurated at the school this year under the supervision of Miss [illegible] Barker and Josephine [illegible]. The course was popular [illegible] much enthusiasm [illegible] Wednesday afternoon, [illegible] 4 when an exhibit and tea [illegible] department rooms. Guests numbered about two hundred. Wafers, tea and orangado were served. The students wore dresses of their own design and handiwork, while other dresses, all of which were [illegible] ject work, were on exhibition as well as class millinery. All [illegible] were highly commended by [illegible] ors.

The Ashland club set out the last of an even forty trees Tuesday. This planting includes such trees as the common oak, maple, ash and birch, not to forget the last one which is a round-leaved dogwood, Cornus circinata, commonly called boxwood. The tree was taken from its habitat on the Ashland company's holdings at Pachaug. Great quantities of roots and soil were removed, and now the tree, in full blossom, is growing in its new home. In addition to tree planting, plans which have just been completed this week will be put in operation at once, and a new modern tennis court will be built. The first swing is in position for the play ground, and on Wednesday P. W. Chase, welfare supervisor for the club, was in Norwich making arrangements for the purchase of other out-of-door games and equipment.

Another beautiful wisteria is in bloom on the side of the house owned by the heirs of the late H. H. Burnham on South Main street. Some observers declare it even larger than the one recently reported at Mrs. G. A. Haskell's.

Anthony Kozolowski, alias the Clown, has added the finishing touch to his already unsavory local reputation, and is wanted by the police.

The Clown has been employed at the Textile Novelty Co., and owns a Ford coupe. Not long ago he showed up in town one night late, with a flat tire. The next night he went over to William McNicol's and entering a private garage, stole a new spare tire from George Foote's new Cleveland. Monday night he made another visit and with a stolen jack he took two rims and two tires from Mr. Foote's service car.

The Clown's machine with the stolen tires and rims were located in a local garage, where Mr. Foote is able to identify all his property. Deputy Sheriff John T. Dolan and State Policeman Arthur Williams from the Danielson barracks were hot on The Clown's trail when he pulled stakes and made a getaway. He saw the officers approaching and beat it hotfoot up the pike toward Plainfield, where the trail was lost.

Always use enough Rinso to get big lasting suds after the clothes are in

Keep your energy and freshness for your children

Washday need not tire you out — RINSO gives you the cleanest, wash in the quickest, easiest way — No more hard rubbing

THE end of washday—and yet you feel fresh and vigorous.

Ready for any game active little brains suggest—eager to explore the cunning resources of the new doll house—glad to read over and over the adventures of Mother Goose to tiny listeners.

You have kept your energy because you have been spared the hardest work of washday—the hard constant rubbing.

ONLY a new kind of soap and a really modern soap could do this for you—and this is just what Rinso is—the first laundry soap that meets the needs of the modern housewife.

Everything about Rinso is modern—even its form is new—fine, creamy-white granules that dissolve completely in hot water. You get a rich soapy solution with more cleansing power than bar soap—and so much quicker and easier to use.

Your clothes are spotless, and you have helped prolong its wearing qualities—you have saved time, strength and labor.

Rinso takes the place of any other laundry soaps or soap you may now be using. It is a complete soap in itself—it does the whole wash whatever your washing methods may be. You need no other soap with it.

Use the rich Rinso solution in your tubs, boiler, washing-machine. The water gets soapy right through—an even rich soapiness that goes into every fibre of your clothes and gently soaks dirt out. Even ground-in dirt needs only a light rubbing.

And then the rinsing is so easy and so thorough—no bits of soap left to ruin clothes under the iron—no soil left to make them look dingy—and, of course, no harmful rubbing at any time.

EVERYWHERE the progressive American woman is using this labor-saving soap. Already more than a million packages are used every week.

Rinso is made by the makers of Lux. Every grocer has it—in regular size and the big new package. Get it today for your next wash. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

"Rinso saves the clothes because it dissolves dirt, rinses easily, and there is no hard rubbing to wear out the fabric," say 4 famous manufacturers—

PUTNAM

John Meranda, 12, the colored boy who has been in the custody of the police since Monday morning, had a longing farewell to Captain William Jarvis and the Putnam police station, which has been John's home since he arrived in this city after wanderlust struck him and he set out to see the world, and Wednesday afternoon started back to Sekonk, Mass., in custody of his father, Manuel Merinda who came to Putnam to claim his adventurous offspring.

The boy's father was located by Captain Jarvis with the cooperation and aid of the Massachusetts state police. Captain Jarvis called the Oxford barracks relayed the message of an unidentified boy being held at Putnam to other barracks in the Bay state. The division at Marlboro finally located the lad's father. The father did not give his son a very clean bill of health. He said that John was an unruly lad and that he had given him a great deal of trouble. He signified his intention to have the youngster committed to some institution. On the other hand Putnam officials found that the boy's body bore marks of what might have been hard blows from a rope or some other means of flogging and steps may be taken to communicate with Massachusetts authorities to have the home surroundings of John investigated.

Some anticipated that the common council at its meeting Tuesday night, would discuss the matter of Patrolman John Ryan of the police force, now under arrest and under bond for his appearance at the next criminal session of the superior court to be held in September, charged with transporting liquor illegally. They were disappointed, for there was no discussion of the case in any way. This was due to the attitude of the patrolman himself who, as was stated in this column recently, had asked the captain of police, William Jarvis, for a leave of absence. Captain Jarvis was present at the council meeting and just before adjournment told the council that he appeared for Officer Ryan, to request that the officer be granted a leave of absence from duty until his case was disposed of in court. The request was granted without discussion and the council immediately proceeded to the disposal of current bills.

The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock by Mayor Victor Chapdelaine, City Clerk Thomas P. Ryan called the roll and those responding to their names were, Alderman-at-large Richards, and Aldermen Ames, Daisle, Labby, LaRose, Dubois and Bettencourt, absent, Aldermen Rivers and Pigeon.

A permit requested by David Beault to build a cottage on Mill street and a permit requested by Leonard L. Rousseau with several petitioners for small additions were referred to the highway committee, with power.

The police report for May showed 68 arrests during the month; fines and costs collected totalled $95.57; 22 trumps were lodged during the month at the police station.

City Tax Collector Archibald Macdonald, Jr., presented a list of some 75 or 30 who claimed tax exemption, most of them because they were ex-soldiers. The tax collector stated that technically the claim for exemption for being ex-soldiers was not allowable, for these making the claim had not filed their lists and claimed exemption to the board of assessors as the law requires. He stated that most of these men had been told that the law required them to make the claim to the assessors, but had not done so. He stated that the taxes had been abated by the selectmen on behalf of the town. He told the council that he was willing to collect them if it was the desire of the council that he do so. The council voted to abate the taxes, most of the amounts being small.

junction of the avenue and the Senexit road, was referred to the electric light committee with power to act. Alderman Richards stated that the light as now located is too far from the corner to give light to the intersection and that it was a dangerous situation and that one accident had already occurred at the place.

John P. Sabin of Putnam was awarded the contracts, which were put up to bid, for laying sewer pipes and curbing. Mr. Sabin was the lowest of several bidders, the other contractors being from out the city.

After the May bills were read and approved the meeting adjourned.

The Putnam Light and Power Co. is planning to extend its line from Safford's Corner, South Woodstock, west toward West Woodstock, a mile and a half. The extension will entail a cost of $2,500.

The extension has been under consideration for some time. Recently ten citizens and property owners headed by Selectman Albert H. Williams, petitioned the public utilities commission for a hearing regarding the proposed extension. The hearing was set for Tuesday in Hartford and was attended by a number of the petitioners and by Ralph E. Emerson, superintendent of the Putnam Light & Power company.

The cost of installation and the amount of business that the company would receive were discussed and a sufficient guarantee of support if the line is established was forthcoming, to warrant the company in promising the desired extension.

The S. N. E. Telephone company has a line of poles along the route to be covered and as the two public service corporations work together the electric light company will replace the telephone company's poles with new poles five feet higher; the poles will be used by both companies and the expense divided.

Superintendent Thurston stated that the company is only two moves to system its service lines where it can be assured enough business, present of immediate future, to warrant the expense, and that even if the cost can be guaranteed at the start, with a prospect of future business, the company is willing to make the installation.

The town and city dog warden picked up a stray dog. A Polish man of the city and town lost his pet Tuesday afternoon the dog warden, the dog owner and the dog met at the dog warden's place of business. The dog recognized the owner and was joyful, the owner recognized his dog and was elated. The dog owner was about to start home with his dog, profuse in his thanks to the dog warden, when the dog warden cast sloop over the happy meeting. When a dog warden picks up a stray dog it is not altogether for the love of the animal. The statutes of Connecticut in such case made and provided set forth that the warden who picks up a stray dog is entitled to a fee of three dollars to be paid to the warden by the dog owner, if said dog owner desires the return of his dog alive and well. When the dog warden demanded of the Polish dog owner [illegible] the law, the dog owner claimed the fee was too high. The dog warden was not in the habit of cutting the price and so told the Polish business men and with much more argument to which the dog warden turned a deaf ear, the Polish dog owner left and then there were but two, the dog warden and the dog.

However, it came to pass that the dog owner was fond of his dog. Tuesday evening, swallowing his pride in one big gulp, the dog owner again sought out the dog warden, this time at the dog warden's home. Chances were no better for getting his dog back at marked down prices so the Polish dog owner proffered the dog warden a pretty twenty dollar bill. Now it happened that the dog warden just at the moment did not have the necessary seventeen dollars to return to the dog owner with his dog so the dog owner was told that he would have to make one more call and bring with him three simoleons in exact amount. The Polish dog owner and the city and town dog warden again parted company, the Polish dog owner still in possession of his twenty dollar William and the dog warden still in possession of the Polish dog owner's dog.

The dog warden heard the town clock toll off the hours normally every sixty minutes, but he listened in vain for the returning footsteps of the Polish dog owner and ten times ten more. It grew late and finally the dog warden gave up the vigil and hit the hay.

Knowing full well that the Polish dog owner wanted his dog; also knowing equally as full well that he, the dog warden wanted his three dollars, the dog warden reasoned that before breakfast he would receive another call from the dog owner. Having swallowed his wheat cakes the dog warden went out to look at the Polish dog owner's dog, about three dollars fat or [illegible] to [illegible] house was bare, and there was but one—the dog warden.

The dog warden sought out the captain of Putnam's police department and told the story to the ears above the gold badge over the captain's heart. The captain listened to the story but at last reports the case remained in statu quo.

Besides the usual fair attractions dancing will be indulged to the music of a five-piece orchestra. Previous to the fair a street parade of all the local fire organizations will be held. Under the charter of the Westerly fire district authority is given for the formation of this police body, whose services are drafted and the men respond voluntarily to assist in keeping fire lines, protecting property and providing for the public safety at times of fire. Beside Capt Nicholas, other members of the Fire police are, lieutenant, Henry W. Sutcliffe; clerk, William R. Wilcox; treasurer Ralph Sparge; John Reardon, Mel Champlin, Samuel Patton, Alexander Greig, William Hamilton, William Moses, Hugh Mulvey and Harry Baecher.

Numerous friends in Westerly and Pawcatuck are interested in a double wedding which took place Wednesday at noon in West Mystic at the home of Rev. Byron U. Hatfield, pastor of the Westerly First Baptist church, where Miss Dorothy E. Pendleton became the bride of Peter Rankin Scott and Miss Edwina A. Krebs married Raymond Edward Pendleton. The double ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Hatfield. All four young people live in Westerly.

Following the ceremony they motored to Westerly. Mr. and Mrs. Pendleton took the 12.13 Shore Line express for a trip which will include a stop at Newport, R. I., and Mr. and Mrs. Scott took the 3.03 express for New York.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Murphey, 21 Courtland street, Pawcatuck, Tuesday, their granddaughter, Miss Evelyn Irene Murphey was united in marriage with Leroy E. Talbot of High street, by Rev. A. L. Schuring, pastor of the Broad Street Christian church.

The bride was attended by Miss Harriet L. Harriman of Pawcatuck, and Willis Wentworth was best man. The wedding marches were played by Mr. and Mrs. George W. Murphey.

The bride wore a gown of satin-faced canton crepe, trimmed with Spanish lace. Her veil was caught with lilies of the valley and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses.

The bridesmaid wore pink georgette, trimmed with pink marabou over pink metal cloth. She carried pink sweet peas.

Following the ceremony a reception was held and a lunch was served. Guests were present from Kingston, Arctic, Newport and Pawtucket.

The bride received many beautiful presents. Her gift to the groom was a watch chain, with Red Men's emblem attached and the groom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls. The groom presented his best man cuff links.

Mr. and Mrs. Talbot left at 5 o'clock by automobile for New London, leaving there at 9 o'clock on the New York boat. The bride's traveling suit was of dark blue broadcloth, with dark blue silk hat to match.

Paul Michael Sulivan, son of Mrs. Margaret Sullivan of 131 Granite street, and Miss Gladys Elizabeth Cammett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cammett of Exeter, N. H., were united in marriage Wednesday morning at the Church of the Immaculate Conception by Rev. Thomas J. Larkin, S. M., who also celebrated the nuptial mass which followed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Maurice Powers of Groton, Conn., as matron of honor. Maurice Powers was best man.

The bride wore a gown of white crepe de chine, with veil, and carried pink roses.

Following the ceremony a breakfast was served at the home of the groom's mother on Granite street. Rev. Fr. Larkin was a guest at the reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan left for Flushing, L. I., where they will spend their honeymoon. Upon their return they will make their home at 131 Granite street.

MYSTIC

In an old scrap book there has been discovered an interesting account of the erection of the liberty pole in its present location on the east side of the river as follows: "A lease for fifty years has been taken of Messrs. Palmer & Hoxie for a rod of land less or more at the corner of their building, by Denison & Williams shoe store—as the site of the new flag staff, which will soon be raised. The consideration is $1 down and one cent a year hereafter. The raising of the liberty pole on the Mystic bridge side has given things quite a lively appearance for a day or two past. A hole big enough for a fair-sized cistern was first dug; at the bottom of this a large stick of timber was laid, on which the mast of the pole; eight feet above this, near the surface of the ground, a frame of heavy cross timbers has been laid with a square hole in the middle, through which the mast was to pass, and finally be wedged. On Tuesday a pair of shars some sixty feet high was erected and today the main mast was successfully placed in position. Capt. Gurdon Gates has the job in charge, assisted by Capt. Frank Holme, Capt. Green and occasional volunteers. As we have before mentioned, the site of the pole is at the northeast corner of Exchang building near the bridge. The land on which it stands is the property of B. F. Palmer, Esq., of Stonington, and B. F. Hoxie, Esq., of the Hoxie house, joint proprietors of Exchange building, who give the use of the land for the purpose. The following named gentlemen, subscribers to the fund for erecting and fitting up a flag staff in Mystic, are requested to meet at the engine house on Friday afternoon, Sept. 29th, at 3 o'clock: Chas. Mallory, Capt. Wm. Clift, Capt. Rowland, John H. Allyn, E. Spicer, Jr., Fred'k Funch, Roswell Brown, Capt. C. E. Packer, S. H. Buckley, J. E. Williams, Thos. Eldredge, E. Spicer, Jr., Gurdon Gates, Capt. Thomas Forsyth, John D. Clift, George E. Tripp, Capt. Benj. Burrows, D. F. Packer, S. S. Brown, F. A. Holmes, T. E. Packer, F. S. Bidwell, W. H. Potter, A. Egan, M. Rafferty, Eben A. Williams, Erastus W. Denison, E. P. Randall, John Forsyth, B. F. Hoxie, Thos. Greenman, J. A. Rathbun, J. N. Colby, T. W. Noyes, L. M. Guernsey, Randall Brown, Jr., Joseph Graf, John Rippel, Chas H. Park, Chas Mallory, H. B. Noyes, Hugh Barr, L. P. Allyn, F. M. Manning, W. D. Bugbee, Chas Noe, E. Franz Williams, Chas Grinnell, Sr., Thos. Brooks, Caleb Tufts, Noyes Staplin, George W. Mallory, Wm. Fish, D. B. Denison, J. T. Batty, Wm. Smith, Capt. Henry Manwaring, M. C. Hill, Jas. Waterman, Capt. George Eldredge, A. F. Young, Clark Greenman, George Greenman, C. H. Mallory and George H. Greenman."

Very few of these men who so long ago were instrumental in the erection of this staff are living, but it is due to their public spirited action that succeeding generations have enjoyed the use of the liberty pole.

SOME STREET NEEDS.

[illegible] Norwich going to do at the [illegible] meeting in regard to the appropriations sought for street improvements?

There is a large sum involved but there is likewise a crying need for the betterment of streets, and especially those which mark the entrances to the city.

During the past year a large sum was spent for a cement road on Laurel Hill. There are reasons for believing that the appropriation should have come much nearer to building the road to the schoolhouse than it did. The road is today in an incompleted state and an additional outlay is required to complete it. Beyond the point where the cement work was stopped there is a wretched piece of road the entire distance to the town line. It has been bad and growing worse for the past three years, and this is the road that today carries the heavy load of the traffic to and from the south of the city. It is a disgrace to the municipality.

In previous years much benefit was gained through the improvement of Thames and West Thames street, but on West Main and Main streets, from Thames square to Market street, there remains a stretch of uneven and [illegible] paving that is enough to [illegible] traffic in another direction. It is another southern entrance to the city that leaves anything but a favorable impression.

It remains for the citizens in annual city meeting to say what shall be expended for street improvement. It rests with them to say where the money that will have to be raised by additional taxes, if all the regular departmental estimates are approved, should be spent. But in view of the condition of these main thoroughfares at the present time over which there is [illegible] traffic, they should receive the attention [illegible] improvement conditions of the city and make a good impression upon those passing through it. They are not the marks of a progressive, up to date community.

WATERBURY'S QUARTER MILLENNIAL.

[illegible] go to Waterbury [illegible] meeting in regard to the approaching its 250th [illegible] getting to that age [illegible] have reached and [illegible] celebrating 10 years ago.

When we think of age we are inclined to associate as much feebleness [illegible] Waterbury [illegible] growing city. [illegible] the communities of the country [illegible] commissioned an engineer [illegible] development.

Waterbury was not a boom town. [illegible] and for a [illegible] time there was much uncertainty as to whether its first settlers were going to stick. It began [illegible] name of Mattatuck and it [illegible] 12 years after that that [illegible] was changed to Waterbury. Known as the brass center of the world, that industry traces its origin [illegible] manufacture of pewter [illegible] which was begun in 1790. It was a logical step that pewter should give way to brass and that buttons should open the way for other and more extensive brass manufactures. It was a natural step of spreading out in various directions and Waterbury has been alert to its possibilities, and because of its manufactures it adopted a few years ago the catchy slogan of "Watch busy" has something on everybody."

Since Waterbury has been numbered among the growing cities of the country it was not until within the last quarter of a century that it has made its greatest strides, going in that time from 45,000 to between 90,000 and 100,000, a gain in which the war figures not which has nevertheless been the natural outcome of the development possibilities and the industrial foundations once laid.

Waterbury is therefore to be congratulated upon its attainment of its quarter millennial in such excellent shape and with such a promising outlook for the future. Waterbury has much to look forward to if the next half century does as much for it as the one just past.

ADJOURNING CONGRESS.

[illegible] be exerted all the efforts that [illegible] within its power, Robert La Follette will engage to prevent the senate from voting to adjourn Saturday evening of this week. It was a chance for him to demonstrate his power and for him to get into the campaign just now as the result of his recent announcement regarding his candidacy. There were those upon whom he could depend for support no matter what kind of a proposition he might bring forth. There were others who were ready to vote with him, not because they are his followers but because there was a chance to play some politics and add what embarrassment they could to the conventions and make an impression upon certain of the voters.

It is well known that matters upon which there has not been a vote might easily enough have been disposed of long ago had this congress been committed to action instead of delay. It was apparent almost from the beginning of the session that the radical balance of power was determined to block everything unless they got what they sought, whether justified or not. Strange as it may seem that group was able to swing enough support from both parties when needed to carry on the dawdle, to waste time in character blackening and to devote their chief attention to influencing the presidential campaign. The programme of legislative business got slight consideration. Under those conditions there can be no surprise if a majority of congress has no desire for a continuance of it. In deciding to adjourn at this time both houses read aright the sentiment of the country.

That the vote is for adjournment need not be regarded as meaning that La Follette will not devote his best efforts to interfering with the enactment of such legislation as should be passed before the closing. He is of that makeup that loses no opportunities to boost its own cause regardless of its effect.

POLLUTION FROM OIL WASTE.

Legislation that would prevent the pollution of coastal waters by disposing of oil waste has been strongly advocated. Measures are before congress at the present time for that purpose. One bill has already been favorably acted upon in the upper house and one has been favorably reported in the lower house.

These are the outcomes thus far of the agitations that have been made against the harmful results of the practice of dumping oil wastes from vessels, or from manufacturing plants upon the waters to foul wharves and vessels and to so pollute the waters that fish are killed in great number and bathing beaches are made unfit for use.

It is a condition which has developed from the increased use of oil for fuel purposes. Pouring the waste into the sea is the easiest way to dispose of it. Such disposition has no consideration for others and it is for the purpose of changing this situation that federal legislation is being sought.

As to the need of establishing restrictions that will eliminate such obnoxious conditions there can be no question. Whether congress in the little time that is left to do so much business can get to the point of passing upon this question remains to be seen. It will be unfortunate if some start in the way of relief is not made. It is not a time for half baked legislation but the need of checking the condition is such that a bill that will get the preventive work started is preferable to no legislation at all, even though that would have to be followed by subsequent legislation in order to properly deal with the matter. Waste that harms no one may be dumped upon the waters without restriction, but when it creates a danger as well as a nuisance there should be no delay in stopping the practice.

THE VICE PRESIDENCY.

Inasmuch as it has long been known who will be named by the Cleveland convention for the republican standard bearer in the election next November, the only chances for a contest next week concern the platform and the vice presidential candidate.

As for the latter many names have been mentioned as being men whom it would be strategically advisable to nominate. Of that number many can be eliminated without much discussion. Some in fact by their records eliminate themselves.

Calvin Coolidge is bound to be the dominating influence at the Cleveland convention. It is upon his record, his administration and his policies that the campaign will be waged. Well has it been said that Calvin Coolidge will be the platform in the coming campaign. This has received a most emphatic endorsement from the primaries and conventions throughout the nation. He has unquestionably made an impression that has gripped the country and while he may not pick the candidate to run with him on the ticket it can be appreciated that there will not be picked for the vice presidency anyone who has run counter to the Coolidge policies.

In all probability the vice president under Calvin Coolidge would get the same consideration concerning cabinet membership that the present chief executive did when he was a vice president. That will get attention in selecting a running mate.

The importance of the second place on the ticket must get careful attention. The need of a strong man was again emphasized by the death of President Harding. The country was fortunate to have had Calvin Coolidge as its vice president. The possibility of presidential succession must therefore get more than passing attention. A mere figurehead will not do.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Congress insists on adjourning on Saturday. For once congress understands the sentiment of the people.

The man on the corner says: One side of life is to live so you dare not testify for fear of incriminating yourself.

Reports about Germans and the squandering of their money haven't obtained any support for the German relief bills.

The weatherman ought to do his best to properly provide for the month of brides, sweet girl graduates and national conventions.

That there should be more bicycles made today than ever before is not so surprising considering the fine roads on which to use them.

The approval by congress of the child labor amendment throws the fight into the states, and it promises to be a well contested fight.

The fleet of rum runners seized off New London shows not only that there is plenty to do in the way of enforcement but that something is being done.

The world may not be getting much better but Chicago seems in a way to prevent a couple of well-to-do young men from being involved in any more murders.

A Boston man was arrested for selling whiskey. It was found to be only cold tea, but he is to be prosecuted now because it wasn't whiskey. Can you beat it?

BALL PLAYER

"It's mighty funny how hard people will work to get something for nothing," said the out-of-town customer.

"You are thinking of some of these confidence games I suppose," said Willkinson. "I've often thought that if these people would devote that time to honest work they'd be a lot better off than they are now."

"Depends on how you look at it," said the out-of-town customer. "In doing honest work they'd have to labor every day, instead of only now and then, and besides they would lose a lot of excitement. It must be quite thrilling not to know whether the man just back of you is only a pedestrian like yourself, or is a detective shadowing your every move."

"I've just finished reading a detective story where every person in the book was being shadowed," laughed Wilkinson. "There must have been a regular parade every time two or three of the characters met anywhere."

"The particular case I am thinking of," said the out-of-town customer, "was brought to my attention last week when my youngest boy went to spend a couple of days with a cousin in Evansville. He had hardly left when I was called up to be asked whether he would bring the money around to a certain store where the lady was waiting for it. Of course I did not understand, and the woman became very angry and said she did not know but it was a matter for the police.

"When I got my breath I inquired what the woman meant and she said that my son had found some money she had lost, about $5, and she wanted him to return it. I told her he was away and she laughed, saying she thought he probably would be.

"About 9 o'clock that night a man telephoned that he had lost a $5 bill in the neighborhood of the town hall and he would be obliged if my little boy would return it to him as soon as he could in the morning. He wanted the money left with the druggist.

"A little later a young girl called up and said she had been to a dance at the town hall the night before and lost some small change which my son, she presumed, had found. She would be grateful, she said, if he would leave it at the grocery for her.

"We had three notes written on the typewriter the next day, each one telling of some money lost, no two amounts being the same, and each note set a certain place for the money to be left or sent in case it was really found.

"Well, I began to get pretty excited about the thing," said the out-of-town customer. "And it got on my wife's nerves something fierce. Every time the phone rang we were sure it was somebody who had not held on tight to his spare cash and we couldn't help wondering what on earth it was all about.

"I think I'd have got a detective on the case," cried Wilkinson.

"I thought of it," acknowledged the out-of-town customer. "But I just put everybody off and told them to wait until the boy got home, as I hadn't the slightest idea what it was all about. You see I didn't even know who the people were, and I suspected that the names signed to the notes were made up ones. Our town is growing but I do know most of the people there by name, at least, though there are some folks over beyond the tracks who are strangers."

"What did your boy say?" asked Wilkinson curiously. "Or didn't he know any more than you did?"

"He couldn't remember at first," laughed the out-of-town customer. "But at last he said that, at the drill of the Boy Scouts in the town hall just before he left, he had found some money and had put up a sign in the vestibule saying that he was holding it for the owner. In order to avoid fraud he did not tell how much it was and there were some busy people around town who thought they'd hit the amount some way or only enough of their family and friends claimed a loss. That's what I meant when I said there are people who work harder at cheating then they ever would at real work."

"How did it turn out?" asked Wilkinson. "Did you ever find the one who lost it?"

"My son said that one of the boys at school lost it and claimed it," said the out-of-town customer with a grin. "And I had lots of fun telling those people when they called up on Monday that they never could claim that magnificent sum of 10 cents!"—Exchange.

Vail Had to Borrow Money for Meals.

So hard up was Theodore N. Vail when he was starting the Bell Telephone company and writing about plans "to organize a grand telephone system" that he frequently had to borrow 25 cents to buy food.

He was born in Carroll county, Ohio, and his Quaker father wanted him to be a farmer, like himself, but when the family moved to Morristown, N. J., the boy studied medicine and then telegraphy. Next he helped his father open up a farm in Iowa and started west, but got only as far as a Union Pacific box-car station in Iowa, where he became telegraph operator.

Then in the chaotic railway mail service he worked his way to general superintendent. Railroads fought his reforms, the battle went to congress, but he won.

When 23 he was earning $3500 a year. He became general manager of the American Bell Telephone company, which was just starting, and his salary was $5,000 a year, but so seldom did he get it that he had to borrow money for meals.

When he started to build a telephone line from Boston to Providence, he was laughed at. He organized the Governors' company to operate a line between Boston and New York, the officers became discouraged and he had to take it over to make it succeed.

He fought the Bell's fight and won, and, at 42, bought a Vermont farm and retired. On a trip to South America he purchased a horse car line, transformed it into a traction system and sold it at a profit.

He retired to his farm again. Soon afterward his wife died. A year later his only son passed away.

The panic of 1907 hit the telephone company hard, public feeling was critical, the directors appealed to Vail, and he, at 62, returned and made the company stronger than ever. Then he acquired control of the Western Union Telegraph company, but the United States government made the two organizations dissolve their combination.

Vail died in the service of the companies. He was honored and he was [illegible].

And one of his mottoes was: "Make the best of everything, and get over what you can't get."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Warren A. Conover, who has declared himself opposed to the proposed plan of unification of the northern and southern Methodist churches, is the senior bishop of the M. E. church, south, and widely known preacher of the south as a Chautauqua lecturer and citizen. He is a native of Georgia and belongs to one of the oldest and most influential families of that section. After a boyhood spent on the farm he entered Emory college, from which institution he graduated with high honors in 1875. In the same year he entered the ministry and for some years filled pastorates in various cities of Georgia until 1886, when he became assistant editor of the Nashville Christian Advocate. In 1888 he was chosen president of Emory college and continued in that position until his election as a bishop ten years later. Unusual energy and earnestness have characterized Bishop Candler's career in the church, but at the same time he has found the leisure to write many books and pamphlets on religious subjects.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

BESSARABIA

Bessarabia, Alsace and Lorraine of southeast Europe, continues to be a bone of contention between Russia and Rumania. Russia's recent demand for a plebiscite on the principality was refused by Rumania.

"Only a close observer can tell the difference between rural Ohio and Indiana and the farm lands of Bessarabia," says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its headquarters at Washington, D. C.

"Tasseled Indian corn, from seed brought from America, rustles in the breeze while ripples play over seas of yellow wheat. Earth black as Illinois topsoil lies beneath one's feet.

"Only in the map which both Russia and Rumania, after five years' discussion punctuated with armed threats, still make counter claims to Bessarabia.

"Geologically Bessarabia is allied to Russia, including as it does, the tail end of the black earth belt of Russian provinces. By even Russian census figures more than half Bessarabia's population is Rumanian.

In feudal days there arose in what now is Rumania, the house of Bessara. One of the princes is said to have established Moldavia, which with Wallachia established by another prince of the same house, helped make up prewar Rumania. Bessarabia takes its name from the family. This point of history is not forgotten in Rumania's prideful program. Russia reminds the world that Bessarabia had been a Russian principality for more than a hundred years, up to the transfer during the days of the Revolution, and that it is a monument to Russia's power in stemming the Turk tide in the Balkans.

"Rumania, variously considered, is 1860 years old, 65 years old, or 6 years old. Bessarabia was the outpost of the Roman dominion, Dacia, which, in the time of Trajan comprised all of what now is Greater Rumania. Only Wallachia and Moldavia were included in the familiar Rumanian 'boot' which made up the autonomous Rumania carved out of Turkey in Europe, in 1859. Independent Greater Rumania, 6 years old, was born when the Versailles treaty restored Transylvania and Bucovina; Bessarabia was annexed after repeated requests from the municipality's peasant council, which first attempted to establish a republic.

"Rumania's three ages are the key to the confusion of Bessarabia, which has the air of being part of one of the oldest nations of Europe and yet bears the marks of the green pioneer stage of Nebraska in overland mail days. Like the American pioneer, the Bessarabian peasant is sufficient unto himself. He builds his own house from materials at hand, his fields supply wheat and corn, his stock supplies his meat and his flax the fiber which his wife and daughter spin, weave and dye. His private still brews corn whiskey or 'tsuica,' a fragrant plum brandy. Only recently have aniline dyes replaced natural herb dyes for the brilliant peasant costumes. Independence is a prime virtue in a country which has only 530 miles of railroad and only 60 miles of improved highway.

"The household obeys the pioneer rule that everybody works. From the child who drives the geese to the pond to the patriarch who closes the gate after the oxen, each has his duties. Schools command scant attention where there is work for every hand and therefore only 40 per cent of Bessarabian men and only 5 per cent of the women are literate. The pioneer influence is further shown in Bucharest where nearly every house has land around it, unlike the wall-to-wall style of many European capitals.

"The American tourist in Bessarabia at Easter time would be surprised to find the peasants coloring eggs. He would be impressed by the superior color and decoration the Moldavians obtain, for they use no paper patterns, depending alone on their own ingenuity for designs so remarkably original is much of their work that designs and colors have been used for motifs by great textile concerns."

A Little Talk on Thrift

PLANS FOR THE FUTURE

In many lines of trade and industry throughout the country there is a distinct slowing up at the present time. The wheels of business are turning less rapidly. However, this situation is not one calling for a pessimistic attitude, but it does challenge our caution and conservatism, which are always safe policies. Plans for the future should be laid along careful lines, and, above everything else there should be the elimination of all possible waste.

As a reassuring element, it should be borne in mind that the building industry, while showing unmistakable tendencies toward more restricted production in the immediate future gives every evidence of proceeding in substantial volume. This is the key industry of the situation. No other line of business has as many ramifications, so that when building conditions are active and sound it may reasonably be assumed that general business will not be subjected to great hardship.

There is every indication that the coming summer and fall will witness a larger amount of building throughout the United States than was produced in 1923, and it may not fall greatly short of last year which was the banner year for the industry. Actual construction work now in operation is large, and building permits in the leading cities and towns of the nation were in larger volume during the first four months of 1924 than they were during the same period last year.

Therefore, even though the curve of activity is beginning to descend, an attitude of general confidence should prevail.

Thrift is always advantageous and advisable, but at periods when business in general is proceeding along more cautious lines, it is an especially good time to practice greater efficiency whenever possible. Widespread appreciation of the value of eliminating waste will put the entire nation on a more substantial footing.—American Thrift Society.

Stories That Recall Others

One Fish "Looked Awfully Bad"

A little girl was the owner of two goldfish, which were her most prized possessions. Several weeks ago, she went out of town, but before going she intrusted her fish to the neighbor next door, who promised to look after them carefully. Unfortunately during the owner's absence, one of the fish died, much to the embarrassment of the neighbor.

When the family returned and the little girl learned of the death of her pet she could hardly keep from crying. "Well, I guess it couldn't be helped; one of them was looking awfully bad when I left," she said.

George's View

George, age seven, and his aunt were walking homeward when an April cloud appeared. Georgie was grateful him rapidly home. Presently there a few rumbles of thunder, the clouds passed over. Soon another small cluster of clouds appeared. The aunt, renewing her speed for home, asserted: "I wonder where those clouds are going."

George, quite vexed by the precipitous rush, quickly replied: "I think they are going to thunder."

POETRY

THE BEDS OF FLEUR-DE-LIS.

High-lying, sea-blown stretches of green turf,
Wind-bitten close, salt-colored by the sea,
Lo curve on curve spread fat to the cool sky,
And, curving over them as long they lie,
Beds of wild fleur-de-lis.

Wide-flowing, self-sown, stealing near and far,
Breaking the green like islands in the sea;
Great stretches at your feet, and spots that bend
Dwindling over the horizon's end—
Wild beds of fleur-de-lis.

The light keen wind streams on across the lifts,
Their wend of western springtime by the sea;
The close turf smiles unmoved, but over her
Is the far-flying rustle and sweet stir
In beds of fleur-de-lis.

And here and there across the smooth, low grass,
Tall maidens wander, thinking of the sea;
And bend, and bend, with light robes blown aside,
For the blue lily-flowers that bloom so wide—
The beds of fleur-de-lis.
—Charlotte Perkins Stetson.

Sisters of the Roses,
When the Morning smiles
Bright on all her posies
And their charming wiles,
None beneath her beaming
Lifts so fair a seeming,
Answering to her call.

When the long day closes,
When the Night unbars
To incense all her portals,
From the land of mortals
Sweetest yours of all!

A contract for planting 18,000 trees on the Montreal-Quebec highway was awarded to a Joliette nursery by the provincial department of highways and roads. Half of these trees were to be planted this spring and the other half next fall. This number is in addition to the 2,000 trees to be planted by the lands and forest department for the account of the roads department. A total of 200,000 plants will be necessary to improve the scenery along the principal highways in the western section of the province.

Detectives in Canada are being taught a code by means of which they can communicate with one another by dropping, rising or other movements of the eyes, and also how to "talk" secretly by means of finger touches, by twisting of a cigar, fingering of a mustache and twiddling fingers behind the back. This is being done, according to Popular Mechanics, so that they can transfer their thoughts when in the presence of criminals or prisoners. It is declared that communication with the eyelids can be as rapid as the ordinary man typewrites.

FUNERALS

John H. Casey, Sr.

The funeral of John H. Casey, Sr., was held Wednesday morning at 8:20 o'clock from his home, No. 90 Sixth street. At 9 o'clock a requiem mass was celebrated at St. Mary's Memorial church by Rev. William A. Keefe. Henry J. LaFontaine presided at the organ and Pie Jesu was sung at the offertory with Lead, Kindly Light, as a waiting hymn. Burial took place in St. Joseph's cemetery and a committal service was read at the grave by Rev. Father Keefe.

The bearers were four sons, Thomas E. Casey, William O. Casey, John H. Casey and Charles P. Casey, also Frank McCone and James H. Casey. There was a large attendance at the funeral and there were many beautiful floral forms. Hourigan Bros. had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mr. Casey died Sunday after an illness of ten weeks. He was born in Ireland but had lived in this country since he was seven years old. He was an iron moulder and for 45 years was employed by the A. H. Vaughn Co. He was a charter member of Div. No. 1, A. O. H.

Mr. Casey was united in marriage with Alice Dundun in old St. Mary's church by Rev. Daniel Mullen. He is survived by five sons, Thomas E., William G., John H., Michael J., Charles P., and three daughters, Mrs. W. McCune, Kathryne E., and Alice V. Casey. There are also nieces, nephews and several grand-children.

WEDDINGS.

Casavant—Malady.

Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock at St. Patrick's church Leo J. Casavant of Thirteenth street and Miss Catherine C. Malady of No. 251 Laurel Hill avenue were united in marriage by Rev. M. H. May, rector of the church. The bridesmaid was Miss Theresa Saunders and the best man was Stanley Lewin. The bride was gowned in white satin trimmed with lace and her veil was caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies. The bridesmaid was gowned in Nile green georgette and carried a shower bouquet of tea roses.

Following the wedding ceremony a breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary Malady, No. 251 Laurel Hill avenue. During the day Mr. and Mrs. Casavant left for a wedding tour to Boston. They will reside on Convent avenue. The bride received many beautiful gifts of furniture, silver ware, linen, etc. The bride's gift to her maid was a necklace of pearls and the groom's gift to the best man was a pair of cuff links.

The bride was born in Norwich and has been employed as an operator in the local telephone exchange. The groom is a native of Chicopee, Mass., and is the son of Henry and Bertha Bienaview Casavant. He is employed as a conductor by the Connecticut company.

Schindler—Bernier.

Theodore J. Schindler of New London and Miss Rose Bernier of Baltic were united in marriage Monday morning at 9 o'clock in St. Mary's church, Baltic, by Revd William T. O'Brien. The bridesmaid was Miss Blanche Bernier, sister of the bride, and the best man Arthur Tanguay, of Adams, Mass., her cousin. The bride was gowned in white silk with coronet veil of tulle, caught with pearl beads. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore a gown of orange and carried pink roses.

A wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home. She was the recipient of many handsome wedding gifts. Guests were present from Adams, Mass., Bristol, New London, Norwich and Danielson. The bride and groom left for a wedding trip to New York and on their return will reside in Montville where Mr. Schindler is employed by the Robert Gair Co.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Onesime Bernier of Baltic and has been employed in the Baltic mill. Mr. Schindler is the son of Mrs. Augustus Watson of New London.

IN HOSPITAL UNCONSCIOUS AFTER HIT BY AUTOMOBILE

Charles Stapleton of 20 Washington street was struck by an automobile about 6 o'clock Wednesday evening as he was getting off a trolley car to go to his work as watchman at the Norwich Belt Manufacturing plant on North Main street and is unconscious at the Backus hospital with severe concussion of the brain and possible fractured skull.

Narcisse Lamonth of Taftville, driver of the automobile that hit Stapleton, was arrested when the trolley crew charged him with reckless driving. He claimed that the trolley car had not quite come to a stop as Mr. Stapleton was getting off.

The injured man was taken to the Backus hospital in the ambulance

QUEER SIGHTS AND CUSTOMS IN JAPAN DESCRIBED BY NORWICH TOURIST

One of the most interesting letters written home by Rutherford C. Plaut on his trip around the world was that describing his visit to Japan.

The letter follows:

On the Last Leg at Sea.
May 10, 1924.

My dear Ed and all: You won't believe it, but here it is five-thirty o'clock in the morning and I am up and in the writing room, so that I can get a letter off to you. I can assure you right here that this is the last letter that you can expect from me on this "Round the World" cruise. The next move for you, after you receive this letter is to be on the lookout for me. All in our party have been very well, even Minnye, who, you know, always complains as to her physical condition. She has been kept so busy these last few weeks in China and Japan that she has had no opportunity to think of herself. It was in beautiful Nikko that I found her climbing to the temple of one hundred stairs and she did not make a murmur, and, Ed, you know how she complains when she has to walk from Broad street to the city at home, and by the way, Ed, Cadden still has that $13 bathing suit which you helped him buy in New York on January last, and the blame thing hasn't as yet seen the light of day, and to think that you and he spent so much good time chasing around New York to find a suit that would suit his peculiar style of beauty, only to have it become obsolete, but perhaps this summer at Ocean Beach he will break it in. Carrie has a very good time. Everything she sees she wants to buy. Only today she wanted me to go halves with her and buy her a pair of jade earrings. I did not know what I could do with a half a pair so I compromised with her and loaned her the $25 to buy them.

Pittsburgh of Japan.

The last time I wrote to you I said that the next time I would tell you about Osaka and Yokohama. Well, we took the train one rainy day for Osaka, the Pittsburgh of Japan, as it is sometimes called. In 1920, it had 1,305,000 inhabitants. They say that 25 years ago Osaka was without a factory chimney, but it is now the great manufacturing centre of the Japanese empire and from the top of its show place—the ruined castle—one can count hundreds of high smokestacks. It has a rice exchange, resembling the wheat pit of Chicago. The slums of Osaka are the filthiest in the world, without plumbing or sewers, not at all in accord with the cleanliness in most of the Jananese large cities. The hours of labor in Osaka vary from 11 to 16 hours. Wages are low and the employers' lack of care for their workmen has caused strikes and sabotage, and although strikes are prohibited by law, they are not suppressed by the government. All the evils of child labor—long hours, unsanitary factories, are very glaring, but Japan is beginning to correct this. The Osaka castle is very impressive. There are single stones 46 feet in length and 10 or 12 feet square to be found on each side of the main gate. Other stones 20 feet high are in the foundation, many being known by special names and having their own legends. Here is revealed a mastery of engineering skill in handling and placing such enormous stones without the aid of modern appliances, which is all the more remarkable, in view of the fact that it was built 300 years ago.

The bronze bell in Tenno-ji temple is the largest hanging bell in the world, being 26 feet high and 34 in circumference, and it weighs 155 tons and requires the trunk of a tree to make it boom. The Kremlin bell in Moscow, which is 19 feet in height, is the next in size. Here also is a pond of over a half a million sacred turtles.

It sure was a depressing sight to see the devastation of the city of Yokohama. The city is recovering its appearance after the earthquake blow of last September as fast as thousands of carpenters and other workmen are able to put up new buildings. Other thousands of laborers are clearing away the debris that remained after the big fire swept the city. The work of cleaning up is now in the last stages and in a few more weeks the wreckage will be cleared from the streets. The new city that is springing up will have no resemblance, they say, to the former "Gateway to the Far East." During the early days succeeding the big disaster, it is said that Yokohama resembled a frontier boom. This appearance is changing every day and the rude shacks are being replaced with buildings somewhat more substantial and in many instances after the type of building to be seen in the amusement section of some big exposition. Stucco buildings, with brilliantly pointed fronts of peak design and coloring, are taking the places of the old Japanese architecture on Bentendori and Motomachi, the shopping sections. There are still no foreign hotels of a permanent nature in the city. The Tent Hotel, opposite the site of the Grand hotel, is taking care of the transient guests of the city. Restaurants of every description, from a bench by the roadside to fine, modern eating places, are to be found by the scores in all parts of the city. The "Quake," the first restaurant built after the disaster, the Tent restaurant, the Crescent club, and the Suisse restaurant, handle most of the foreign trade. On the front of the Quake hotel is a sign that reads "Quake Hotel. Meals served between shakes." The Japanese, to the very lowest, have charming manners, polished like their incomparable lacquer, and said, by old European residents, to be no deeper. Those who have had business dealings with both nations infinitely prefer the Chinese to the Japanese. The Chinese nibble, but they never repudiate. According to the European merchants in Yokohama, the Japanese gives an order and when it is completed repudiates it, if he has an object in doing so. It is hard to pin a Japanese down in a bargain. He will never commit himself, and woe be to you if you go on trust, so say the oldest residents. The Chinaman's word is good. The Japanese does you wholesale. So says the merchant and so says the sea captain.

In Yokohama, we devoted a day to visiting the great Daibutsu at Kamakura. This great bronze Buddha is one of the wonders of Japan, and, though not so large, it is more impressive than the one at Nara, owing, possibly, to the fact that it is in the open. The site is elevated and in the midst of splendid cryptomeria trees, and, as one enters the gateway, he reads this inscription:

"Stranger, whoever thou art, and whatsoever thy creed, when thou enterest this sanctuary, remember that thou treadest upon ground hallowed by the worship of ages! This is the temple of Buddha and the gate of the Eternal. Enter it, therefore, with reverence."

The face of this giant Buddha, seated upon a lotus leaf, is the most beautiful I have ever seen, even though the day was stormy. The statue was cast 1258 A. D. and is 49 feet high. Its eyes are pure gold. It was once in a building, destroyed by a tidal wave in 1494, and ever since this big statue has just sat under the blue sky. One would indeed be hardened who would not be impressed at this calm Buddha. The face is so profoundly meditative, the hands rest quietly in the lap, the thumbs touching each other. I have a bronze replica of it, which I will be glad to show.

Tokio was our next place to visit. Poor Tokio! What the earthquake didn't do to this beautiful place! Tokio is a welding of past and present, of old and new, of stagnation and progress. Palaces, Shiba parks, shops and theatres—we visited each in turn. One of the sights is the tomb of the second Shogun. It is a superb thing. Korean lions, big beasts and reptiles, overhanging the arches, oriental colors, bewildering to the eye, because of their gold splendor in profusion, huge columns—all these enter into its decorations and fine lacquer work abounds. The priests' apartments, the carvings by Hidara-Jingoro on the doors; wonderfully painted sliding screens, it is all so overwhelming with its richness.

Nikko, the Show Place.

It was from Yokohama that we went to Nikko. To reach Nikko, we traveled a most picturesque and attractive part of Japan, as Nikko rests right in the heart of the mountains. Its stormy little river cuts right across the town and cascades everywhere. When we went to Nikko, it had been raining a good deal, but the day after our arrival, the weather was superb. It was cold in Nikko and we had fires in our rooms, and it seemed like December instead of May, but nevertheless, we all started out to see the town. From the Red Lacquered Bridge to the tomb of the Shogun, we had one thrill after another. The old hackneyed expression, "See Nikko before you say 'magnificent'" was well said. Nothing could be more satisfying. Many of the Shinto shrines were quite ornate, because they once had Buddha shrines, and the combination still remains. The wise priests of the Shinto temples decided when they took the Buddhist temples to keep the glorious things they found in them. Everyone knows, of course, that the emperor and empress were always Shinto worshippers. Nature has been kind to Nikko. Even without her temples, she would be one of the show places of her country. Add, therefore, to her natural beauties the glories of her art, her wonderful places of worship, and their carved screens, gold canopies, etc., and what does she lack? The Kanos are unusually fine, and here on the outside of one of the buildings I was interested to see the original of that familiar little group of the three wise monkeys, whose attitudes express the well known quotation, "Speak No Evil, See No Evil, Hear No Evil!" Here are also carved some animals, which have become famous, an elephant, a bull, and last of all, the sleeping cat. The latter is cut on the entrance or gate to Iyeyasu tomb. At one temple, we all took off our shoes and entered, and here were squatting priests, either counting money or watching pilgrims, the sing-song of other priests instructing tourists and sightseers. We saw some exquisite things here, one of them being a carved cherry tree of brass, every blossom perfect in every detail. The sacred Red Bridge of Nikko is another of her treasures, which the whole world knows. It is made of the finest lacquer and is perhaps the most striking feature of Nikko. Its graceful sweeping arch spans the gorge over that leaping, foaming river. It shines lustriously and no one, except the emperor and empress, are ever permitted to walk across its sacred span. The Japanese will never forget the courtesy of General Grant, when he was making his tour of the world. Wishing to show the greatest honor possible to the great American general, they offered him the privilege of crossing the sacred bridge. With General Grant's usual good judgment, he declined, saying that their beautiful bridge was far too sacred to be polluted by his footsteps. Two monolithic torii shaped pillars of gray granite support it on either end. These Torii gates of Japan are cer-

END OF THE SEASON FOR CATHOLIC WOMEN'S CLUB

Wednesday afternoon, the Catholic Women's club held a business meeting at the rooms of the Catholic Ladies of Columbus, this being the last meeting until fall. There was a good attendance at the session, at which the president, Mrs. James J. Dutton presided.

Reports showed that the business of the year was finished, also all financial obligations met. It was brought out that over 125 garments had been completed during the sewing this season.

Plans were made for an all-day outing for the members during July. Tea was served, Mrs. John B. Gallivan pouring. The table decorations were purple and yellow, the flowers being purple iris and yellow candles being used.

Under direction of Mrs. Dutton the club has had an active and successful year.

Completing Central Avenue Improvement.

Under the direction of Acting Street Commissioner John C. Donovan, employes of the street department are completing the work on the Central avenue improvement by putting the crushed stone between the trolley tracks and rolling it down with the steam road roller. A coating of tarvia will be put on for the finishing touch and Central avenue will then rank with any well paved street in the city.

Mercier Assembly Met.

With the president, Miss Mary H. Maloney, in the chair, Mercier Assembly, No. 12, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, held a regular meeting Tuesday evening at T. A. B. building. It was voted that the assembly support the lawn festival to be held in the near future by the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women. It is expected that all members of the assembly will receive holy communion Sunday, June 15, at the 7.30 o'clock mass at St. Patrick's church. A large attendance is looked for at the communion breakfast at the Wauregan hotel and all members who plan to attend are expected to communicate with Mrs. Ella Bowne.

Repairing West Side Bridge.

The selectmen are having new timbers and new planking put in the easterly bridge in West Main street over the Yantic river.

73 IN CONNECTICUT PARTY FOR CLEVELAND

A meeting of the Connecticut delegation to the republican national convention, to be held at the delegation headquarters, Hotel Hollenden, Cleveland, at 10 o'clock Monday morning, has been announced by Senator John H. Trumbull of Plainville, secretary, in a letter forwarded to the fourteen delegates and fourteen alternates who are to represent this state in the nomination of the candidates for president and vice president.

The purpose of the meeting was not stated, it is intended probably to give the delegates an opportunity to decide whether to take concerted action on any question that may arise before the opening of the national convention at 10 o'clock the following day. The meeting was called by State Chairman Roraback, as chairman of the delegation, as he has been in Cleveland since Tuesday attending meetings of the national committee to seat delegations in states where contests have developed. Tickets to the convention for the delegates, alternates, and their guests, will be distributed at this meeting.

Party to Number 73.

Following a meeting of the transportation committee Monday, Senator Trumbull, Tuesday, gave out a complete list of the 73 members of the party, including the names of 39 guests, which have not been announced previously. Reservations for members of the party have been made in two residential apartment hotels, the Fenway Hall, Euclid avenue to East 107th street, and Wade Park Manor, East 107th street at Park lane.

At Fenway Hall.

Those who have been assigned to Fenway Hall are: Senator Charles H. Allen, Col. W. Ellery Allyn, Dr. Walter Barnum, J. Frederick Baker, Town Chairman Walter E. Batterson of Hartford, Frederick N. Belding, Lieut.-Gov. Hiram Bingham, Lebbeus F. Bissell, Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett and Mrs. Blodgett, Theodore Bodenwein, George H. Bradford, Representative J. Edwin Brainard, Morgan B. Brainard, Harvey M. Briggs, Representative Ernest W. Christ, Dr. J. S. Chaffee and Mrs. Chaffee, Charles Hopkins Clark, George C. Clark, Judge Alex W. Creedon, Col. Robert O. Enton, State Agent Raymond F. Gates, State Treasurer G. Harold Gilpatric, Frederick Goodrich, ex-Senator William H. Heald, ex-Senator Henry H. Hunt, William H. Hunter, Frederick B. Kingsbury, ex-Senator George W. Klett, William H. Lyon, Commissioner of Labor and Factory Inspector Harry E. Mackenzie, Col. Francis T. Maxwell, Louis P. Miller, A. I. Mitchell, Representative Clemens Mortenson, V. Palmer, Senator William G. Park, William H. Putnam, J. Henry Roraback, Senator Ernest E. Rogers, Representative Andrew N. Shepard, Lucius S. Storrs, Senator John H. Trumbull, Chairman John M. Wadhams of the state board of finance, ex-Speaker James F. Walsh, Harris Whittemore, Sr., Harris Whittemore, Jr., Representative Charles E. Williamson, ex-Governor Rollin S. Woodruff.

At Wade Park Manor.

The following have been assigned to Wade Park Manor: Miss Isabel L. Alcorn, Miss Emma L. Alcorn, Mr. and Mrs. Norman C. Beers, Miss Katherine Byrne, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis M Carpenter, Mrs. Ernest A. Jennings Mrs. Helen E. Lewis, Mrs. Lou C Meehan, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M Pickett, Jr., and Mrs. Jomar W. Platt, Mrs. Alice Rugg, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Waters, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence G. Willard.

Other members of the party, who have made their own reservations, are ex-Senator Arthur E. Bowers, Marcellus Hartley Dodge, W. W. Porter, Mrs. Samuel O. Prentice, Louis D Stanton and Theodore C. Wallen.

V. Palmer of Willimantic has been appointed assistant sergeant-at-arms by the transportation committee. Clarence G. Willard of New Haven, assistant secretary of the state central committee, was appointed sergeant-at-arms by the delegation at its organization meeting several weeks ago.

The trip from Connecticut to Cleveland and return will be made by special train, by way of the New Haven road to New York and by way of the Pennsylvania railroad from New York to Cleveland. The train will leave Hartford at 1.30 p. m. Saturday, and will make stops, to pick up members of the party, at New Haven at [illegible] p. m., at Bridgeport at 2.55 p. m. and at South Norwalk at 3.15 p. m. Arrival in Cleveland, Euclid avenue station, is scheduled for 8.40 a. m. Sunday.

Free Taxi Service.

The train will be composed of one club car, four seven-compartment cars two of which will have drawing rooms, one six-compartment observation car and one dining car.

Meals will be provided as part of the train service, and taxi service has been provided for each member of the party upon arrival at Cleveland. The official Connecticut badge, which will be issued to party members on the train, will serve as a pass for free taxi service between the station and the hotels and the convention hall.

This information was embodied in Senator Trumbull's letter to the delegates and alternates. Baggage slips, printed in the national colors, were enclosed with the letter.

The badge prepared by the transportation committee is a handsome combination of blue and gold. It consists of the state coat of arms in blue, gold and white efiamel, mounted on a bronze-colored metal map, in relief, of the state of Connecticut, from which is suspended a blue ribbon bearing the words, "Connecticut Delegation to Republican National Convention."

Each member of the party will be supplied with several of the badges for exchange for the badges of other state delegations.

Hope and happiness are so chummy that when one dies the other commits suicide.

This New Treatment Never Fails To End Piles

Any sufferers from Piles or Hemorrhoids have become despondent because they have been led to believe that their case was hopeless and that there was nothing in the world to help them.

To these people we say, "Go to your druggist and get an original box of MOAVA SUPPOSITORIES." One of these inserted into the rectum according to directions will be found to give immediate relief. They reach the source of the trouble and by their soothing, healing, antiseptic action first allay the pain and soreness and then by direct contact with the ulcers and piles cause them to heal up and disappear forever.

It's simply wonderful how speedily they act. Blessed relief often comes in two days. Even in cases that have steadily resisted all known treatments, marvelous results have been obtained.

Lee & Osgood Co. dispense MOAVA SUPPOSITORIES in the original box or can get it for you on short notice.

JAIL SENTENCE AND FINE IN PEQUOT CASINO CASE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 4.—After deliberating more than two hours, the jury in the criminal term of the superior court which has been hearing the evidence in the case of John Carney of New Haven, former proprietor of the Pequot Casino, charged with violation of the liquor law, this afternoon returned a verdict of not guilty of actual sale but guilty on the charge of reputation. Judge Christopher L. Avery immediately imposed penalty, fining Carney $50 and imposing a sentence of 30 days in jail.

Carney was arrested a year ago, the day after the Yale-Harvard boat race, when a squad of county officers, state police and prohibition officers visited the popular resort. No liquor was found, but two exhibits of liquor appeared in the case which witnesses for the state testified they had purchased at the place. The sale was denied by Carney, who declared that if the liquor was purchased at the Casino it was obtained from some of his colored employes and without his knowledge.

Testimony was concluded this forenoon, after which the arguments were started, being concluded about 2.30 o'clock. Judge Avery then charged the jury and that body retired to review the evidence shortly after 3 o'clock.

In the argument presented by G Curtis Morgan, counsel for Carney the attorney administered a scathing attack upon Mrs. Alice Hunt of Niantic, former New London policewoman. He referred to her as having made untrue statements and perjured herself in submitting her testimony. Mrs. Hunt testified that she had been informed by Frederick R. Swanson and Patrolman William Babcock that the Casino was reputed to be a place where liquor could be obtained. When called to the witness stand, Officer Babcock and Swanson denied that they had ever made the statements credited to them as having been uttered to the former policewoman.

TWO BADLY BURNED AT EXPLOSION AND FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Jewett City, June 4—The Backus hospital ambulance answered a call and came to Jewett City shortly after 6 o'clock this evening. An explosion of great violence occurred a little after six with a resultant fire in a tenement of the house on North Main street, occupied on the upper floor by the Graska family. An alarm from station 41 brought Chief Wakely and his men, they arriving before the last repeat of the alarm had ceased.

People living near saw a boy, aged 11, followed by his mother, about 35, rush down the outside stairs leading from their tenement. The mother's clothing of both was burning. The mother pushed the boy into the grass and wrapped him in a blanket which she had evidently hurriedly snatched from a [illegible]

NURSES ALUMNAE ASSOCIATION HOLDS ANNUAL REUNION

The annual reunion of the Nurses Alumnae association of the William W. Backus Hospital Training School was held on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Nurses' Home, the president, Mrs. William A. Pitcher, presiding. The graduating class of 1924 were the special guests of the afternoon. The president, after extending a cordial welcome to all, very fittingly explained to the members of the graduating class the object of the association, the advantages of belonging to it and the beauty of each in giving it their best support, after which in behalf of the alumnae association she presented each member of the class a hand book on nursing. The musical entertainment of the afternoon was as follows: Singing of America by all, and four songs, Spring Is Awake, Three A Little Dutch Garden and Two Little Magpies by Mrs W. A. Burgy, accompanied by Mrs. Charles A. Saxton. Refreshments provided by several members of the association and [illegible] friends were served under the direction of Mrs. E. [illegible] Ryan after which a very enjoyable hour was spent.

DEMPSEY WILL NOT DEFEND TITLE THIS YEAR AGAINST WILLS OR FIRPO

New York, June 4.—Jack Dempsey will not defend his heavyweight crown this year if Tex Rickard goes through with his plans for a match between the titleholder's two outstanding rivals, Luis Angel Firpo of the Argentine, and Harry Wills, giant negro.

This was disclosed today by the promoter, who explained that inability to sign Firpo for a match with Wills before August 20 precluded the possibility of arranging a championship contest for the winner with Dempsey.

Rickard, however, declared that he might abandon the Wills-Firpo contest for the long-awaited title bout between the negro and Dempsey as the outstanding heavyweight attraction of the year. The promoter asserted he had determined to stage only one major match but as yet has not decided which to conduct.

Rickard has Wills signed to a contract for battles with either Firpo or Dempsey. He also has come to terms with Jack Kearns, manager of Dempsey, for title fights with either Firpo or Wills as a result of negotiations within the past few days. Firpo recently emerged from retirement to accept Rickard's offer of $250,000 for a Wills fight but has not signed articles because of uncertainty over the date, which the South American does not want to be earlier than August 20.

Kearns denied reports that the champion's motion picture engagement, said to involve $1,000,000, would prevent him from defending his title in the ring before 1925.

"I have come to an agreement on terms with Rickard and am willing to sign for Dempsey to fight Wills, Firpo or anyone else this year," said Kearns. "Our movie contract does not interfere with the champion's ring activities."

Rickard will hold either the Wills-Firpo or Wills-Dempsey fight in his Jersey City bowl, Boyle's thirty acres, probably on Saturday, September 6. His original intention was to match Wills and Firpo the middle of July or first of August and then pit the winner against Dempsey on the September date.

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch
Fordham Star, New York Giants

Any inning. Runner on first and third bases. The batter up is the best hitter on the opposing team. The fielding team has a lead of two runs. One man is out.

Should the batter up be passed to first base?

When a team has a two run lead over the team at bat and there are two men an bases and but one out, it would be extremely foolish to pass the batter up even if he is the best hitter in the country. There is always a chance and a good one that a best hitter will hit into a double play or else send out a sacrifice fly. If he does the latter any outfielder can hold the tying run on first base. Under such conditions never pass the batter. Try to hold your lead of two runs or at the worst have the opposition reduce it to but one run. Remember that if you pass such a batter and fill the bases with but one man out a single by the next batter will tie the score and will leave the team in the field in a position to take the lead before the inning is over.

HARTFORD SPLITS TWIN BILL WITH PITTSFIELD

Pittsfield, Mass., June 4.—Pittsfield and Hartford split even in a double header here this afternoon, the home club winning the first game, 11 to 1, and losing the second, 7 to 1. Mills in addition to pitching good ball in the opener, hit a home run with one man on base, a double and a single. Swaney and Van Alstyne were in a good pitchers' battle in the second game until the eighth when the visitors batted in four runs. The hitting of Malone, who had a double, two singles and two passes, featured this game. Score by innings of the second game:

Two base hits, Malone, 2; Schmehl, Stapleton, Esmond, Gehrig. Three base hit, Hager.

Wool-Men Win.

The American Woolen Co. baseball team of Norwich won their first twilight game by taking in the West Ends Tuesday night by the score of 7 to 1. Sidney pitched fine ball for six innings for the losers, holding the Wool-Men to six hits and three runs. Zimmerman, who relieved him, was touched for six hits and four runs in the last two innings. Fuller pitched hard for the Wool-Men, getting five strikeouts in the first three innings, but his control was a little off. Diffley, who relieved Fuller in the fourth pitched a great game, allowing but one hit in the remaining innings, and but for an error allowed one run. Hamill caught a great game, he and Roy Wheeler featuring in hitting. Sidney featured for the West Ends.

Committee Licks Funds

LORD DERBY WINS WORLD'S CLASSIC TURF EVENT FOR 1ST TIME SINCE 1787

Epsom Downs, England, June 4.—(By The A. P.)—Lord Derby's "mudhorse" Sansovino, with Weston up today ploughed easily over the historic course of Epsom Downs and, finishing six lengths in the lead, brought to the sportsman earl for the first time in his 31 years of striving, the blue ribbon of the world's classic turf event—the 141st renewal of the derby stakes.

Incidentally, the Chestnut colt broke a stretch of 137 years of bad luck for the Derby family, so far as the race they initiated is concerned and which this representative house has been unable to win since the derby horse, Sir Peter Teazle, scored for the family colors of black and white in 1787.

It was a day for stayers with the turf soft from constant rain — the downpour began during the morning and continued uninterruptedly throughout the day—and Sansovino demonstrated fighting qualities. While the winner's time for the mile and a half course was 2 minutes 46 2-5 seconds, or 12 1-5 seconds slower than the record, it was unusually good when the condition of the course is considered.

Two American jockeys, O'Neill and Archibald, failed to finish in the running. O'Neill came in eighth on Spalbeen and Archibald fourteenth on Resinato, the king's entry. Donoghue, who won golden spurs with his third consecutive triumph with Papyrus last year, brought up among the also-rans.

Rain came down in torrents as the colts faced the barrier, but the good-natured crowd lowered their umbrellas so that all might have at least a small chance of seeing the great field get away. There was a false start when Donoghue's mount, Defiance, broke. Then they were all off in a bunch with St. Germans, Sansovino, Hurstwood, Bright Knight and Tom Pinch leading. The race settled down into a close grind for the leaders over the first four furlongs. Then Sansovino began forging ahead. The field swept into the stretch around the dreaded Tattenham corner, the black and white colt held a commanding lead which was unmenaced until he romped easily past the post.

Sansovino, by Swynford, out of Gondolette, who had been made favorite in the event overnight, was 9 to 2 against in the betting. Lord Aster's St. Germans was 100 to against. A field of 27 horses started.

The rain ruined silk hats and disappointed style seekers but could not stop the English crowd from attending the derby in huge throngs. Despite the torrents the crowds were estimated to have numbered several hundred thousand, even exceeding those who witnessed the event last year. The throngs were swelled by many visitors who are attending the British empire exhibition at Wembley. Hundreds of Americans in England did not miss the chance to view the classic.

So far as styles were concerned, they were there. But Derby-going sportsmen and baggy-trousered, rain-coated ordinary folks mingled on full terms of equality with top-hatted fashionables. Women defied the rain with fish-pink stockings and colored shoes, but raincoats ruled.

If there was any smart color present, it was blue, the feminine portion of the spectators evidently having received advance information that the queen would wear a gown of that shade.

As usual the lighter-fingered members of the throng attempted to reap harvests of bills and silver, but raincoats furnished added protection to the customarily careless crowds. Gypsies, who always swarm to Epsom Downs for the event, appeared undismayed by the rain and their picturesque costumes furnished the brightest colors of the afternoon.

Royalty was well represented by the king and queen, prince of Wales, the duke of York, Viscount Lascelles, the queen of Rumania and the Infanta Beatrice of Spain. King George although his own horse was not in the running, apparently was well-pleased at Lord Derby's success. He called the earl to him immediately upon the ending of the race to extend congratulations.

The great crowd, even those who lost many "quid," gave Lord Derby and Jockey Weston an ovation, for the earl is known as one of England's most popular sportsmen and the spectators appeared to be unanimously glad that he had won.

LIKELY TO POSTPONE WILLS-MADDEN BOUT

New York, June 4. — The Harry Wills-Bartley Madden heavyweight encounter, blocked for a variety of reasons here and in Newark since last February, may not be held, as planned, next Monday night at the Queensboro stadium.

Despite the 30-day permit granted the arena by the board of standards and appeals in reversing the fire department's condemnation order, George E. Brower, chairman of the state athletic commission, said today no license would be granted until the fire department endorsed the arena permit. Members of the board of standards and appeals, however, insisted such endorsement was not necessary and pointed out that the delay evidently was caused by failure of the boxing salons to get a copy of the resolution approving the arena. This, they said, would not be in the hands of the commission until next Tuesday, so that another postponement of the bout seems inevitable.

OPENS NEW LONDON INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, June 4.—Although the weather favored anything but a baseranks of the twilight organizations in ball game, the Industrial league joined the city by inaugurating its season at Morgan Park this evening. The pomp and ceremony that was missing at the opening of the City League was very much in evidence at the opening game of the Industrial circuit. With City Mayor Malcom F. Scott throwing out the first ball, the officials got under way with the Post Office and the Connecticut Power company were on the long end of a 7 to 1 score.

The game had its good and bad features. Among the good features were the hitting and fielding of the rejuvenated Sullivan and heavy stickwork of Gurdy Williams the Power company catcher. Williams had a double and a triple to show for his efforts at the plate. The bad features of the contest was the poor fielding of the Post Office players.

Priestly with his team mates giving him good support and with the team in a hitting mood easily won the opening game of the season. He was never in trouble and had the Post Office players hitting the thin air when men were stationed on the base paths. Only two hits were made off his delivery. Joe Cranker who was on the mound for the Post Office pitched his first game of the present season and had a little difficulty in getting the ball over the plate at times. However had he been accorded the right kind of support there would have been another tale to the story, as only four hits were made off the veteran Cranker's delivery.

VOLUNTOWN WINS CLOSE GAME FROM WESTERLY

In the best game of the season the Voluntown team won, 3 to 2, from Westerly on Sunday afternoon on the Voluntown grounds. The game proved to be a pitchers' battle between Liberty for Voluntown and Mooney for Westerly. Liberty had the best of the argument, striking out 15 men and allowing only six hits, and passing none, while his opponent pitched a great game, striking out 14 men, allowing seven hits, but gave five free passes. Both received fairly good support. The error column showing three for the locals and six for the visitors.

Hall for the locals featured with the stick, in three trips to the plate, making two singles and a sacrifice, his first hit being a Texas leaguer with two men on and two down. Two men came in on the play, practically winning the game. Another run was scored in the seventh. The visitors scored in the first and seventh innings.

Score by innings:

Voluntown ..... 0 2 0 0 0 0 1 0 x—3

Batteries: Voluntown—Liberty and LaChapelle; Westerly—Mooney and Clarke. Struck out by Liberty 15, by Mooney 14; three base hit, Ashworth; bases on balls off Mooney 2; umpire, Arnold.

U. S. FINISHING CO. IS OUT FOR SATURDAY GAMES

The U. S. Finishing Co. baseball team has been organized for the season and is made up of fast ball players. The catching will be in charge of Mulholland who is in fine condition. Kathe, a former Bulkeley catcher, will help Mulholland keep the opponents hugging the bases. For the pitching duties there will be Sullivan, former St. Mary's school player, and Tenant, former Greeneville school pitcher. First base is in charge of Lafreire, also St. Mary's; second base in charge of Delworth, former Salem High school player; third base is left to Moran, a former Lowell Textile school player.

Simcox, who needs no introduction in Norwich, will amble at short and also contribute in hitting. In the outfield Jankowski of Pittsburgh Trade school, Harris, former Academy player, and Seed, of the Academy, will do their stuff.

The manager has games booked with the other branch teams and eight games are to be played. Open dates are June 1-14, July 4-5-19. The Woolen mill team has challenged for June 5th, but any team wishing to these open dates or who wish to play shop games on Saturday, are asked to write to Edward McIntyre, manager, 93 Fourth St., Norwich, Conn.

THOUSANDS WATCH BATTLE OF MARBLES

Atlantic City, N. J., June 4.—A new hero emerged today from the battle for the national marble shooters' championship now being waged on the beach here. He is Tommy Wright, of Chicopee, Mass., who emerged at the end of the day's play as champion of the New England league. He will enter the semi-finals tomorrow to test his skill against winners in the other five leagues.

Wright has a perfect average, having won eight games and lost none. He made 104 points in eight games, the highest possible number attainable.

The contests are being watched from the boardwalk by thousands of visitors from all sections of the United States.

POSTPONE PRATT HIGH CHAPMAN TECH GAME

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 4.—Wet grounds was the cause of the calling off of the contest between Chapman Tech and Pratt High, scheduled for Morgan Park this afternoon. Although the field was in a fair condition for play, the Tech management took no chances and called off the game early this morning, when the rain came down in a steady downpour.

This game will be played at New London at a later date and the only contest for the Red and Black this week is with Westerly in New London on Saturday afternoon.

GAGE ELECTED CAPTAIN OF YALE 1925 TRACK TEAM

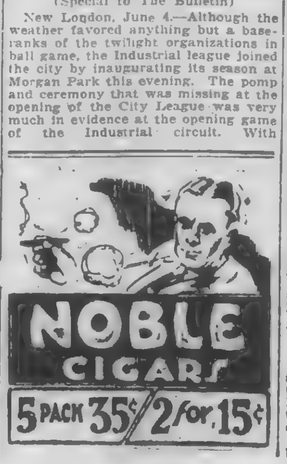
New Haven, June 4. — Charles S. Gage of Brooklyn, N. Y., a junior at Yale, was today elected captain of the university track team for next year. Gage is a member of Yale's one-mile relay team and in the 440-yard dash in the intercollegiates last week finished fifth. He was captain of the 1925 freshman track team. With the joint Yale-Harvard team last year he finished second in the quarter mile against Oxford and Cambridge in England.

YALE VARSITY CREW TO ENTER OLYMPIC TRIAL

New Haven, June 4.—The Yale varsity crew will enter the Olympic trials to be held in Philadelphia next week, Professor C. W. Mendell, chairman of the Yale athletic association, announced tonight.

The official statement says: "The board of control of the Yale athletic association has sanctioned the entry of the Yale crew in the Olympic trials. The crew will leave Gales Ferry on Wednesday, June 11, and row in the trials in Philadelphia at the end of that week, returning to the Ferry on Saturday for final preparation for the Harvard race. The same crew will row as the Yale crew in the Olympic trials and as the first varsity against Harvard at New London, June 20th."

The present varsity crew defeated Columbia, University of Pennsylvania, Cornell and Princeton in two regattas this season.



NEW BRITAIN WILL PLAY BULKELEY AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 4.—A change has been made in the schedule of the Bulkeley team. This change will affect only the game with New Britain High school scheduled to be played at New Britain on Friday afternoon. The Bulkeley management induced the New Britain manager to have that team come to New London to meet the Orange and Black instead of the Whalers going to the manufacturing town. After some persuasion the amount of guarantee being doubled, the New Britain manager changed the place of this important contest from New Britain to New London. The game will be played at 5 o'clock daylight time, to allow the working class in the city to take in the game which is expected to be one of the hardest fought in annals of Bulkeley history. To make matters more complete, the City league has called off the game that was scheduled for this Friday evening to allow the Bulkeley team to have the field.

The contest with New Britain as well as the game with Crosby High of Waterbury, will be the turning point as far as the Connecticut high school championship is concerned. New Britain, with but two losses and 13 victories, faces Bulkeley with the same confidence that gave this team a 7 to 1 victory over Bridgeport High. As Bulkeley had a hard time beating the team from the Park city, it is no wonder that the New London fans that have seen the Bulkeley team in action this season and have followed up this team's fine record to date fear that the unbroken string of victories will be shattered on Friday. Another team that was defeated or anninilated was the Naugatuck High school outfit. In Bulkeley's game with this team, the Orange and Black had to travel ten innings to win by a 6 to 5 score. New Britain's score against the Naugatuck nine was 19 to 0. Hartford High, undefeated up until the time New Britain stacked up against this team, lost to the Hardware city boys by a 7 to 1 score.

The records of the two rival teams who will be hooked up in the debate Friday speak for themselves. There is no doubt left in the minds of the New London fans as to the kind of a game the New Britain nine will give the state champions. At present in looking over the records of the two teams, it can be seen easily without the use of magnifying glasses, that the New Britain nine boasts a much better record than the Bulkeley nine. But records go for naught when two teams meet each other equally determined to return victorious.

HARVARD WINS ODD GAME FROM PRINCETON

Boston, June 4.—Harvard bunched hits off Townsend today and won a ten inning game with Princeton, 5 to 3. It was the rubber game in the annual series between Crimson and Tiger, each having won a victory previously. Three hits including a double by Todd in the tenth brought in two runs after the teams had been tied at 3 to 3 from the eighth inning. Errors by Lewis, Princeton catcher, were responsible for two Harvard runs. Princeton scored all its runs in the seventh when Tiger batters found Spalding for four timely hits. Jenkins and Todd each made three hits in the game.

Score by innings:

Harvard ..... 0 0 0 1 1 0 0 1 0 2—5

EAST DEFEATS WEST IN 18-HOLE MATCH GAME

Oakland Hills Country Club, Birmingham, Mich., June 4.—(By The A. P.)—Golfers from the Atlantic seaboard stood out tonight over their western opponents whom they defeated this afternoon in an eighteen hole match team play on the Oakland Hills course where tomorrow S. Davison Herron, former amateur champion, and Cyril Hughes, will tee off in the first flight of the national open golf championship. The eastern golfers won only by the narrow margin of two points, the score, under the Nassau rule being compiled at 10 for the easterners and eight for the western team.

M'TIGUE HAS OFFER TO MEET STRIBLING

New York, June 4.—Paddy Mullins, manager of Mike McTigue, light heavyweight boxing champion of the world, today confirmed announcement by McTigue at Saratoga Springs that the champion had accepted an offer of $100,000 to meet Young Stribling under the promotion of Barry McCormick of Kansas City, Kas.

In reference to a dispatch from Tulsa which stated that boxing was prohibited there, Mullins stated that he was not certain where McCormick intended to stage the fight although he understood that it was to be held about September 6. Arrangements for the bout had been discussed on a recent visit of McCormick to New York, Mullins said.

PROMOTERS HAVE NEVER HEARD OF M'CORMICK

Tulsa, Okla., June 4.—Local sports promoters today were puzzled by the announcement of a boxing match scheduled here for Sept. 6th between Mike McTigue and Young Stribling. Boxing is prohibited in Tulsa county by police authorities.

No promoter by the name of McCormick is known to promoters here.

The fight could be held in Osage county within three miles of Tulsa, officers said.

BLUE CREWS HAVE TWO-MILE PRACTICE ROW

Gales Ferry, Conn., June 4.—For the first time since the Yale crews established quarters here, the varsity and junior varsity crews were taken out together by Coach Ed Leader for a two-mile paddle which took them just below the Harvard quarters at Red Top. The freshmen and combination crews went out separately. All returned in excellent condition.

HARVARD VARSITY WINS BY LENGTH FROM JUNIORS

Red Top, Conn., June 4.—The Harvard varsity crew rowed in excellent condition this evening when taken over an eight mile course. The varsity, in a mile brush with the junior varsity eight, won by a full boat length.

The student waiters have organized an eight and will row the Yale waiters Thursday morning, June 19, the day before the Yale-Harvard regatta.

Why They're Using Joint-Ease For Burning Feet

Just because it is now known that burning, sore, aching, swollen feet are caused by trouble in the many joints in the foot and Joint-Ease soaks right in and gets to the seat of the trouble—the cartilage and ligaments of the joints.

And to think that for generations we have been powdering and soaking our feet, thinking the trouble was only skin deep—an old-fashioned idea.

Well, better late than never—just stop the powdering and medical bath

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS BUOYANT

New York, June 4.—Stock prices developed marked buoyancy early today under the leadership of the railroad shares, but a wave of realizing and professional selling of the oil stocks developed toward the close, undermined the entire market and cancelled most of the day's gains. Expanding trading activities, which carried the total sales to almost 800,000 shares, reflected the influence of favorable Washington developments.

Outstanding strength of the railroad stocks, which maintained their lead throughout the day, indicated that Wall street placed great emphasis upon the scant possibility of any adverse legislation in the waning session of congress. The broad buying movement of the rails, centered particularly in the southern and southwestern carriers, carried a half dozen or more issues to the highest levels of the year.

Recurrent rumors of additional oil price cuts provided the excuse for an attack for these issues and the success of this drive unsettled other sections of the list. The weekly steel trade reviews estimating the operations of the industry as a whole at 70 per cent. of capacity, offered little encouragement, although it was predicted that the June output would not fall far below this figure.

The response of the senate's vote to adjourn congress this week was most noticeable in the accumulation of rail shares. New high records for the year were established by "Nickel Plate" Pere Marquette, Southern Railway and Missouri Pacific common and preferred issues. Atchison duplicated its 1924 high price of 93 1-2.

American Water Works, which was the feature of yesterday's trading, continued its sensational advance, soaring more than six points to a new high record at 71 in the early trading. Subsequent profit taking reduced its gain and it closed the day at 67, a net advance of two points. Improvement in earnings, which in the first quarter were sufficient to cover seven per cent. preferred dividend requirements for the entire year was the only explanation advanced for the action of the stock.

Strength of American Water Works imparted a firm tone to other public utility issues many of whom sold to the same new levels. Union Gas, Gas, West Penn Power and Federal Light & Traction all attained new top prices for 1924.

Although most industrial leaders shared in the early movement they ended the day with fractional losses. A wave of price cutting in raw and refined sugar exerted depressing influence on the stocks of these companies. Cosden and Producers & Refiners were singled out for attack among the oil shares, dropping 1 1-2 to 2 1-2 points.

A decline of about 20 points in French francs to below five cents for the second time this week provided the feature of the foreign exchange market. Sellers of francs in speculative quarters ran amuck owing to uneasiness over the French political situation forced the break in the afternoon trading to around 4.95 cents. Earlier in the day the rate had held steady around 5.12 cents. Sterling closed fractionally lower around $4.30 3-4.

Call money, after opening at 3 per cent. receded to 2 3-4, where it held until the close. Time funds were offered as low as 3 3-4 per cent., but no prevailing rate was 4 to 4 1-4 on the longer accommodations. Commercial paper was active with rates unchanged from 4 to 4 1-2 per cent.

CURB MARKET.

New York, June 4.—Fairly active trading marked today's session of the curb market, the public utility issues again demonstrating strength, while the unsettled oil stocks sold and developed weakness on reports of impending price cuts.

Although a flurry of light selling of more than two points and Appalachian scored an advance of three points, Commonwealth also was firm, closing a point higher.

Many of the standard oils moved slightly forward early but later prices were mixed with selling in the higher priced shares. Pennok Oil responded slightly to the twenty per cent. stock dividend. Leading issues generally showed fractional recessions.

Both new issues and public utilities appeared among the industrial shares. National Tea closing at 400 for a loss of 6 points. Hudson and Manhattan Railroad common and Hudson Company preferred were active, making fractional gains, as did Gillette Razor. Trading in the motor group centered chiefly on Durant and Dupont without much variation.

BOND MARKET.

New York, June 4.—Expanded investment buying reflecting an abundance of money and the improved sentiment created by the forthcoming adjournment of congress, brought about moderate advances in bond prices today. Four Liberty bonds were sealed new peak prices for the year and other standard investment issues slowly forged ahead under the impetus of steady accumulation.

With the danger of adverse legislation against the railroads minimized in the waning session of congress, obligations of the carriers displayed a firm tone. Gains of a point or so were recorded by numerous issues, including Reading general 4 1-2s, New Haven convertible 6s, "Soo" 5s and Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s. Wesvaco 4s reached a new high level for the year at 91 5-8.

Influenced by the sharp rise in the stock, American Water Works 6s bounded up two points to the year's best price at 90. Other public utility issues also were in demand, particularly in "outside" trading, Virginia-Carolina 7 per cent. certificates strengthened in response to the foreclosure proceedings taken to protect the bondholders.

Bankers who previously have handled financing for the Bolivian government indicated that a new loan for about $5,000,000 would be placed on the market this week. Offering of the bonds, which probably will bear 8 per cent. interest is expected on Friday at a price of 95. Listed Bolivian bonds were active today around the year's best levels. New York City's $67,400,000 stock and bonds were quickly subscribed upon being offered today.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, June 4.—Broader speculative demands based partly on higher quotations at Winnipeg and partly on bullish opinions about farm legislation gave a decided upward swing today to the wheat market here. Closing prices for wheat were firm at 1 5-8 to 2 1-8c net gain, July $1.05 1-8 to $1.05 1-4 and September $1.06 7-8 to $1.07, with corn 3-4 to 1 1-8c up, oats showing 3-4@7-8c to 1-2c advance, and provisions unchanged to 12@15c down.

Wheat began to climb almost as soon as business began. With dry weather complaints coming from the American and Canadian spring wheat belts, the Chicago grain market quickly responded to strength shown at Winnipeg where July delivery went to a larger premium over September selling here and selling there. Besides, in some quarters the defeat of the McNary-Haugen bill was taken as a motive for greater confidence on the part of numerous buyers who were said to have been [illegible] for enactment of a substitute farm bill at Washington seemed also to have a decided stimulating effect.

Highest prices of the day in the wheat market were attained after reports became current that [illegible] exporters were [illegible] for [illegible] wheat. Besides, there was [illegible] to the effect that [illegible] had been [illegible] for export. Commission houses with [illegible] connections were also credited with [illegible] for export account. Another [illegible] was a report that [illegible] had been [illegible] for export. Reports that [illegible] had been [illegible] for export [illegible] had a dramatic effect as a late bullish factor.

Unfavorable weather including frost in some section of Illinois did much to lift the corn market. In oats, shipping call was brisk.

There is Strength in Every Tablet of This Newer Form of Iron

One dose often helps commence to enrich your blood and revitalize your worn out exhausted nerves—it is a newer form of iron, like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach. It is so prepared that it will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. It is ready for almost immediate absorption and assimulation by the blood while some physicians claim metallic iron which people usually take is not absorbed at all. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of this newer form of iron—three times per day, after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

NOTE—The manufacturers of this newer form of iron known as Nuxated Iron are thoroughly reliable; since its introduction it has reached the stupendous sale of over 4,000,000 packages annually, and it has been used and highly recommended by former U.S. Senators, Members of Congress, Judges of U. S. Courts and many physicians. We are able to guarantee that if you do not obtain all and even greater results than you expect from Nuxated Iron the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.

tainly magnificent. One meets them everywhere he goes, and cannot help but admire their curious form. My aunts gave me a kimona, with a design of these gates on it, and my initials are embroidered inside of one of these gates, which makes a beautiful combination (not me in the kimona but the initials). The shops in Nikko were the best for high grade articles that we have seen and the hotel could not be improved upon. The Imperial hotel in Tokio was fortunate enough to escape the earthquake from the fact that it was a modern, fireproof structure. It is a very unique building and was designed by Mr. Wright of Chicago.

It is the semi Aztec style. Although Pan-Japanese, but quite unusual, the hotel is considered one of the best in Asia.

Snow-Crowned Fujiyama

The early morning, coming into Yokohama was to be seen. I was still abed, but I heard someone say "Come and look at Fujiyama" and I was up and ran forward and gazed with straining eyes across the sea, the harbor to where, shining white against the far off sky, was raised the famous fan shaped cone. Words fail to each one who came on deck when Fuji, most beautiful of mountains, is also most elusive. Some compare the mountain with Vesuvius. Aside from [illegible] size, things which make it more beautiful than Vesuvius are the perfection of its contour and the [illegible] on its cone. We were told that [illegible] was [illegible] in some of the [illegible] to permit ascent to the crater. Fourteen to twenty thousand people make the [illegible] each year. It is a sacred mountain, but [illegible] Shinto [illegible] to would. I would not [illegible] set with immaculately clean cloth, dishes and silver. As soon as we made our wants known, our table was prepared for a splendid dinner. The cloth was removed and an oil cloth replaced it. An important part of the equipment for a meal in the pure Japanese style is a smoker's outfit, consisting of a tray on which stands a small pot of large charcoals and a hanging hose with a little water pail, the former for lighting the tobacco, the latter a receptacle for ashes. NORWICH MEN CONTINUING EFFORT TO HAVE THAMES CHANNEL DEEPER

In spite of the unpromising attitude of government engineers towards the deepening of the Thames river channel from Allyn's Point to Norwich, the Norwich Chamber of Commerce is endeavoring to carry this proposition to a successful issue, if possible, and plans were made at a committee meeting Wednesday morning with this end in view.

Col. H. C. Newcomer of New York, who has charge of the New England district of the U. S. Board of Army Engineers has written to the chamber of commerce committee giving his reasons for being against the deepening of the channel from Allyn's Point to Norwich.

Last week the committee composed of H. M. Lerou, president of the chamber of commerce, Hon. E. W. Higgins and Lucius Briggs conferred by appointment with Colonel Newcomer in New York regarding this proposed development. Colonel Newcomer is a member of the U. S. Board of Army Engineers, but was not present at the conference on this matter held in Washington in May, 1923, at which a number of Norwich citizens appeared before the board in the interests of this proposition. As a result of the conference held at that time Colonel Newcomer's objections were overruled and Major Peterson was ordered to make a detailed survey to determine the cost of the channel improvement. Major Peterson has recently submitted a report of his findings and he estimates the cost of the deepening of the channel from Allyn's Point to Norwich from 14 feet to 18 feet at $238,000. Colonel Newcomer still voices his opposition and it was in the endeavor to convince Colonel Newcomer that the committee went to New York.

The chamber of commerce committee is thoroughly convinced that the business interests of this community as well as the people generally should realize that the proposed development of the river channel to Norwich means a great deal for the future welfare and growth of this community and this section of the state. The present depth of the river has been maintained covering a period of over 40 years and the type of boat that can navigate the river under its present condition is fast becoming obsolete, in fact the number is very limited. When one stops to think of the number of cities that are continually and steadfastly promoting their transportation facilities, one would realize the efforts being made to guard this important asset to any manufacturing community. For example, at present is on foot to have the government spend something like $30,000,000 to create a 50-foot depth of the Hudson river from New York to Albany. It is also understood that a movement is under way to deepen the channel of the Connecticut from the Sound to Hartford. There is at present an imperative need for a greater civic awakening on the part of the people of the eastern part of Connecticut for the fullest possible development of the river channel from Allyn's Point to Norwich. The chief advantage is the competition of water borne rates with rail rates which creates a healthy situation in the industrial life of any manufacturing community. The transportation facilities of the entire state of Connecticut is practically owned by one company and Norwich is particularly fortunate in that it has three distinct transportation companies giving it service, namely, New York, New Haven and Hartford, Central Vermont railroads and the Thames River Line.

The crux of this whole situation is the question of whether or not in the course of a few years hence Norwich will become classed as an inland city which eventually will positively mean higher freight rates. The local proposition has the support of Senator Brandegee, Congressman Dempsey of New York and Congressman Freeman, the latter two being chairman and vice chairman respectively of the rivers and harbors committee of congress. The opposition of Colonel Newcomer is, however, a serious handicap in view of the fact that he is a member of the board of army engineers and it is to the colonel's opposition that the efforts of the chamber are being directed to overcome by reasonable and justifiable arguments. The business interests of this community and this section of the state need the best transportation facilities and the cheapest rates possible, and the people of this community should realize the great benefits accruing to good transportation facilities. This is the crucial time in the history of this project if defeated now means the detriment of this movement if not for all time, then for a number of years at least to come. In common with other cities throughout the country Norwich cannot afford to mark time, but must be eternally alive to its best interests for its future growth and development.

BIRD VISITORS NOTED AT BROADWAY RESIDENCE

The beautiful and well kept grounds about the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace S. Allis, 305 Broadway, appear to be especially the favorite sanctuary of the birds, year after year, but this rainy season the number of feathered visitors has been greater than ever. Several indigo birds have been about the garden for [illegible] beauties.

[illegible] 57 different birds [illegible] the garden or about the lawn. The observer who has completed the census of the bird visitors to date has seen and kept record of a total of 66.

Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Reich leave tonight for New York to sail Saturday for Holland. They expect to visit Bavaria, Switzerland and Austria, returning early in the fall.

FERRYBOAT ACCEPTED FOR CHESTER TO HADLYME

After a satisfactory trial trip on Long Island sound a new ferry boat for use between Chester and Hadlyme on the Connecticut river, has been accepted by the state highway department. It has already been put into use.

Replacing the old fashioned steam propelled heavy boat, the new boat, gasoline drive, is calculated to bring about a saving in operating costs on the line. It consists of a flat barge, joined to a four-cylinder fifty-horse power launch. Under this arrangement, it is necessary only for the launch to make the trip across the river, when passengers and no vehicles are being transported. The barge will be held in reserve at its moorings to be joined to the launch or tug when occasion demands.

The boat was built by the Greenport Basin and Construction company at Greenport, L. I., at a cost of approximately $10,000. This is about [illegible] of the average bid received for a steam-driven ferry.

Other features of the new boat are a closed cabin for protection of the school children, who use the ferry regularly, in rainy weather. The barge will accommodate five automobiles and many passengers. The old boat will be held in reserve for emergencies at the Chester-Hadlyme route or at Glastonbury and Rocky Hill.

FOR SUPERIOR COURT ON LIQUOR SALE EVIDENCE

After a trial lasting an hour, Max Gershon, one of the proprietors of the Colonial restaurant, corner Market and Water streets, was bound over to the superior court by Judge Arthur L. Libby in the [illegible] court Wednesday morning. The charge against him is violation of the liquor law in making an illegal sale. He was represented by [illegible] and put up a plea against conviction, pleading not guilty to the charge.

Police Sergt. Thomas Murphy was called as a witness for the state. He told of being on duty on the evening of May 30th and of going to the restaurant. He had with him Officer Patrick Murphy and Ralph Urban. He and Officer Murphy stood across the street where they could watch Urban go into the restaurant. There was an understanding that as soon as Urban secured the liquor he was to scratch his head and the officers would go into the restaurant. Receiving the signal, the officers went into the restaurant.

The sergeant testified that as soon as Gershon saw the officers he tried to take from Urban a cup containing what the witness stated was in his opinion whiskey. The dollar bill, of which the sergeant had the number, was on the counter. The cup and bill were used as evidence. Officer Patrick Murphy told the same story as Sergeant Murphy.

Ralph Urban also testified to going to the restaurant and asking for a bottle of whiskey. This was refused. He then stated that he asked Gershon if he had any to serve. He was handed the cup and stated that he tasted of the liquor and knew it was whiskey. Captain D. J. Twomey and Constable Fenton also testified against the accused.

Judge Libby found probable cause and bound Gershon over to the superior court in bonds of $2,000 which were furnished by Frank Hertz.

As Paul Santilli, 34, failed to appear when his continued case was called the court called the bond of $1,000 in his case. He is charged with rape, on a charge made by a 13-year-old girl, living at 11 Lake street, where the accused was a boarder.

One man was fined $5 and costs on a breach of the peace charge and another man was fined $5 and costs on an intoxication charge.

"STUNT" PROGRAMME GAVE ROTARIANS ENTERTAINMENT

The weekly luncheon of the Rotary club at the Wauregan house Wednesday noon took the form of a "stunt" meeting. The dining hall was decorated with palms. President Hugh B Campbell, presided at the meeting which had a large attendance, including several guests. William G. Park and Lucius Briggs were the song leaders. After the singing of America grace was said by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott. Club singing, solos and quartette numbers featured the musical programme.

Secretary J. Nelson Weymouth read a letter giving the plans for the dinner which the Meriden Rotary club is to give the attendance winning Norwich club at the Hotel Bond in Hartford next Tuesday evening. A number of the local Rotarians are planning to make the trip.

A golf match between Hartford and Norwich was proposed by the Hartford club and the question of a joint outing of the eastern Connecticut Rotary clubs was referred to the board of directors. President Campbell urged cooperation in the Salvation Army drive. He announced that Chautauqua is coming to Norwich late this month.

At this point the meeting was turned over to the "stunt" committee, Charles A. Saxton, William G. Park, Frederick S. Crowell and Edward W. Jewett. After the singing of the "farm song" Mr. Saxton presented a Connecticut college senior, Miss Katherine Renwick and three members of the freshman class. Miss Renwick gave a clever "one-man vaudeville show" that was greatly enjoyed by the Rotarians. She gave vocal and instrumental selections, recitations, humorous sayings, several acrobatic stunts and a whistling solo. At the conclusion of her act Miss Renwick was presented a handsome bouquet of flowers by President Campbell, in behalf of the club. Miss Renwick was also given a rising vote of thanks. The singing of the Star Spangled Banner brought the meeting to a close.

BOY OF 13 HAS LEFT THAMESVILLE FARM

P. Baranowsky, about 13 years of age, son of William Baranowsky, employed on the farm of C. N. Paliocha in Thamesville, has been missing from home for the past two days. When last seen the boy wore a blue coat, blue stoped trousers and in each of his shoes is a hole cut because the shoes were too tight for him. This is the second time the boy has disappeared. He was in a reform school in Virginia for a time but was brought to Norwich by his father in the hope that the father could keep the boy with him.

DRIVER BECOMES INSANE WHILE REPORTING ACCIDENT

Verner Anderson of 2 South Fourth avenue, Taftville, who ran his automobile on to the bank and damaged steps at the Burton property on North Main street Wednesday night, developed insanity at police headquarters, where he came to report the accident, and had to be committed to the Norwich state hospital. His talk showed his mental trouble and when he was restrained from leaving the station he became violent and it took four men to get him into a cell.

For Burial at Warren, Mass.

Wednesday mofning the body of Joseph T. Campbell was taken to Warren, Mass., by automobile cortege and burial took place in the Warren cemetery. Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church, conducted a committal service at the grave. Relatives and friends accompanied the body to Warren. Undertaker C. A. Gager had charge of the funeral arrangements.

NORWICH M'ALL AUXILIARY ADOPTING PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN

More publicity for their work and information to the public as to what the American McAll Association was of the year's programme decided upon by the 41st annual meeting of the association which was held last month at Troy, N. Y. The Norwich auxiliary of which Mrs. Channing M. Huntington is president will carry out the programme suggested at the convention which was held at the First Presbyterian church.

After prayer by Rev. J. Sheridan Zelie, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, the service of devotion was continued by Mrs. Erwin J. Anthony president of the Troy auxiliary, who gave the theme of the convention as "Make a Straight Highway for Our God." Geetings were offered by Mrs. Anthony, who expressed the warm welcome of Troy to the out-of-town friends.

Mrs. Frederick B. Kelley of Elizabeth, N. J., the National President of the organization, responded to Mrs. Anthony's welcome.

Miss Harriet Harvey of Philadelphia, who is the corresponding secretary, and also the editor of the McAll Record, gave a review of the work in the various regions of France, of the boats which traverse the canals, of the new Society of Children of Peace, of the sale of Bibles and New Testiments, Mother's Meetings, Temperance work, the Junior organizations and the relief work.

The Treasurer, Mrs. Abraham R. Perkins of Philadelphia reported the work in France as having receipts of $89,906.52, disbursements of $89,406.52; balance $500. The general fund had a balance of $6,190.76 The endowment fund showed a balance of $1,579.14.

President Kelley said this was her twenty-sixth annual meeting attended, besides countless meetings of the executive board and committees. Mrs. J. C. Colgate, the first Vice President was then introduced and told of a new campaign for publicity to the carried forward this year.

She gave as the keynote of the year the word "ama," which forms the combination of letters of the association and this being the imperative of the Latin verb, amo, signifies "to love," and each auxiliary was asked to remember this. This campaign was said to be planned to be carried forward by hundreds of newspapers in the country by personal solicitation and by auxiliary work. The four parts of the campaign were named attention, interest, desire, and action, and Mrs. Colgate announced that she had been appointed general chairman of the committee. She urged each auxiliary to pay special heed to this work and to see that the publicity is well carried forward.

STATE PRISON SENTENCES GIVEN BY JUDGE AVERY

In the criminal superior court at New London Tuesday afternoon a man who said his name is Charles J. Adams, aged 23 years, of 81 Monroe street, New Haven, was arraigned on a bench warrant before Judge Christopher L. Avery, charged with felonious assault upon Earl S. Burns, a radio man stationed at the United States coast guard station. Adams pleaded guilty and was sentenced to not less than three nor [illegible] years in state's prison.

Adams attacked Burns with an iron pipe as the latter was on the way to the coast guard on the night of May 21. Burns being felled on the Shaw's cove bridge in an attempt to rob him.

Lawrence W. Easton, formerly of New London, charged with forgery, was brought in on a bench warrant and pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to not less than one nor more than three years in state's prison.

Easton was charged with forging a check of the Structure Oil company of New London for $165.

PRESTON DIVORCE SUIT HEARD IN WATERBURY

In the superior court at Waterbury Tuesday before Judge Newell Jennings, the case of Charles H. Preston, Jr., of that city, against his wife, Effie Harris Preston, for a divorce on the grounds of desertion was heard and determined. Bronson, Hart and Lewis appeared for the petitioner and John H. Cassidy of Waterbury and former Congressman Edwin W. Higgins of Norwich were counsel for the defendant. The court did not require the defendant wife to introduce any testimony. The plaintiff was the sole witness and when his cross-examination was concluded upon motion of defendant's counsel the court ordered a non-suit, judgment being given in favor of the defendant, thus disposing of the case.

Piles

Can't Be Cured From the Outside.

External treatments seldom cure Piles.
Nor do surgical operations.
The cause is inside—bad circulation.
The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.
The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.
To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through the stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., set at work some years ago to find a real internal Pile remedy. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It's easy to take, and can always be found at Lee & Osgood's, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

We will accept on DEPOSIT as CASH, LIBERTY BOND COUPONS due June 15, 1924.

FEELING IN JAPAN IS BITTER TOWARD AMERICA

Tokio, June 5.—(By The A. P.)—Twenty-five thousand persons heard fiery speeches, bitter resolutions and other expressions of the most intense opposition to the bar of Japanese immigration into America, at a meeting here tonight.

The meeting, which was under the auspices of a number of patriotic societies fighting exclusion, resulted in inauguration of the "Kokumin Taiheikia," of which an accurate translation is "National Association to Direct American Policy."

The Kokumin Taiheikai adopted the following programme:

Making the anti-exclusion movement nation-wide by sending representatives to all parts of the country and calling protest meetings.

Collecting a national anti-exclusion campaign fund.

Appointing an executive committee of 350 to direct the campaign.

Holding memorial services for the "unknown subject of the nikado" at Aoyama cemetery, the last resting place of many Japanese notables, next Sunday.

Tonight's gathering included members of all political parties in both houses of the diet, as well as large numbers of retired officers of the army and navy and leaders of the "national spirit movement" and the "Black Dragon Society."

A resolution passed declared in part, "America's anti-Japanese movement, worse than discarding international morality, is fostering racial conflict. We, the Japanese people, cannot submit to this situation and will oppose exclusion to the end."

At the conclusion of the meeting contribution boxes were placed at the exits bearing placards reading:

"Patriotic contributions invited for maintaining the punitive movement against America."

PRIEST SHOT DEAD WHILE ADMINISTERING LAST RITES

Lowell, Mass., June 5.—Rev. Michael C. Gilbride was shot and killed in Dracut today by John King, Jr., who, according to the police, said that he was an atheist and regarded the priest as an intruder in his home where he had gone to administer the last rites of the Catholic church to King's father. A formal plea of not guilty was entered when King was arraigned in the district court late today on a charge of murder and he was remanded to the county jail at East Cambridge.

When Dracut and Lowell police officers attempted to arrest King in a field near his home he shot Captain David Petrie, of the Lowell police, in the shoulder. Other officers clubbed him into submission. It is believed that Captain Petrie's wound will not prove fatal.

PRESIDENT SIGNED BILL ON WHITE HOUSE LAWN

Washington, June 5.—A bill was signed on the White House lawn for [illegible] today when President Coolidge interrupted the lawn party which he and Mrs. Coolidge were giving to disabled World war veterans, to affix his signature to a measure appropriating $6,850,000 for completion of the veterans' bureau's hospitalization program.

The bill, which was passed several days ago by congress, arrived at the White House when the lawn party, attended by nearly three thousand disabled men from the Washington military hospitals, was in progress. Secretary Slemp decided that no more appropriate time could be found to approve the measure and carried the bill out to the president. A small table was brought out and with the disabled men looking on the executive signed the bill, and then handed the pen to Sergeant Sedan, of Providence, R. I., who sat nearby in a wheel chair.

SPELLACY TO RETIRE FROM DEM. CENTRAL COMMITTEE

Hartford, June 5.—Thomas J. Spellacy notified the democratic town committee at a meeting tonight that he would resign from the democratic state central committee, as a representative of the third senatorial district, when the state committee meets at Savin Rock tomorrow. No reason was stated for the resignation.

The town committee promptly endorsed Thomas J. Conroy, leader of the last board of aldermen, for election as Mr. Spellacy's successor. Power to fill the vacancy rests with the state committee.

SHORTAGE DISCOVERED IN BROKERAGE FIRM'S BOOKS

New York, June 5.—Discovery by accountants of shortages in the books of E. F. Hutton & company, a brokerage firm, led to the arrest on the charge of forgery today of Herbert Senholzi, for twenty years head of the clearing house department of the firm, and William Lawrence, a former confidential employe of another broker. Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan in Tombs court held them in $9,000 bail each and set Monday as the date for the hearing.

TEN CASES OF WHISKEY SEIZED IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, June 5.—Police tonight seized 10 cases of whiskey and 58 gallons of grain alcohol in a bedroom of a Wooster street house and arrested Salvatore Staiani, when he gave himself up as the owner of the liquors he furnished a cash bond of $500 for his release.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The house passed a $165,000,000 highways bill.

Farm relief legislation was finally abandoned for this session of congress.

President Coolidge delivered an address to the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

The house passed a bill which would provide a separate prohibition bureau in the treasury.

The naval construction bill designed to bring the navy up to standard was passed by the senate.

The senate adopted a resolution to carry the Ohio litigation of the Daugherty committee to the supreme court.

Flagrant disregard of the law in the negotiation of the Sinclair and Doheny oil leases was charged in the oil committee's report.

Former Attorney General Daugherty was assailed in a senate debate led by Chairman Brookhart of the Daugherty investigating committee.

Senator La Follette, republican, Wisconsin, introduced a resolution for appointment of a special senate committee to sit during the presidential campaign and keep check on expenditures of political committees and candidates.

F. B. SHIPLEY STRONGLY ADVOCATES FREE TRADE

Boston, June 5.—In the interest of its import trade, this country should open its doors and treat with all the world on a basis of equality, F. B. Shipley of New York, president of the National Council of American Importers and Traders, told the delegates to the national foreign trade council convention here today. He declared that "with free trade America would clean up the world."

"It is time the nations realized," he said, "that the artificial barriers of trade should be swept aside and America should take the lead. Our export trade is to prosper, our imports must also be developed, and this organization should declare that the time has come to open our doors."

Problems of exporting and importing were discussed in group sessions of the council. The present customs regulations were criticized as "top-heavy" by George C. Davis of New York, customs adviser to the council. Red tape made proper supervision of imports impossible, he said, and he demanded simplified regulations "that can be understood by business men and enforced without an army of customs officials."

FEDERAL WARRANT ISSUED FOR BOXING PROMOTER

Philadelphia, June 5.—A federal warrant was issued here today for the arrest of James F. Dougherty, boxing promoter and Delaware county politician, on an indictment returned by a grand jury at Trenton, N. J., on May 27 last charging him and six others, including "Tex" Rickard, with conspiracy to illegally transport the Dempsey-Carpentier fight films. The warrant was made returnable in the United States district court at Trenton and it is expected that Dougherty, whose home is in Leiperville, Pa., will appear before Federal Commissioner Manley here tomorrow to enter bail.

It charges that between March 1, 1922, and Jan 30, 1924, Daugherty "took part in a conspiracy to cheat and defraud the United States government." Dougherty refereed the Dempsey-Gibbons fight at Shelby, Mont., last Fourth of July.

THREE DEATHS CAUSED BY FALL OF AIRPLANE

San Antonio, Texas, June 5.—Lieutenant Stewart L. Thomson, student pilot at Kelly field, and Jose Marin Ramos, 11-year-old Mexican boy, chopping cotton in a field, were instantly killed near here this afternoon when airplanes collided 1,300 feet in the air and fell to earth.

Lieutenant W. W. White, piloting one of the planes, leaped to safety with a parachute. The Mexican boy, paralyzed by fear, was unable to move from under the falling planes and was crushed beneath the wreckage.

Three ships were flying in formation. They were about two miles and a half orth of Kelly field. Ship No. 2 and ship No. 3 in the formation started to change places.

The ships, flying at the rate of 100 miles an hour, crashed into each other, tearing wings and struts asunder.

Hanging together, they both fell.

RECLAMATION VOTED BY SENATE LAST NIGHT

Washington, June 5.—Reclamation legislation was voted by the senate late tonight which, upon motion of Senator Gooding, republican, Idaho, attached a bill embodying recommendations of Secretary Works fact-finding commission to the pending deficiency bill and gave its approval to both. The house is expected to pass a similar reclamation measure tomorrow.

The measure would afford relief to settlers on reclamation projects and provide sweeping changes in the reclamation laws. It would provide for the establishment of a bureau of reclamation in the interior department and readjustment of water charges, which would be based on the average estimated crop value extended over a period of years. Settlers on new projects would be given a much longer time than at present in which to pay off charges.

WOULD ESTABLISH DRY BUREAU IN WASHINGTON

Washington, June 5.—Establishment of a prohibition bureau in the treasury department independent of the international revenue bureau would be authorized under a resolution passed today by the house and sent to the senate. The vote was 275 to 90.

Vote For Reports on Campaign Expenses

Senate Adopts Conference Report on the Postal Salaries Increase Bill.

Washington, June 5.—The senate today adopted the conference report on the postal salaries increase bill, which carries a provision requiring periodical reports from political parties on campaign expenditures.

The provision for publicity of campaign expenditures is embodied in an amendment agreed upon by house and senate conferees which was offered by Representative Cable, republican, Ohio, as a substitute for one by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, and would require reports quarterly and before and after a national campaign.

SENATE PASSES BILL FOR NAVAL CONSTRUCTION

Washington, June 5.—The bill authorizing construction of eight scout cruisers and conversion of several coal burning battleships to oil burners was passed by the senate tonight. Action was taken in the time required for the clerk to read the title.

The measure was recommended by the navy department as necessary to bring the American navy up to the standard established as a part of the country's naval policy. It already had passed the house and now goes to the president.

CONGRESS READY FOR ADJOURNMENT SATURDAY

Washington, June 5.—The road to adjournment of congress was cleared further today of contentious measures and every indication was that the concluding hours Saturday would be quiet as compared with the pre-adjournment hours of past sessions.

With its calendar cleared of all essential items, the house devoted the day to a warm prohibition fight, culminating in passage of the Cramton bill proposing a separate bureau for the prohibition enforcement organization. Advocates of similar legislation in the senate, however, did not hold much hope of getting it through there.

In the senate nearly the entire day was devoted to a discussion of evidence in its committee investigation of former Attorney General Daugherty's conduct of the department of justice. On motion of Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, chairman of the committee, a resolution was adopted requesting the present attorney general to take an appeal from the decision of Federal Judge Cochran, in Cincinnati, which held the committee was not legally empowered to enforce the attendance as a witness of M. S. Daugherty, brother of the former attorney general.

SAYS SLAVERSS OF FRANKS COULDN'T HAVE BEEN NORMAL

Atlantic City, N. J., June 5.—Declaring that the photographs of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, youthful millionaire slayers of Robert Franks of Chicago, plainly showed them to be abnormal, Dr. Louis C. Osmun, of Hackettstown, in an address before the convention of the Medical Society of New Jersey, at the Haddon Hall today, declared against capital punishment and urged that the youths be confined to an institution if convicted.

"These boys couln't have been normal, and still do that act," Dr. Osmun said. "A glance at their photographs shows that they are not of the normal type. They should be sent to an institution where they can be taken care of."

"Murderous tendencies show a diseased mind. Such a disease is curable however and the proper kind of prison activity and reform can do much in helping these unfortunates to see the proper method of living. It is true that people are temporarily insane at the moment they commit murder. That was the case in the Chicago murder."

IRREGULARITIES CHARGED IN NAVAL OIL LEASE

Washington, June 5. — A report charging serious irregularities in connection with the Sinclair and Doheny oil leases was approved by the senate oil committee today as a sequel to its long and colorful investigation. The senate itself probably will be asked to vote its approval tomorrow.

Prepared by Senator Walsh of Montana, the committee prosecutor, the report held that the leases were "wasteful" and had been negotiated secretly in disregard of the statutes and on the basis of a presidential order illegally issued; that all of those concerned in the payment of $100,000 by E. L. Doheny to Albert B. Fall were "responsible;" but that no prof had been found either of an "oil conspiracy" at the Chicago republican convention of 1920 or of speculation by public officials in Sinclair and Doheny oil stock.

SHRINERS DEPARTING FROM KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, June 5.—(By The A. P.)—Tired but still happy after three days of festivities at their fiftieth annual convention here, thousands of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine tonight were en route or preparing to entrain for their homes in all parts of the continent.

Several special trains left late today, but the majority of the visitors remained for the civic pageant tonight, a spectacular procession of brilliantly illuminated floats, representing symbols dear to the hearts of Shriners.

Installation of the new officers completed the business of the imperial council today.

BANDIT CAPTURED BY FOOTBALL TACTICS

New York, June 5.—Thrown to the floor by a flying leap on the part of an unarmed bystander, a man giving the name of Howard Weiss was wounded and captured by a policeman when he attempted to hold up a jewelry store in the theatrical district tonight. Weiss walked into the store with a drawn gun and ordered the proprietor and two customers to hold up their hands. One refused and jumped on the hold-up man, who fired two shots, wounding the store owner's father before he was overpowered.

Rum Battle Waged on The Canadian Border

Several American Revenue Agents Injured in Ten Day Conflict With Canadians.

Quebec, June 5.—An unknown number of American revenue agents have been injured and several rum-runners have been captured in a 10-day battle at the border of the possession of a ship's cargo of whiskey which was being smuggled towards New York city, according to reports today from Sully township in Temiscouata county.

The smugglers are said to be Canadians. An unverified report is that ringleaders of the smugglers' crew are mobilizing lumberjacks for an attack upon the American authorities in revenge for the arrest of two of the prisoners.

Details concerning the conflict are lacking, for it is being waged in the thick forests which fringe the international border in the Temiscouata region. It is known, however, that huge quantities of liquor have been cached in the timber fastnesses for smuggling into the United States.

KLAN LOST IN ILLINOIS DEM. STATE CONVENTION

Indianapolis, Ind., June 5 (By the A. P.)—Overwhelming the tenacious opposition of a Ku Klux Klan bloc wielding approximately one-fourth of the votes, the democratic state convention here today again dedicated the party to the constitutional guarantees of freedom of worship and expression and nominated for governor Dr. Carleton B. McCulloch of Indianapolis, who was opposed by the klan in the recent state primary.

State Senator Joseph M. Cravens of Madison, supported by the klan forces, held a vote of 300 through the first of three ballots. Later a motion by Cravens' followers to make the nomination unanimous carried by acclamation.

Dr. McCulloch, in a field of five won a plurality of 42,000 in the primary, but failed to secure a majority, which threw the nomination to the convention. Today he survived seven opponents.

The Hoosier delegation to the national convention, headed by Tom Taggart, and avowedly favorable to United States Senator Samuel Ralston, was uninstructed.

APPOINTED INSPECTOR OF CIVILIAN AIRPLANES

Hartford, June 5.—George Prantiles of New Britain, flying chief of the 118th observation squadron, Connecticut National guard, has been appointed state inspector of civilian airplanes for the state police department. He is to be assigned to duty under Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel of the motor vehicle department in his capacity as aviation commissioner. Passenger-carrying planes at beaches and resorts are to be regularly inspected and those found to be unsafe will not be allowed to fly. Such planes are to be licensed in a manner similar to the plan now in force with automobiles.

Fields suitable for landing purposes in the state are to be charted and photographed. The fields will be under police supervision so that a check can be kept on both aviators and plants. It is expected that a plane will be assigned to the department later which will be of assistance to the police in many ways.

HEAVY DAMAGE CAUSED BY TORNADO IN ILLINOIS

Decatur, Ills., June 5.—Houses were uncovered, outbuildings laid flat, and heavy property damage caused this afternoon by a tornado which swept about [illegible]

Wire facilities were wrecked in the section which the tornado traversed.

The tornado was first seen near Mimine, 16 miles east of Decatur and was going in a northeasterly direction toward Bement.

Wire communication was cut off by the storm. Along the Illinois traction system right of way scores of poles were laid flat as far as can be learned there were no persons killed or injured.

One Person Killed

Monticello, Ill., June 5.—One person was reported killed at Mahale, about 15 miles west of here this afternoon in a tornado which swept down upon the town about 1 o'clock amid intermittent flashes of lightning and a heavy downpour of rain mixed with hail. Wire communication was completely disrupted and a check of other possible casualties was unverified.

STAMFORD POLICE CAPTURE 1,500 CASES IMPORTED STOUT

Stamford, June 5.—Suspicions of the actions of two men who were loitering about the city at 2 a. m. the police this morning stopped a truck and a sedan car which was serving as an escort, because one of the men whom they had watched earlier was on the truck. The other was in the sedan. The truck was searched and 150 cases of imported stout were found, worth, at current prices, $5500. The men gave names of Charles Stenithal, Albert Werle, Thomas Shannon and Paul Winkler, all of New York city. The last two mentioned were the men who had been seen at an early hour. All four are under arrest.

OBITUARY.

Charles A. Lane.

Bristol, Conn., June 5.—Charles A. Lane, 68, prominent in civic and political affairs here for many years, died at his home today after a month's illness. Mr. Lane conducted a grocery business here for 45 years and was a republican. He was a member of the federal school district board for a number of years and had been connected with business men's associations both city and state. He leaves a wife, one son and three daughters.

Wallace H. Camp.

Waterbury, June 5.—Wallace H. Camp, 74, descendant of one of the oldest Connecticut families, died very suddenly at his home, 88 Woodlawn terrace, this city, tonight. He was apparently in the best of health throughout the day. Mr. Camp had traced his paternal ancestry to Nicholas Camp, who came from Nazing, England, in 1630 to this country and settled in Milford.

THE PRESIDENT OF FRANCE HAS DECLINED TO BE OUSTED

M. Herriot Declined Commission to Form a New Ministry When M. Millerand Declared His Determination to Remain President for the Full Constitutional Term—Both M. Millerand and M. Herriot Have Issued Communiques.

Paris, June 5.—(By The A. P.)—The conflict between M. Millerand, president of the republic, and the new majority in the chamber of deputies, has come to a head tonight with a clash between the burly ex-socialist chief magistrate and the equally burly and determined radical mayor of Lyons, Edouard Herriot.

M. Millerand, whose tenacity in 1914 as minister of war, played a mighty part in winning the first battle of the Marne, stands with his back to the wall defending constitution precedents after a lapse of ten years.

The president, on the advice of the presidents of the chamber and senate, summoned M. Herriot to Elysee palace this afternoon and requested him to undertake the task of forming a cabinet. The question having been raised by M. Herriot as to the continuance of M. Millerand in office, the president of the republic declared his determination to remain for the full constitutional term. M. Herriot then declined the commission.

The length of the conversation and the acid tone of the communique issued from the Elysee palace this evening amply attest to the acuteness of the crisis. The communique was as follows:

"In conformity with the suggestions of the presidents of the two houses of parliament, whom he received this afternoon, the president of the republic asked M. Herriot to come to the Elysee. After recalling to him the broad outlines of the foreign and internal policy, M. Millerand asked him if he would lend his aid in the formation of a new cabinet, with a view to the application of the ideas as expressed by the suffrage at the recent election.

"Thereupon an exchange of views took place, in the course of which no disagreement as to the programme appeared. The deputy of the Rhone having raised the presidential question, M. Millerand declared he could not examine it as respect for the law prohibited even the posing of such a question.

"The constitution has fixed seven years as the duration of the presidential mandate. Called for seven years to the Elysee the president holds it to be his duty toward the republic and France to remain there until the legal termination of his mandate.

"M. Millerand believes that all these things obligate him to assure respect for the constitution and avoid a precedent, of which nobody could determine the peril. Without discussing the reasons, M. Herriot simply replied that he did not believe personally that he could accept the mission which the president was kind enough to offer him. The president of the republic intends to continue his consultations this evening."

When M. Herriot was informed of the president's communique, he issued the following rejoinder: "It is not for me to discuss the terms of the official communique which the Elysee drew up itself after my interview with the president of the republic. To tell the truth, the first part of the conversation dealt less with a programme than with a certain number of questions of national interest which could not give rise to any contest. Furthermore, my programme has been published, and the president was kind enough to tell me he was not ignorant of it.

"It is perfectly true I had to tell the president that, having defended the left bloc during the entire electoral campaign [illegible] an instant of forming a ministry outside of those left groups whose decisions as to the president's constitutional role had recently been published. Finding myself in the presence of a state of things which did not permit of the formation of a ministry sustained by the majority of the left, I could only decline the mandate offered me."

The opinion is prevalent in political circles tonight that the solution of the problem may not be reached for a week. Consultations went on at Elysee, and another communique was issued, saying:

"The president of the republic talked with M. Millies-Lacroix, president of the finance committee of the senate, M. Ratier, vice-president of the senate, and Senator Rio, former under-secretary of state, and will continue consultations at ten o'clock tomorrow morning."

That is interpreted as evidence that M. Millerand by no means considers himself beaten, and will act only with the greatest deliberation.

LONG DEBATE ON DAWES REPORT IN REICHSTAG

Berlin, June 5.—(By The A. P.)—The governmental parties submitted a motion in the reichstag tonight declaring that they expect the government, in the interests of the occupied territories and with a view to the preservation of the economic situation, to introduce immediately legislative measures necessary for the execution of the proposals embodied in the experts report.

This action was taken after Herr Von Graffe, extreme nationalist, denounced the government and the Dawes report in violent terms and announced that it was the intention of his party to submit a vote of confidence "to see who will have the courage to vote for the crowd on the government benches."

The report was the subject of a long acrimonious debate during which Count Von Westarp, nationalist leader, declared that before Germany could accept such burdens as were involved in this report she must have guarantees that the Ruhr would be evacuated; that expelled Germans would be repatriated and German prisoners in the hands of the allies released. Failing this, the Dawes report must be met with an unyielding "no."

Herr Leicht, of the Bavarian peoples party, said: "We must not again be deceived as we were by Wilson's fourteen points. The United States has a moral reparations obligation towards us and we should be united in demanding certain guarantees."

Chancellor Marx, reusing to Count Von Westarp's attacks, declared President Ebert had acted constitutionally in every respect during the political crisis.

Herr Loebe, former president of the chamber, made a brilliant speech in defense of the socialists' attitude. He declared that Germany's existence as a nation depended on acceptance of the experts' report.

"We see the British working classes marching slowly and steadily towards victory," he said; "we see in France the great success of the socialist party, and we welcome this development from which we hope for the pacification of Europe. But there we are defending the trenches of the German republic."

The communist Deputy Ruth Fisher, described the experts' report as "a robbers' agreement of international capitalists."

STRIKE CRIPPLES STREET TRAFFIC LINES IN LONDON

London, June 5 (By the A. P.).—The tie-up of London's electric tubes and railways through a strike of the shopmen which began this morning is not nearly so complete as on the last occasion of a similar strike, because the present movement is entirely unofficial. The companies involved are maintaining some sort of a skeleton service, while the fact that no tramways or omnibuses are affected gives the traveling public the chance of alternative service and so lessens the congestion and inconvenience.

The movement has unusual interest as it is the first strike directly attributed to communist influence. It is difficult, however, to ascertain exactly how far the communists are responsible. The secretary of the local committee directing the strike repudiates the assertion that the communists as a party, or otherwise, have any connection with the strike. On the other hand, the labor press service, which speaks officially in behalf of the trades union congress and the labor party, asserts definitely that the unofficial strike committee is dominated by communist influences.

The same authority asserts that the communists' object is to provoke "a national all-trades strike;" hence there is great curiosity on the part of the public to see how far the movement will be successful in enticing workers to strike against the advice of their official trades union leaders. It is contended also that in fact it is a struggle between syndicalism and constitutional trades unionism.

The indications tonight are that the movement will be short lived, but at the present moment it is impossible to foretell, as it is asserted that another big power station will be involved at midnight. This would mean the stoppage of other tube services tomorrow, and, added to this, is the report that a large number of railway men at Swansea, Cardiff and various points in the provinces will suspend work tomorrow.

The government as yet is taking no action, but is watching the situation closely.

JURY HEARING EVIDENCE IN FRANKS MURDER CASE

Chicago, June 5.—The grand jury hearing evidence against Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, millionaires' sons and confessed kidnapers and slayers of Robert Franks, school-[illegible] Chicago millionaire, was reported to have voted true bills tonight against each youth, charging them with murder and ransom by kidnaping, each crime punishable by death.

Presentation of evidence was concluded late in the afternoon, after which the grand jury remained in session until long past its usual adjournment time. The body then adjourned until tomorrow morning and immediately it was reported that true bills had been voted.

State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe refused to confirm the report but said he might have a statement a little later.

3-YEAR-OLD CHILD KILLED BY MOTOR TRUCK IN DERBY

Derby, June 5.—Three and a half years old Cecilia Klesyk was struck and instantly killed by an automobile truck operated by Patrick Flynn, of West Haven, driver for the Haggerty Bottling company of New Haven, according to the police tonight. The accident occurred in front of the child's home. Flynn was arrested on a charge of reckless driving and released on bond for a hearing tomorrow.

FIVE LIQUOR RAIDS BY POLICE IN DANBURY

Danbury, Conn., June 5.—Police armed with warrants today made five liquor raids making arrests in each case on evidence said to have been secured by members of the detective force recently. Two other arrests will be made tomorrow for similar offenses. Four of the men taken today secured bonds of $1,000 each and are said to be second offenders while the fifth was released on his own recognizance for a hearing tomorrow morning.

CHARGED WITH CIRCULATING "A DEFAMATORY LIBEL"

St. Johns, N. F., June 5.—Harris Mosdell, journalist and minister without portfolio in the Hickman cabinet was arrested today on a warrant charging him with circulating "a defamatory libel likely to lead to a breach of the peace." The charge was based on a circular printed here last Saturday on the eve of the Newfoundland general election.

POLICEMAN SHOT BY NEGRO IN CHICAGO

Chicago, June 5.—A policeman was shot tonight by a negro who barricaded himself in a tailor shop in the south part of the city. The negro held at bay more than fifty policemen and detectives. A squad with tear gas bombs was sent to the scene.

The Polish mission conducted at St. Joseph's church since May 25th, by Rev. Wm. Kolbuch, M. S., came to a close Wednesday evening with impressive ceremonies. The church was filled to overflowing. Rev. Father Kolbuch is a native of Poland and a traveler in many lands. He is a remarkable European branch of La Salette brothers and was sent here recently to assist in conducting missions. Hymns were played during the services by the Polish-American band under the leadership of Charles N. C. Wheeler. The gathering joined in effective group singing and prayer. A long procession marched around the church and back into the edifice to the accompaniment of music headed by the crucifix bearer and following were the boys and women's divisions of the newly organized Rosary society, over a hundred little girls dressed in white, after five young women members of the Rosary society, the Polish band, the torch-bearers and six little girls with baskets strewing flowers in the path, the blessed Sacrament was carried in the golden monstrance by Father Kolbuch, accompanied by Rev. John E. Clark, pastor of the parish. Members of St. Joseph's Polish society in full regalia concluded the procession as an escort of honor.

Rev. and Mrs. A. Avery Gates of Memphis are to entertain at the last regular meeting of the Willimantic Ministers' union next Monday, the wives of the members being guests. The meeting will be in the Congregational church and chapel in charge of the newly elected president, Rev. T. Henderson Jones of Mansfield center. The luncheon will be followed by a program in charge of Rev. Mr. Gates, chairman of the program committee in this order: Method of ——— ing Great Hymns, with Mrs. ——— the organ; address on Pas——— Institutions, Rev. A. At the family home in Windham, funeral services for Asa Crandall Wilson were held Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. Arthur W. Clifford officiated. Burial was in the Windham Center cemetery. Arrangements were in charge of Avery and Van Zandt.

Members of the Willimantic Exchange club and their guests, about 75 in all, gathered Thursday noon for the weekly meeting and luncheon of the organization. Dr. George E. Wilcox, president, was in charge and following the business session he delivered an excellent address on "The bio-chemical aspect of life." Brief remarks were made by Rev. F. C. Williams, rector of St. Paul's church. Organizing plans were discussed, also increasing the membership. Judging from the present interest taken in the club by the members and the enthusiasm shown at the meetings the future prospects of its activities are all that could be asked for. Others present were, Samuel Chesbro, Dr. F. E. Guild, H. C. Lathrop, Russell W. Potter, H. C. Lincoln, Robert E. Mitchell, Dr. E. E. Gordon, Lyndon E. Little, Clarence A. Bowen, Dr. C. E. Simonds and Roderick A. Jodoin.

The graves of deceased members of Francis S. Long Woman's Relief Corps will be decorated Sunday afternoon, June 8. This action was decided on at the bi-monthly meeting of the corps in the G. A. R. hall recently. The president, Mrs. Margaret MacArthur was in charge of the meeting. Maud Deming and Katherine Osterhoudt were appointed to the relief committee. Mabel Payson is chairman of a committee to arrange for a whist party.

In honor of her 42th birthday friends of Mrs. Godias Lamontagne of Cares Hill called on her Wednesday evening giving her a surprise party. Those present were: Mrs. Boisjolie and family, Mrs. Pepin and family, Mrs. Beaulieu, Mr. Bedard, Miss Fabiola Lamontagne, Misses Leona, Louise and Yvonne Pepin, Beatrice Lamontagne and Ovila Lamontagne, Mrs. T. Lamontagne and Mr. and Mrs. Godias Lamontagne.

The flag of truce is whipping the breeze at the headquarters of the Flying Wampuses who met with downfall in a pocket billiard match at the chamber of commerce Tuesday and upon the issuance of another challenge again came out the underdogs, Wednesday evening. The title of victor is practically unassailable in the hands of the Scratchers, headed by G. Raymond Young, with Bushy Doe as his right hand man. Captain Ralph W. Oates of the Wampuses struck the bottom on points in the second match, the high water mark being reached by his adversary, Captain Young. Dr. T. J. Keegan of the Wampuses plays this usual steady game but sadly lacked support. The exact scores were not made known. It is expected that the Scratchers will request a third meeting with their opponents.

Willimantic's famous bachelor barber could have been convinced for a time Thursday that a woman about the place is not such a bad idea after all. This bachelor friend carefully wrapped up about $12 worth of shirts, collars, silk socks, and other haberdashery becoming the well-groomed barber with the intention of taking the clothing to the laundry. About the same time he rands up a bundle of old newspapers with the result that newspapers and laundry were thrown into a pile in the rear of the shop and set afire as a part of a spring cleaning program.

In order to be in trip for the coming two weeks at camp in Niantic Company C, 169th Infantry, Connecticut National Guard of this city is holding two drills a week until July 5. The company is to spend two days at the regimental rifle range outside Meriden on June 14 and 15 for rifle practice.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

The civil suit of Charles L. Cobb against Frank E. Belcher, to recover $214.73 for repairs on an automobile was tried before Judge Heald in the borough court Thursday morning. Mr. Belcher refused to pay the bill on the ground that Cobb had never obtained written permission to repair the car although the bill was for more than $50 and claimed this to be in violation of the statute. Cobb testified that he tried to get Belcher's written permission but that Belcher refused to give it, telling him to go ahead and repair the car, that his word was as good as his bond. Two letters bearing the signature of Mr. Belcher which the latter claimed were written by his wife, were introduced. The letters complained about the size of the bill but promised to pay it as soon as Belcher could collect money that was due him. Judge Heald gave his decision in favor of the plaintiff to recover the full amount of the bill —$214.73 and costs. The plaintiff was represented by Judge M. D. O'Connell and the defendant's attorney was H. S. Gaudner of Willimantic. Mr. Belcher, through his attorney, gave notice of an appeal to the superior court.

JEWETT CITY

Mount Vernon lodge, No. 75, F. and A. M., Frank D. Browning, master, entertained the crack degree team from the submarine base Thursday evening. Their visit was the signal for the largest turnout of local Masons of recent record. Over two hundred of the craft assembled in the lodge rooms in the Rioux block. No Masonic event in the history of Mt. Vernon ever surpassed the celebration of Thursday evening. When the team arrived they were met by Worshipful Master Browning and escorted to the private dining room of the Jewett City restaurant, where the distinguished visitors enjoyed the following menu:

Cream of Tomato Soup
Prime Roast Ribs of Beef
Parker House Rolls
Mashed Potatoes Green Peas
Sliced Tomatoes Slice Cucumbers
Apple Pie Ice Cream
Coffee

After the lodge had been opened by the regular officers, the evening's government was given over to the visiting team and officers.

Their magnificent work included a display and portrayal of Ancient Craft Masonry in full form, as applied to the last and highest degree of a Master Mason. The degree team was under the supervision of W. Everett Eagles, W. M., of Union lodge, No. 7, New London.

The officers' places on the degree team were filled as follows: W. M., Charles Frederick Grisham, Naval lodge, No. 84, Kittery, Me.; S. Mrs. Margaret McGovern Sharkey, 90, widow of John Sharkey, died at her home on South Main street Thursday morning. Her death was due to the infirmities of age. She was born in county Cavan, Ireland, and came to this country when sixteen. On coming to Jewett City she came to the home of her aunt, Mrs. Dolan, the grandmother of Deputy Sheriff Dolan. At one time Mr. Sharkey owned the stone house where the Dolan family now live. For over fifty years the family have owned their home where Mrs. Sharkey died. She was the oldest person in town, and the oldest Catholic, who could remember when there was only one priest from Worcester to New London, and mass was said in a house on Factory hill.

For a time Mr. and Mrs. Sharkey lived in Lisbon where their oldest daughter, Ellen, was born. Mr. Sharkey died twenty-four years ago. Mrs. Sharkey was a thrifty homemaker, excelling in all the arts of a housewife. In her younger days she often helped her neighbors in times of sickness and death. She has received the most devoted care from her children in her declining years.

She is survived by four children, Thomas of Attleboro, John, boss machinist at Aspinook bleachery, Rose, a telegraph operator at the local railroad station, and William, of California. There are three grand-children, Daniel F. Finn, Jr., proprietor of Finn Bros. store, Paul Sharkey, who is to be graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology next week, and Sadie Sharkey, a student at Simmons college, Boston. There is one great grandchild, the son of Daniel Finn, Jr.

ROCKVILLE

The community around here was shocked to learn of the death early Saturday morning of Emory C. Kenyon, 54, who passed away after being confined to the house only three days by illness. While his health had not been good for some time he had kept about until forced to give up. He had worked on the road with his team for a number of weeks this spring and only the Saturday night previous had returned home from New York, where he had been to see his son, Wilfred, who has been seriously ill with blood poisoning, but is improving.

Mrs. Kenyon returned home the following Tuesday night and found her husband ill. From that time he rapidly grew worse, suffering from a complication of disease.

Mr. Kenyon was the only son of the late Abel B. and Julia Burdick Kenyon and was born June 6, 1869, in the same house where he has always lived and where he died, lacking only six days of being 55 years old. He was baptized April 24, 1886, and joined the Rockville, Seventh Day Baptist church, of which he always remained a member. For over thirty years he was a member of the church choir and had sung at a great many funerals, both among the church members and others as well. He was united in marriage April 16, 1895, with Miss Annie Barber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Barber of Woody Hill. Three sons were born to them, Clayton of Port Washington, L. I., Wilfred of Bayside, L. I., and Leslie, who is at home.

Funeral services were held at his home here Tuesday at 2 p. m., conducted by his pastor, Rev. Paul S. Burdick. The house was crowded with relatives and friends. William H. Browning of Westerly sang two hymns. There were beautiful flowers. The bearers were George L. Barber, Arthur Barber, Clayton Kenyon, Clarence Kenyon, William H. Browning and Addison McLean. Burial was in Rockville cemetery.

Memorial Day was observed by services in the Seventh Day Baptist church. The address was by Rev. Paul S. Burdick and there was music by the Hope Valley band, after which the graves of soldiers were decorated as usual. The services were largely attended, many from out of town being present. The church was well filled.

AMERICAN HOUSEWIFE FACTOR IN ECONOMICS

New York, June 5.—Thrifty and careful buying on the part of the American housewife are largely responsible for the fact that seven billion dollars are now on deposit in the savings banks of the country, said Margaret J. Bacon, of Rochester, N. Y., in addressing today the woman's division of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks, which opened for a three day convention.

The women of the country are spending more cautiously and saving more carefully, she said, with the result that money heretofore carelessly spent is now saved.

The total deposit, Miss Bacon asserted, is the largest in the history of savings banks.

BATHER ELECTROCUTED ON BRIDGE AT THOMPSONVILLE

Thompsonville, Conn., June 5.—Peter Capsalon, 18, lost his life today when seeking to save himself from falling from the top of the Thompsonville Suffield bridge over the Connecticut river, he grabbed a live electric wire and was killed by the current. He with others was bathing and climbed the bridge supports to the top of the structure.

SENATOR SWANSON'S VIEWS OF WORLD COURT

Washington, June 5.—The world court plan reported by a majority of the senate foreign relations committee "could only result in creation of resentment among members of the present court and would be productive of no good," Senator Swanson, of Virginia, ranking democratic member of the committee, declared in a radio address tonight.

At Winchester, Va., Raymond Lau took out a license to marry Miss Myrtle Castleman, then applied several days later for another. Lau said that the first one fell into the hands of a toddling child at the bride's home and the infant had chewed the marriage warrant until it was just a scrap of paper.

Don't let constipation make you an invalid —relieve it with Kellogg's Bran

Few people realize how dangerous is constipation until this dread disease tears down their health. Did you know that more than forty serious diseases can be traced to constipation?

Keep your health, or restore it, with Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled. It brings relief in mild and chronic cases of constipation. It is effective because it is ALL bran. That is why it is recommended so highly by doctors. They know that only ALL bran can bring 100 per cent results. Part bran is, at best, only a halfway measure.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran will bring permanent relief—even in the most chronic case. It is guaranteed to do so. If it fails, your grocer will return your money.

Because it is ALL bran it sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine. Like nature, it acts naturally. It makes the intestine function regularly.

Eat it every day—two tablespoonfuls—in chronic cases, with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Enjoy it in these wonderful recipes given on every package.

The flavor of Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is delicious. It is crisp, nut-like. Quite different from ordinary brans, which are so unpalatable. Kellogg's Bran is made in Battle Creek and served by the leading hotels and clubs everywhere. Sold by all grocers.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

The spotlight of nation-wide publicity will flash upon the town of Sterling this morning when publication becomes general of the fact that Albert Wellington Noone, wealthy resident of Peterboro, N. H., has announced his candidacy for the democratic nomination for vice president, preferably, it is understood, on a ticket with William Gibbs McAdoo as candidate for president.

Mr. Noone, who has a summer home on what is known as the Gallup place in Ekonk, the town from which his mother's people come, is a textile manufacturer and one of the most prominent democrats in New Hampshire, where he has been a candidate for governor on the democratic ticket in two campaigns.

A few years ago Mr. Noone acquired what is known as the Gallup homestead in the Ekonk section of the town of Sterling and spends considerable of his time there each summer. It was while he was at Oneco transacting some business Thursday morning that he made known that his hat is in the ring for nomination for vice president when the democratic national convention opens in New York the latter part of this month.

The Windham County Farmers' association is continuing its membership campaign. A feature of this drive is meetings such as one held this week at the home of L. H. Lindeman in East Woodstock. At the meeting explanation was made of the work of the Farmers' association. Plans were also forwarded for organizing the canvassing work for obtaining new members. A number of speakers addressed the meeting, including County Agent F. L. Davis, who is working hard to stir up county-wide interest.

Sixty looms are now in operation in the new plant of the Paco Mfg. Co. on Main street and twenty-two other new looms have been delivered at the plant and will be fitted up for operation at once. All the looms are electrically driven. This fine industry is gradually establishing itself in the big plant that it acquired some time since from the Connecticut Mills company, on lease, with privilege of purchase.

Thursday afternoon the body of Russell C. Rouse, 78, was laid at rest in the Chase cemetery at East Killingly, in which village of this town Mr. Rouse was a resident many years ago. He was a milliman and held responsible positions at East Killingly and at Attawaugan before going to Waterbury to make his home with his daughter, Mrs. Earl Shippee. Mr. Rouse, who died in Waterbury, was an uncle of N. A. Jordan of this place. A delegation from Moriah lodge, No. 15, A. F. and A. M., of which Mr. Rouse had been a member for many years, attended the burial service.

Joseph Dragon, 73, died at his home on Railroad street Wednesday evening about 9.30 after a long illness. Mr. Dragon was a native of Vermont, but came to this town as a young man and spent his life here. For many years he was resident in whit is now Goodyear and for a long period was the night watchman at the mill in that place. Removing to Danielson, he entered the employ of the People's Light and Power company as a night worker at the gas plant on Hutchins street and remained in that position until failing health obliged him to relinquish the work several years ago. His last employment was as janitor in charge of the rooms of the Bohemian club. Mr. Dragon leaves his wife, who was Miss Edna Butts of Goodyear, a son, Clarence, a daughter, Mrs. Henry Leonard, all of Danielson, and a daughter, Mrs. Frederick Durocher, of Putnam. He also leaves a sister, Mrs. Mary Domingue of Danielson, and a brother, George Dragon, of Springfield.

The Killingly High school baseball team, encouraged by a snappy victory over Plainfield High school this week, will go to Putnam this (Friday) afternoon for a game with Putnam High school, which team easily defeated Killingly here earlierin the season. A delegation of students from the local school will accompany the Killingly team to Putnam.

Danielson members of the Putnam Country club are interested in the fact that the Woonsocket Golf club team will be at the links in Putnam Saturday afternoon for the annual contest between representative players of the clubs.

An 8 y ear old boy, held to be incorrigible, was presented before the proper authorities here Thursday morning and ordered committed to the state school for boys at Meriden. The boy was probably the youngest ever sent from this town to the institution.

Miss Dorothy Blake, operated upon for appendicitis a number of weeks ago, is making steady progress toward recovery and full restoration to health. Miss Blake is a member of the clerical force at the Windham County National bank.

Thursday, June 19, will be graduation day at Killingly High school. The class day exercises will be held in the afternoon, the graduation in the evening. The alumni reception in honor of the graduating class comes on Friday evening, June 20.

A few people from Danielson were in New London Thursday ao attend the circus.

Russell C. Rouse, who died in Waterbury, and was buried at East Killingly Thursday afternoon, was a veteran of the Civil war, having served as a member of First regiment, Rhode Island Light Artillery.

PUTNAM

Captain John J. McGarry, of the headquarters company of the 43rd division, in process of formation in Putnam, was notified, Thursday, by Adjutant general's office in Hartford that Colonel Shearer would arrive in Putnam today (Friday) to make arrangements for the coming of a federal officer from Boston to federalize the new company, this evening. The company recruits will assemble at the Municipal building at 7 o'clock for the purpose of being sworn in as members of the National Guard of the United States.

Just what orders will be received following the federalization of the new company has not as yet been disclosed, but it is assumed that uniforms and equipment will be assigned to the company, that drilling will begin immediately and that the company will participate in camp maneuvers at Niantic this summer.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Smith in West Woodstock, at noon, Thursday, there was a double wedding when, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends their two daughters became brides, Miss Bertha Smith being united in marriage with Harold Barnett of Hartford, and her sister, Miss Margaret Smith becoming the bride of Ernest Stevens, of Southbridge.

The home was effectively decorated with flowers. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Wrister of the Southbridge Methodist church, the double ring service being used. Each bride acted as bridesmaid for the other and each bridegroom was the other's best man. As the wedding march was played the bridal procession appeared with four flower girls strewing flowers along the way. The flower girls were: Margaret Cox and Dorothy Cox, nieces of the brides, and Louise Hall and Arline Barrett, cousins of the bridegrooms. The ring bearers were Eunice Barrett and William Cox.

Following the wedding the numerous gifts to the bride were displayed. A luncheon was served. During the afternoon the newly married couples left for wedding trips after which Mr. and Mrs. Barnett will reside in Hartford and Mr. and Mrs. Stevens in Southbridge.

Next Sunday will be observed by Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows as Memorial Sunday. The members of the lodge will assemble at the lodge room on Pomfret street at 2.30 o'clock and march to Grove street cemetery where the graves of the departed brothers will be decorated. There are over thirty members of the order buried in the cemetery, the graves of those who died before 1922 will be decorated with an Odd Fellows' flag, those who died in 1923 with bouquets and at the grave of the most recently deceased brother the memorial service will be held.

Ex-service men from Putnam and Danielson were in Eastford, Thursday afternoon, to attend the funeral of Oliver Latham who died at his home in that village, Monday evening. Mr. Latham enlisted in the coast artillery company made up principally of men from Danielson and Putnam. He afterwards went to an officers' training camp and later saw service overseas as a commissioned officer. A military escort was furnished by Leo J. L'Homme Post, American Legion, of Danielson.

Landlord E. C. Rogers, of the Putnam Inn is making alterations in and about the hotel. A foundation has been laid in the rear of the Byrne company store and to thisis to be moved the so-called Quinebaug block, in the rear of the hotel, but some distance away. A new garage is to be constructed on or near the site from which the Quinebaug block is being removed. Just what other plans Mr. Rogers has in mind is known for he states that he has not fully decided on just what other improvements are to be made. Thursday afternoon the mahogany bar, a last reminder of pre-Volstead days, was turned bottom side up and removed from the building.

For the first time since the "Well Baby" campaign started in Putnam some four months ago, a clinic has been unsuccessful. Between fifteen and twenty youngsters were brought to the high schoo, Wednesday afternoon, by fond mothers who wished to have, in some instances their babies examined, and in others re-examined, some even coming from out of town. There were nurses and helpers who volunteered their services and some, if not all of the babies, were weighed and measured but there were no doctors present to give the physical examinations. The Well Baby campaign is wholly a public welfare movement and no money is demanded of mothers who wish to take advantage of the offer to have the examinations made. Local doctors were depended upon to volunteer their services to assist the campaign but Wednesday afternoon, for some reason or other, no volunteers put in an appearance to do the examinng. After remaining at the high school building for two hours or more the disappointed mothers left for home with their tired children. What effect the disappointment will have on the future of the campaign is not known. The campaign has been very successful, it is understood, in other cities and it is being carried on by the child welfare department of the state board of health throughout the state with the co-operation of local physicians and nurses.

PLAINFIELD

A business meeting of the Carder's union was held in Spinners' hall Wednesday evening, a dance and social evening following the meeting. Officers were elected as follows: President, Joseph Houle, relected; vice president, George Inglis, relected; treasurer, William Collins, relected; secretary, Sidney Hopkinh. Sidney Hopkins was elected to represent the union at the textile conference to be held in Norwich soon. The show committeee elected was the same as last year, Donald Burke, Henry Pechic, William Collins, William Inglis. The refreshment committee which served ice cream, soda, and cake, was William Inglis, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brown, Joseph Houle and Henry Pechic.

Moosup grammar school turned the tables on their rival, Plainfield Wednesday afternoon, sending the latter team to defeat by a score of 29 to 14. The game was close and interesting until the seventh inning, both teams playing fine baseball, but during that inning the Moosup team started a rally, and emerged in the lead. Fleck and Williams did the hurling duty, for Moosup, with Lamothe, Verrenault, and Despardins taking turns on the mound for Plainfield.

The Woman's club met at the home of Mrs. Robert Dawley on Gallup street Thursday afternoon. After the meeting an entertaining program, including a violin solo by Mrs. Arthur Moffitt, a reading, Mrs. Thomas Cooper, a vocal solo by Mrs. Cecil Butler, accompanied by Miss Helen Gallup, and a piano solo by Mrs. Clarence Jeffers, was pleasingly rendered. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Dawly and Mrs. William Wilson, the hostesses.

Since the weather has become a little more agreeable, the lovers of outdoor sports in this village are turning thei rattention to tennis. The courts at the community house have been put into fine condition, and many interesting matches have been witnessed there recently.

Ralph Lowe, principal ofschools at Moosup,was a visitor Thursday at the home of Cecil Butler.

No privately-owned automobile in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, may be painted red or white. These colors are used exclusively by the city for its municipal cars. All the ambulances are white, and the fire department's machines are red, to make it easy for the traffic policemen to distinguish these cars, which have the right-of-way.

AUTOS AND ELECTRICS.

Killed, seriously injured or slightly injured. One of those terms are invariably required to describe the result of accidents caused by the failure to respect the law which calls for the stopping of automobiles when street cars are taking on or discharging passengers.

It is ignorance of the law that makes such accidents possible, but the desire to avoid stopping even for the short period that would be required to give the pedestrians a chance to escape injury. There is no more danger in one place than the rear end or the front end of a trolley car where passengers are getting on or off, inasmuch as the passenger or the driver of an auto is deprived of a view of the other, and the hazard of the situation made necessary the adoption of the law requiring autos to come to a stop.

Perhaps the time will come when electric cars will be obliged to carry rear signals indicating they are being halted or coming to a stop, but until they are it is necessary to regard any slowing up of an electric as a good indication that it is coming to a stop, or that a car just starting up has been halted for the purpose of taking on or leaving passengers.

There are those wilful cases where absolutely no regard is paid to the life or limb of those who happen to be in the street, whether about a trolley car or elsewhere, but invariably it is the case when persons are injured when about to get on a car or just after alighting, that the injuries, however serious, might have been avoided had there not been that carelessness to push ahead of the trolley just for the sake of avoiding a stop.

The craze for speed and the mad rush to get nowhere is exacting a toll in human life that is altogether unjustified. It discloses the need of keeping autos under better control in the neighborhood of electric cars, and on the other hand the pedestrian has good reason to watch his step in the interest of personal safety.

REGISTRATION WOULD STOP IT.

Even before the new immigration bill is put into effect, criticisms are being offered regarding the injustices of the plan. Attention is being directed to that feature of the legislation which makes the ship owners responsible for the crews of foreign vessels and attaching a penalty for all who escape when the ships are in the ports of this country. The same responsibility is exacted of all foreign shipping. Once it was so that the shipowners were liable to a fine of a thousand dollars if Chinese members of their crews got away, but now this same plan is extended to all alien crew members.

Shipping aboard vessels destined for this country with the purpose of deserting when an American port was reached has been the practice of large numbers of crew members, and it is for the purpose of preventing it that the immigration law has been made to include the new obligation on the part of the officers of foreign vessels. The penalty has been placed high in order to get respect for it. The claim is made that desertions cannot be prevented and that ship owners and officers are not responsible for such acts, but illegitimate entry of aliens into the country by this practice has grown so under the present law that the desire is to stop it under the new.

The same difficulty surrounds the desertion of the foreign seamen that is confronted in the case of the aliens who are smuggled into the country. There is no effective way of telling who have been passed under the immigration laws and who have not. Those who are in are invariably safe unless something unexpectedly reveals the hidden fact.

What is believed to be a remedy for this situation is the requirement that all immigrants be registered. Then there would be a way to detect the ones who had deserted ship or been smuggled into the country, and the chance of getting by undetected would not be so alluring.

CANADA INTERESTED.

Not so long after this country displayed unwarranted haste in excluding Japanese from this country, there has been raised on the floor of the Canadian parliament the question of excluding the Mikado's subjects from the dominion. It hasn't as yet been done, possibly it will not be done, but Canada has hitherto gone on record in behalf of the exclusion of certain peoples and it is not improbable that it will take the same view concerning the Japanese.

Why is Canada concerned? Well, under the British-Japanese agreement there was a provision that but 150 Japanese could come into Canada each year. Since that agreement was terminated the restriction has stopped. It was pointed out to the Canadian parliament that between 400 and 500 Japanese entered Canada last year. The same attitude toward the Japanese prevails in western Canada that exists along our Pacific coast and it is not improbable that certain ones in Canada take the view that with total restriction in this country there will be an increased effort on the part of the Japanese to get into Canada.

Whether that view is a correct one or not, it is plausible, and it has already been pointed out that the abandonment of the gentlemen's agreement between this country and Japan has released the restraint exercised by Japan upon the number of subjects desirous of going to Canada or Mexico, from which countries smuggling in excess of the number coming in under the gentlemen's agreement is entirely possible.

Canada hasn't acted as yet and it may not act. It is feeling the effects of the agitation for exclusion. It hasn't any agreement to terminate but if it had it is doubtful if it would follow the example set by this country in pushing through exclusion legislation without making provisions for the termination of a solemnly made agreement. Canada may exclude but if it does the chances are that it will be diplomatic enough to avoid unnecessary antagonism.

THE BOAT RACES.

With the arrival of the college crews at Gales Ferry it is certain that the aquatic classic is not far off. Not a little has come from New Haven and Cambridge concerning the preparations of the crews, and now it is possible to go down and see for yourself what you think of their respective merits as they complete the final weeks of their training.

Yale and Harvard have met for many years on the Thames. The crews race others but the real test comes when they meet each other. It is the big event for graduates as well as undergraduates and friends, and an ideal training ground and racing course is provided in that stretch of the Thames below Gales Ferry.

There were the days when several other college crews contested in this race, but the days when Cornell and Columbia sent crews to the Thames are long since past. There is no immediate prospect that they will return.

The Yale-Harvard regatta meant much more to this part of the state in earlier days than it does now. There was the time when old time transportation caused the crowds to gather in advance and celebrate the victory on the ground. That has for the most part disappeared with the coming of the auto. The special trains and the steamers are still pressed into service but the big bulk of the crowd comes and goes by automobile.

Perhaps in no other way do so many people come to realize the attractiveness of the Thames as through the crowds that come to line its banks on the day of the boat races.

NO HARM IN DELAY.

It will be readily agreed, it is believed, that no harm will be done if there is no action taken upon the Muscle Shoals proposition at this session of congress. Whether through agreement or crush of business at the closing of this session of the national legislature, the failure to reach a decision can well be regarded as satisfactory. It is preferable to disposing of it in a haphazard manner, or of taking action on it that is based upon prejudice.

Whether congress will be in any better mood in December there is no way of telling. Possibly it will get a different attitude of the sentiment that prevails at home by that time and will be disposed to give consideration to the suggestion that was made by President Coolidge to the effect that a committee of experts be named for the purpose of dealing with the Muscle Shoals proposition in accord with the facts.

Clearly it is a matter that ought not to be booted about. If there is one method of disposing of it that stands head and shoulders above the rest the country ought not to be denied the advantage that would accrue therefrom.

The need of giving it careful thought from all angles, fully digesting the various bids and closely studying the possibilities must be apparent to any who have given the matter any thought. It is too valuable to be given away, too important to be wasted and in any case there is too much at stake to permit a decision on political grounds.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Will it require much wading to get knee deep into June?

Thus far the days in June have been rare, raw and rainy.

Norwich now has a chance to boost the city tax up to about 30 mills.

Automobiles are fast replacing the horses except the dark type in political matters.

This is the month for degrees, but they don't pile up on the thermometer very rapidly.

Aren't those people who howl at the first sign of hot weather going to have a chance to be heard this summer?

Is it possible to find anyone who thinks that La Follette could be persuaded to stay off of a third party ticket?

George F. Baker with his $5,000,000 gift to Harvard shows that all the public service isn't rendered through political channels.

The man on the corner says: There are some sections where it doesn't look now as if the roads would get settled this summer.

Congress has much to crowd into the next three days, so much in fact that much talk must be sacrificed or many measures will be.

You've probably noticed that this is a great season for the burning of ice houses and summer hotels, when they are getting ready to empty the one and fill the other.

There are plenty of bills which will not be reached by congress because of adjournment this week. But that disposition will be perfectly satisfactory in many instances to the public.

Norwich and vicinity, as a community, is taking about as much interest in getting a deeper and wider channel in the Thames river as Norwich does in a city election. It's a hit or miss affair and mostly miss.

THE TROUBLE MAKERS

"It certainly is queer," admitted Miss Pearlie Fatterahall who, was, as she dropped in on the stenographer across the hall for a brief noontime visit, "that you can't use a single solitary one of the tricks you learned before you were married after you don the kitchenette apron and throw away your calling cards with 'Miss' on 'em! Why, it's an absolute waste of toil, and I'm here to warn you, dearie, to put in your time studying Persian or jazz or something instructive."

"Don't tell me," wailed the stenographer across the hall from Pearlie's former office, "that you've found marriage a failure this soon!"

"I guess you weren't listening, Bernice," reported her caller. "You'll never hear me knock marriage so long as the man I'm married to is Jim—I was just remarking on the fact that husbands and beans are run on entirely different plans, systems and such.

"When I felt that Jim was beginning to take me as a matter of course or was getting chesty or just needed taking down on general principles all I had to do was mysteriously to remove myself, if you get me! While being sweet as possible to him, smiling at the right places and making a point of being attentive, my eyes would have an inscrutable, far-away look as though I were living in quite another hemisphere and I would manage to convey the impression that I was living my life entirely by myself and that he didn't make one-two-three-four differences, although, of course, I should always think of him kindly. Well, that always worked beautifully! Jim would become frantic trying to find out what he had done heto estrange us forever and would lose two pounds a day worrying and wondering, and after I had soothed him by telling him I had forgiven him for whatever he figured out he had done he was usually pale and haggard and ran like clockwork for a long time, never forgetting me one instant!

"But just you try that on a husband! You see, after we had been married a couple of months Jim could read the paper straight through at breakfast, kiss me goodby on my left ear and depart perfectly happy, but me it did not come up to specifications, so I tried being remote, reserved. But Jim was just as cheerful as ever.

"He never once asked what was the matter, sweetheart—you know! Why, the evening I was the most remote he sank down in his armchair, gazed at the ceiling and recited how wonderful it was that we two were here in our own home, so happy and everything! I couldn't help it—I was so mad I burst into tears—and he completely finished things by saying he had heard women cried when they were happy, but he had never seen it proved before!

"When we were engaged all I had to do to chain him to my side was to pick out some good-looking man at the party and sort of blossom out with admiration and interest in his presence. It never failed to induce Jim to say that he knew he wasn't worthy of me, but, oh, wouldn't I believe in his devotion and give him a chance to show me.

"It was very convenient to be able to put a man in his place this way and I thought it was a method good till the end of the journey—but after boring myself to death flirting with a tiresome lounge lizard at the last club dance just to pay Jim for forgetting to bring my Friday box of candy and parading my capture before his very eyes, me hanging on his arm and looking up confidingly, all Jim said when we taxied home was gee but he was sleepy and be sure to set the alarm good and hard because he had to be down extra early the next morning.

"And when we were engaged and things got kind-a slow if I sighed and said I was, oh, so blue, Jim would enliven a whole evening trying to prove to his own satisfaction that my grief was not due to being tied down to a future with him. You know how interesting such a discussion can be! Well, the other night when nothing seemed to be doing I said oh, dear, but I feel blue—and what do you suppose that brute said, Bernice? He said that two pieces of cream pie such as I had eaten at dinner were enough to make a human being feel not only blue but murderous, and he should think I'd have more sense.

"You see, I've got to get to work and figure out a whole complete new set of thumscrews, so to say! It's some job in addition to housekeeping, let me tell you!"

"Aren't men the limit?" sympathized the stenographer across the hall. "C'mon, let's go get a double chocolate nut cream sundae and forget 'em!"—Chicago News.

Straus Was Compelled to Change Vocations.

Oscar S. Straus wanted to be a lawyer, he studied diligently, entered the profession and was achieving success when ill health compelled him to abandon his life plan.

Born in Otterburg, Germany, he was 3 years old when his family, once well-to-do, but now poor, emigrated to America, locating in Talbottom, Ga. When he was 12 the family moved to Columbus. There were no public schools and he attended private classes whose master used the rod freely. And Oscar was just an ordinary boy who loved to play, neighbors say.

The Civil war took the father's funds and the family moved to New York. Georgia teachers had been inefficient, the boy practically had to start over again in New York schools. Despite that he studied long hours, his progress was slow.

When 17 he entered Columbia college, and after being denied an appointment in the army, he decided to be a lawyer. He was graduated from Columbia Law school when 23, and entered a law firm. He was successful and became an effective trial lawyer, but the strain was too great, his health failed, and at 31 he was forced to quit.

He became a member of L. Straus & Sons, composed of his father and brothers, importers of china and glassware. A year later he married.

Still a student and author, he spent his evenings in research and writing. Senator Gorman was so impressed by one of his books that he offered Straus the ministry to Turkey. Straus decided to accept, then Gorman and Cleveland split, and there was opposition to Straus because of the large Christian missionary interests in the land of the Sultan. But people of all faiths urged his appointment, he served two years with distinction and later returned when appointed by President Taft.

He held positions of honor in New York. President Roosevelt appointed him member of the permanent court of arbitration at The Hague and later made him secretary of commerce and labor.

In 1912 he ran for governor of New York on the progressive ticket, secured more votes than Roosevelt but was defeated.

Later President Wilson appointed him a member of the second industrial conference named by him.

Today, at 73, Straus is still avtive in public life and is honored for his altruism and Americanism.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, who is now in command of the American flight around the world, had an outstanding record in army aviation before he was selected as a member of the globe-girdling party. In the endurance contest from New York to San Francisco in 1919 he was head of all the contestants from the west coast to Chicago, here unavoidable delay deprived him of the opportunity to win. Later he participated in a non-stop refueling airplane flight for a duration of over thirty-six hours and also made a non-stop flight from the Canadian to the Mexican border. Lieutenant Smith is 33 years old and a native of Santa Barbara, Calif. He enlisted as a private in the aviation section of the Signal Corps and upon America's entry into the World war was commissioned a first lieutenant. Much of his training as a military aviator was received in England.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

AN INTERNATIONAL JULY 4 IN SWEDEN.

On July 4, the league of postal nations, the Universal Postal Union, embracing the earth, will hold its fiftieth anniversary at Stockholm, Sweden.

"It is significant that the delegates of the nations of the earth gather for this celebration of postal peace on July 4, American Independence Day, because to the United States goes the honor of laying the foundation for the Universal Postal Union," says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its headquarters at Washington, D. C.

"This confederation of nations, at fifty years, is the oldest comprehensive organization of world states. It has reduced the world's postage bill by billions, and increased the letters exchanged by millions. It has made neighbors of Kalamazoo and Timbuktu and put sewing machines in Turkish harems.

"The difference between $2.50 and a 2 cent postage stamp represents to the individual the most dramatic feature of the Postal Union's accomplishments. Ten years before the Postal Union was thought of, it cost $2.50 to send an ounce letter to New Zealand; today it costs 2 cents.

"The blow to the high cost of mailing illustrated by the United States-New Zealand instance has been repeated to a lesser degree with all foreign correspondence. Reduction of the cost of an ounce letter to England from 12 cents to 2 cents, to France from 72 cents to 5 cents, and to Brazil from 30 cents to 2 cents, dates back to a conference called with the approval of Abraham Lincoln. Agreements of this conference were built into the postal convention signed at Berne, Switzerland, in 1873. Although the actual fifty-year anniversary occurred last year, the Universal Postal Union will celebrate it at Stockholm this year, since 1924 is the year of its regular meeting.

"Dispatch of 22,000 sacks of mail from the New York foreign mail post office is not uncommon today. On one trip recently the Mauretania brought in 14,000 sacks.

"Last year the United States spent $10,000,000 to send 415,000,000 pieces of mail, excluding parcel post, abroad and received 362,000,000 pieces. It is a far cry from these thousands of sacks of mail to Burns Coffeehouse, post office for all Manhattan for a century. In this old tavern near the Battery letters were stuck in a rack to be called for by the addressees. Even the king of Hedjaz had to give up recently the old custom of dumping mail in a pile where the pilgrims to Mecca, at their leisure, picked out letters sent for them.

"No man who sticks a 5-cent stamp on a letter to a missionary in Tibet can realize the tribulation of his grandfather sending a letter only to Canton. First his grandfather had to choose one of five ways of sending the letter. It might go by German mails through England to Brindisi Italy, to the Orient, or through Germany to Brindisi. It might pass through Great Britain via Southampton or via Brindisi, or might go by the United States packet. Each way had a different charge, varying from 20 cents to 68 cents. In our grandfathers' time each sender had to pay the cost of transportation over and above postage; now nations' representatives calculate transportation costs, cancel off like banks do with checks, and pay the charges.

"The parts of the world not represented in the Universal Postal Union agreements today are Afghanistan, Arabia, Baluchistan, Johore and Trengganu in the Malay States, Maldive Islands, Northern and Southern Nigeria, Nyassaland, Northern Rhodesia, Santa Cruz Islands, Pitcairn Islands, Russia, Iraq, and Tonga Islands.

"Through the offices of the Universal Postal Union magazines have become international as well as national by virtue of the economy in cost to subscribers. Foreign mails take The National Geographic Magazine to 61 independent countries and to 92 dependencies. The same material which is read by members of the society in the United States is read by other members in Gambia, Monaco, Abyssinia, Gabon, Zanzibar, the Society Islands and the Seychelles."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Wondering Why No Reply

Mr. Editor: I have been wondering lately, why we did not get Mr. Poreda's answer to the question, asking him to tell us what his hope was founded on. And why there was not a peep in answer to my last letter (on immortality of the soul.) I surely expected some explanatory answers to that, after reading all those sermons just before my letter was sent in. Well they find the book and its owner too much for them? I wonder. I still I wonder if these verses in Jeremiah 8:7-13 has any thing to do with their silence. Do any of them see or realize the trouble coming. Yet still are blind to their real cause? Do they say let us unite ourselves and entrench ourselves in the strong cities (governments) and keep silence? Do they somehow realize that [illegible] reason or scripture support their false doctrines, and think the surest method is to keep silent in the midst of old superstitions and under the protection of so called Christian governments? They are represented as of whom saying, and very truly, in this same chapter, Jer. 8: "The Lord hath put us to silence, and given us bitter poison water to drink." The only refreshment which they may [illegible] cup which they have mingled with the pure water of life, the truth of God's word.) Shall not such as these and love Babylon, and who are therefore unready to obey the command, Rev. 18:4, "Come out of her," be forced to drink the cup of their own mixing? Shall not such be forced to admit the folly of their doctrine? They shall. And they will be thoroughly nauseated by it. The next verse tells of the disappointment of their expectations which were that their bitter unseen watered doctrines would have converted the world and brought about the millinium. I may say I've looked for peace but no good came and for a time of health, and behold trouble." DISPELS FOUL PLAY SUSPICION IN EAST HAMPTON SUDDEN DEATH

Suspicion of foul play in the death of Ernest Hubbard of East Hampton, 55, who was found dead in Black ledge brook in Westchester at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon was pretty much dispelled by an investigation made by Coroner J. J. Desmond on Thursday afternoon. Without having definitely pronounced his opinion, the coroner's investigation led him to the belief that Hubbard died from drowning through falling into the brook while in a practically helpless condition from intoxication.

The brook was a comparatively shallow stream that he could easily have forded. Hubbard's body was found by M. M. Squires and R. M. Squires, Columbia lumbermen, who were walking along the brook in quest of lumber. The body was clad in undershirt, overshirt, vest and sweater. The trousers and shoes were found on the bridge. There were no marks of violence on the body.

He had learned that Hubbard had been at the home of August Garhman in Westchester with Robert Butler, 70, about 10 o'clock Tuesday night, and both men were intoxicated. On the East Hampton side of the bridge, the wagon in which the two had been riding had been backed into the bushes, and there were footprints in such numbers that it seemed as if a struggle might have taken place. A splinter had been torn off the bridge, and Hubbard's discarded overalls were torn, probably by this splinter.

Butler's story was that he met Hubbard, Tuesday morning, called first at the home of Axel Johnson in East Hampton, then at the home of Mrs. Julia Bell, where they bought four small pigs. At 6 o'clock they showed up at the Norton paper mill in Marlboro where they secured a box for the pigs. Butler says Hubbard had been drinking wine and cider obtained at the various places visited and was badly intoxicated. Near the bridge Hubbard got out of the wagon and Butler declared he could not persuade him to re-enter. Hubbard finally telling him to take the wagon home and tie the horse up at Hubbard's place. This Butler did, but mentioned to no one that Hubbard had not returned.

AUTOMOBILE STRUCK BY TROLLEY ON MAIN ST.

As a Ford touring car, driven by Harry Levine of Jewett City, was pulling out from the curb in front of Fern's restaurant on Main street a few minutes after 1 o'clock this (Friday) morning it collided with a trolley car bound from the square to the car barn. The rear bumper and off hand running board of the automobile were smashed by the impact.

Failure to give a signal on the part of the driver is said to have been responsible for the accident. At police headquarters it was discovered that Mr. Levine had neglected to endorse his driver's license. He was held for violation of the motor vehicle law and released on bonds of $100, furnished by a friend. He will appear in the city court this (Friday) morning.

Mr. Levine had driven a party of friends from Jewett City to the circus in New London and on the way back the party stopped at the restaurant for a lunch.

DWOJAKOWSKI ESCAPES CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER

Boleslaw Dwojakowski of 44 Convent avenue, who has been in jail on a manslaughter charge for the death of Raymond Rozanski of 760 Boswel avenue, after the latter was shot at the Lisbon Shooting club last January, is to be tried on the charge of carrying a dangerous and concealed weapon instead of the manslaughter charge. This change was ordered in the superior court at New London when Dwojakowski was arraigned there Wednesday afternoon before Judge C. L. Avery.

Dwojakowski entered a plea of not guilty and court was then adjourned until next Wednesday morning at which time witnesses for the prosecution and defense will be heard.

The jury was dismissed until that time by Judge Avery. This is the last case that will come before this session of the court.

CONTINUANCE IN CASE CHARGING RECKLESS DRIVING

Narcisse Lamonth of Taftville, the driver of an automobile that struck and knocked down Charles Stapleton of 20 Washington street, Wednesday evening, was before the city court on Thursday morning on a reckless driving charge, but the case was continued till July 1 as Mr. Stapleton is still unconscious at the hospital. Bonds were fixed at $300, which were furnished.

Stapleton, who is night watchman at the Norwich Belt Manufacturing company plant on North Main street was hit as he was getting off a trolley car to go to his work. It was claimed that the car was still moving as Stapleton was getting off. One of the crew of the car arrested a charge of reckless driving against Lamonth.

ROBERTSON DEWHURST IN HOSPITAL AT MIAMI

Robertson Dewhurst, son-in-law of Charles S. Ebberts of 262 Franklin street, has been badly injured in an automobile accident in Miami, Fla., and is in a hospital in that city.

Mr. Ebberts has no exact information as to Mr. Dewhurst's injuries nor the circumstances of the accident except that it was through an automobile running into another machine that was standing in the road without lights and that several others were hurt besides Mr. Dewhurst.

LEFT HIS HOME TO JOIN THE CIRCUS

Tired of life under the same roof as the blood of Charles King O. Thursday, and he left his home at 46 Spring street to join the circus in New London. WIDOW OF HARRY HARLAND APPEARS IN NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 5. — A woman who declared herself to be Lady Henry Harland of Norwich, appeared at the New London police station last night and stated that she intended to sue the management of the Crocker house for $500,000 for alleged humiliation. The woman was considered irresponsible and she was detained until she had been examined by City Physician George P. Cheney. She was then placed under the care of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield, who obtained temporary accommodations for her at the Hotel Mohican. Mrs. Harland was possessed of a room-key of the Crocker house and declared that after hiring the room several days ago, she was prevented from taking possession of it last night. Inquiry of the Norwich police revealed the fact that Mrs. Harland was known in that city.

Mrs. Harland, who is widow of the distinguished novelist, Harry Harland ("Sidney Lusca") was Miss Arlene Meriam, daughter of a wealthy New York jeweler. Her husband died a number of years ago, while they were living at San Remo, Italy. His death greatly affected his talented wife and after the breaking out of the world war she found distraction in doing welfare service in England, where she and her husband had lived for a time. It is the theory that her arduous work has affected her physical and mental health.

Mrs. Harland appeared in Norwich about a week ago, endeavoring to gain admittance to the old Harland homestead, on Sentry Hill, the property of her husband's mother, Mrs. Thomas Harland, who is now at Atlantic City. The house has been cleared of its valuable furniture and the land about it has been sold. Mrs. Harland, Sr., occupying the nearby cottage, when in Norwich. Mrs. Harry Harland, when denied the entrance to what she called her home, insisted upon sleeping on the porch, until neighbors came to her aid. The house was the home of the late Gen. Edward Harland.

It is not believed that she is without funds, as her husband's books have always brought her substantial royalties.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER FOR MISS BLANCHE WHEELER

A delightful miscellaneous shower was given Thursday evening at the Tanney store, Franklin square, for Miss Blanche Wheeler of Otrobando avenue, in honor of her approaching marriage with Louis Irish. JONES AND MEHLHORN FINISH EVEN IN FIRST ROUND OF NATIONAL PLAY

Detroit, Mich., June 6.—(By The A. P.)—Bobby Jones of Atlanta, defending his title as national open golf champion, today made a fine effort to retain his crown by scoring 74-73—147, on the 6,830 yard links of the Oakland Hills club, and tying for first place with Bill Mehlhorn of St. Louis at the end of the first 36 holes of the championship tournament.

Cyril Walker of New York, with a pair of 74's was only one stroke behind the leaders, while Bobby Cruickshank, who lost the play-off of the tie for the title to Jones last year, was tied with Dave Robertson of Detroit with 149.

Walter Hagen of New York and MacDonald Smith of San Francisco shared a score of 150, only three strokes behind the leaders.

It remained for Abe Espinosa of San Francisco, after a poor round of 80, to set a course record in competition for the present links by returning a tally of 34-37—71, one below par. This with his 80 in the morning, gave him a total of 151.

Tom Kerrigan and Mike Brady of New York filled out the first ten at the half way mark with a pair of 152's.

An improvement equally as startling as that of Espinosa, was shown by James West of New York, who after taking 81 strokes in the morning, chalked up a par 72 in the afternoon. This score included a spectacular eagle two on the 450 yard eighth hole where he sank a long brassie shot. The ball hit the embankment at the back of the green and bounced back, trickling into the cup.

Gene Sarazen, of New York, holder of the title two years ago, started out like a repeater in the morning by scoring a record 33 on the first nine, but he slumped to 41 on the second nine and took 80 for the afternoon round. This left him fairly well up in the list, however, tied with such players as Chick Evans, Charles Hoffner, Joe Turnesa and Eddie Loos.

Jesse Guilford, Boston, the only eastern amateur in the competition, got in trouble on the second nine, losing a ball on the seventeenth hole and finding an unplayable lie in the bushes on the 12th so that the four penalty strokes gave him a 42. He improved his eighty of the forenoon round by shooting a 36 on the third round but he got entangled on the twelfth for another seven and took 76 for the afternoon round.

Another star performer of the links who did not meet expectations, was Joe Kirkwood, New York, who after showing a fair 77 in the morning slipped off to 36 in the afternoon.

Still another disappointment to his supporters was John Farrell of New York, who headed the eastern qualifiers with 144. Today he took 79 for the first round and improved that only three strokes in the afternoon. The most spectacular split of the day was that of Jock Hutchison of Chicago, former British open champion, who required no fewer than 163 for the 36 holes, including 54 for the morning round.

George Sargent, of Columbus, champion in 1919, also required 163 strokes.

There was a remarkably large gallery for a medal play event, 5,700 paying admission to the course. A large portion of the gallery followed the popular southern amateur star, but Hagen, playing with Bobby Cruickshank, had a large gallery, as did Chick Evans.

BULKELEY TO MEET NEW BRITAIN HIGH TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 5.—After a strenuous workout at Morgan park this afternoon that lasted three hours, the Bulkeley team is in shape to oppose New Britain High at Morgan park this (Friday) afternoon in a contest that will have an important bearing on the state high school title. All hopes for winning this game will be pinned on Tillie Daniels, the ace of the Bulkeley twirling staff. Daniels has won the majority of the important games for the state champions this season. Seven victories have been hung up by Daniels, and he is hoping to make it eight Friday. George Shefiott, considered one of the best receivers in the state, will handle Daniels' curves.

For New Britain High, Neipp, who has won all the games he has pitched in so far this season, will be on the mound. Dania will be behind the bat.

The game with New Britain will be the final contest for this week. The Crosby High game scheduled for Saturday afternoon at Waterbury has been put over until Tuesday of next week.

The lineup of the Bulkeley team will be changed for the contest with New Britain this (Friday) afternoon. Joe Barry will lead off instead of Joe Gaetao, who will hit second. The rest of the lineup will be moved down one peg. Hutchison 3b, Rise lf, Shefiott c, Mansfield rf, Daniels p, Tuttle 1b, and Booth cf.

BROWNS HIT EHMKE HARD AND WON, 5 TO 2

St. Louis, June 5.—The Browns found the offerings of Howard Ehmke to their liking today and defeated the Boston Red Sox, 5 to 2, in the third game of the series. The setback cost the Red Sox their half game hold on first place, as rain prevented the New York Yankees from playing and the two teams thus are tied for the lead. Severeid, local catcher, was banished in the seventh for disputing Umpire Nallin's calling of balls and strikes. The score:

CHICAGO WINS HARD FOUGHT GAME FROM GIANTS

New York, June 5. — The Chicago Nationals won a hard fought 5 to 4 game from New York here today. The visitors concentrated their attack on Barnes in the fifth inning, scoring four runs on homers by Hartnett and Statz, a triple by Grantham, a double by Hollocher and Heathcote's single. In the ninth inning Heathcote stole home on Huntzinger, New York's collegian recruit. The Giants played a hard uphill game and caused Keen considerable trouble late in the game, but his early lead carried him through. Score:

EVERYTHING NOW CLEAR FOR WILLS-MADDEN BOUT

New York, June 5.—The state athletic commission today licensed the Queensboro A. C. to hold bouts in its Long Island City arena, thus removing the last obstacle in the way of the Wills-Madden heavyweight match scheduled for next Monday night.

The license was issued by the commission upon receipt of an order from the fire department removing its ban on the big wooden structure as a fire hazard. The license is revokable, however, at the termination of a 30-day period unless a permanent permit is issued by the fire department.

Barbarian Matched With Dundee.

New York, June 5.—Sid Barbarian, Detroit lightweight, who last night defeated Jack Bernstein of Yonkers, N. Y., former junior lightweight champion, will be matched with Johnny Dundee for the junior lightweight crown.

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch
Captain New York Giants

The runner on first base is taking too long a lead.

What kind of a signal should be used and who should tip the pitcher to throw the ball to first base?

There is no standard form of signal used to tip the pitcher to throw to first base or any other when a runner takes too long a lead. Watching base runners is one of the important essentials of good playing. As the bulk of this work falls on pitchers managers are more eager to select pitchers who can watch the bases closely than to attach themselves to good ones who are not good at that sort of thing. In the World Series last year, the carelessness of one Yankee pitcher in keeping a base runner on first in check had a lot to do with the outcome of that game. One of the Giants got a ten foot lead by reason of a long windup. That wasn't good baseball under the conditions and it was impossible at the time to signal the pitcher because he was too far along with the pitch.

As the catcher is in a position to see all the bases he is the best man to signal the pitcher to throw to any base when a runner is taking too great a lead. Some teams use the third baseman to do so but this is not a good plan because the third baseman is too engrossed in watching the batter to be able to watch base runners as well. The simple plan is to let the catcher tip off the pitcher as he always has the game in front of him. Any sort of a signal is good providing the signal involves some natural move or gesture of the catcher which is not easily noted by the other team.

PHILLIES MAKE IT 2 OUT OF 3 WITH ST. LOUIS

Philadelphia, June 5.—Art Fletcher's Phillies made it two out of three from St. Louis today, winning a hard fought battle, 4 to 2. The Cardinals outhit the locals 9 to 7 but could not bunch hits off Glazner when runs were needed. A batting rally in the fourth netted the home team three runs which proved enough to win the game.

Sand played a brilliant game at shortstop, accepting eleven chances without an error and going out of his territory on three different occasions to pull down long flies.

OFFICIAL OPENING OF DUWELL A. A. FIELD IS SCHEDULED FOR SUNDAY

For the opening attraction at the new Duwell athletic field, which is to be opened Sunday, June 8th, Manager Pedace has booked the Hartford Colonials, which is considered the fastest semi-pro team in Hartford. The Colonials have played six games this season and have yet to suffer their first defeat. The team is made up of stars who have been picked from the Industrial and Life Insurance leagues which have furnished Hartford with twilight baseball for the past three years. Manager Riley of the Colonials will have the following men in his lineup when they make their appearance here Sunday: Dan O'Leary at 1st, Riley at 2nd, DeVito at third, Bill Cunningham at short, and Salad, Southengal and Conway in the outfield with Hyman, Ables and Daley in reserve. Post or Fitzpatrick will do the twirling. Post has been the leading pitcher in the Industrial league for the past two seasons and will probably be the favorite to start Sunday and will be caught by "Pat" Barry, one of the leading catchers in the Life Insurance league.

The Colonials will have to do some tall traveling Sunday to hold their clean slate as the Duwell A. A. will present one of the fastest teams that has represented Norwich in quite a while.

The Duwells will line up as follows: "Art" Coulard at 1st, Eddie Burns at 2nd, "Dinty" Moore at short, and Harry Mills at 3rd. This infield has been playing together all season and can be put up against any infield in this section of the state. Not only are they snappy infielders but are a real hard hitting bunch of lads, each one having a batting average of over three hundred for the season. "Roy" Leonard, "Muggy" Ellsworth, Bill Ringland and Bill Smith, formerly of the New London Independents, will play the outfield.

Roy, formerly of the American Thread Co. will do the twirling with Joe Belair, the popular all around athlete, behind the bat.

The players are all well known around Norwich and speak for themselves and no doubt, with any support, will hold their own with any team in the state and furnish some real baseball for the fans of Norwich during the season.

The grounds on the East Side are almost in perfect condition and the new grandstand, which will hold five hundred people, will positively be ready by Sunday when the new Duwell athletic field will be officially opened.

SHEEHAN PITCHES REDS TO 6 TO 0 WIN OVER BOSTON

Boston, June 5.—Tom Sheehan pitched Cincinnati to a 6 to 0 victory over Boston today. It was his sixth victory of the season in seven games. Cincinnati drove Jess Barnes from the box in the third inning and continued the assault, though less viciously, on Cooney. Cincinnati made two runs in the ninth on two bases on balls and three sacrifices, one of which was mishandled by Tierney. The score:

TAKING SLOW MOTION PICTURES OF YALE CREWS

Gales Ferry, Conn., June 5. — The varsity and junior varsity Yale crews were taken out for a six mile row late this afternoon by Coach Leader and slow motion pictures of the workout were taken for corrective purposes. The freshman and combination crews were taken out separately, the former by Coach Murphy and the latter by Leader. Both coaches expressed themselves as satisfied with the day's workout.

HARVARD CREWS HOLD PRACTICE ON THAMES

Red Top, Conn., June 5.—All of the Harvard crews went down to the river tonight to practice sprints off the two mile mark off the navy yard. A change was made in the junior varsity seating, Weymer being replaced by Johnson at number four. Barry was given his old seat at number seven in the freshman crew.

CHAPMAN TECH PLAYS WESTERLY SATURDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 5.—Although the Chapman Technical High baseball tossers are hopelessly out of the running for the championship of the Eastern Connecticut Interscholastic league, the locals are in a position where they can make considerable trouble for the league leaders and undefeated Westerly High school team in the meeting of these teams at Morgan park on Saturday afternoon. Westerly High has had things pretty much to herself so far this season in games played in the league. Coming second to Westerly in the standing is Norwich Free Academy, the only team in the league to have a possible chance to catch up with the Rhode Island staters. The only defeat the Academy has received in regular scheduled matches in the league is the defeat inflicted to the Academy by Westerly at that town early in the season. Westerly and the Red and White have one more contest to be played at Norwich in a short while. Showing an improvement in form in the games played since the last contest with Westerly, the Academy is anxiously awaiting the outcome of the Westerly-Chapman Tech game on Saturday.

ASHLAND STACKS UP AGAINST BALTIC SUNDAY

After the decisive victory over the Lorraine Manufacturing company team of Westerly last week, the Ashland club expects to take Henry Collins, Baltic A. A. into camp at Jewett City Sunday. Manager Collins believes he has the combination to pull Ashland off the high horse, however, and a touch battle is certain, as on paper, the teams appear to be evenly matched. Ashland has three pitchers to pick from, the old standby, Spike Liberty, who held the Lorraines to one hit last week, fanning 16, Kaduba, who is shaping up well and whom the fans are anxious to see in action, and Lloyd Jarvis, a southpaw. Robertson will do the backstop work. Manager Collins has not announced his lineup but he wants the opening game.

On Saturday Ashland plays the Taftville A. A. at Taftville.

NEW LONDON RANGERS GO TO TORRINGTON SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 5.—By holding the state champion South Manchester team to a 3 to 2 score two weeks ago at South Manchester, the New London Rangers soccer team has won statewide recognition and is in demand to play games in other cities. After being idle a week, the Rangers have received a liberal offer to travel to Torrington and take on the eleven representing that city in this branch of outdoor sport, on this coming Sunday. Although the spring season is coming to a close, Manager Jack Cruise thought it advisable to play at least one more contest.

The same lineup that was used against the South Manchester eleven two weeks ago will enter the game with Torrington.

WEISMULLER BEATS RECORD BY ONE SECOND

Indianapolis, Ind., June 5.—Beating the Olympic record by exactly one second, Johnny Weismuller of the Illinois Athletic club, world's champion swimmer, won the 100 metre free style event in the final Olympic swimming tryouts here today in 59 2-5 seconds. Duke Kahanamoku, the Hawaiian swimmer, who established the Olympic record for the event at Antwerp in 1920 was a close second, while his brother, Sam, finished third. Jack Robertson of the Olympic club, San Francisco, was fourth.

FORTUNE HURLS FINE GAME FOR SPRINGFIELD

Worcester, Mass., June 5—Fortune's superior pitching turned back the Worcesters today and Springfield won, 10 to 3. Goldsmith was ineffective and received poor support. Roser hit two home runs, both over the right field fence. The score:

Springfield ..... 0 0 5 0 2 0 0 3 0—10
Worcester ..... 2 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0— 3

ALBANY WINS FAST GAME WITH BRIDGEPORT, 5 TO 1

Bridgeport, Conn., June 5.—Spates held Bridgeport scoreless for eight innings while the Lawmakers bunched hits behind Bridgeport errors and won today's game, 5 to 1. The game was played in one hour and 5 minutes and was the fastest league contest of the season. The batting of Genin featured. Score:

McCrehan and Phillips; Coldwell, Cutting and Fisher.

PITTSFIELD DEFEATS HARTFORD; SCORE 6 TO 5

Hartford, June 5.—Earl Webb gave a fine exhibition of pitching in the pinches today, allowing 12 hits and 11 passes, and working out of holes nicely, Pittsfield defeating Hartford, 6 to 5. The Senators had 15 men left on bases, at least one in every inning. Gehrig hit his tenth home run. The score:

Pittsfield ..... 0 2 3 1 0 1 0 0 0—6
Hartford ..... 1 0 2 0 0 2 0 0 0—5

Two base hits, Malone, Stapleton, Baker. Three base hit, Esmond. Home run, Gehrig.

MLLE. LENGLEN AFTER HER 6TH CHAMPIONSHIP

Paris, June 5.—Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen of France will attempt to win the women's singles tennis title for a sixth successive time at Wimbledon this year and will try to retain the world's doubles title which she has won for four successive years with Miss Elizabeth Ryan, formerly of California, according to a message received today from Mlle. Lenglen's father in Nice.

HOWELL PLACES FIRST IN OLYMPIC TRYOUTS

Indianapolis, Ind., June 5.—Richard Howell, Northwestern university, placed first in the 1,500 metre final for the United States Olympic swimming team today. His time was 22:35 1-5. Wallace O'Connor, Venice, Calif., was second; Clyde Goldwater, Neptune Beach club, Alameda, Calif., third, and John Hawkins, Princeton university, fourth.

NEW HAVEN WINS FROM WATERBURY, SCORE 6 TO 3

New Haven, June 5.—New Haven won its fourth consecutive game today by defeating Waterbury, 6 to 3.

WINS FORTUNE IN THE CALCUTTA SWEEPSTAKES

Nairobi, Kenya Colony, June 5.—The Calcutta sweepstakes of 70,000 pounds was won by Captain Burman, a real estate agent here, who bought five tickets. Before the race he sold half of the winning ticket to a Calcutta syndicate for 30,000 rupees (3,000 pounds).

SWITZERLAND ENTERS OLYMPIC SOCCER FINALS

Paris, June 5.—Switzerland qualified for the finals of the Olympic soccer competition today by defeating Sweden by the score of 2 to 1. The game was replete with sensations and the outcome one of the greatest surprises of the tournament.

Marbles Finals Today.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 5.—The thrill that comes but once in a lifetime awaits either Tommy Wright of Massachusetts or George Lennox of Baltimore when the two meet in the marbles tournament on the beach here tomorrow to decide which is the champion marbles shooter of the United States.

Bryn Mawr Wins.

Bryn Mawr, Pa., June 5.—The Bryn Mawr polo team today defeated the Meadow Brook freebooters 10 goals to 8, in an international trial match.

St. Patricks vs. Greeneville Today.

What is expected to be the live game of the Grammar School Baseball league is scheduled for this afternoon when the Greeneville team will have a "go" with the St. Patricks nine. These teams were tied in the school league last year and were unable to play off the tie because of the fact that the school term closed before the league games had been played.

The game will take place on the Academy field at 4.45 and the public is invited. No admission will be charged.

Challenge.

The Quinebaug Mfg. Co. baseball team of Danielson, challenges any semi-pro team in the surrounding towns, but especially would like to play Versailles, Glasgo, Baltic, Ashland and Yantic. Answer through Bulletin or write to Sam Boyd, Danielson, Conn. Sunday games only ... or out of town. Home and home games.

Want a Game.

The Hallville A. A. would like a game for Sunday, away from home with any of the fast teams, such as Baltic All Stars, East Ends, Hardigg Versailles, Yantic or Voluntown. Please call 1591-23, George Taylor, manager.

U. S. Pistol Team in France.

Cherbourg, June 5.—The American Olympic pistol and rifle teams arrived here today from New York. The members of the team left shortly afterwards for Paris.

Ideal Rowing Weather.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 5.—Ideal conditions on the Hudson river today favored the four crews in training here for the intercollegiate regatta on June 17. Each of the eights had two workouts.

Bridgeport Signs McDonald.

Bridgeport, June 5.—Marty McDonald of Holyoke, Mass., former star pitcher of the St. Bonaventure college nine, has been signed by the Bridgeport Eastern league club.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

The first western collegiate baseball championship was won by the University of Michigan, in 1882.

In a league contest between the Chicago and Detroit teams at Chicago, Sept. 6, 1883, the home team struck a rare streak of batting, bringing in eighteen runs in a single inning.

In a game between the Chicago and Boston baseball teams, in the season of 1880, the famous Anson retired, without an error at first base, 21 of the 27 Boston players put out.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

A Secret

Bobbie Redvest was singing merrily as Little Jack Rabbit went clipperty clip, lipperty lip up the Old Crow path. On reaching the hill-top, the bunny boy turned off towards Shady Forest and hopped under the old rail fence, almost bumping into Chippy Chipmunk who was sitting on a log, his red striped jacket shining in the morning sun, looked spic and span and his eyes twinkled with happiness.

"promise" replied the rabbit

"Hello, little bunny!"

Come tell me something funny," he begged.

"Let me think," answered the little rabbit. "Wish I had with me my joke book. I bought it at the three-in-one cent store."

"Did you?" inquired the little chipmunk. "When?"

"Yesterday. I bought it in Turnip Town."

Just then an idea popped into the bunny boy's head. You know little readers, how ideas come, just like that, quick as the wind that blows off your hat.

"Tell me how you made your nice burrow house under the roots of the old chestnut tree?"

"Oh, ho!" answered Chippy Chipmunk. "That's my secret."

Dear me," answered the little rabbit. "I always wondered how you dug way down in the ground without leaving a pile of loose dirt all around."

"Goodness me! You're talking in rhyme!" laughed the happy little chipmunk. "You're a bunny poet."

"Wish I could write verses like mother," answered the little rabbit. "She sings them while she irons. Oh, yes, mother can do anything and everything."

"You're not the only one who has asked me how I manage to dig into the ground without leaving a truce of earth around my front door," said the little chipmunk, almost talking to himself, you know, as if he had forgotten that the little rabbit's ears were cocked, ready to catch every word.

"Please explain. I won't tell anybody," begged the bunny boy.

"Cross your heart and promise me You'll keep my secret faithfully," answered Chippy Chippy Chipmunk.

"I promise," replied the little rabbit, folding his paws over his white waistcoat.

"Well," slowly began the little chipmunk, taking a nut from the pouch in his left cheek in order to speak more plainly. "I'll explain. But, mind you, Little Jack Rabbit, it's a secret. No one must know, not even good Professor Crow. No, indeed. He'd write it down in his Wisdom Book at once and soon everybody in the Shady Forest would know it. For dear me, he's so proud of his Wisdom Book that he carries it under his wing every where he goes."

"I've heard lots of things from him," answered the bunny boy. "But goodness me, Chippy Chipmunk. Tell me how you dig your burrow. It will soon be time for lunch," and the anxious little rabbit took out his gold watch—the one that dear Uncle Luck had given him some 'umpty 'leven stories ago. But, dear me. Before he could slip it back in his pocket the printer man telephone me to finish this stor, so you must wait until tomorrow to learn how Chippy Chipmunk builds his home.

GROTON SCHOOL TEACHER SUES FOR SALARY

Julia N. Sawer, former teacher of the Groton Heights school has brought suit against the First school district of the borough of Groton for $300, three months' salary, which would have been paid to her had she not been discharged in April.

Miss Sawyer, it was said, was discharged by the school committee for not having a state teacher's certificate. She was hired by the school committee at the beginning of the school year 1923-24 under a contract to teach for one year at $100 a month. She alleges she had a town certificate which, according to her attorney, was the only required credential.

Papers have been served on the school committee. The school district treasurer has been attached for the amount of the suit.

Workmen's Compensation.

Two workmen's compensation agreements as follows have been approved by Commissioner J. J. Donohue:

Max Gordon & Son Corporation, Norwich, employer, and Anthony Masalsky, 11 1-3 Tyler avenue, bruise of great toe, at rate of $15.

United Metal Mfg. Co., Norwich, employer, and Raymond Peck, employe, cut index finger, at rate of $6.72.

Will Attend Worcester Graduation.

Mrs. John Durnan is registered at the Hotel Bancroft, Worcester, Mass., where she will meet her brother, C. LeRoy Storms, and his wife and daughter, Jane Elizabeth, from Roselle Park, N. J., to attend the commencement exercises of Worcester Polytechnic Institute. Their brother, Alfred P. Storms is a member of the graduating class.

PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE WARNS OF POISON IVY

With the lure of the open urging us to turn our back on the work-day world and avail ourselves of the pleasures of woods and streams, we are again reminded of the poison ivy, says the weekly letter of the state health department. While the majority of people can wander at will among strange plants without danger, there are some who are susceptible to and seriously poisoned by certain plants. Such people are usually not poisoned unless they have actually handled the leaves or stalks of such a plant.

"The poison ivy is perhaps the plant most frequently encountered by the unsuspecting city visitor to the country, says the public health service. Yet it may be easily distinguished from other creepers by its three divided leaves. The harmless creepers have five leaves. This one distinguishing mark if borne in mind will protect the vacationist from poison ivy.

"The part of these plants to be feared is the resinous sap. When a plant is injured this sticky sap exudes. It comes in contact with the skin and sets up an irritation which is distinguished by its acute character. This irritation frequently begins between the fingers.

"The symptoms of ivy poisoning are comparatively easy to recognize. A more or less mild attack may be ushered in by a burning or itching of the skin. Within twenty-four hours after the skin is exposed to the sap of the plant, a red rash appears. It is followed by more or less swelling and itching, then small blisters filled with serum make their appearance. The parts of the body affected often swell to enormous proportions.

"At one time it was believed that many persons who had suffered from attacks of ivy poisoning would experience a recurrence of the trouble if they passed through a wood or came in proximity with the plant even though the ivy itself was not touched. It now appears certain, however, that contact is necessary in order to produce ivy poisoning.

"Ivy poisoning, says the public health service, may sometimes be averted even after these plants have been handled provided the parts exposed are washed thoroughly with soap, water and alcohol. This washing must, however, be thorough otherwise it will only tend to spread the irritating poison.

"The treatment of ivy poisoning is simple and easily administered. One of the best treatments is bathing with salt water. Sea water is best if it is available. Another good application consists of one teaspoonful of boric acid in a quart of hot water. The affected parts should be bathed with warm water every day or every two days and carefully dried without rubbing. Bathing should be followed by another application of boric acid. The attack may subside in from four to six days. The best advice to vacationists is, study the poison oak, the poison ivy and the poison sumac that you may distinguish these plants from their neighbors. Once you are able to recognize them you can scrupulously avoid them. Avoid the creeper with the three divided leaves. Avoid the small shrub with the broad leaves like the oak. Give the sumac that grows in swampy places a wide berth. Persons who have suffered from plant poisoning do not soon forget the experience."

LICENSES ARE RESTORED AT AUTOMOBILE HEARINGS

Sixteen automobile license suspension cases were disposed of at the county courthouse in New London Tuesday afternoon by Hearing Inspector M. E. Snow of Hartford, and two other cases were laid aside upon the failure of the defendants to appear.

Henry Griswold of 181 Connecticut avenue, New London, whose license was suspended for having been a party to two accidents, and George Keenan of 141 Winthrop street, New London, charged with overloading his truck, were given hearings and at the conclusion of each trial the licenses were restored.

The following cases were also disposed of:

Cleophus Laflamme, North Grosvenordale, reckless driving, license suspended.

George Russiello, Wauregan, reckless driving, also charged with operating under influence of liquor. New London charge and Hartford charge differed, so the case was held over until a correct charge could be entered.

Henry Maynard of Jewett City, charged with operating under the influence of liquor, was given a restricted license to drive his employer's cars or trucks only.

Speron Bokrist 2 Central avenue, Norwich, charged with evading responsibility after an accident, had his license restored.

George Labonte, 46 Mechanic street, Danielson, operating under influence liquor, license restored.

Ephraim Medbury, Moosup, overloading; license restored.

Oscar Gaudette, 43 South street, Taftville, overloading, license restored.

Losaire Rivard, 300 Green street, Putnam, overloading, license restored.

Edward Tobin, 11 Waverly street, Providence, R. I., overloading, license restored.

Alfred Trembly, Oneco street, Norwich, operating under influence of liquor, license restored.

Frank Lorette, 200 Charles street, Providence, R. I., operating under the influence of liquor, failed to appear.

James Sheldon, 18 Noyes avenue, Westerly, R. I., fatal accident, license restored.

Wilmer Yetnan, Yantic, fatal accident, license restored.

Louise Morse, 38 Waverly street, Providence, R. I., operating under influence liquor, failed to appear.

George Pope, Main street, Goodyear, Box 110, operating under the influence of liquor, license restored.

Roswell Willinson, 9 South street, Stonington, operating under influence of liquor, license restored.

WESTERLY

Fortunate was the escape of Fred Simmons of Kingston, Thursday forenoon about 11:30 o'clock, while operating his gasoline car on the New Haven road, just under the West street highway overhead bridge, east of the Westerly railroad station. Mr. Simmons is employed as a traveling car repairer and among his duties is making the freight cars laid up on sidings by car leaks between Hillsgrove, R. I., and Mystic, Conn. In the performance of this latter duty that he had to make a stop east of Westerly which necessitated the use of the gasoline-propelled car, which weighs about 600 pounds. The operation of the car is similar to regular trains in that it is controlled by block signals from the dispatcher, and information as to rail traffic is obtained from the towers. As the gas car was started east by the repair man, a lowered block showed a train approaching which was thought to be the local freight or "grinder" due about that time and stopping to take water. The gas car had been rounded the curve when the approaching train was discovered to be an extra freight which increased speed to make the grade and although the small car can make 65 miles an hour, headway could not be gathered by the car sufficient to keep ahead of the freight. The danger was seen by the locomotive engineer who blew his whistle, but Simmons with the haste equal to the emergency just had the gas car "off the iron" as the locomotive swept by. The adjoining rail of the west track prevented the work car being moved further and then the projecting hopper of a coal car on the freight struck the rear wheel and smashed it. At that time Simmons was at a safe distance and the damage done was negligible. A culvert at the point where the car was taken off the east-bound main track prevented the removal of the car on that side. Quick thinking and action by Mr. Simmons prevented a serious mishap. Mr. Simmons was called to New London to detail the affair.

The low-flying airplane which passed over Westerly about 4.30 Wednesday afternoon so enormous the attention of 8-year-old Charles Thomas, son of Charles Thomas of Pierce street, that the boy backed out into the street at about 30 Pierce street with the result that he did not see an approaching auto-truck, and was knocked down. The truck was driven by Rosario Giardano of 138 Canal street and in spite of his efforts he could not prevent striking the child. Dr. Michael H. Scanlon found that no more serious injuries were sustained by the boy than a cut and bruised right leg and a bruised left thigh. The child was thoroughly scared.

Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in Christ Episcopal church, the funeral service was held for Mrs. Harriet B. C. Babcock, wife of the late Horace Babcock. Rev. Edgar G. Tobin, officiated, assisted by Rev. E. W. Babcock, rector of Holy Cross church, of Troy, N. Y., and Rev. N. B. Groton, rector of St. Thomas' church, Whitemarsh, Pa.

The bearers were Horace H. Babcock, Rev. J. M. Groton, George D. Cross, Clifford W. Campbell, William P. Dodge and Charles P. Cottrell, Jr.

Mrs. Babcock was born in Westerly January 8, 1838, the daughter of George Dillwyn and Abby Hinckley Cross. She was a lifelong resident of Westerly, closely identified with its history and deeply attached to its interests, especially to Christ church, which she served in many ways with the utmost devotion. Her sweetness and gentleness of character, strong in Christian faith, exercised a deep influence on the members of her family and endeared her to many friends.

She is survived by her sister, Miss Annie H. Cross, by two daughters, Mrs. E. T. Moulton and Mrs. W. M. Groton, by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. H. Howard Babcock, and son-in-law, Dr. E. H. Lewis, and by several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Mary J. Wills of Westerly visited the family of her son, William, in Providence, on Thursday, called there by the illness of a grandchild, who is receiving treatment in a Providence hospital.

Mrs. Henry P. Morgan of New York has been the guest of Charles P. Cottrell in Westerly for the past few days.

The family of Mrs. George R. Nichols of New York has arrived for the summer at their cottage, Westmoreland, Arraquet road, Watch Hill.

Charles P. Champion of New York has arrived to make his home for the summer at Avondale.

Workmen of the Westerly highway department were engaged Thursday in filling in, in front of the Chester block on Railroad avenue, where the gutter has become badly washed, and where unpleasant odors arise from standing water.

Mrs. Louise DeKoven Phelps of Chicago has arrived at her cottage at Watch Hill.

The family of George L. Storm of Greenwich arrived Thursday evening at their cottage on the Fort road, Watch Hill.

Nathan H. Saunders, who several months ago made the long journey from South Shaftsbury, Vt., to Westerly with horse and carriage, for a visit at his former home, is returning to Vermont via the horse and carriage line.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles DuBarry arrived in Westerly by automobile, on Wednesday night, having left Buffalo, N. Y., early that morning. Mr. DuBarry reports eastern "mountains" inconsequential in comparison with the grades found by him on his automobile trips in the Pacific coast states and into British Columbia. The return trip across the American continent was made entirely by automobile. Mr. and Mrs. DuBarry plan to make their home in Pawcatuck for the summer.

Fair of Westerly Fire Police, Saturday evening, June 7, Westerly Town hall, Broad street. Dancing to 12 o'clock.—adv.

Phoebe Greene Ward chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. Allan L. Thompson, regent, held their June meeting in Girl Scout hall on High street, Thursday afternoon. The meeting was opened by the chaplain, Mrs. Samuel H. Davis. Mrs. Edwin A. Hall read a paper on "Old Forts of Rhode Island," a very interesting subject, and the well written paper showed thorough research and familiarity with the subject considered. The chairman of the committee in charge of the meeting was Mrs. Charles H. Stanton. Other members of the committee were Mrs. Courtland Chapman, Mrs. Samuel H. Davis, Mrs. William A. Hillard, Miss Martha Holbrook, Mrs. William P. Langworthy, Mrs. Everett E. Whipple, Miss Mary M. Whipple and Miss Amelia Potter.

Flag day, which this year falls on Saturday, will be observed by the chapter on Friday, June 13th. The observance will be held at the home of Mrs. Harry R. Mitchell in Wequetequock.

Wednesday night, when the hour was one o'clock, during the heavy thundershower, a young man staying at Watch Hill was undecided whether to go to the Hill for the night or remain in town. While he was making up his mind downtown, a Westerly patrolman's time for going off duty was at midnight arrived, and he was taken to his home at some distance by the young man and a friend who lived in Westerly. On their return to the friend's home on Spruce street, as it continued to pour they remained seated in the automobile for some time, in front of the house. In a neighboring house a light-sleeping woman observed the car and her suspicions of burglars became convictions. The woman (name not given the police) telephoned for the police. Meanwhile a window was cautiously raised and to the minds of the young men also came the thoughts of burglars, as they heard the window. Seizing a wrench and tire iron a period of "watchful waiting" ensued within and without. Police Officers Champlin and Mitchell on the all night shift, soon arrived and after "greeting" the automobile driver who had just taken one of the patrolmen to duty at the station house as he took the other home, another fancied "burglary" was solved, even while the "relieved" police slumbered peacefully at home.

If it had been in Texas, along the Mexican line, perhaps not another thought would have been given the following—but it happened in Westerly and just before noon on Thursday, where the Pawcatuck was the Rio Grande and all just below a movie picture house.

L. E. Peck was half way down the store of Ward Sherman on the bridge and behind the counter when there came a report, followed by a "ping" and both Mr. Peck and Salesman Kenyon pronounced the word together —"bullet." At the same time Mr. Peck felt a sting on the outside counter of his left shoe. Mr. Kenyon picked up the bullet from the floor near Mr. Peck's foot, and the shoe showed the dent of the bullet. Over at the corner of Broad and Main streets Traffic Officer Curtin was on duty directing traffic near the bridge. A Watch Hill electric car passed down Main street when the patrolman saw a puff of smoke near the ground. The finding of the bullet was reported to the police. Pawcatuck Patrolman McMahon and Chief of Police Brown of Weserly confered, traffic patrolman, town sergeant and recent Watch Hill Officer George Madison entered the conference. A view of the tracks showed the flattened shells which the car had run over. Wanted—Some ballastic expert to explain!

Congressman Richard S. Aldrich, a member of the Rhode Island delegation to the republican national convention, will leave Washington Sunday morning for Cleveland, via Albany. At Albany, he will join the train carrying the remainder of the delegation, on which train Mrs. Aldrich will be a passenger. They have taken a house at Watch Hill for the summer and will occupy it for the season on their return.

Arrested For Crap Game.

Indulging in a crap game on Oak street, Thursday night, Charles Brown, 23, of Plainfield, Conn., Harry Simonds, 24, and Fred Gabrielle, 18, of Westerly, were arrested by Police Officer George Champlin. The young men claimed that they were not hardened crap shooters but were just kind of breaking into the game. After being given the once-over by Officer Champlin, they were placed in cells to await action of the Third district court.

WESTERLY BARN RAIDED, MUCH BOOZE SEIZED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, R. I., June 6.—The stone barn of Peter A. Berardinelli, of 31 Franklin street, formerly the Old Post road, just below East avenue, was raided Thursday afternoon about 3 o'clock, by five Westerly police officers and more than 100 gallons of alcohol were seized. In the raiding party were Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, Police Officers George Champlin, Robert Kessel, Michael Curtin and George Madison.

A thorough search of the premises was made in a room set off within the barn and even in the hay itself. As a reward of the search there was found 16 five-gallon cans of alcohol, one five-gallon can half full, 13 one-gallon cans and two full barrels. The wet goods were loaded on a truck, taken to the police station on Union street and locked in a cell.

Joseph Longo, the owner, was taken into custody and later was presented before Actin- Judge M. Walter Flynn, Jr. on a charge of possessing liquor without the necessary permit. He was found guilty and fined $100 and costs of $3.80 amounting to $103.80, which he paid and was discharged. Further action will be taken later.

MYSTIC

Saturday, June 14th, promises to be a big day for Mystic for this is the date when the new organization, Orientals, Order of Humility and Perfection, is to be instituted with a big parade as one of the features. Practicall all the business places in the center of the village are to be decorated. Among the special features planned is an exhibition drill on the street to be given by some of the visiting patrols.

Word was received here Wednesday of the sudden death in Providence, Tuesday afternoon, of James Chase Frazier, son of the late George and Julia Williams Frazier, who resided for many years on Frazier street in this place. The body is to be brought here for burial in Elm Grove cemetery.

The initiatory degree was conferred Wednesday evening by Stonington lodge, No. 26, I. O. O. F., at the weekly meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Marx Wirtz have returned to their home in Jersey City, N. J., after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. John Rippel.

Miss Frances Trevena is home from Boston, having been called home by the serious illness of her father, Thos. Trevena.

Miss Gladys Dewey of New York, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Dewey in Quambuag.

William Brokos and family have moved from the Brown house on Denison avenue to Stonington.

Mystic Rebekah lodge is celebrating its tenth anniversary tonight (Friday) and will have supper at six o'clock and at the evening session degree work.

Mrs. John Rippel has returned from a visit with relatives in Newport, R. I.

Wednesday afternoon as Harold Main was driving his Ford delivery car up Clift street the axle broke and the car began to roll backward and continued in that direction until Pearl street was reached, when the car was stopped and the rear wheel dropped off. There was no other traffic at the time and no one was injured.

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Kingman of Leominster, former summer visitors here, have been recent Mystic callers.

Mrs. Robert Allyn and sister of Westfield, Mass., called on Mrs. H. Emeline Allyn Wednesday, on their way to Quonochontaug beach.

From the number of Mystic people who were in New London Thursday it was evident to the onlooker that all paths led to the circus. Some went by train, others by trolley and the more fortunate by automobile. Mystic has had some excellent circus performances here in the past but since the smaller circuses have gone out of business those who enjoy this sort of entertainment are obliged to visit neighboring cities.

DAUGHERTY INVESTIGATION DISCUSSED IN THE SENATE

Washington, June 4.—Almost the entire session of the senate today was given over to an acriminous discussion of the Daugherty investigation. Its only tangible result was the adoption of a resolution, under suspension of the rules and with but two dissenting votes, requesting the attorney general to appeal to the supreme court. From the decision of the federal court at Cincinnati refusing Mrs. Daugherty, brother of the former attorney general, on a writ of habeas corpus officials had been taken into custody in pursuit of a senate subpoena.

Chairman Brookhart introduced the subject in a speech partly in view of the testimony taken in the inquiry, and partly in denunciation of the former attorney general, particularly stressing his criticism of Mr. Daugherty's refusal to testify personally or to continue his representation before the committee. He began with the assertion that the committee had proven the existence of a criminal conspiracy to protect law breakers in the attorney general's household, and wound up with the declaration that "this is the brave, fighting Daugherty —the man who fights in the dark and stabs in the back."

Senator Fess, republican, Ohio came to the defense of the Harding cabinet member, with the declaration that he personally would also have refused to appear before the committee, in view of the character of some of the testimony it had taken, this brought into the discussion Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, and several members from the democratic side, including Minority Leader Robinson, Senator Caraway of Arkansas, Senator McKellar, Tennessee and Senator Ashurst, Arizona. Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, a member of Senator Brookhart's committee declared himself in disagreement with the chairman on several points.

LORIA BROTHERS HAVE FILED NOTICES OF APPEAL

New Haven, June 5.—Michael and Louis Loria of Waterbury and Newark, who were sentenced to life imprisonment a week ago in their second trial for the murder of John Sissere of North Canaan, today filed notices of appeals to the supreme court. The brothers, at the conclusion of their second trial, filed motions to have the jury's verdict of murder in the second degree set aside.

FIRE THREATENS GOV'T FLEET AT WALTERS, MISS.

Vicksburg, Miss., June 5.—Fire broke out tonight in the government fleet at Walters, several miles north of Vicksburg, threatening the destruction of the entire fleet, valued at more than $1,000,000. The Vicksburg fire department and hundreds of men are fighting the flames.

SEMINOLE BRINGS TO NEW LONDON RUM CRAFT, WITH TWO MEN WOUNDED

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, June 6.—Revenue cutter Seminole, which has been on duty in the vicinity of Rum Row, which lies off Block Island and Montauk Island, for many weeks in an effort to apprehend smugglers of whiskey and alcohol through the sound, made another prize capture yesterday afternoon late and put into port this morning with the boat and crew of together with the boat's cargo of between 1300 and 1400 cases of whiskey Scotch and rye. The boat, the Virginia, owned by John Stack, 89 Emerson avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., a craft of the semi-yacht type and the whiskey are now in charge of the customs house officers here.

The capture of the Virginia was not without incident for in order to apprehend the rum-runner, the Virginia was fired upon. The master of the boat, Stack, received a bullet in the left groin and another member of the crew, John Wilson, received a shattered hand from a bullet.

The Virginia received her cargo of whiskey late yesterday afternoon and had no sooner started for New York, than the craft was sighted by the master of the cutter. The Seminole put in chase to the Virginia, but could not overtake her. Realizing that the rum-runner would eventually get away, the order was given to fire across the bow of the Virginia. As the shots rang out the boat failed to reduce her speed, but continued to draw away from the cutter. Finally the order was given to fire into the pilot house and the command being complied with the Virginia was seen to gradually reduced her speed and finally come to a stop. A crew from the cutter boarded the Virginia and it was found that Stack was seriously injured, and Wilson in need of medical attention. Stack and Wilson were placed aboard the cutter and Wilson received the necessary treatment for his wounds from the ship's surgeon. Stack was brought into port and then was taken to Lawrence hospital, where it was reported this afternoon that his condition was favorable for recovery.

This afternoon the entire crew, excepting Stack, were given a hearing before United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson of Norwich, charged with smuggling liquor into this country. A bond of $15,000 was ordered furnished in Stack's case as well as in that of Wilson. The crew, who gave their names as James LeBlanc, John White, John Russo, William White, John Shaw, Philip Smith, Charles Decker, Ethner Arnold, William Powers, Joseph Clayton and Edward Wilson, were held in bonds of $2,500 each. None of the crew could obtain a surety on their respective bonds, and all were taken to the county jail, to await hearing June 13th.

William A. Rinehart and Miss Hazel Miner, both of New London, were married Wednesday afternoon at the parsonage of the First Church of Christ, by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth.

Edward A. and Daisy Sinay have sold a house and lot at the corner of Lincoln avenue and Colver street to Irving B. and Florence B. Cleveland.

The Nichols & Harris company, owner of College pharmacy, 9 Williams street, have filed a notice of intention to sell the business to Nelson Cone and William C. Smith, employes of the United Cigar store in this city.

Miss Helen Alderman of Williams street, Miss Georgiana Gatter, Waterford, George Stewart, Poquonnoc road, Groton; Mrs. James Saxton, North Bank street and Mrs. Chicero Cohiettone, Waterford, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital were discharged today.

The body of Miss Elizabeth A. Gatter, formerly of Waterford, was forwarded today to her former home in Nyack, N. Y., where burial will take place tomorrow afternoon.

Christopher A. Rogers, 75, a life-long resident of Salem, where he operated a farm, died this morning at Lyme Memorial hospital, where he had been under treatment but a few days for pneumonia. So far as is known, Mr. Rogers' only near surviving relative is former Mayor Ernest E. Rogers, a cousin, of New London, for the former's brother ended his life by shooting himself about a year ago.

Kasimir Sereda regrets this evening that he molested Mrs. Annie Escuciann and that he allowed himself to become smitten with her, for he is in jail and must pay a fine of $25 or work for the county till he has settled a bill of about $40 at a dollar a day in wages. Sereda, the woman claims, has been annoying her. Her efforts to repulse him were unavailing until now. Yesterday Sereda met her and she repelled his advances, made in the street. Mrs. Josephine Book was at hand and so close to Sereda that when the latter made a blow at Mrs. Escuciana, Josephine received the full force of the bottle which Sereda used to deal chastisement upon Annie. That brought the arrest of Sereda and he was penalised in the police court this morning.

Two trunks were presented, but both were allowed to stay out of jail. Charles White, an employe at the Babcock press works, was drunk on Howard street yesterday when an officer met him and advised him to go home. What is about 28 and possessed an idea that he would do about as he saw fit to do, so he abused the officer. That meant his arrest. Today Judge Prince gave him some advice that will be beneficial if he follows it. He was told to think of his family before and not after he was arrested, to cut out the booze and take care of the money he earns, so that he will have the benefit of it in time to come.

William Potter, a sailor on a government vessel, admitted that he was drunk yesterday, when he was presented in court. He said he only took a couple of shots of the booze he drank, but that quantity was sufficient to floor him. Then there was trouble for him as he became crazed by the liquor. He was sent aboard the ship to which he is attached.

Half a dozen cases of traffic ordinance violations were presented and in each a fine was imposed. The authorities are disposed to put a stop to the parking of automobiles on the principal streets if that parking interfers with the operation of vehicles through the highways of the city. The violations today were those by autoists who parked for a greater length of time than is allowed and those who leave cars from the curbing. Several of those complained against were strangers in the city. The fines were made as small as they could be made under the provisions of the ordinance. One violation of the state law that requires the marking of commercial cars with the maximum capacity and the horse power, was before the court and a penalty for that offense was imposed.

W. D. Boyle, 358 Commonwealth avenue, New Britain, complained to the police that a spare tire had been stolen from his automobile last night, while the machine was parked on Meridian street.

Frank B. Makepiece, 83 Glenwood avenue, complained to the police this morning that two of his children's bicycles, which had been left on the veranda of the Makepiece home had been stolen during the night.

The residence of Edward Colvin, in Groton, was burglarized last night, and it is believed that the break was by someone who had knowledge of the members of the Colvin family and where the money that was obtained was secreted. Entrance was gained by forcing the door of the cellar. After gaining admittance to the place the thief went up to the living apartments and going to where a wallet containing $700 was hidden beneath a bag containing $20 in specie, took the bag of coins. This morning the empty wallet was found a quarter of a mile away from the Colvin house. The theft was reported to the Groton police when discovered, early this morning.

Tomorrow will be another tag day in the police court for the police continued their drive today in an effort to compel automobilists to conform to the blue and city laws governing traffic. As a result of their efforts a number of cars were tagged, which means that the owners will be prosecuted. Among those tagged was an automobile owned by Benjamin F. Ross, 18 Harmony street, Stonington.

Benny Ustash, 211 North Bank street, was taken into custody tonight by Patrolman Howard Sloan, charged with intoxication and assault upon his young daughter. He will be given a hearing in the city court tomorrow and he is liable to be sent to jail. He was before the court May 2nd on a charge of breach of peace upon complaint of his wife and daughter and was sentenced to 10 days in jail, but the execution of the sentence was suspended.

Ustash was beating his daughter in their home, when Patrolman Sloan was complained to by a neighbor. Going to the Ustash house, the officer found that Benny had been drinking and was in an ugly mood. He refused to go to the station with the officer, an act that compelled Sloan to use force. When Ustash was gotten outside the house, he showed fight, which led the officer to throw his prisoner and place the nippers upon him. Sloan called to a seaman or the crew of a steamer discharging lumber at the state pier to come to his assistance and the latter refused. After locking up his prisoner, Sloan returned an dfinding the seaman, placed him under arrest for refusing to aid an officer when requested to do so. The seaman was locked up and will be given a hearing tomorrow.

Andrew Terris, 308 Main street, is a patient at Lawrence hospital tonight as a result of falling from the third story of his residence to the sidewalk. Terris sustained only bruises and scratches. Just how Terris came to be precipitated through the window is not known, but he was standing near the window when occupants saw his body suddenly disappearing through the opening. In falling, the body struck the wooden roof over the front entrance of the house, breaking the fall. The man rolled from the roof to the walk. It was at first believed that Terris was badly injured and the police were notified, Sergeant Frank Howard and Patrolman Carlos Shlemitsky being sent to the location of the accident, as was the hospital ambulance. A doctor was not available to determine the extent of Terris' injuries so he was rushed to the institution where it was decided that he was not seriously hurt.

Since the arrest of David Levin and Morris Terr, employes of the United Music company, State street, early Wednesday morning by Officers MacWilliams and Johnson at Mystic, when an automobile truck laden with 126 gallons of alcohol was seized, it is openly reported that the arrested young men were offered their liberty by the payment of $400. Not only would they gain their liberty, but they were assured the return of the alcohol and the fruit of the booty was forthcoming. It is also known that MacWilliams, Terr and Officer Palmer, the last named also of Mystic, came to New London after the arrest of Terr and Levin and went to the home of a Shaw street resident where Attorney William T. Connor and Marty Houts were met. While the men were in discussion of the arrest of Terr and Levin, the New London police happened along and when this occurred the gang dispersed, Terr going away with Attorney Connor and leaving McWilliams, Johnson and Houts and Sam Santanello together. It is reported that the visit to New London was in connection with the reported attempted bribe. The state police are investigating this phase of the case, Sergeant Clifford Hughes being in charge of the investigation. When the case of Levin and Terr is called in the Groton town court next Monday additional developments are expected.

The sights of a lifetime were to be seen about the tents of the Ringling-Barnum circus on Plant field this evening where there were thousands of automobiles parked. Montauk and Ocean avenues were lined with cars and School, Thames and other streets were in the same condition in this respect.

Where the cars came from, how their owners became possessed of them or how they managed to keep them was a mystery to many. And it was just as remarkable how the owners could pick out their cars when they went after them. The cars stretched out a couple of miles or more. The Fishers Island steamer made special trips in the afternoon and in the evening and tonight at 11 o'clock a special boat was due to accommodate the people who came over here. Special trolley cars were run from Norwich right to the show ground and from all the surrounding country people poured into New London. There was no street parade, which was a disappointment to many. It is estimated that the show was seen by 25,000 persons at both afternoon and evening performances. The circus left here for Providence after midnight. It will show there two days.

Mrs. John Leverone returned from New York today where she attended the graduation of her daughter, Marie, at the Italy Calid academy. Miss Leverone has been educated in music and is a pianist of ability. She is to enter the Connecticut college in the fall.

BOUNDARY DISPUTE IS SETTLED WITH NEW YORK

The Connecticut-New York boundary dispute is settled, as far as the senate is concerned. This week Senator Frank B. Brandegee prevailed upon the senate to consent to the boundary agreement agreed to by officials of the two states over 10 years ago. A provisional clause in the bill delimiting the boundary states that nothing in the agreement shall be construed to affect any existing title to property, corporeal or incorporeal, held under grants heretofore made either by the states of New York or Connecticut. The senate agreement on the boundary was unanimous.

Senator Brandegee on Tuesday, as chairman of the committee on the judiciary, reported back favorably to the senate and without amendment the senate bill giving the consent of congress to a boundary agreement between the states of New York and Connecticut. Upon a first reading by the senate reading clerk, the bill was reported to the senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read perfunctorily the third time, and then passed without more ado. This agreement will undoubtedly settle a long standing dispute between the two states concerning their intervening boundary.

LIONS CLUB APPOINTS HIGHWAY SAFETY COMMITTEE

At the regular business meeting of the Lions club held Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel George A. Flinn was re-elected president of the club for the ensuing year. There was a large attendance including several guests. Kopland Markoff acted as song leader, and the programme included vocal numbers.

The following committee was appointed by President Flinn to act as a "Safety on the Highways committee" in conjunction with similar committees from the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary club and the Commercial Travelers: John Barry, Hermon Gibbs, and Fred Watson.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—George A. Flinn.

First Vice President—Louis J. Prentiss.

Second Vice President—Frank A. Slack.

Third Vice President—John Barry.

Secretary—C. Edward Carpenter.

Tailtwister—Frank L. Rinella.

Lion Tamer—Tyler Rogers.

Board of Directors—J. B. Caron, Hermon Gibbs, Max Hanover, and Tyler Stanton.

Announcement was made that next week's meeting will be a joint meeting with the Rotary club to be held Wednesday noon. A debate will feature the programme. Two members of the club, Kopland Markoff and Dr. Thompson, staged a clever mind reading stunt. The meeting came to a close with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

DEATH OF BISHOP W. F. NICHOLS IN SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco, June 6.—Bishop William Ford Nichols, of the Episcopal diocese of California, died today after a lingering illness. He was one of the senior prelates of the Anglican communion in the United States. He was 75 years old and had held many pastorates in Connecticut before he came to California in 1890.

New Haven, Conn., June 6.—Rt. Rev. Bishop William Ford Nichols was graduated from Trinity College in 1870, took his Master's degree three years later, and was graduated from Berkeley Divinity School at Middletown the same year. His ordination followed and at the same time he was private secretary to Bishop Williams, serving from 1871 to 1876. He was made assistant rector at Holy Trinity, Middletown, rector at St. James in West Hartford and Grace church in Newington, 1875 to 1877, and rector of Christ church, Hartford, from 1877 to 1887. He went to St. James' in Philadelphia, staying there until consecrated Bishop of California on April 6, 1893. Meantime he had been a professor at Berkeley and had held other church offices. After his election to the bishopric and in the many years of active service which followed Bishop Nichols filled various offices including that of assistant secretary of the House of Bishops, for a time.

Bishop Nichols married in 1870 Miss Clara Quintard of New York.

WOMEN STUDENTS RESENT EXCESSIVE RESTRICTIONS

Oxford, England, June 6.—A strong movement is afoot among women students at Oxford university against alleged excessive restrictions in their social life and against rules which, if maintained, are based on the moral standards of 1875.

Among the rules which the students are seeking to have modified is one which requires the approval of a college principal before a woman student is permitted to join a society open equally to men and women. If meetings of the society in question are held in a men's college, the permission of the dean must be obtained before a woman student may attend and a senior woman member must accompany the junior woman.

Mixed theatre parties are not permitted except in reserved seats and mixed parties are not permitted in cafes before 2 o'clock in the afternoon or after 5.30 o'clock. A woman undergraduate may not go for a walk, a bicycle or motor car ride with any man other than her brother unless the principal's permission is obtained and even in that event at least two women must be in the party.

Leaders of the movement against the rules maintain that the restrictions instead of avoiding an unhealthy atmosphere create one.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR.

New York, June 5.—Pronounced irregularity marked the course of stock prices in today's market, which was given a spotty appearance by the active buying of low priced railroad shares and the depression of most industrial issues on disturbing trade reports. Some contradiction took place in the volume of business, but late trading was stimulated to some extent by a reduction in the call money rate to 2 1-2 per cent.

While the forward movement of the rails progressed with considerable vigor, buying was confined chiefly to issues with speculative possibilities and few standard high grade stock shared in the advance. The movement gave further indication of the changed public attitude toward this class of securities with the danger of adverse legislation removed.

Selling pressure against industrial shares was concentrated principally on the oils as a result of gasoline price cuts and the increase in crude oil production and gasoline supplies, while the drop in the price of raw and refined sugar to the lowest level in two years, provided an excuse for hammering down the stocks of these companies. A number of these issues dipped to the lowest levels of the year.

Wresting leadership of the public utilities group from American Water Works West Penn Power, a closely associated company, figured in a sensational advance of almost 10 points to a new 1924 top price at 66. Closing the day with a net gain of 8 5-8, its strength had a tonic effect on the public utility group. CURB MARKET.

New York, June 5.—Curb securities were generally unsettled today, a reactionary tone dominating trading which was influenced largely by weakness in the oils, due to reports of increased production last week and reductions in gasoline prices.

Prairie Oil & Gas lost more than four points to a new low for the year. Losses in other issues were smaller and the list closed heavy. Penn Mex Fuel receded fractionally although it was reported the company had brought in a 20,000 barrel well in Mexico. Standard Oil of Nebraska and South Penn Oil each closed three points lower.

Public utilities issues were less active and lacked the strength shown recently. Commonwealth Power receding a loss of more than two points. Lehigh Power also eased off fractionally.

A few strong spots were noted in the industrials but the reactionary trend held them in check. The rails were fairly firm. Dupont selling at a new high for the movement.

BOND MARKET.

New York, June 5.—A broad buying movement for the United States government obligations, which carried six active Liberty and treasury issues to the year's highest levels and most of them to new high records, today reflected employment of the huge surplus of funds in this market. The plethora of money also was measured by a drop in the rate for call funds to 2 1-2 per cent. and the ease of time loans.

With the supply of high grade liens depleted by recent investment purchasing, buyers today turned to speculative mortgages. Issues of the western railroads achieved unusual popularity and on gains of one to two points many of them set new high records of the year.

Western Pacific 6s and Chicago and Alton 3 1-2s each jumped two points and gains of 1 to 1 1-2 points were recorded by Missouri Pacific, St. Paul, Frisco, "Katy," International Great Northern, Rio Grande Western and Lehigh Valley issues. "Soo" 5 1-2s, however, moved counter to the general trend and lost a point in line with the weakness of the road's stocks.

Advances in the Liberty issues ranged from one to 7-32nds. Demand was well distributed, specialists in government bonds reported, with many small investment orders swelling the large-lot buying by institutions.

The Erie Railroad, which several weeks ago was said to have been seeking a bank loan, was understood to have placed privately with bankers about $20,000,000 two year 6 per cent. notes at par. No public offering is contemplated.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, June 5.—Showers aside from one weather sheets to portend to afford at least temporary relief of the spring crop area had considerable to do today with lowering the price of wheat. Closing quotations in the wheat market here were unsettled, at 5-8c to 1 1-8c net decline, July $1.04 1-8 to $1.04 1-4 and September $1.05 7-8 to $1.06, with corn unchanged to 3-8@1-2c off, oats showing 1-4c to 1 1-4c gain, and provisions 2c to 10c down.

With the weather map indicating that more or less moisture had been supplied to the wheat fields at various places both north and south of the Canadian boundary, wheat holders in Chicago unloaded for some time after the opening, and although the market then made a rally the available buying power failed to last, and fresh declines ensued in the late trading. By some observers, weakness of the market was ascribed partly to President Coolidge's refusal to endorse a proposed substitute for the McNary-Haugen bill. On the other hand, the transcient rally was associated with word of export purchasing at Winnipeg and with gossip that European bids for United States wheat were about at an export basis.

On the bear side of the market, some emphasis was put on the fact that Liverpool quotations had made but little response to yesterday's advance on this side of the Atlantic. It was also pointed out that with harvest only a few weeks away there is 20,000,000 bushels of wheat in Kansas City, Chicago and Omaha against 6,8000,000 bushels a year ago.

Announcement that the Iowa corn crop outlook was the poorest in many years, largely counterbalanced in the corn market the effect of warmer weather and wheat weakness. Scarcity of supplies here led to sharply higher prices for oats.

Provisions eased down in line with hog cvaues.

WEST KINGSTON

Thirty-five friends of Frank E. Marchant hung him a well laden May basket Saturday evening. Not an ordinary May basket; it held a full bushel and was filled with goodies. He is an old resident, president of the South Kingston town council. All were invited in and enjoyed a social evening with Hugh Tanner and family, who have lived at the Marchant homestead since the death of Mrs. Marchant.

There is to be a baptizing next Sunday afternoon of three candidates. The company will meet at the church Sunday afternoon and proceed to the pond. Rev. C. H. Palmer will officiate. The ceremony will be at 3 o'clock (daylight saving time).

The W. C. T. U. met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Helen Cottrell. The union was well represented and there were several visitors. The young people always attend after school closes and act as waiters. The youngsters are from 3 to 12 years of age and are delighted to serve.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Bristow and daughters, with Mrs. A. K. Webster and Miss Mildred visited Warren Sunday and called on relatives.

Mrs. John Bushee, 76, died at her home here Wednesday morning at 4 o'clock. She had been ill over two years. Her husband died nearly two years ago. She is survived by several children.

B. W. Smith of Pawtucket spent Sunday with friends here.

Amos H. Kenyon with his family of Providence spent Sunday with his parents, at the crossroads.

Miss Minnie M. Webster of Providence visited over Memorial day with relatives here.

Mr. Bonin and family are soon to move to Rocky Brook. They are now living at the Watson homestead.

Misses Elsie and Ruth Crandall of Kingston spent Sunday afternoon with their grandparents.

REMAINS IN UNCONSCIOUS CONDITION AT HOSPITAL

Charles Stapleton, 69, of 20 Washington street, who was struck on North Main street early Wednesday evening by an automobile driven by Narcisse Lamonth of Taftville, remained in an unconscious condition all day Thursday at the Backus hospital to which he was taken immediately after the accident.

The only visible sign of injury is a very severe bruise on his head. The hospital authorities said Thursday evening that it had not yet been determined whether he has a fractured skull, as an X-ray of the injury has not yet been taken.

It isn't necessary to acquire an automobile in order to run into debt.

Breed Theatre

A good many decades ago, according to legend, a lone wolf stalked to the summit of a peak in the mountain region of Kentucky, pointed his nose toward the sky and stood silhouetted against the darkening clouds. His head lifted heavenward, the wolf sent forth his dismal cry. To the mountain folk of that isolated region, the howl of the beast came as an ill omen. That is the reason the valley sprawled between the mountain ridges became known to the inhabitants as Valley of the Wolf. That is the reason also, why Jack Pickford, youthful screen star and independent producer, selected the Valley of the Wolf as the locale for his latest Allied Producers and Distributors Corporation release, The Hill Billy, which comes to the Breed theatre Friday and Saturday. The Hill Billy, is an original story of the Kentucky mountains and the young mountain folk of more than two decades ago, written by the young star himself, his celebrated sister, Mary Pickford, and Marion Jackson the writer. The 6th chapter of Ruth of the Range, Pathe news and a Sunshine comedy complete the programme.

Broadway Theatre

The last half of the week show at the Broadway theatre which started yesterday proved to be very popular with the capacity audience.

The feature vaudeville attraction was that favorite comedian, James C. Morton who is ably assisted by his happy family consisting of Mamie, Edna and Alfred Morton.

"Hap" McNally, the blackface comedian, scored with his comedy dialogue, songs and dances.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Barrow have the art of smoke picture and shadow entertainment down to perfection in a novel offering.

Florence Merrit and Vincent scored an individual hit in "Something Different." This two do the regular comedy and song act, but it being so different than the usual routine it makes them stand out over others.

The photoplay feature Madge Bellamy in The White Sin. It is a great picture for the entire family.

Thomas Meighan's new Paramount picture, The Confidence Man, which will be shown for the first time in Norwich at the Broadway Sunday, is a crook romance with a brand new angle and bristling with punches—and not unlike The Miracle Man.

Meighan chase it from over 150 stories that he considered. It was written by Laurie York Erskine and Robert H. Davis and ran as a serial in Argosy All-Story Weekly. So did The Miracle Man. Victor Heerman directed and the supporting cast is [illegible]

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Wool From 30,000 Sheep Used Daily By One Carpet Mill

The wool used daily in the weaving of carpets and rugs by a New York manufacturer is equal to the shearing from thirty thousand sheep. The soft, rich coats of these animals are turned into the looms at the rate of 120,000 pounds every day.

These and many other interesting facts were revealed recently through the publication of statistics concerning their mammoth mills at Yonkers, N. Y., by Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company, said to be the largest manufacturers of carpets and rugs in the world.

If all the wool used in these mills were reckoned according to the number of animals from which it is sheared, a year's output at the mills would represent the clip from 8,000,000 sheep — a number which would constitute herds beyond the imagination.

For the manufacturing of all this wool into American-made carpets and rugs, the energy and industry of 7,500 employees is devoted with a spirit of co-operation and craftsmanship resembling the loyalty given to his individual loom by the smaller weaver of bygone days.

This army of workers operates 2,500 looms, with a total daily production of 80,000 yards of carpets and rugs. Place one day's tremendous output in a continous line and it would make a strip of carpet 53 miles long. In one year of eight-hour working days, the 1,500 looms turn out 28 millions of yards, making an annual production of almost 16,000 lineal miles. The carpet made through a year's effort would reach more than half way around the world.

Every hour this mill produces 11,250 yards, or 187 1-2 yards per minute! The amount of mechanical energy entering the work may be fancied from the fact that the company uses 225 tons of coal every day. And all this activity takes place in mills which occupy 52 1-2 acres of floor space, ample area to accommodate the parking of about 40,000 motor cars!

It is interesting to note that the founder of these giant mills was also the inventor of the famous Axminster loom. The institution which has carried on since 1860 has specialized, it is said, in the making of four basic weaves known as Axminsters, Velvets, Tapestry, Brussels and Wilton Velvets.

PALACE THEATRE

Colleen Moore became famous for her "tomboy" roles before the present-day flapper stepped into the limelight. Following the film fashions she essayed a flapper role in Flaming Youth, and in theatrical parlance, "knocked them cold." for Flaming Youth was the sensation of the year.

She can again be seen as a tomboy in her latest offering, Painted People, a First National picture, which opened yesterday at the Palace theatre and is enjoying unusual success. The picture was directed by Clarence Badger from Richard Connell's famous story, The Swamp Angel, which ran serially in Collier's Weekly.

Four days starting Sunday, June 8th Blanche Sweet in Anna Christie.

In all the history of motion pictures, no mightier scene ever has been screened than the "crux" scene of Anna Christie, Thomas H. Ince's latest picture offering, which will be shown at the Palace theatre 4 days starting Sunday. Adapted from Eugene O'Neill's successful stage play, the scene has been filmed with even more daring than marked the stage offering. It portrays a girl, deserted in childhood by her father, who thinks he is helping her by sending her far from the influence of the sea which he fears, trapped into a confession of the life into which her father's spurning of responsibility forced her.

Added attractions, the usual Sunday night program consisting of high class comedies, scenic and others.

Special musical presentations, under direction of Frank G. Benson Sunday night augmented orchestra.

Senior Dramatics Tonight.

Plans have been completed for the senior dramatics, which are to be held this evening, June 6, at 8 o'clock, in Slater Memorial hall. The dramatics will consist of three one-act plays, acted out entirely by the cast chosen from the class of 1924. The cast has been practicing for the past few weeks, and has displayed unusual talent in the dramatic line. The members of the cast were selected from the entire senior class, to present the class play. Special scenery, settings, lighting effects, costumes and music will all add to bring the merits of the play to the foreground. The plays are as follows:

Lima Beans, a Scherzo play by Alfred Kreymborg: The wife, Mary Rose; the husband, Israel Stamm; the huckster, Vincent Bono.

Joint Owners in Spain by Alice Brown: Mrs. Mitchell, a director of the Old Ladies' Home, Beatrice Ableman; Mrs. Fullerton, Dora Goldberg; Miss Dyer, Dorothy Pasnik; Mrs Blair, Jennie Lifschitz (inmates of the home).

The Maker of Dreams, a fantasy by Oliphant Down (special music by Miss Olive Linton, piano; Faith Curtis, violin): Pierrot, Storrs Lee; Pierrette, Madeline Thund; the manufacturer, Norman Kilpatrick; Orchestra, Olive Linton, piano; Lillian Heap, cello; Rose Driscoll, George Guile, Faith Curtis, violins; Miriam Shereshevsky, viola.

Difference in the length of the day in the tropics and summer days of the north has been discovered as one of the chief reasons why sweet peas would not bloom in Porto Rico. This difficulty has been overcome with the introduction of a tropical sweet pea from Australia.

NORWICH TOWN

A very interesting programme has been arranged for the Children's Day exercises at the First Congregational church, Sunday next. Members of the Sunday school have been requested [illegible] reserved for the several classes. The rite of baptism will be administered during the exercises by the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey.

Mother's Day will not be observed at the First Methodist Episcopal church until a later date.

Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church and that church choir will have charge of the Sunday afternoon service at the Wauregan Arms.

The last meeting for this season of the Sisters of the King's Daughters is to be held Monday afternoon at the Johnson Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Avery, their son, Arthur, and daughter, Miss Louise Avery, of West Town street, left Thursday for Worcester, Mass., where today (Friday) they will attend commencement exercises of Worcester Polytechnic Institute, another son of Mr. and Mrs. Avery, Sidney H. Avery, being a member of the graduating class.

BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU MANAGER SPOKE HERE

About seventy merchants attended a dinner meeting in the Wauregan hotel at 6:15 Thursday night and listened to an instructive and interesting address by Silas T. Leaming, manager of the Better Business Bureau of Providence.

The bureau was organized some four years ago for the purpose of elevating the business ethics of the Providence merchants. Truth in advertising, honest treatment to the buying public, and the safeguarding of the public from unscrupulous persons and dishonest dealings, are some of the results achieved by the Providence merchants.

The bureau is affiliated with the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, and through this affiliation is [illegible] in down and detect dishonest advertising methods. This association is keenly alert to [illegible] of bad merchandising and frequently appears before the federal trade commission for the suppression of unscrupulous business methods.

The meeting opened with the singing of America and Alexander Pasek acted as song leader. Swahn's orchestra furnished music and a fine [illegible] was served by the hotel.

VERDICT FOR DEFENDANT IN SUIT BETWEEN JEWETT CITY MEN

After having the case about an hour Thursday afternon, the jury in the superior court here brought in a verdict for the defendant in the suit of Mike Wozniak of Jewett City against Charles D. Wolfe of that place. Wozniak sued Wolfe for $1,500 damages for personal injuries received when the wagon he was driving on North Main street in Jewett City, June 30, 1920, was struck by Wolfe's automobile which was driven by Gerald S. Wolfe. Wozniak's horse ran away after the automobile hit the wagon and the runaway horse crashed into a truck. It was in this collision that the plaintiff received his injuries.

After Jury Foreman John Quinn had presented the verdict and it had been read by Assistant Court Clerk John H. Walker, Judge John H. Booth excused the jury till next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock (standard time).

Attorney William H. Shields Jr., appeared for the plaintiff and Attorney Arthur M. Brown for the defendant.

The itemized claim of the plaintiff was for $25.70 hospital bill, $47 and $13 doctors' bills, $4.75 medicine and $151.47 for loss of wages at $27.50 per week for five weeks and three days.

Dr. J. W. Callahan and Dr. J. H. McLaughlin testified to the medical attention they gave Wozniak.

The plaintiff who gave his testimony through Attorney Dudkowski as interpreter said he was driving the wagon of the American Polish corporation and was on the right hand side of the road. He did not hear any automobile horn blown just prior to the accident. The first he knew was when his wagon was struck and the horse started to run. The wagon was not damaged but the harness was broken. When the automobile passed him it was going very fast and continued on toward the railroad track. The horse was running as fast as he could he was so scared. The witness said that he tried to stop the horse but couldn't. After running the horse and wagon ran into a truck [illegible] Dr. McLaughlin sewed up his knee and took him to the hospital where he stayed 13 days. He was taken home from the hospital and then had to stay in bed for two weeks and then got up and walked with a cane. The witness stated that he went back to work about three months later.

Joseph Gauthier and Lucas Lupa, both of Jewett City, told what they saw of the accident and James H. Shea said he saw the horse coming across the railroad tracks and the horse struck the side of the truck. The witness stood across the street from the truck. After the collision with the truck he caught the horse and then helped to push the wagon away from the truck. The witness asked Mike why he didn't pull the horse up and Mike replied he wanted to let him run out.

For the defendant Gerald S. Wolfe, son of the defendant, testified that he was working in his father's garage and had been adjusting a valve on a car and went out to test it on the day Mike Wozniak's horse ran away. He went toward Plainfield about a mile and then turned around. As he passed the Blair house he spoke to the Blair girl. Mike's wagon was about 50 feet away and he blew his horn. The wagon then turned out into the middle of the road a little. He started to stop his car but the horse continued so he did. In doing so he barely hit the wagon with his bumper. After he got into the garage he noticed a small scratch on the bumper.

Joseph Guillotte stated that he was with Gerald Wolfe on the day of the accident. After leaving the garage he and Gerald went toward Plainfield for about a mile and then turned back. At Green avenue a team was going south and Mr. Wolfe's son struck the team lightly at the rear end.

Alfred M. Bryant testified as to being crossing tender for the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Co. He told of Wozniak's horse coming down and crossing the tracks just two or three minutes after Gerald Wolfe had crossed. Mike smiled at him and the reins were hanging loose.

The jury in the case comprised John Quinn, foreman; Joseph Boucher, Sprague; William R. Darling, Preston; Walter Zeigler, Norwich; Charles I. Haskell, Weston A. Barnett, Preston; Dwight C. Geer, John Purcell, Colchester; Frank Davoli, Lebanon; William A. Kilroy, Albert J. Grandy, Bozrah; Charles W. Grant, Franklin.

ST. JAMES WOMAN'S GUILD CONDUCTS FINE PROGRAMME

The Parish house at Poquetanuck was filled to capacity Thursday evening when the Women's Guild of St. James' church gave a supper, entertainment and dance, guests being present from Versailles, Norwich and surrounding towns. A chicken pie supper was served from 5 to 8 o'clock which was followed by an entertainment, the first part of which consisted of a farce entitled "Squaring It With the Boss," which was presented by the following cast: James Greening, William B. Mitchell; Mrs. Greening, Mrs. Fred Miller, Johnnie Bender, Arthur Fish; Mr. Brown, the boss, John M. Taylor; Clarissa, Mrs. Arthur Smith; Hortense, Mrs. Charles Harkness.

The second part of the entertainment consisted of solos by William Mitchell and Miss Mary Gray of Norwich, which were heartily encored, and a quartette consisting of William B. Mitchell, Robert McClure, Fred Willcox and Walter Green, who sang a group of negro songs which received hearty applause.

The committee in charge of the entertainment was Mrs. Lillian Lucas, Mrs. Arthur Smith and Mrs. Charles Harkness; the supper committee, Mrs. Charles Weeks, Mrs. Alanson Fuller, Mrs. Arthur Barret, Mrs. George Bogue, Mrs. Arthur Rogers and Mrs. Herbert Shiver, assisted by Mrs. Fred Wolfe, Mrs. William B. Mitchell, Mrs. Henry Sauer, Mrs. Orrin Harris and the Misses Fannie and Flora Peck and Wauregan. The ice cream was in charge of Mrs. Bert Williams and Mrs. Lillian Lucas, assisted by Frank Brewster and Walter Tarbox.

Dancing followed after the entertainment, the floor being well filled until the closing hour.

COMPOSITION BY A. E. HALL ON YALE MUSIC PROGRAM

The Norwich friends of Arthur E. Hall of 48 Church street, the present organist and choirmaster at Christ church, are pleased to learn of his success at the end of his course at the Yale School of Music. His composition, a sort of musical thesis, was one of the three chosen for the program which was given on Wednesday evening at Woolsey Hall, New Haven, by the Yale School of Music, assisted by the New Haven Symphony orchestra, David Stanley Smith, conductor. Mr. Hall's work, which is [illegible] was received with great favor by the audience and critics. At commencement in June he will receive the degree of Bachelor of Music.

SUFFIELD HEADMASTER DIES SUDDENLY WITH STROKE

Suffield, Conn., June 5.—Hobart G. Truesdell, headmaster of the Suffield school for the past 12 years, died today. Mr. Truesdell was 41 years old and a few days ago suffered a nervous breakdown. He was to return to his home in Mount Upton, N. Y., to recuperate when he suffered a paralytic stroke which caused his death a few hours later.

Mr. Truesdell was a well known educator of boys and had received many honorary degrees from colleges and schools of the country. He was educated in the schools of Mount Upton and from there was graduated from Colgate academy and the University of Chicago. He is survived by his wife and three children. Funeral arrangements are uncompleted.

According to what was learned here of Mr. Truesdell's death by Norwich people interested in the school, he had started for his home in Mount Upton, whence he was to bring back his wife and his daughter, and had reached Westfield, Mass., when his death occurred.

Mr. Truesdell attended the Suffield alumni banquet here recently in connection with the campaign for an endowment fund for the school. He was highly regarded by Norwich men who are interested in the school as trustees or as parents of young men now there.

Y. M. C. A. GYM BOYS WILL DISPLAY "STUNTS"

A "stunt" night will be held at the Y. M. C. A. this (Friday) evening by the gym boys and their friends. A special programme consisting of recreational stunts, moving pictures and swimming has been arranged for the evening. One of the features will be a swimming demonstration by some of the boys who will endeavor to display their best stunts. The program which will start at 7:15 o'clock, will be open to all boys in the city who will be the guests of the Junior members of the association.

GIRLS FRIENDLY SOCIETIES IN NEIGHBORHOOD MEETING

A neighborhood meeting of the various branches of the Girls Friendly society of the New London Archdeaconry was held at Grace church parish house, Yantic, at 8 o'clock Thursday evening. The attendance numbered [illegible] Supper was served in the parish house after which a festival service was held in the church. Rev. Robert B. Day delivered the address, using as his text, Let us go [illegible] Him without the camp bearing His reproach, for here have we no continuing city but we seek one to come. At the close of the service Mrs. E. Dimick of New London presented Miss Jackson, the honorary president of the Girls Friendly society of the diocese, who addressed the gathering. At the close of the service adjournment was taken to the parish house where a social time was enjoyed and refreshments served. Girls Friendly societies in Willimantic, New London, Pootatuck and Greeneville were represented in the gathering.

STATE POLICE "STENOGRAPHER" REVEALED AS DETECTIVE

Hartford, June 5.—Since the death Wednesday night of Mrs. Zola A. Bennett, "stenographer" of the state police department, there has come to light the fact that she was one of the most successful women criminal investigators in the country. Although for eleven years acting apparently as a secretary to Superintendent Robert T. Hurley of the department, she had been instrumental in sending to prison a number of noted criminals. Her part in such convictions has never been made known for fear it would hamper her in her work as a detective.

Mrs. Bennett, the widow of Theodore Bennett of Danielson, died at the Hartford hospital following an operation for appendicitis.

The remarkable part played by Mrs. Bennett in such cases as the Edward Curtiss kidnapping case; the Putnam arson case, the Gilligan murder case and the Madden murder situation became known yesterday.

The Curtiss case attracted wide attention in Connecticut four or five years ago when Curtiss, who had been estranged from his wife, kidnapped his young daughter, who had been ordered kept in the custody of her mother by the court in Litchfield county. The child was spirited away and Curtiss was subsequently adjudged insane and committed to the Middletown state hospital.

The matter of recovering the child was turned over to Mrs. Bennett, and after two years of most persistent effort on her part the child was located in New York and returned to her mother. No mention was ever made of the fact it was a woman investigator who had solved the mystery.

Previously, in 1913, Mrs. Bennett first showed skill as a criminal investigator in cooperation with then Captain Hurley in unravelling the mystery surrounding the large number of fires in Putnam. As a result two men were arrested and convicted for arson and served long terms in prison.

In addition to these cases, she played an important part in the preparation of the state's case against Mrs. Amy E. Archer Gilligan, of Windsor, who several years ago was sent to state prison for life for the murder of several inmates of her home for aged people. In the case of the murder of Captain William E. Madden in Manchester in 1919, Mrs. Bennett was once more active in the state's interest.

Throughout her eleven years of service for the state, Mrs. Bennett, known to her friends as a stenographer, had in reality been carrying out many investigations, the nature of which required the keenest analytical powers and a considerable amount of bravery.

SCOUT FOREST GUIDES RECEIVE THEIR BADGES

An enthusiastice meeting of 26 forest guides of the Norwich Scout council was held at scout headquarters Wednesday night. Every troop in the city but one was represented. The following guides were present: Arnaud LaPierre, Edward Preston, Marius Reguin, John Keeley, Philip Reguin, Francis Simoneau, John Delaney, James Fitzgerald, Joseph Burns, Jr., Harold Frink, Paul Sussman, Edward Abel, Frank Harding, Billy Tirrell, Robert Hugaard, Walter Fisher, Earl Hill, John Dolge, Irving Manning and F. A. Benton.

The new guides signed the forest guide pledge and received their badges. The forest guide pledge is as follows: Believing as a boy scout that every citizen should endeavor to see that our forests are protected and conserved, I apply to be enrolled as a forest guide of Connecticut. As such I promise to protect and preserve our forest trees, wild plants, birds and harmless animals; to urge others to do likewise; to be careful with fires at all times and in all places; and when called upon, to assist to put out forest fires in my immediate locality."

These pledge cards are signed on one side by State Forester A. F. Hawes bearing the following: "This is to certify that the bearer, having met the prescribed requirements, has been enrolled as a forest guide of Connecticut and is entitled to wear the forest guide badge. As such he is a cooperator of the Connecticut forest service, and I hereby request the citizens of Connecticut to give him all possible assistance in his efforts to protect the forests and wild life of the state, and particularly to prevent and extinguish forest fires."

Scouts received instructions for making forest guides efficient and were given automobile tags and patrol reports on special work they are to follow up.

At the close of the meeting a social time was enjoyed and light refreshments were served.

Tolland County Jurors

At the session of the Tolland County superior court, at Rockville, the jury panel was drawn for the trial cases to be heard at this term of the court. Judge E. M. Peasley directed that two jurors be selected from each of the thirteen towns of the county and be called in next Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. The jury panel was selected as follows: Andover, F. H. Cook and W. E. Fuller; Bolton, Arthur Rockwell and Otto Mannell; Columbia, Bert C. Green and Frank P. Potter; Coventry, Fred W. Chase and William H. Armstrong; Ellington, Louis C. Edwards and John H. Lynch; Hebron, Norman Warner and J. Kellogg White; Mansfield, Theron Swift and Wallace M. Storrs; Somers, Mahlon Avery and Henry Farnham Stafford; George J. Frazier and Jess M. Clifford; Tolland, George P. Charter and Nathan O. Ward; Union, Ralph Bradway and Albert Heck; Vernon, Frederick Thorpe and William Zimmerman; Willington, Seth Schofield and Bert Latham.

CHARGED WITH FORGERY OF CHECK FOR $150

On a warrant charging forgery, Murray Davis of 35 Washington street, an insurance agent, was arrested in the city Thursday evening by Officer P. Driscoll and in default of bail that was set at $200 he spent the night at police headquarters.

He is accused of having issued a check for $150 on March 8, 1924, to Windsor T. Jacques of New London, purporting to bear the signature of Harris Franks.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The reply to the Japanese exclusion protest was completed.

A rum and narcotic smuggling treaty with Canada was signed.

The Pueblo Indian land bill was sent to President Coolidge.

The house passed the Hoch bill for revision of freight rates.

The senate passed a house bill to provide for a national reforestation policy.

The postal salaries increase bill was finally passed and sent to the president.

The Bursum bill was put forward in a last attempt in the senate for farm legislation.

Secretary Mellon entered a denial of charges levied against his conduct of the treasury by Gaston B. Means.

Five republicans of the senate oil committee submitted dissenting minority views on the naval oil investigation.

President Coolidge delivered the commencement address at Howard university, an institution maintained for negroes.

VOTE ON FARM RELIEF BILL HELD IN ABEYANCE

Washington, June 6.—Plans to bring the reclamation relief bill to a vote today in the house were held in abeyance pending a decision by conferees on the deficiency appropriation bill as to whether acceptance by the senate reclamation rider which is in line with Secretary Work's fact finding commission's recommendations, should be urged.

The supply bill was sent back to the house today from the senate which voted on it last night. Some senate amendments were disagreed to and conferees were named immediately to represent both the house and senate.

A two-thirds vote would be required for passage if the reclamation bill was taken up by the house under a motion to suspend rules. The senate rider in most particulars is similar to the house bill and should the conferees recommend its acceptance by the house, as many leaders predicted, they would, only a majority vote would be needed to keep the provisions in the bill.

OUTCOME OF NEW JERSEY DEM. STATE CONVENTION

Trenton, N. J., June 6.—Re-election of Mayor Frank Hague and Mrs. James J. Billington, both of Jersey City, as members of the democratic national committee, was the outstanding feature of the meeting of the democratic state committee this afternoon, at which plans were discussed for the coming campaign.

Mayor Hague, the potential leader of the democratic organization in New Jersey, was chosen without opposition and the election of Mrs. Billington was also unanimous.

The state committee abolished the standing organization committee consisting of five men and five women, and substituted therefore a campaign committee of ten members having executive power. Upon this committee devolve the duty of managing the campaign in New Jersey, which will open immediately following the national convention in New York city. The committee had already endorsed the candidacy of Governor Silzer for the presidential nomination, which closed the consideration of possible nominees.

PARENTS DESIRE ONLY FAIR TRIAL FOR LEOPOLD AND LOEB

Chicago, June 6.—Their millions will not be used to save Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed slayers of Robert Franks, from the gallows, a joint statement issued tonight by the fathers of the accused youths, both Chicago millionaires, said.

"Only such defense as that to which every human being is entitled will be provided for their sons," the statement said.

"Assuming that the facts in this case are substantially as published, then the only proceedings they favor is simple, solemn investigation under the law, touching the mental responsibility of their accused sons."

There will be no legal counsel outside the attorneys now representing the accused, with one possible exception, the statement said, and no large sums will be spent for either legal or medical talent and "in no event will the families of the accused boys use money in any attempt to defeat justice."

VICE RING AMONG THE HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS IN KALAMAZOO

Kalamazoo, Mich., June 6.—Five youths, two of them high school pupils, pleaded guilty today to a statutory charge in connection with the alleged existence of a vice ring among high school students here. Three of them, including the two students, were placed on probation for one year, while the other two were remanded for sentence.

A 15 year old girl was the complaining witness.

Eighteen young men who have been convicted of contributing to delinquency of minors in Kalamazoo's vice campaign now are serving sentences of from 30 to 45 days in jail. Due to the crowded condition of the jail, County Agent George C. Thayer, who has been instrumental in instigating the clean-up, said that additional arrests will be held in abeyance until those now in jail are released.

ARREST UNCOVERED A CHICKEN THIEVING RING

Ridgefield, Conn., June 6.—With the arrest of three youths, Peter Howard, Fred Reddy and Frank Cook of the South Ridge district, near Brewsters, N. Y., state police here have uncovered a gigantic "chicken thieving ring" said to have operated throughout the southwestern section of this state and New York for the past ten years, during which time thousands of dollars worth of poultry has been stolen from farms by night and sold in markets here and in New York in the morning.

Round-up of the trio, said to be only part of the gang, was made by State Police Sergeant John C. Kelly and State Policemen Leo F. Carroll and Edward Keating, of Ridgefield barracks, within the past few days. They are detained in bonds of $2,500, at present charged with thirty chicken coop raids at Wilton, New Canaan, [illegible] expected to be present, will be held.

Tomorrow morning the mammoth anniversary parade, in which approximately 20,000 will march, will be the first event of a busy day. Two state encampments, held in connection with the anniversary, will convene during the morning. These are Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Yankee Division Association. Tomorrow evening the magnificent pageant, reproducing the history of the city since its founding, will be staged in Proprietor's Common.

More than 12,000 persons last night visited the industrial and mercantile exposition in progress as a part of the 250th anniversary week celebration. The big state armory, now the exposition hall, was packed to capacity during the entire afternoon and evkening, and after 8 o'clock last night several thousand prospective spectators, who had lined the sidewalks and streets for nearly two blocks, were persuaded to disperse and come back later in the week.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS END ANNUAL REUNION

Memphis, Tenn., June 6. (By the A. P.)—Flags were furled and drums were muffled tonight as the Confederate Legion marched out with the brilliant pageant of their thirty-fourth annual reunion behind them.

For many of the veterans it was the last reunion.

The ebb of the great gray tide was marked today with a parade and pageant. At the front of the huge parade rode General W. B. Haldeman, commander-in-chief of the U. C. V., with his staff. They came two detachments of veterans on foot. As they marched past the reviewing stands thousands of voices shouted the famous "rebel yell."

Space in the parade was allotted the handful of faithful old negroes who attended the reunion. Among them was the Rev. Mack Lee, of Virginia, a servant of General Robert E. Lee, "Colonel" Divinity of Mississippi, confessed champion chicken thief of the Confederate army, with a startled rooster under his arm, and two aged negroes who served as cooks in Forrest's cavalry.

EDWARDS HEADS ASS'N OF REAL ESTATE BOARDS

Washington, June 6. — Charles G. Edwards of New York, was elected president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards at the closing session here today of its seventeenth annual convention. The association voted to hold its 1925 convention at Detroit.

Resolutions adopted endorsed the Mellon tax plan rejected by congress in the new tax law and commended President Coolidge for his "courageous stand" on tax legislation, expressing the hope that he would succeed in his efforts to obtain "a real tax reduction program as an example to all the states and municipalities."

WATERBURY 6-YEAR OLD BOY ELL THREE STORIES

Waterbury, June 6.—Carmen Cristiano, six years old, was probably fatally injured tonight when he fell three stories from the veranda of his home at 119 Scovill street. The boy sustained a fracture at the base of the skull and a fractured right forearm. He was rushed in an unconscious condition to the Waterbury hospital where little help is held for his recovery.

The boy was playing about the veranda and slipped over the railing.

Ten Miners Killed by Gas Explosion

Bodies Have Been Recovered —Five Men Were Seriously Injured.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 6.—Ten men are known to be dead and five seriously injured as a result of a gas explosion today in Loomis colliery, Glen Alden Coal company, near here. The dead and injured have been removed from the mine. Rescue parties are still searching the workings. Among the dead are Thomas Phillips and Richard Wall of Nanticoke and John Helfrick of Hanover Green, all miners. Two Wilkesbarre negroes are also among the dead.

The chief officials of the Glen Alden company are on the scene of the disaster. Joseph J. Walsh, chief of the Pennsylvania bureau of mines, will arrive in Wilkesbarre tonight and is expected to take charge of the investigation. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

WATERBURY CELEBRATING ITS 250TH ANNIVERSARY

Waterbury, June 6. — This city's 250th anniversary celebration approached the climax today with a physical training exhibition with nearly 8,000 school children of the city participating. Tonight the historical meeting, at which all descendants of early settlers, and old residents, are

Prince Was Shy $2 For Marriage Fee

Fiancee, Miss Eleanor Margaret Green, Met Emergency With Crisp $2 Bill.

New York, June 6.—Prince Viggio of Denmark arrived on the Esthonia today and, with a $2 greenback borrowed from his fiancee, Miss Eleanor Margaret Green of New York city, purchased a license to marry her.

The prince was accompanied by his father, Prince Valdemar. They were met at the Esthonia's pier in Brooklyn by Miss Green and Charles B. Alexander, former president of the National Democratic club. A police motorcycle squad escorted the party directly to the marriage license bureau at city hall.

All went well during the ensuing period of questions and answers, until City Clerk Cruise, ready to proffer the license, said, "two dollars, please." Prince Viggio jingled a handful of Danish coins. Mr. Cruise shook his head: a royal blush overspread the princely countenance, while Miss Green drew a fresh $2 bill from her handbag and said: "Here it is."

The prince immediately repaid the loan with a bit of yellow paper which he said was worth $2 in Copenhagen.

His name, said the prince, was Christian Adolph George Viggio, he was a son of Prince Valdemar, grandson of King Christian of Denmark and Princess Marie of Orleans; his birthplace was France; his age 30 and his occupation "soldier."

Miss Green said she was 28 years old; the only daughter of the late Dr. James O. Green, and that she lived with her mother at Ridgewood Manor, N. J., and No. 5 Lexington avenue, this city. The couple announced they would be married next Tuesday at Calvary Episcopal church.

"American honeymoon?" asked reporters. "Of course," replied the prince.

"And Niagara Falls? All honeymooners go there," the questioners persisted.

"Then I suppose we'll go there, too," was the reply.

Prince Viggio and Miss Green met abroad a year ago and their engagement, at first opposed by her father, was announced when the came here last February to attend the wedding of his brother, Prince Erik, to Miss Lois Booth at Ottawa. Dr. Green, father of Miss Green, died since her engagement to Prince Viggio.

H. F. FARIS' PROHIBITION NOMINEE FOR PRESIDENT

Columbus, O., June 6.—H. P. Faris, Clinton, Mo., was nominated for the presidency today by the prohibition national convention on the first ballot. He received 82 votes, 40 being cast for A. P. Gouthey of Seattle, and 2 for William F. Varney, New York.

A. P. Gouthey, of Seattle, Wash., was nominated for vice president on the first ballot. The vote was: Gouthey 78 1-2; Miss Marie C. Brehm, California, 22 1-2. Colonel A. L. Moudy, Indiana, 7.

Dr. Gouthey, threw the convention into confusion by withdrawing after his nomination had been announced. Dr. D. L. Colvin, of New York, moved a reconsideration of the ballot and a new ballot was ordered and Miss Marie C. Brehm, of California, was nominated by acclamation.

CHAMOIS BAG WITH GEMS FOUND IN SYRACUSE STREET

Syracuse, N. Y., June 6.—A chamois bag, containing five diamond rings and a diamond pin, with a total value of $7,000, is found in the hands of its owner after lying for several hours yesterday on the sidewalk of a busy downtown street. Unnoticed because it looked nothing more than a piece of chamois, the object attracted the attention of Mrs. Mary O'Brien, police headquarters matron, who thought she might use it for cleaning windows.

Picking it from the gutter, where it had been kicked by a passerby, Mrs. O'Brien found the jewels inside, reported the fact to police headquarters, and today was able to return the bag when its owner, a local woman, inquired from the police if it had been found.

W. J. CONNERS, 67, WEDS MISS GRACE J. HAMMOND, 30

New York, June 6.—William J. Conners, of Buffalo, announced today that he and Miss Grace J. Hammond, formerly of Brooklyn, and recently of St. Petersburg, Fla., were married last March. Mr. Conners, veteran newspaper owner and politician, is 67, while Mrs. Conners, his third wife, who is about 30, is the owner of a drug store and some fountains in West Palm Beach, Fla. Conners said today in their suite at the Ritz Carlton hotel. He added that she was "a friend of the family" and "worth about a million in her own right."

OUTDOING MONTE CRISTO

The count of Monte Cristo found the secret caverns and great wealth after a long search.

But think of this! By spending a few minutes every day running through the advertising columns of The Bulletin you can find a wealth of things that Monte Cristo could never know.

We sometimes overlook the important role that advertising plays in making our lives pleasant and altogether livable. Advertising is as much a part of today's life as electricity, antiseptic surgery or automobiles. It keeps us up to date on the many things we need in order to life profitable, happy useful lives.

The advertisements save time, money and effort for those who read them and follow their guidance. They are practical guarantees of satisfaction.

Don't put the Bulletin down without reading the advertisements.

COOLIDGE HAS NO DESIRE TO DOMINATE CONVENTION

Chief Executive Makes It Plain That He is Not Seeking to Dictate Who Shall Be His Running Mate—Is Opposed to Cleveland Convention Becoming Regarded as a "Steam Roller" Affair — In Cleveland the Boom For Lowden For Vice President is Gaining Headway.

Washington, June 6.—With sentiment crystalizing at Cleveland on selection of the republican vice presidential nominee, President Coolidge took pains to assure visitors today that he was not seeking to dictate who shall be his running mate.

Mr. Coolidge indicated strongly to his callers that he wanted the convention to decide the vice presidential nominee, that a good many [illegible] men in his opinion had been mentioned, and that many of them were [illegible] acceptable to him.

There were plain indications at the White House that the president was disturbed by the circulation of reports that he would dominate the convention even to the extent of forcing the nomination of hand-picked candidate for vice president.

Mr. Coolidge does not desire the Cleveland convention to be known as a "steam roller" convention. Earlier in the week he expressed a desire that the delegates, themselves, select [illegible] running mate and he be permitted to pursue the "hands off" policy followed by President Roosevelt in 1904 convention. This desire, his close advisers said today, had not changed.

Accordingly the friends of the president declare that if Frank O. Lowden is nominated for second place on the ticket it will be because the sentiment of the delegates favors him and not because pressure has been brought to bear from the White House. They make no secret of the fact that Mr. Lowden is highly regarded by the president, but they insist that Mr. Coolidge has made no move to close the field against other availables.

The increasing sentiment among the delegates gathering at Cleveland and among members of the republican national committee there in favor of former Governor Lowden has been communicated to the White House and also to party leaders still remaining in Washington, and there is every reason here to believe that he will accept. The party leaders here believe the former Illinois governor will consider it as amounting to a "draft" if the convention should decide by a large vote on him as the vice presidential candidate, and they also point out that no one given a majority convention vote for the nomination for vice president has refused the honor.

LOWDEN VICE PRESIDENCY BOOM IS GAINING HEADWAY

Cleveland, June [illegible].—(By The A. P.)—The Lowden boom for the vice presidency [illegible] speed [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] [illegible]arbance [illegible] which was not fu[illegible] those few on the ground [illegible] have been looking [illegible] fore expressing [illegible] made quite a [illegible] phasized fac[illegible] made [illegible] regards Mr. Lowden [illegible] running mate [illegible] endorsed him. [illegible] turned a hand [illegible] other candidat[illegible]

[illegible] construe the [illegible] president [illegible] agreeable [illegible] president was [illegible] him nominated [illegible] they agree that some other [illegible] [illegible] agreeable [illegible] White House.

Accordingly, with the knowledge that their candidate would not be a disagreeable selection, they have gone to work with renewed efforts to accomplish his nomination, and today the Lowden sentiment was [illegible] growing among the national committeemen and delegates who have arrived. No other name was heard so prominently mentioned.

Of course, somebody else may be nominated, but today, three days before the convention assembles, practically all the expressions and outward manifestations are for the former governor of Illinois.

While the discussion of the vice presidency and the platform went forward, the national committee worked further on contests for seats in the convention, disposing of all those remaining except that from Tennessee, which will be taken up tomorrow.

In two of the three cases heard today—Texas and Georgia—the first compromises were entered into. In the third case, that of the delegates at large from Arkansas, the committee voted unanimously to seat National Committeeman Remmel and his associates, Mrs. H. H. Foster and Wallace Townsend of Little Rock and J. W. Grabiel of Fayetteville, over the delegation headed by Scipio A. Jones, a negro.

All the Texas delegation, headed by National Committeeman Creager, was seated over the contestants under E. H. R. Green of Terrell, son of the late Hetty Green, but contestants were given seats in the Eighth and Ninth districts with an equal vote with the Creager delegates—one-half vote each.

Reopening the Georgia case, the committee gave a seat in the Third district to E. S. Richardson of Marshallville, with a half vote, and permitted A. L. Felton, a Henry Lincoln Johnson delegate, to retain his seat with an equal portion of a vote. The decision in this case was the first defeat for the negro national committee from Georgia in contests at two successive conventions.

Little time was consumed by the committee in disposing of the Arkansas contest. Scipio A. Jones, appearing for the contestants declared that the majority of the state convention which elected the Remmel delegates had been illegally elected and charged that the Remmel organization had "conspired" to deprive more than 100,000 negro republicans in Arkansas of the right of suffrage.

Entering a general denial of these allegations, Wallace Townsend, for the regular delegation, declared there was no color line in Arkansas republican politics and produced documentary evidence to show that the state convention was held in regular order.

[illegible] of National Committeeman [illegible] of Washington, the committee [illegible] state, the regular delegation.

The National League of Women Voters got its delegation on the ground today headed by Julia Lathrop of Chicago, former chief of the federal children's bureau, to submit planks for the party platform. One of the planks to be submitted will endorse entrance into the world court, and others would deal with public welfare and efficiency in government.

Ruth Bryan Sisson, Jr., a delegate at large from Pennsylvania, who defeated Governor Pinchot for the place, arrived today and announced for a "beer and light wine plank" in the platform, without which, he declared in a prepared statement, the party would lose the eastern states next November.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

The death, following an operation, of Zola Bennett, in a Hartford hospital, came as a surprise to the people of Danielson, where she had been a resident for about a score of years. Mrs. Bennett was the widow of Israel Bennett and before coming to Danielson was a resident of Providence.

Her capacity as an investigator was not caused by her friends, and probably not by herself, until she lent her assistance to Robert T. Hurley, now superintendent of the state police department, but at that time one of the original group of state police officers, in clearing up one of the most sensational cases that has developed in this part of the state for many years, these cases having to do with the setting of fires in Putnam and the consequent destruction of a great amount of property.

Some of the most valuable aid Supt. Hurley received in unraveling that affair was given him by Mrs. Bennett, and it was in her home on Methanic street here that the evidence and clues collected were used in such a manner as to trap the central figure in the arson cases. It is recalled that it was for this that a dictaphone was used, probably for the first time in this part of Connecticut.

Starting with that success Mrs. Bennett has ever since, a period of more than a decade, been engaged in the investigation of criminal cases and had come at the time of her death to be one of the most skilful women detectives in the country.

Services she rendered the state have proved invaluable in clearing up some very puzzling cases in Connecticut, and her death will be a decided loss to the department with which she had been associated for such a long time.

One of the matters before the town school committee at Friday evening's meeting was the resignation of Leon M. Farrin as superintendent of the schools in Killingly and Brooklyn.

Mr. Farrin is leaving Killingly to become supervisor of schools in the towns of Hansen, Hanover and Norwell, Mass., and will begin his duties July. Mr. Farrin has a three years' contract at a salary of $3,600 per year.

Being located only about 25 miles from Boston, Mr. Farrin, while carrying on his work, will also have opportunity to continue the special work he has been doing at Harvard university, of which he is a graduate.

Mr. Farrin, who has been very successful with his work in this territory, came here from the principalship of the high school at Holliston, Mass., where he remained for three years.

Two American Legion men—William Harrington and A. E. Bernier—had an experience Thursday afternoon while en route to Eastford to attend the military funeral for Lieut. Oliver Latham. Near Goodyear the closed car in which they were riding rolled over, after the machine had struck a stone in the road and damaged a wheel. Legion men in another car saw the accident and ran back to give assistance and were happy to find both Harrington and Bernier had escaped injury. Not deterred by their misfortune, Harrington and Bernier went along to the funeral in another car and were among the members of the firing squad at the grave. The Harrington car was not seriously damaged in the accident.

At the annual meeting of the Treble Clef club held at the home of Mrs. George F. Davignon, the following officers were elected: President, Miss Edith Fuller; vice president, Mrs. George F. Davignon; secretary, Miss Ruth Fiske; treasurer, Miss Marion Perry; librarian, Miss Blanche Smith; musical director, Henry N. Flagg; ways and means committee, Miss Maymo Dunn, chairman; Misses Marguerite and Lucille Caron, Miss Marjorie I. Gaffney; publicity committee, Mrs. Ethel Hale, Miss Margaret Sullivan, Miss Marguerite Caron; hall and reception committee, Mrs. Ida M. Gallup, Mrs. Katherine McCormack, Miss Beatrice Maynard; board of directors, Miss Edith Fuller, Mrs. G. F. Davignon, Miss Ruth Iske, Miss Marion Perry, Miss Lucille Caron, Mrs. Ethel Hale, Aime Gagnon, Mrs. Katherine McCormack and Florence Dean.

Officials of the American Legion here have expressed regret that features of the parade scheduled for last Saturday evening were missing. For this the local organization was in no way responsible, having carried out its arrangements to the letter and made every provision that advance instructions called for from state officials.

It is anticipated that units that were to have been in the parade and did not appear will make satisfactory explanation of why they did not come here. The point is just now that the local post of the legion does not feel that it should be held at fault for a failure over which it had no possible control.

This town was honored Friday in the class day exercises at the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs through the fact that Ronald Bamford, a graduate of Killingly High school, is president of the senior class and Harold W. Baldwin of this town one of its prominent members. At the commencement exercises today both young men will receive the degree of bachelor of science, Mr. Bamford in science, Mr. Baldwin in agriculture. Both have been prominent during their four years at Storrs.

Mr. Bamford will do graduate work for a master's degree, while Mr. Baldwin will take up agricultural journalism.

Miss Mildred Burns of the Hartford Hospital Training school is spending a vacation of two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Burns of Prospect street.

Mrs. John A. Plane of Broad street will have the members of the W. C. T. U. at her home for a meeting on Tuesday afternoon next.

As probably ever will be the rule so long as circuses are an attraction, the numbers from this place were at Providence Friday, to see the Barnum and Bailey-Ringling shows.

John I. Bryant of Fairhaven, Mass., many years ago resident in this town, at Elmville, is visiting here. Mr. Bryant is a veteran of the Civil war and is nearing his 76th birthday. He left here in 1863.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill has appointed Attorney Louis A. Woisard of this town as deputy coroner.

Henry C. Benton of Fall River was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Friday.

METHODIST PASTORS IN NEW ASSIGNMENTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, June 6.—Rev. W. E. Newton, pastor of the Methodist church at North Grosvenordale, is to come to Attawaugan as pastor of the Methodist church, succeeding Rev. J. W. Carter, who concludes his pastorate Sunday and hereafter will have charge of churches at Jewett City, Voluntown and Griswold. Rev. Mr. Newton will begin his duties at Attawaugan June 15.

PUTNAM

The death of Mrs. Zola A. Bennett at the Hartford hospital, Hartford, Wednesday night is of especial interest to people living in eastern Windham county, for she was the widow of Theodore "Ted" Bennett of Danielson. It was as a woman detective that she first came into the limelight in Putnam. Mrs. Bennett was on her first case at the time, working in conjunction with Capt. Robert Hurley of the state police, now superintendent of state police.

In 1913 Putnam was in a state of terror from a series of mysterious and costly fires. Armed guards were patrolling the streets and the citizens went to bed to a troubled sleep, expecting every night to hear the fire alarm ring. Several attempts were made to burn a business block in the center of the city; the plant of the Wheaton Building and Lumber company was destroyed with a loss of $100,000; the factory of James B. Tatem & Son was partially destroyed; a vacant house on Priest's Island went up in flames, as did several buildings at the Putnam fair grounds. But gradually the fires diminished and finally stopped. Putnam people began to feel easier, but still the fire fiend had not been caught.

Captain Hurley was making occasional visits to Putnam. When asked about the fire cases he had little to say and people thought he had abandoned the hunt for the firebug.

One spring afternoon, while a session of the criminal superior court was going on, two prominent Putnam young men were placed under arrest, charged with the many fires. One of the young men was a messenger of the court itself and the other was a newly admitted member of the bar. The arrests caused one of the biggest sensations the city had ever known. People could not credit the news and when convinced that the arrests had been made thought that Captain Hurley had made a big mistake. However, before the trial of the two young men was over both entered pleas of guilty. The young member of the bar, who appeared to be the master mind in the arson cases, was sentenced to state prison for not less than eight nor more than thirteen years. Although now out on parole, he has never returned to Putnam. The other young man was sentenced to the state reformatory and spent a year or more there. He also has never returned to Putnam and the family shortly after the trouble moved from the city.

It was Mrs. Zola A. Bennett who was the star witness for the state, although the younger of the two men turned state's evidence. Mrs. Bennett related from the witness stand how she appeared to the young lawyer under suspicion and acted the part of a wealthy client with mining property in the west. The young attorney, according to the witness, visited her frequently at her home in Danielson, where she treated him well and furnished him with his favorite drink, port wine. Believing she was wealthy, he proposed marriage, although she was years older than he. She won his confidence and finally told him that she wanted a man with nerve who would set fire to buildings on some mining property adjoining her property in the west. The young lawyer told her that he would be willing to undertake the job and told her how it could be done. A spectacular part of Mrs. Bennett's testimony then came in when she said: "Raising his right hand, he said to me: 'See this hand? That is the hand that set the fires in Putnam.'" This was to assure her he had the nerve.

During the trial it developed that the two young men had made many experiments with candles in the young lawyer's office and they learned just how long it took a candle to burn an inch. It was with candles that the fires were thus set and timed so that when the fires broke out the two young men were far away, at home or in some public place, furnishing apparently complete alibis.

It was due to the efforts of Captain Hurley, whom Putnam has never forgotten, and the clever work of Mrs. Bennett, just beginning what was to be a successful and spectacular career as a criminal investigator, that the two young men were brought to justice and the city was freed from an ever-present fear that more fires would be started by the firebugs.

Mrs. Bennett was operated upon for appendicitis and had been in the hospital for about three weeks preceding her death.

Mrs. Bennett's husband was a well known hotel keeper in Danielson, and one of the best known horsemen in eastern Connecticut.

Dr. Stanley F. Osborne, state commissioner of health, who some weeks ago gave orders that no further bathing be allowed in Roseland lake, Woodstock, the source of Putnam's public water supply, has referred the question of the legality of such an order to Attorney General Frank Healey. Following the order, an emphatic protest was made by Herbert W. Bowen, as counsel for the Roseland park trustees, on the ground that Roseland lake is not a reservoir, never has been, and that before the riparian owners can be denuded of their rights condemnation proceedings must be taken. Dr. Osborne states that he expects to receive an opinion by the 18th or 20th of this month.

Frederick W. Bailey of Worcester, musical director of the Putnam Congregational church, presented a number of his Putnam pupils at a musicale Friday evening in the church. The program was as follows: Vocal selections, Goin' Home, Calling Me Home to You, Chrystabel M. Gifford; vocal, Spring's a Lovable Ladye, When the Daylight Goes, Edith W. Child; piano, Hungary (Rhapsodie Mignonne), Edna Kent; vocal, A Bowl of Roses, The Kiss, Marion Holden; organ, Caprice in G minor, Gertrude C. Warner; vocal, Pale Moon, The Little Domozelle, Corinne Marcella Wilson; vocal, Keep on Hoppin', Absence, Invictus, Thomas J. Howarth; vocal, Vissi D'Arte (from Tosca), The Birth of Morn, One Golden Day, Alice E. Stevens; vocal, Mr. Curly Headed Baby, The Rosary, I Passed By Your Window, Katrina Thayer; piano, Country Gardens (English Morris Dance Tune), Polonaise in E minor, Harriet H. Brown; vocal, One Fine Day (from Madame Butterfly), A Pastorale, Lucy E. Ellis; organ, Toccata in F, Kenneth C. Shattuck; vocal, When the West Begins, Spring Song of the Robin Woman, Mrs. Pearl B. Wheaton, Miss Katherine Lown at the piano; vocal, The Moon Behind the Cottonwood, Will of the Wisp, Ah, Love But a Day, Clara Keller.

Mrs. Mark Gallant and Mrs. Regis Bouthilette were in Worcester Friday to call on Oscar Bouthilette, who is under treatment at St. Vincent's hospital.

Attorney Irving H. Miron will go to Worcester this (Saturday) afternoon to attend a dinner to the only bachelor member of the class of 1913, Millbury High school, who is about to become a benedict.

Miss Esther Rouse, a student at Aurora college, Aurora, Ill., has returned home for the summer vacation. Miss Rouse, who is studying the violin, played for a radio broadcasting station recently.

Whitman Danielson and Kenneth C. Sharpe, who had charge of the American Legion poppy sale Memorial Day have reported $130 realized from the sale of the flowers. The vendors of the flowers were volunteers from among the girls of the Putnam High school. The money will be devoted to relief work among needy veterans and the wives and children of deceased veterans.

Putnam is to have a circus this year. Mayor Chapdelaine has issued a license and the circus advance agent has contracted for the Tatem lot on Grove street. The show will be given next month.

Prize day exercises will be held at Pomfret school Friday, June 20th. Services will be in the chapel at 10.30; prize day exercises at 11.15; luncheon at 12.45.

Teachers and pupils of the Howe and Marot school for young ladies at Thompson have sent out invitations for the closing exercises of the school, to be held next Monday and Tuesday. Monday will be field day, with outdoor events from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. In the afternoon there will be games, dances and horseback riding exhibition, followed by a torch dance in the evening by the entire school. Tuesday will be graduation day, with exercises and the award of prizes, at 11 o'clock. Jules Bois will address the graduating class. At 5 o'clock the seniors will hold their annual garden party and at 6 o'clock the play, Once Upon a Time, will be presented.

Clerk E. M. Warner of the superior court has received a list of the new assignment of judges for Windham county as follows:

Short calendar and assignment, Sept. 12, 1924, Judge Maltbie; Sept. 16 to Oct. 23, civil session, Judge Maltbie; short calendar and assignment, Willimantic, Oct. 24, Judge Maltbie; October civil session, Oct. 28 to Nov. 28, Judge Maltbie; short calendar session, one day, Monday, Feb. 2, 1925, Judge Hinman; short calendar and assignment, Feb. 27, Judge Haines; March civil session, first Tuesday in March, Judge Haines; short calendar and assignment, May 1, Judge Marvin; May civil term, May 5, Judge Marvin.

Criminal sessions—Sept. 2, Judge Hinman; Jan. 6, Judge Jennings; April 14, Judge Nickerson.

It's a good thing for humanity that we are not compelled to follow the advice given us.

PLAINFIELD

An organ recital by Everett A. Greene, of Boston, gave pleasure to many people of this village, also many from surrounding villages who were in Mr. Greene's audience at the Congregational church Thursday evening. The auditorium where the recital was held, the new Lawton memorial organ being used, was effectively decorated by the flower committee from the O. J. S., which regularly furnishes the flowers for the church. The audience, estimated at between four and five hundred, filled the room to the doors, necessitating the use of extra chairs.

The program was divided into two sections, the first being composed of classical music written by masters in this and other countries and the second containing some of the old familiar songs of the several nations. Mr. Greene fully demonstrated his ability as an organist, the music which he played among some of the most difficult, and the tones of the organ being brought out with fine effect. His program follows:

Largo,	Handel
New World Symphony,	Dvorak
Rosary,	Nevin
Minuet,	Beethoven
Question and Answer,	Wohlstentine
Cradle Song,	Guilluland
Priests' March,	Mendelssohn

Songs:

My Old Kentucky Home
Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes
O Dear, What Can the Matter Be?
Annie Laurie
Believe Me if All Those Endearing Young Charms
Home, Sweet Home
Russian Hymn
Marseillaise
America.

A large delegation from Loyal Livingstone Lodge, I. O. O. F., M. U., of this village, were guests of the Loyal Bud of Hope Lodge at Providence, R. I., Thursday evening, at a meeting of the latter lodge, having a fine time.

The new pulpit furniture for the Congregational church has been received, and placed in the church. This new furniture is of the best grade, in an oak finish, and makes a desirable addition to the appearance of the auditorium, matching the organ and the pews well.

PENDLETON HILL

Much sympathy is felt for the families of George Wilkinson and Fred Pierce, whose sudden death was a shock to the community. Several from this place attended the double funeral held in the Third North Stonington Baptist church Tuesday afternoon.

Charles Russell Cook and family have moved to Ashaway.

Miss Lucy Lester spent the week-end at her home in Gales Ferry. On her return she was accompanied by her father, Edward Lester, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lester, Miss Dorothy Lester and Charles Norcross.

School closes the 13th for the summer vacation. There are two graduates from this school who will take part in the exercises which will take place the 11th in Grange hall, North Stonington village.

WESTMINSTER

Sunday next, June 8, is Come to Church day at Westminster. Special music is expected.

Last Sunday the Westminster theme was Law Enforcement and the part women as well as men should sustain in the coming caucuses and elections. Sunday afternoon, the concluding evangelistic service was held in the Plains church, of the series that has been in the able management of Rev. Mr. Gallup and members of the church in Danielson. In the series some decisions have been made for Christ and many more have been spiritually quickened.

LENIENCY NO WARNING.

For some little time the motor vehicle registrar of Massachusetts has been conducting a determined fight for increased safety on the highways of that state. His efforts have even included attacks upon the courts for their failure to properly enforce the laws, his contention being that fines and suspension of sentences for reckless drivers and drunken drivers was simply operating to increase the number of such offenses and that it was the duty of the courts to impose jail sentences and thereby give the public the protection to which it is entitled.

Some good results have doubtless been obtained by the attitude of the motor vehicle registrar but the need of following his advice to a greater extent is emphasized by the Springfield Union which refers to the six cases before the district court for careless or reckless driving of autos while under the influence of liquor and points to the "need of more drastic punishment of this type of offender. Not because the number of cases was unusual—it was far from that—but because the fines commonly imposed do not seem to act as a warning or a deterrent. Careless, reckless and drunken driving, despite arrests and despite suspension or revocation of licenses, is steadily increasing."

One of the cases referred to was a third time offender, another had endangered the occupants of dozens of other cars and two were intoxicated as well as reckless. It is only one of many demonstrations that indicate where recklessness prevails and where, to a certain degree, the fault lies for the large amount of it and the repeated instances. A slap on the wrist has never stopped such cases and it never will.

SIGNBOARDS.

In the state of Minnesota within the past year there has been a general onslaught on the billboards along the highways. This followed the adoption of legislation in that state forbidding them, and the opponents of such signboards lost no time in getting the relief that they had long been seeking.

In New Hampshire, within a radius of 50 miles of Concord, the state highway department has been engaged in removing "booster" signs on the ground that they were within the limits of the right of way and insisting that henceforth all signs must be kept outside of those limits and erected only by permission of the property owners.

Thus in two different ways has it been manifested that there is opposition to the great number of signs in the highways, and yet there is reason for believing that there are too many instances where there are too few signs.

In making this statement reference is not made to the "advertising or booster" signs, but signs which will serve to give information to that daily army of highway users, many of whom may be traveling over entirely new ground and know not where they are going.

It is likewise perfectly evident that a large proportion of the highway users may be acquainted with the general direction and yet may be easily puzzled where roads fork and intersect. It is at such points that signposts are needed giving direction and distance, and that was a good idea which used to be followed of indicating the character of the road.

New Hampshire does not class the "booster" signs as nuisances. It is simply treating all the signboards alike, but whether it is the signboard that tells where a city or town line is, the signboard that tells which road to take to reach a village or city, or the signboard that aids the traveler in anyway to complete his journey, it is sincerly believed that they must be classed as necessities of which there are too few and for which there is need for many more.

The highways were never so much used as they are today. Common sense directs that they should be carefully and clearly posted.

CANAL BUSINESS.

Those who maintained that the large claims made in behalf of the Panama canal were but dreams are obliged to admit that they are even now very apparent realities. They are able to discern as the result of long experience what they could not imagine. Panama canal is not only handling a large volume of traffic but it is turning in revenue much beyond expectations.

Comparisons may be odious but there is nevertheless much satisfaction to be gained from noting what the Panama canal is doing as a new waterway when compared with the Suez canal. The latter is much older and handles the trade to and from the far east for Europe. That trade is heavy and lines have been established a long time, but the Panama route is already outstripping Suez. What that means is indicated by the fact that it handled more than 35,000,000 tons of traffic in the past year and is still growing, the results being such as to predict a profitable return to the government on its outlay for construction and even directing thought to the day when provisions may have to be made for additional canal facilities.

Uncle Sam, however, didn't build the canal for money-making purposes. That is not for the purpose of profiting from the canal tolls. It was regarded as a great world need and the United States was proud to supply it while it also provided a means of better defending itself in case of trouble.

But that route quickly opened up the possibilities of trade development between countries where too little existed before and where the added facilities were just what were needed. It is this new trade, this exchange of commodities between countries bordering on the Pacific and those bordering on the Atlantic, that is providing so much business for the canal and business which those who regarded the canal as always being a burden could not see. Facilities are what stimulate trade in all directions and it is as true of the canal as it is of railroads.

THE LOWDEN BOOM.

The republican candidate for the vice presidency has not been decided upon. It is one of the few uncertainties of the republican national convention at Cleveland next week. Within the past few days the name of Frank O. Lowden has been strongly urged for the nomination. It is not a new consideration for it has been previously mentioned, but interest over the revival comes from the fact that it is coupled with the announcement that Mr. Lowden is disposed to accept if he is drafted and it is indicated that his choice would be acceptable to President Coolidge.

Ex-Governor Lowden of Illinois was one of the leading candidates for the presidential nomination four years ago. He is a man of high qualifications who would make an excellent running mate with the president, a man who made a wonderful record as governor of Illinois, who has all the good points that would satisfy the country in case the time should ever come for him to assume larger responsibilities and who would fit in most admirably as a member of the cabinet. These are matters that should get consideration in the choice of a vice presidential candidate.

Mr. Lowden may not be the man chosen, he is not the only one fitted for such an office, but there can be no question but what he would be a strong man for the second place on the ticket.

SAVING THE MUSK OX.

At different times and with good cause much effort has been put forth to prevent the extermination of the buffalo. These animals which used to exist in great herds on the western plains will never get back to their former number, but they are being protected at least to the point which will prevent them from being wiped out by slaughter, disease or neglect.

It hasn't appeared that there was the same danger in regard to the reindeer, but increased attention has been given to those animals in late years and large herds are being developed in Alaska as a business proposition.

Dr. William T. Hornaday, the well known zoologist, has recently called attention to the fact that there are not more than a hundred musk oxen in existence. This indicates that the same attention that has been given to the buffalo and the reindeer may well be devoted to the preservation of these animals. To wait until there are none left will be too late.

Perhaps there are even better reasons for displaying concern over the threatened extinction of the musk ox than of the buffalo when it is realized that they can be domesticated and bred in large herds in those cold regions where few other such animals would exist, and that in addition to these advantages the musk ox is a big contributor to the meat supply and furnishes a wool that permits the making of an excellent grade of cloth.

Clearly there are sufficient economic reasons why the musk ox should not be allowed to disappear. Being animals that are at home in the Arctic cold, the problem of their preservation and increase rests largely with Canada, which has the territory and should have the disposition to be seriously concerned in such an enterprise if looked at from none other than a cold business proposition. Yet if reindeer pay in Alaska it seems not improbable that the musk ox might also be raised there for similar reasons.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A life is more than wasted when, following a college education, murder is the goal.

If we cannot stop the smuggling of aliens now, how are we going to do it any better under an exclusion law?

The man on the corner says: Chances for those perfect days which come only in June are being rapidly cut down.

Now it is claimed that there isn't anything that can keep La Follette from running. Did anyone think otherwise?

Those who suggest La Follette and some others for the vice presidency seem to think that most anything will do for that position.

When the mechanical limitation of the speed of autos is sought in France it indicates a recognition of the harmful effects of too fast driving.

Perhaps Senator La Follette will also offer as an excuse for his independent candidacy that he is doing it to win certain of the states for Coolidge.

From the utterances of the president it doesn't appear that those who have been playing politics with the tax reduction measure have had any influence on his judgment.

If the steamship companies have collected a million and a half dollars from Russians who cannot be brought here because of the immigration restrictions, whose fault is it?

Alcohol in place of gasolene is said to cause remarkable performances by autos in Sweden. The combination of alcohol and gasoline, though not necessarily mixed, causes many a weird performance daily on this side of the Atlantic.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

It is well enough to devote much valuable time to the selection of the most competent man for the presidency. It is the most important civil office on earth today. The men who have real presidential timber are few and far between. But ought we not to have more regard for placing the right man on the second place of the ticket? No mistake was made when Calvin Coolidge was made vice-president. With one exception—that of Andrew Johnson—the vice-presidents who have been called to the white house have filled the vacant position with distinction and honor. Still in selecting men for the secondary place there has been an astounding lack of care, as more attention has been given to preserve the geographical equilibrium of the states than to anything else. As there always exists an uncertainty as to when a vice-president may be called to the supreme executive office, as much care ought to be given to this office as to the presidency itself.

To undertake the "purging" of either of the two major political parties in this country at this time is no minor performance, and the man who undertakes it must loom up big in the public eye. We fear that any searching party would get a bit discouraged in finding the man who seemed capable of such a colossal task. But when one man asserts that unless both parties "bring forth fruits meet for repentance" he will run on an independant ticket for the purpose of "purging" both, then surely we have found the superhuman being. This is a good deal more than having a presidential bee in one's bonnet, it's having a whole hive buzzing about one's ears. Now the individual who would sacrifice himself for the salvation of his beloved country is one LaFollette who is said to hail from Wisconsin, and he seems to take himself seriously. This is certainly a great task for a man who is recovering from several month's illness.

What a difference between June 7, 1924 and June 7, 1923! On this latter date a drought of fifty day's duration was brought to an end. From April 17 to June 7 of that year not enough rain fell to lay the dust, and the condition of our city streets and country roads is still remembered by those who are not yet quite in their dotage. With truthfulness it cannot be said that such conditions prevail this year. In spite of that serious lack of moisture to give vegetation a good start, there was no scarcity of the earth's products when the harvest time came. With plenty of moisture and certainly enough of March cold, we shall in the coming autumn have good evidence that "seedtime and harvest shall not fail." If we are going to worry let it be about those things that we can remedy.

Although the bonus bill has been passed both houses of congress—and over the president's veto.—smooth sailing, which some hoped would immediately arrive, not only has not arrived, but it not even in sight, so far as present indications go. 1. It is no unimportant item to discover just where the money is coming from to meet the requirements of the bill. It is greatly to be regretted that it is only men of Secretary Mellon's financial ability that this phase of the bill troubles. It is very well if you want to please a man for the time being to promise him a gift of fifty dollars, but when he discovers there are no fifty dollars to be given him he will feel like a dupe. 2. In case of cash payments there is so much red tape that those who are entitled to them will be perfectly disgusted by the way the government does business. 3. The maze of technicalities connected with the government insurance will drive the remainder into insane asylums.

Is there not a close analogy between civilization and all other organisms? If so then the same laws that apply to all developed life must apply to civilization. Nelbuhr, the eminent German historian, says that "nations like individuals have their rise, blossom and decay." This is true of all organic growth. The flower germinates, grows, blooms, fructifies and dies. Animal life passes through all these successive stages. If then civilization is an organism why should it be exempt from the same law? Its birth was many centuries ago, so also were its growth and blossoming. It is now getting into its final stages and facing inevitable decay. Perhaps this latter sentence ought to be put in the form of a question, but surely there are signs that civilization is beginning to decay. According to this is there any reasons for not believing that modern nations will one day be where Chaldea, Assyria, Babylonia, Media and the Roman empire are now?

There is a marked difference between a man's body and the shoes he wears. But in this they are alike that both of them in time will wear out and be cast aside. If the shoes have good material in them they will last longer than a poor pair. The care that a man takes of his shoes has much to do with the service he is going to get out of them. Another item in the life of shoes is the care with which they are made. All this applies to the life of man. Does he come from rugged stock? Has that stock given evidence of mental and moral power? Remember that these things are transmitted from one generation to another just as much as the color of the eyes or the skin. Has the man had a good start in life by what has come down to him through heredity? Has he lived according to law? If so it will tell in the length of his days. And yet like his shoes his body will wear out.

Harmony is a great thing whether it is in music or in the life of man. It is a very important thing in the community of men. The greater power of self control that men possess the greater will be the harmony of their lives; and the more harmony there is in individual living the greater will be the harmony in society which is individual units living in organized form. This is the law and if the law were obeyed we would have an ideal society. But strangely enough there is no law under heaven more commonly broken. According to this law we would naturally expect that men of liberal education—university graduates—a part of whose education is the practice of self control, would have the most harmonious lives. Is this true? We would expect that men whose model is the Man of Nazareth would be perfect in this respect. But behold the general assembly of Presbyterians, the conclave of bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church and the Baptist convention.

"The glory, the worth of life is not to the spender, but to the producer." This is undoubtedly true if you attach to the world "glory" its real significance. This is also one of those enigmatic sentences that needs to be chewed very slowly and very finely before it is swallowed. Before we accept it unqualifiedly we would like to have the author tell us exactly what he means by "spender" and what is spent. It is certainly better to spend some things than it is to produce others. We can accept this saying only as we have in mind the specific things that are spent and produced.

Communicating With Entombed Miners By Wireless

In the course of experiments designed to perfect methods for the establishment of wireless communication between persons entombed in mine disasters and rescue workers on the surface, conducted by the department of the interior at the experimental coal mine of the bureau of mine, near Pittsburgh, Pa., signals have been transmitted obliquely through a distance of 800 feet of rock by the use of the T. P. S., or ground conduction system, developed by the signal corps of the army. Signals were also transmitted with little difficulty, by using compressed air piping, car rails, and other similar conductors. The intervention of such poor conductors as water, coal and mud, and the substitution of wooden for steel rails, did not interfere with the transmission of signals.

The T. P. S. method of ground telegraphy is a means of communication which requires no wire connection between the sending and receiving stations; but it is different from radio telegraphy in that the transfer of electrical energy from the transmitting to receiving apparatus takes place mainly by conduction, and to a much less extent, induction through the ground, instead of through the air as with radio. The T. P. S. method of signaling is for telegraphy only and cannot be used for voice or speech transmission.

For ordinary use for the guidance of mine rescue parties it would be of the greatest help if entombed surviving men could signal the following information to the rescuers: (1) number of men entombed and their names; (2) number of men living; (3) position of men—in rooms, entries, stopes, shaft, or behind barricade; and (4) condition of air supply.

The present investigation being conducted by the bureau of mines on means of underground communication includes (1) the T. P. S or ground-condition methods; (2) induction signalling—both high and low frequencies; (3) line-radio over underground mine power and telephone lines, trolley wires, rails, and through piping for water and compressed air; (4) radio; and (5) electrical geophones and auxiliary equipment.

A practical type of apparatus to be of use to the mining industry should be capable of working distances of from 50 to 3000 feet or more, underground through different strata—coal, ore bodies, etc. It is probable that an apparatus suitable for one geologic condition may not be highly satisfactory for another.

While the T. P. S. apparatus is extremely simple, reliable and foolproof in its operation, the bureau of mines does not consider this method to be a general solution to the underground problem because of its being limited to the use of telegraphic code. Furthermore, reliable communication by this method can only be established through the earth at distance of from two to four times the distance between ground terminals. The T. P. S. and tests carried out on other untuned audio-frequency ground condition current methods for signalling indicate that considerable interference, depending upon local mine conditions, will be encountered from stray and leakage currents flowing through the ground. On weak signals the interference may completely "drown out" the T. P. S. signals. On the surface such interference may sometimes be minimized by placing the ground leads at right angles to the power and trolley wires. Present data indicate that the most feasible method for eliminating low frequency interference is by employing loosely-coupled tuned high-frequency circuits, such being more successful than low-frequency filter circuits.

For some time the bureau of mines has been studying the general subject of underground communication, particularly through rock, ore, or coal. Preliminary radio work was done during the summer of 1922, which, while unsuccessful in indicating any practical method of using wireless waves for underground communications, nevertheless indicated clearly that electromagnetic waves may be made to travel through solid strata. The absorption or loss of intensity with distance is very great for the short wave lengths used in these experiments. Longer wave lengths are known to suffer less absorption, and may possibly be found practically effective under certain conditions. Should a practical system of underground communication be devised, it may be advisable as a safety and mine rescue aid to place such signal apparatus, together with other emergency equipment, at convenient strategic points, such as faces of entries, on different levels, etc., within the mine where men would be liable to be trapped in cases of mine explosions, fires, falls, or other disasters.

The bureau of mines has advocated that refuge chambers be built in the main sections of mines. After an explosion or during a mine fire men might retreat to these chambers and close themselves in until help arrived. Such chambers should be provided with drinking water, canned food, and compressed air. Small refuge chambers have been provided in some coal mines in the United States, where there have been many explosions during shot-firing time, and these chambers have saved lives. A practical form of communicating apparatus also placed in the chamber would probably be of great help to rescue parties.

Although somewhat costly in initial installation and maintenance, the present mine telephone is giving satisfaction in most mines. In cases of disaster such as explosions, fires, falls of rock, flooding, etc., the telephone is often put out of commission or cannot be reached by the underground workers, and at the time when it is most urgently needed. On this account the mining industry as a whole is interested in any system of communication—"phone" in preference to code—that can be relied upon in an emergency; and many requests have been received by the bureau of mines to devise such a system.

The solution of the entire mine communication problem is dependent mainly upon the working out of a practical portable mine apparatus of sufficient sensitivity in receiving and power in transmission to have an effective range. It is well known that signals can be transmitted considerable distances through the earth if sufficient power and receiving set of sufficient sensitivity be used.

The ideal system for mine-rescue work and general underground communication would be one where voice transmission and reception is possible. This is the ultimate end as a solution; but if such a system is not immediately possible or conveniently portable, then a simpler system is desirable, one where a telegraphic code or prearranged signals may be employed. The transmission of code cannot be considered as a general solution to the problem of underground communication.

A practical type of apparatus for underground communication will have to be simple in operation. The apparatus will have to be safe to use in an explosive gaseous atmosphere. During mine disasters, and especially when barricades are erected, there is a probability of danger from a gas explosion should unsafe electrical apparatus be used.

The apparatus must be moisture and waterproof—that is, it should be unaffected by dampness and continous standing in wet mines. Practically none of the radio or high-frequency apparatus being sold today for general amateur broadcast use would be suitable for such work. The condensation of moisture on the surfaces of dielectric and non-waterproofed insulating materials, unprotected insulating materials, unprotected windings, condenser end-plates, etc., causes large current leakages. In numerous tests by the bureau of mines radio, as well as other high-frequency signal apparatus, which had been left underground for from 2 to 10 hours, became very inefficient.

The apparatus must be durable, rugged, and fool-proof, and easy to maintain in good working order. The receiving apparatus should be simple to operate and will probably have to be very sensitive. In practically all types of underground communication, whether by direct ground, induction currents, radio, and to a much less extent line-radio, there is high absorption of the transmitted current. The energy picked up by the receiving apparatus is only an infinitely small part of the energy transmitted, which will require for reliable communication a very sensitive receiving apparatus.

The last and probably most important point to be considered is the weight and shape of the signal apparatus. The weight must be kept low if the apparatus is to be sufficietly portable for underground use. The general shape of case and carrying straps or handles must be such as to allow the apparatus to be readily moved while underground should it be necessary to crawl or keep one hand free.

Just an illustration of this: Isn't it much better for money to be spent as it is by the Rockefeller Foundation in trying to discover the causes of diseases for the purpose of finding their remedy than it is to produce bootleg whiskey? If the meaning here is there is greater glory in producing and enlarging the sphere of life than in frittering it away we will unhesitatingly accept the statement.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

The High Calling.

Who hath saved us and called us with an holy calling, not according to our works, but according to his own purpose and grace, which was given us in Christ Jesus, before the world began.

In regard to serving God, it would be an immense gain to many if they could only be made to understand that He cannot be served at all, except by our loving and obedient carrying out of His will. Our doing of His blessed will may involve what is very trying to us, the suppression of our own will. And to the Christian there arises here a very subtle temptation. Because his own will is a religious one, he thinks there can be no harm in carrying it out. But we are here not to do our will but to do always and only the will of God: but if that work of mine be not His will I am acting as a rebel, not as a faithful servant.

At the battle of the Alma, at a critical moment an English ensign perceived that a particular hill-top was the key to the whole position. Whoever took and kept possession of it was master of the field. Without the slightest hesitation the brave officer scaled the height and at once displayed his colors. They are hardly seen when, from all quarters, his comrades shout to him, "Bring the colors down to the troops." Without stirring an inch the dauntless soldier returns the bold answer: "Bring the troops up to the colors." The command is given and the English come off victorious, and subsequently, with their allies vanquish the Russians.

We need hardly point out the striking lesson which the daring feat of the Alma here teaches. This much is sure, that the danger is always nigh at hand of our losing sight of the mark for the prise of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus, or rather, of sensibly lowering our standard. We then so easily investle ourselves into the belief that "hereunto" we are not called. Such heights, even if scaled, cannot be held against the enemy. The only question for us to decide is, Has the banner indeed been unfurled for us at this particular point? Has the chief captain indeed given the word of command that there we shall stand and remain standing?

GALLI-CURCI HAD TO TEACH HERSELF.

Although her ancestors were prominent as musicians, and she was surrounded by culture and affluence, Amelita Galli, when a child gave little promise of being a singer, and when her voice was discovered she had to teach herself.

She was born in Milan, Italy, and when at four years of age, she sang to her dolls, her voice was merely a piping one. When she was six her mother first took her to the La Scala opera, but she was as much interested in the pallet and acting as in the singing.

She became a piano pupil at the Royal Conservatory at Milan, at 12, and when she was 16 her playing won a gold medal. Then her father met financial reverses and she had to teach.

By chance Pietro Mascagni, the composer, heard her play and sing. "Your playing is no better than that of hundreds of others, but there might be a possibility in your voice," he told her.

Without funds, she had to teach herself, studying the role of Gilda in "Rigoletto." Fearing to try in her own city, she, when 20, went to the Constanzi theater in Rome and applied. Her appearances there were well received, and she appeared in Egypt, then again in Italy. Soon afterward she married Luigi Curci, portrait painter.

Engaged as second coloratura soprano to appear in South America, she studied en route, but when she arrived at Montevideo she had to wait many weeks because the leading soprana would not permit her being cast. Finally the prima donna's illness gave Galli-Curci her chance and she became the star.

Three years o touring followed. Then she realized that her dramatic interpretations of roles was poor, and she took a rigid course in acting.

Arriving in New York early in the summer of 1916, she waited until November before signing a contract and, when 27, made her first American appearance in Chicago. Next she won New York and then the entire country. It is said she made $100,000 that season.

And today she, at 34, is considered the greatest coloratura soprano in the world.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Carter Glass, who will receive the support of the Virginia delegation for the democratic presidential nomination at the coming convention in New York, is one of the two representatives of the Old Dominion in the United States senate. Senator Glass has had long and varied experience in public life. For 16 years he was a member of the lower house of congress and from December 1918, until the close of the Wilson administration he filled the important post of secretary of the treasury. His services as head of the treasury department revealed an administrative ability which commanded public confidence in an exceptional degree. He is a native of Lynchburg, Virginia, where he makes his home. He learned the printing business when a youth, and is now owner and publisher of two newspapers in Lynchburg. It was Senator Glass who recently remarked that if he were president and a bill were passed over his veto he would resign.

Today's Anniversaries

1328—Robert Bruce, the heroic Scottish king, died. Born July 11, 1274.
1557—Queen Mary I. of England, declared war against France.
1776—The resolution for independence was introduced in the Continental Congress.
1824—First territorial legislative council of Michigan met in Detroit.
1867—Theodore O'Hara, who wrote the poem of "The Bivouac of the Dead," died in Alabama. Born at Danville, Ky., Feb. 11, 1820.
1893—Augustin Daly, celebrated American theatrical manager, died in Paris, France. Born at Plymouth, N. C., July 20, 1838.
1905—Marriage of the German crown prince and the Duchess Cecilia of Mecklenburg-Schwerin.
1920—Martial law was declared in Galveston, Texas, on account of dock strike.
1923—Vasili Komaroff and his wife, accused of 33 murders, were sentenced to death by the soviet court at Moscow.

Hugh Kennedy, attorney general of the Irish Free State, has resigned his post and his seat in the Dail Eireann and it is expected that he will be appointed president of the free state supreme court.

OBITUARY.

Miss Elsie J. Graham.

Relatives have received word Friday of the death in May 27, at Los Angeles, Cal., of Miss Elsie Jeanette Graham, daughter of Sarah F. and the late Daniel C. Graham, formerly of this city.

Miss Graham graduated from the Norwich Free Academy in the class of 1917 and subsequently was employed in Boston as a private secretary to one of the officers of Stone & Webster. She went to California some two years ago in the interest of her health. Her mother died in this city some three years ago at their home on Union street. Besides her mother she was survived by her own brother [illegible].

Unclaimed Letters.

Unclaimed letters in the Norwich, Conn., post office for the week ending June 7, 1924, are as follows: Vincent Pardo, Peter Pisarko, Miss Minnie King, J. Karalgn, Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacClare, Henry Rees.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Holmes of New York have been guests of Mrs. Charles W. Prentice.

Mrs. Archa W. Colt and daughter Margaret Louise of Lincoln avenue, are to spend the week-end at Arlington, Mass.

Henry D. Arnold, who has been living in New Jersey, is to return to Norwich to make his home with his father, Rev. Henry T. Arnold, of Williams street.

WEATHER PUTS DAMPER ON COMMUNITY PICNIC

The weather conditions Friday morning, clear sky, beautiful sunshine and no wind, were apparently most favorable for an out-of-door gathering, although as the hours passed the sky grew dark and hazy and about 3 o'clock it began to rain and continued to do so for three hours later. This, however, was just the time when people in all parts of the town were planning to make ready for the Community picnic under the auspices of the Norwich Rural association, which was scheduled to take place from 6 to 8 o'clock at Lowthorp meadows. The many who had long anticipated this annual affair, which has been held in this delightful spot for the past few years, were much disappointed, although it would have been quite impossible to have carried out the well-laid plans by the committee in charge because of the wet grass and so much badness. A few chanced the weather, but instead of enjoying supper in the meadows as was the arrangement about twelve people congregated at the home of Francis Gilman, president of the Norwich Rural association, and his brother, Attorney George H. Gilman; also another group of about twelve at the home of the former president, Grosvenor Ely, where they were hospitably entertained in both homes. The picnic has been postponed to a later date.

DAUGHTERS OF AMERICA ELECT THEIR OFFICERS

Lady Buckingham council, No. 14, Daughters of America, with Mrs. Mary Wellington, councillor, presiding, held their regular meeting Friday evening at the Buckingham Memorial, at which one candidate was obligated by Sister Sarah Frueh and Sister Blanche Marsdale of Nancy Hempstead council, No. 11, of New London.

Plans are being made for a picnic about the first of August with the councils of New London, and the following committee has been appointed: J. W. Wellington, Mrs. Ora Spencer, Mrs. Bertha F. Collins, Mrs. Jennie Pieper and Miss Lucille Spalding.

Officers were elected as follows: Councillor, Miss Lucille Spalding; associate councillor, J. W. Wellington; vice councillor, Mrs. Mabel Wheeler; associate vice councillor, Mrs. Susie Hafner; recording secretary, Mrs. Ora Spencer; financial secretary, Miss Mary Peckham; treasurer, Mrs. Allis Chapman; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. Bertha Collins; warden, Mrs. Ida Eddins; conductor, Mrs. Mary Adams; inside sentinel, Leroy Brainard; outside sentinel, Howard Eddins; pianist, Miss Geraldine Spalding; representative, Mrs. Mary Wellington; alternate, J. W. Wellington.

Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the social committee, consisting of Mrs. Alfred Whitney, Mrs. Mabel Wheeler and Mrs. Howard Eddins.

AMERICAN LEGION MEN GOING TO NEW LONDON

With Commander Herman A. Bruckner in the chair, a regular semi-monthly business meeting was held Friday evening in the legion rooms, Main street, by R. O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion. The minutes of the previous meeting were accepted as read and the usual committee reports heard. The entertainment committee, through its chairman, Samuel Jennes, reported that all plans have been completed for the dance to be held next week at Hill Top.

It was announced that the New London legion post is to hold open house next Friday evening with a supper for all legion men, followed by an address by the state commander and a dance. The evening's entertainment is free to all legion men. About fifteen members of Fletcher post are planning to accept the invitation. They will meet at the legion rooms at 7 o'clock Friday evening and automobile transportation will be provided for all who do not own machines.

Percy Chapman was appointed chairman of the entertainment committee for the next meeting, which will be held on the evening of June 20th. A special entertainment program will be arranged and it is expected that there will be a large turnout of the post members.

Adjournment was taken about 10.30 o'clock.

FUNERALS.

Miss Annie Esther Driscoll.

At 8.30 o'clock Friday morning the funeral of Miss Annie Esther Driscoll was held at her home, 54 Central avenue, with a large attendance of relatives and friends. At 9 o'clock a requiem mass was celebrated in St. Mary's Memorial church by Rev. William F. Keere. Henry J. LaFontaine was at the organ and the choir sang as the offertory Pie Jesu, and Lead, Kindly Light, as a waiting hymn.

The bearers were six brothers, John, Dennis, William, Michael and Richard Driscoll, all of this city, and Florance Driscoll of Roanoke, Va. Burial took place in St. Mary's cemetery and Rev. Father Keefe read the committal service. There were many beautiful floral remembrances.

Undertakers Cummings & Ring had charge of the funeral arrangements.

MAYOR CALLS HALT ON BIG EXTRA APPROPRIATIONS FOR STREET WORK

I am in favor of permanent improvement on all streets entering our city, to be paid for by installments as in the past, but do not think that all of the special improvements asked for should be granted at this time, as there is a limit to the burden of the taxpayers, said Mayor Milo R. Waters in addressing the new court of common council at its organization meeting Friday evening in the council chamber. The mayor was referring to the special appropriations totalling $150,000 which have been asked for and which are to come up for action next Tuesday evening at the annual city meeting. This meeting was called to order about 8.15 o'clock, d. s. t., and the new councilmen and councilmen were sworn into office by the mayor.

The council adopted the same rules as governed the council last year, a resolution to this effect being offered by Alderman Henry Gebrath.

Mayor Waters then addressed the council as follows:

Gentlemen, After the hearty co-operation that I have received from all members of the council during the past two years it is hardly necessary to say that I feel assured that the same harmonious relations will continue and that we will all work for the best interest of our city.

Several important problems will come before this council, among them the question of whether the city shall continue the manufacture of gas and electricity, or dispose of the plant. This is a question which affects every citizen and is of vital importance.

The traffic and parking problem is becoming so acute that it is absolutely necessary that our traffic rules should be revised to meet changing conditions and the enormous increase in the number of automobiles.

I desire to call to your attention again the necessity of increasing the water supply of our city. If we should have a dry winter and fail to have our reservoirs full in the spring, we would be in the grip of a water famine and a serious condition would ensue. I would suggest that a special committee of the council should be appointed to discuss this matter with the board of water commissioners.

I also wish to call to your attention that in addition to the regular appropriations as recommended by the finance committee and approved by the last council that over $150,000 of special appropriations have been asked for, and if all should be approved at the annual city meeting as has happened during the past few years, it means at least a 27 mill tax. I am in favor of permanent improvement on all streets entering the city, to be paid for by installments as in the past, but do not think that all of the other special improvements asked for should be granted at this time, as there is a limit to the burden the taxpayer can bear. Every member of the council should be present at the annual city meeting and heads of departments should be prepared to answer any question that may be asked.

Appointments Made.

Appointments were then made as follows:

Corporation counsel, William H. Shields, Jr., named by Alderman Patrick F. Sweeney.

Street commissioner, John C. Donovan, named by Alderman Henry Gebrath as a man who has had six years service with the highway department, and is an ex-service man. Chief of the fire department and fire marshal, Howard L. Stanton, named by Alderman Edward Crooks.

Superintendent of cemeteries, Aubrey W. Jarvis, named by Councilman Nicholas J. Spellman.

Member of the board of water commissioners from the council, Councilman Frank H. Quinley, named by Councilman William H. Aldrich.

Deputy chief of fire department, Henry R. Taft, named by Councilman Frank Rinella, appointed by resolution introduced by Councilman Rinella.

City auditor, Alexander H. Manes.

City Clerk Weston C. Pullen was authorized to procure the necessary stationery, etc., for the coming year.

Council Committees.

Mayor Waters then announced his appointment of council committees for the ensuing year and the appointments were approved by the council. The appointments were as follows:

Committee on Finance: Mayor Waters, Alderman Sweeney, Councilman Rozycki.

Committee on Public Works—Alderman Gebrath, Councilmen Lillibridge, Councilman Spellman.

Committee on Fire Department: Alderman Crooks, Councilman Aldrich, Councilman Rinella.

Board of Police Commissioners: Alderman Sweeney, Councilman Quinley, Councilman Aldrich.

Auditing Committee: Alderman Bliven, Councilman Rozycki, Councilman Smith.

Amusement Committee: Alderman Bliven, Councilman Rinella, Councilman Clegg.

All unfinished business of the previous council was referred to the same committees in the new council, and by a resolution introduced by councilman Rinella and adopted by the council, it was voted that the council meet the first Monday of each month at 8 o'clock standard time, except during July, August and September when the opening hour was set at 8 o'clock standard time, this to conform with daylight saving.

It was voted that the printing of the council journal be done by the Fullen Publishing Co., and The Bulletin Co., during the coming year, the rate to be the same as that of last year.

Accepted Elks' Invitation.

The council voted to accept an invitation from Norwich Lodge of Elks, No. 430, to attend their flag day exercises, June 14th, and it was also voted that the council accept an invitation to attend the opening game of the Dowell club on the Duwell athletic grounds.

Councilman Lee Clegg inquired whether anything was to be done this year about municipal band concerts. He said a number of people had been asking him about the possibility of having such concerts again this year.

Mayor Waters said that this matter could be taken up after the city meeting next week. As there was no other business to come before the council adjournment was then taken to Friday evening, June 13, at 7 o'clock, standard time.

At 9 o'clock in the evening the senior promenade will be held at the Shennecossett Country club.

FELL FROM HAY MOW IN BEAN HILL BARN

Robert Flaverty, about 50, who calls Worcester his home, fell off a hay mow Friday morning in the barn of James P. McNally at Bean Hill, and was found on the floor of the barn helpless early in the evening by Mr. McNally. He was suffering severely with pains in his back and shoulders from the fall. Mr. McNally called on Constable Lucius Fenton who brought the man to police headquarters where First Selectman had a doctor look at him and he was then taken to the Backus hospital. He has a badly strained back.

Flaverty told Capt. D. J. Twomey that there had been several men who went to sleep Thursday night in the hay mow but when he fell off to the floor in the morning, all the others left the place in a hurry. He has been working in a mill at Thamesville.

Barber, 6600; consolation, G. Clements, 4345.

DR. JOHN EVANS WRITES OF NEAR EAST WORK

Dr. John R. Evans, formerly of this city, who sailed from New York Feb. 16 to take a post at Erivan, Armenia, under the auspices of the Near East Relief, reached there in the spring, and has written a highly interesting description of his trip of conditions in the Near East Relief work.

A part of his letter, giving his experiences from the time of teaching Constantinople is given herewith. It will be continued in other issues of The Bulletin. Speaking of his arrival at Constantinople, he says:

On arriving here we at once reported to the Near East Relief headquarters, and were given quarters in the Hotel Tokatian, one of the famous Constantinople hosteries, where we were to stay for fourteen days while we waited for a ship to take us across the Black sea to Batoum. You can well imagine that we made the most of this two weeks time in sight seeing about this ancient and interesting city. Part of the time we visited the different orphanages, hospitals, and refugee camps maintained by our organization, becoming a little acquainted with the sort of condition we would meet, and learning a little of the kind of work to do, once we arrived at our proper station. One very special day Friday, the Moslem Sunday—we, with many others were offered Turkish coffee and a special brand of cigarette, made especially for the Sultan, these being served in a parlor reserved for guests, by uniformed attendants. A chapter could be written of this ceremony, describing the Meuzins musically intoned call to prayer the Turkish calvary, infantry, artillery, firemen, lining each side of the drive from palace to mosque, the gray, silent man in the open carriage, with his hand at the military salute as he passes, the many types of uniform, the tourists and guests, and so on.

Every day in this city was full of interest. Possibly in dining on queer foods, in querer eating places, or seeing the magnificence of St. Sophia—its subdued lights, its impressive silences, its Arabic mottos, its wonderful chanderliers, or in observing the masses of fezzed heads on the main streets. The laughable fire departments, with their pumps so small one man can carry them, with their bargaining with the owners to save or not save their buildings—as the fire merrily continues to burn, all came to our notice. So did to watchman who parades the dark streets at night, loudly pounding the pavement with his staff—apparently to give plenty of warning to any criminally minded person that he is approaching, and so did the venders of sleeping powders who commence to cry their ware at midnight—thereby greatly helping to prevent sleep. The alert Turkish soldier traffic police gave a modern touch to the motley sights, as did the madly dashing automobiles.

Far better pens than mine have failed in adequately describing this strange and interesting city, its beggars in sores and rags, its Russian refugees, of high class, Princes and aristocarts, selling flowers, papers, pencils, to live, its dogs acting as scavengers, its narrow streets, its many mosques, its gardens and cemeteries, its peculiar markets and bazzars, its bridges and water-front, its parks and palaces. One loses courage to attempt to visualize the scenes, the sounds, the smells, that were all so new and strange and that constantly came to our notice. Our two weeks passed only too soon and one day we were informed that we would sail for Batoum on the Adria. We went on board just after lunch and that afternoon sailed up the Bosphorous and into the Black sea. This short sail is of the greatest interest, Asia on one side in all its mystery, and Europe on the other, with all its political and economic complications, and both so near that to all appearances a stone could be thrown to either shore. On the European side palace after palace of the different dynasties of Turkish rulers, and beyond, the summer homes of the ambassadors from every land. On the Asian side fortifications, Moslem villages, the plant of an American tobacco firm and the blue treeless hills of Anatolia. Then followed two days peaceful voyage over a smooth and quiet sea to Trebizond. Here we stopped for one day and here many passengers went ashore to visit this small Turkish city, and especially to pay their respects to the single N. E. R. representative located here. Unfortunately, we were prevented from landing owing to a slight digestive disturbance that had afflicted part of our party. The following morning we arrived in Batoum, where we were met by a representative of the N. E. R. and where we first came in contact with Soviet (Bolshevik) officials these officials made themselves at home in the dining salon of the vessels. Autos soon transported us to the N. E. R. personnel house where we were to be entertained for two days while waiting for a train to Tiflis. Our experience in Batoum while quite interesting was far different from that in any city of our travels thus far. This city, normally is a subtropical city, with palms and bamboo in abundance—and is a port of great importance, being the only outlet for all this part of the Near East. The things that impressed us was the boarded up business houses, the thousands of ragged refugees that thronged the city and the water-front, the bullet scared buildings, the ragged unkempt soldiery, so ever present, that the atmosphere of depression that seemed to have dust like settled on absolutely everything. Here one evening we attended the "opera," and for the first time in our experience saw ushers with a rifle slung across their shoulders, for the first time were crowded out of the box we had engaged by a good humored group of soldiers, for the first time witnessed the lack of good scenery, of proper stage lighting, of an audience who did not remove their hats, the first time saw a Russian "ballet" in Russia, and for the first time experienced the tiresome waits between the acts for the performance to commence.

These seemingly interminable delays brought the show to an end about 2 a. m.. Our next destination was Tiflis, and the efficient R. T. O. procured compartments for our party of nine, but when we arrived at the station these had been prempted by soldiers who filled not only our compartments but the platforms and even the roof of the train, so we were forced to see it leave the station without us. The solution to this trouble was to obtain a box car, equip it with bunks and cooking appliances, and with our babbage safely aboard, to entrain in this "cabin de luxe" in the freight yard, far from the station and its clamoring peasants and soldiery, only to refuse to open the door for carefully lock ourselves in and persist anyone, lest soldiers and peasants crowd us out. In this manner we traveled to Tiflis, in two days time, the nine of us making a sort of picnic of the occasion—and as a matter of actual fact travelling far more comfortably than we could have in the conjested, waterless, lightless, toiletless compartments of the regular train. We later learned that nearly always the personnel of the N. E. R. in the Caucasus travel in box cars in this way—to avoid the contact with typhus infested peasants, and to obtain a modicum of privacy.

Arriving in Tiflis one pleasant morning we were met at the station by N. E. R. officials who rapidly whirled us to their headquarters in a high powered car, where we reported for duty to the Director General and after two days delay Mrs. Evans and I were assigned to the Erivan district. While in Tiflis we again visited various places of interest but as Tiflis is a very modern city—often called the Paris of the East—I will pass it by without comment. We departed from here in the same box car that had carried us from Batoum, and at Karakliss and Alexandropol different members of our party left us to take up their duties at their newly assigned stations, until from Alexandropol on but Mrs. Evans and I were left. All day, the slow moving train crawled across barren rocky desert, here and there by a watercourse a mud walled hut of the peasant farmers appearing. Such cattle, sheep, or horses as we saw—and very few were seen—were scrawny and poor, the people about the stations were in absolute rags, and beseiged us with cries of "Americanski, Bread," and all in all, it was in no cheerful frame of mind that we arrived in Erivan, late one spring afternoon. After considerable telephoning by the Armenian R. T. O. (Railroad transportation officer,) who met us at the station, a battle-trap Ford, with a top covered with burlap, arrived at the station to carry us the

YALE-HARVARD VARSITY RACE WILL BE ROWED DOWN STREAM AT 4 O'CLOCK

New Haven, June 6.—Official fixing of the courses and time for the races in the Yale-Harvard regatta on the Thames river at New London, on Friday, June 20th, announced by the Yale rowing authorities tonight shows that there have been slight changes in the junior events intended to accrue to the benefit of sightseers on the observation trains.

The freshman and junior varsity races in the forenoon will be rowed on the stretch of water known as the middle two miles, that is each race will be started up-stream from the one mile flag and the finish will be at the three mile flag, of the four mile up-stream course. The junior varsity eights will be officially started, conditions being right, at 9.45 a. m., standard time, and the freshman eights will be started at 10.15 or half an hour after the first race.

It is not recalled that these races have been rowed over this part of the long course in a great many years, if ever. In the old days one of the morning races was started either at the bridge or the upper part of the course for the two mile distance and the second race started at the Navy Yard.

In late years both races have been started at the Navy Yard, which is opposite the two mile flag of the four mile course and the finish was two miles away in either direction, depending on the tide.

The new arrangement will mean that the crews will be sent away from a starting line one mile below the Navy Yard and they will finish one mile above it, and both races will be in full view of the observation trains on both banks of the river. The objection to the old way was that spectators on the train on the west bank saw only a part of the races as a wooded point of land cut off observation after the start until the crews were coming through the last half mile to the finish in Bartlett's cove.

The varsity race is scheduled for four p. m., eastern standard time, down-stream, and if a postponement is necessary because of conditions the race will be rowed up-stream at 7.30 p. m., or later.

H. F. Woodcock, general manager of the Yale Athletic association, stated tonight that all boat race tickets had been taken and that unless some were returned by the subscribers not an observation train seat will be available for future applicants.

YALE CREWS TAKEN FOR SEVEN MILE ROW

Gales Ferry, Conn., June 6.—The varsity and junior varsity crews were taken out for a seven mile row this evening and in a race between the two the varsity came in a winner by one length. These two crews will start training for the Olympic tryouts.

The combination crew was taken over a six mile course and the freshman crew put through a light workout.

J. M. Goetchius, of Yale '93 a former Yale oarsman and a member of the graduates rowing committee, was a visitor in camp today.

Isham, went back to bow of the junior varsity tonight and Davidson to bow of the combination crew.

HARVARD CREWS PUT THROUGH TIME ROWS

Red Top Conn., June 6.—The Harvard varsity and second crews were put through their first time row this evening. Both crews went to the railroad bridge at New London with the wind and tide in their favor. The second crew dropped out of the race at the two-mile mark with the varsity leading by a lenght. No time was given out by Coach Stevens.

Walker Wins Open Golf Championship

Detroit, June 6.—Cyril Walker, New York, today won the national open golf championship at Oakland Hills with a score of 297, three strokes better than the score returned by Bobby Jones, Atlanta, defending his title.

Walker had three rounds of 74 each and was tied with Jones for the lead at the end of 54 holes with 222, after trailing one stroke at the end of the first two rounds. Jones slumped on his final nine taking forty for a seventy-eight, while Walker shot par 37 on the last lap and scored a 75.

Billy Mehlhorn, St. Louis, finished third with 301, while Bobby Cruickshank, runner-up to Jones last year, MacDonald Smith, San Francisco, and Walter Hagen, twice champion, tied for fourth place with 303.

The tournament probably was the most gruelling contest ever participated in by contenders for the national open championship, many stars running into the eighties, and a score of the eighty-five starters dropping out from exhaustion before the finish.

Walker's victory today was the first one by a foreign born professional since Jim Barnes captured the title at Washington, four years ago. While the Englishman has always been a consistent player, he has never before won an important title. He was runner-up last year to Walter Hagen in the north and south open championship.

The new champion came to America ten years ago and was for some time an unheard of quantity at Wabash, Indiana. About six years ago he went to the Englewood Country club in the suburbs of New York city, and has participated in all important contests since. He won the reputation of being the slowest player ever known to the American golf links.

The new champion is slight in stature, weighing less than 130 pounds, but he out-golfed such sturdy individuals as Jones and Hagen without any trouble.

His victory was not entirely due to steadiness for he made a number of brilliant shots, including his second over the lake on the 384-yard thirty-fourth hole where he holed a nine foot putt down hill for a thirty-three, virtually clinching the victory at that point. Walker also showed good generalship on the last hole where he pushed his drive behind a tree 200 yards from the green. He had six strokes for that point to win the title, and instead of taking a chance on getting enmeshed with the tree and some owning traps beyond, he deliberately played well to the right and short of the green. He was nicely on in three and holed in two putts for a par five.

HOLLAND PROTESTS THE VICTORY OF URUGUAY

Paris, June 6.—(By The A. P.)—The Uruguayan Olympic soccer football team today destroyed another obstacle in the way of its victorious career toward the world's Olympic title, disposing of Holland's team by a score of 2 to 1 after one of the most desperate uphill matches seen since the tournament began.

Although Uruguay has won the right to meet Switzerland in the final match for the title, this right is not undisputed. After the game the Dutch team officially protested against the ruling which allowed the penalty kick which produced the winning goal. The Olympic jury will decide tonight whether this protest shall be upheld and if it is, Uruguay's hard-fought victory will be nullified and the game will have to be replayed.

PHILLIES TAKE THREE OUT OF FOUR FROM CARDS

Philadelphia, June 6.—Philadelphia made it three out of four from St. Louis today when the home team nosed out the visitors by a 7 to 6 margin.

The game, a listless affair, was enlivened in the fifth inning by a fist fight between Clarence Mueller and Heinie Sand after a close play at second base. Sand accused Mueller of throwing dirt in his eyes and it required the combined efforts of both teams to separate the combatants.

DANIELS PITCHES NO HIT GAME FOR BULKELEY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 6.—The Bulkeley High school baseball team took an important step towards the coveted goal, Connecticut High school championship, when the Orange and Black sent the strong and formidable New Britain High school nine down to a 3 to 1 score in a short but snappy game that went but five innings, here today.

Tillie Daniels, the Bulkeley pitching ace, entered the hall of fame by holding the heavy New Britain batsmen without a hit or even a semblance of a safe bingle in five innings the game was played. He was strong at all times and with almost a perfect defense behind him Tillie easily disposed of the visiting hitters. He was complete master of the situation at all times and except for an error by Gaetano, which let in Haber with the only score made by New Britain, Daniels would have had a perfect game. He walked but two men during the contest but fast fielding held these men on the base paths where they did no trouble. In all Daniels sent seven of the opposing batsmen down through the strikeout route.

The game was originally scheduled for five o'clock but did not get under way until 7.20 o'clock, the rain causing the postponement until that time. It was a fast and exciting game throughout and took but forty-two minutes to play.

The victory for Bulkeley, the twenty-third in the past two years, was an important step towards the state high school title and it was George Sheflott, the Bulkeley catcher, who played an important part in gaining this important victory. Sheflott had two hits in as many times at bat and was the most pernicious and the most persistent member of the entire state champion team when it came to upsetting the plans of the opposition.

New Britain scored the first run and lost no time in doing so. Haber, the lead-off man for New Britain, gained first base after receiving an Annie Oakley. He took second by virtue of a steal and was sacrificed to third by Grip. Gaetano mussed up Taylor's grounder to short stop and the first run of the game was over the plate.

Bulkeley lost no time to get the game on the safe side before darkness made it impossible for further play. After two were out Hutchinson who has been in a batting slump during the past three games, singled to right field. Hutchison went to second on Rice's hit through Grip and then Sheflot swung a dangerous bat, hitting the second ball pitched, singled through the box and Hutchison was over the plate with the tying run. Rice took third on the play and Sheflott took second and Rice scored what proved the winning run on a wild pitch. That was all the scoring in this inning and neither team scored until the fourth when Sheflott singled over third base and stole second, advanced to third on another steal and scored on a wild pitch. New Britain only had a man on bases in the third after Haber was hit by a pitched ball.

The game was called by Umpire Sullivan in the last half of the fifth inning after New Britain had their turn at the bat and had little chance of catching up with the Bulkeley score.

On May 2nd we sent this wire to every one of our salesmen throughout the country.

What's back of this big shift?
Why are men changing by thousands?

Note—If you have not read the telegram above, please glance through it.

Looking out from behind the BIG EVENTS happen rarely in the cigarette business—yes.

But if today you were "behind the scenes," you could sit and watch a thing going on that—in a mild way perhaps—might open any man's eyes.

The Man in the Street, the average smoker, is hardly aware that anything's happening.

He might chance to notice that Smith has changed to another cigarette. Or, sitting with a group, it might occur to him that three or four of them have "switched"—quite lately.

No—there's nothing spectacular about it.

But when every small brook starts to rise, there's a big flood in the river—and "flood" is exactly the word to describe this thing we are talking about.

What is it that is happening?

The thing that is happening is simply that, for months now, an average of over one thousand men EVERY DAY in this country (1,000 every day—think of it!) are changing from other cigarettes to Chesterfield.

Is cigarette taste changing? We don't know. But we do know that smokers are changing—over 150,000 have changed to Chesterfield since New Year's Day.

Nothing to get excited about, of course; but not a thing quite to ignore either—if you are interested in "what's what" in smoking.

Why are these men changing? Is it Chesterfield's exceptional tobaccos, the fortunate blend, the unusual freedom from "sweetening," or what? Perhaps you don't care.

Perhaps the only thing you care about is "How do they TASTE?". All right. When it comes to that, Chesterfields—if you give them the chance—will tell their own story (and prove it!) in a far better way than we can.

Such popularity must be deserved

FEATURE ATTRACTIONS SCHEDULED FOR BASEBALL FANS OVER WEEK END

The stage is all set for the grand opening of the new Duwell field promptly at 3 p. m., daylight saving time, on Sunday, when Mayor Milo R. Waters will take his place in the box and deliver the first ball to De Vito, lead-off man for the Hartford Colonials. The local fans have waited patiently for three months for this occasion and no doubt there will be a large and enthusiastic crowd of fans on hand to help start off the local baseball season with a bang. The new grandstand is completed Friday and will comfortably hold five hundred people and a large plot of land has been set aside to provide parking space for over one hundred automobiles.

One of the local bands has been engaged and will render a concert from 2 to 3 o'clock for the early arrivals and also play during the game and thereby illuminate any dull moments.

Manager Riley will start "Play-ball" [illegible] Duwell at short, Eddie Lemos at second, and Harry Mills on [illegible] I'm safe not that any balls getting by this combination will be far in between. In the outfield will be Bill Ringland, former N. F. A. star, "Roy" Leonard, Mugsy Ellsworth, and Bill Smith, formerly with the New London Independents. Roy will start on the mound for the local lads, with Joe Belair behind the bat.

The Colonials will line up with O'Leary at first, Riley at second, Bill Cunningham at short, De Vito at third and Salad, Sothengal and Conroy in the outfield, with Hyman, Ables and Daley in reserve.

Manager Riley will start either Post or Fitzpatrick in the box with "Pat" Egan at the baseline end. Everything is all set to make Sunday the day of days and unless the weather interferes there will be no dull moments from 2 to 5 on that afternoon.

N. F. A. vs. Stonington.

This afternoon at the Academy campus the N. F. A. will clash with Stonington in a game that will have an important bearing on the chances of the Academy to win the league championship. Since beating Windham the Academy is ready for all-comers and Segal, who will pitch, will be backed by a team determined to win.

Westerly High at present leads the league but if this team loses to Chapman Tech today and the Academy wins, all the Academy must do to win the league lead is to beat Westerly here next Wednesday. Should both teams win today and the Academy win over Westerly, the two teams will be tied. Umpire Davis will call play today at 2:30 o'clock.

Moosup vs. Taftville A. A.

Moosup will open the baseball season [illegible] on Carpet grounds by the [illegible] Taftville A. A.

Manager Henry Loughran has secured some real good players including Harry Mullowney of Boston college, who will pitch, and Allard of P. H. S., to receive. Frechette will cover first, Doyle of Providence college, second, Kendrick of Ware, Mass., short, Harry Sullivan of R. I., third, Jarvis [illegible] of Ware, Mass., right field, "Spike" Liberty [illegible] of Ware, Mass., relief pitcher, Rylander of Warren, R. I. [illegible]

Dugas will use Davis of the Sub Base to pitch and "Bill" Liberty catch. With this battery Taftville [illegible] combination that is to beat as [illegible] gored wins over Georgetown, S. S. and Providence college [illegible] the Sub Base will cover [illegible] second, Dugas third, Gaudette lf, A. Dugas cf [illegible] rf.

[illegible] will start at 3.30 o'clock, [illegible] and Umpire Bowern will call the plays.

Woolmen vs. Battery B.

The American Woolen Co. baseball team of Norwich will open their 1924 season Sunday afternoon at the fairgrounds when they will clash with the fast Battery B. team, title holders of 1924 indoor baseball. Manager Fenton will probably use Berber for pitcher. Robert, a Jewett City man, will do the backstop work. Manager Hamill of the Woolmen has had his boys practicing hard all week and after taking in the West Ends last Wednesday is confident of an easy victory. Fuller, known throughout the city as the strikeout king in last year's twilight league, will probably divide the mound duties with Diffley, former Colonial star. Hamill, who is playing great ball for the state hospital team, will catch. Lefty Simpson will handle first, Weisner the keystone sack. Troland, former Taftville player, on short, and either Ray Wheeler or Morin will cover the dizzy corner. In the outfield will be C. Wheeler, R. Wheeler, Mara [illegible] Moody.

Taftville Plays Two Games.

Taftville has two week end games. On Saturday Ashland will be at Taftville and on Sunday Taftville will journey to Moosup. Peppin will pitch for the home club Saturday and Davis will be on the mound Sunday. Taftville will use, in both games, Liberty, catch, Davis and Pippin p, A. Dugas and Coullard 1b, Murphy 2b, Chip Dugas 3b, Liberty ss, Gaudette, E. Murphy, Donais in the field.

Ashland vs. Baltic A. A.

Ashland plays the Baltic A. A. Sunday on their grounds in Jewett City and a fast game is expected as Manager Collins of Baltic is presenting a fast team for the opening game.

Ashland intends to win the game and will go into the field as follows: Robertson, catch; Liberty or Kaduda, pitch; Gillette, short; Theodore Liberty, second; G. Jarvis, third; L. Jarvis, left field; Pete Raille, center field; Lloyd Jarvvis, right field.

ATHLETICS SEND THE INDIANS INTO CELLAR

Cleveland, June 6. — Three of five Cleveland pitchers were batted hard today and Philadelphia defeated the Indians 11 to 7. "FRANKIE" BUSCH ISSUES CHALLENGE

"Frankie" Busch, well known local fighter of the 165 pound class is training hard for future bouts and has issued a challenge to any man in his class, challenge to be accepted through The Bulletin.

Busch has a creditable record and is rated as a comer. In his several fights at Danielson he has piled up wins over "Steve" Ketchell of Providence, whom he knocked out in two rounds, scored a kayo over "Billy" Johnson of Lynn in 47 seconds and won the decision over Young Pelky of Worcester in eight rounds.

While training Busch is to conduct a school of boxing for local people interested in learning the manly art.

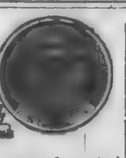
How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch
Fordham Star, New York Giants



Some pitchers have good control until a batter reaches first base. This seems to worry them and in their efforts to keep this runner on first base they pitch too quickly to the batter.

Is there any way of remedying this trouble?

Whenever it is possible, pitchers should study all runners. Big league pitchers know whether base runners are fast or slow and they use this knowledge to good effect. Some runners habitually take short leads off first and others long leads. When the base runner in inclined to take a long lead, good pitchers follow a somewhat common practice to prevent these man stealing second. Spectators probably don't know the reason why so many pitchers throw so many balls to first base although it is quite apparent the runner on first base is not going to be caught before returning to that base. The reason for these tactics is that if a pitcher can make the runner slide into first a few times on such throws, the effect is to tire this runner. Then, he doesn't feel so anxious to try to steal second and he will soon stay close to the bag. This gives the pitcher more confidence and will prevent him from worrying about the base runner.

CHAPMAN TECH PLAYS WESTERLY TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 6. — Chapman Tech will attempt to drop the haughty Westerly baseball nine down a peg in the Eastern Connecticut standing when these two teams meet this (Saturday) afternoon at Morgan park at 3 o'clock, daylight time. Both teams are primed for a hard game and the fact that Westerly holds a 10 to 1 victory over the Tech in the game played at Westerly earlier in the season will not tend to discourage the Red and Black players, who will fight with a determining will to come out a victorious team.

Hayti Enters Olympic

New York, June 6.—The little island republic of Hayti is making its first bid for Olympic honors with a three-man team which reached New York today and embarks tomorrow on the steamship Savoy for France.

JOHNSON SHUTS OUT DETROIT, SCORE 2 TO 0

Detroit, June 6. — Walter Johnson outpitched Earl Whitehill in a brilliant curving duel and shutout Detroit, 2 to 0. This was the 104th shutout victory of Johnson's career. Whitehill also pitched splendidly. He was removed for a pinch hitter in the 8th inning. The score:

BELMONT STAKES WILL BE RUN TODAY

New York, June 6.—The $50,000 Belmont stakes, one of the American turf's most historic classics for three-year-olds, will be run tomorrow at Belmont Park. Ten crack thoroughbreds have been entered for the rich purse, the last of the three outstanding spring fixtures for three-year-olds, the others being the Preakness and the Kentucky derby.

The Belmont first run in 1867, is the oldest of this country's important turf races. Numbered among its winners are some of America's greatest thoroughbreds, including Colin, Flat Rock, Hourless, and Man O'War, which in 1919 set a record of 2:14 1-5 for the present distance of the race, a mile and three furlongs. Last year's victor was Zev, champion money winner of all time.

GREB TO BE REINSTATED BEFORE DEFENDING TITLE

New York, June 6.—Promoters of the milk fund show announced today that they have received information from the Massachusetts boxing commission that it would reinstate Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, for one day, either June 26 or June 27, to enable the champion to defend his title against Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., at the milk fund show at the Yankee stadium.

Permission was granted to the National Sports alliance to hold a benefit bout at the Nostrand A. C. on June 19 to raise a fund to take care of cases similar to that of Sam Langford, disabled negro heavyweight.

FOUR AMERICANS ENTER ENGLISH GOLF TOURNEY

London, June 6.—Four Americans are among the 130 entrants in the northern golf championship to be held at Wilmslow, Cheshire, June 17, 18 and 19. They are Gene Sarazen, of New York, Jim Barnes, of New York; MacDonald Smith, of San Francisco, and John Farrell, of New York.

Penn Makes Fast Time.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 6.—Pennsylvania's time trial of 15:58 over the cours yesterday caused uneasiness today among the three other crews in training here for the intercollegiate regatta of June 17. No other crew will admit having attempted a trial, but watches on shore have clocked no other boat over the course in less than eighteen minutes.

Alling Rubber Co. Bid Accepted.

At a meeting of the Twilight league held Friday evening the members voted to adopt the D. & M. balls as official balls for league playing. This vote was taken after bids from Preston Bros., Alling Rubber Co., and Maddens had been opened. The offer accepted was that of the Alling Rubber Co. at $15 per dozen.

The Booneville Sluggers challenge the Baltic A. A. for a game to be played on Saturday, June 14th. Answer through Bulletin.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Elmer Smith, the outfielder turned over to Louisville by the Yankees this spring, after a late start, has begun to hit.

Johnny Schulte, turned over to Toledo by the Browns, has been doing a nice job of catching for the Mud Hens. His batting has been well over .300, too.

Since Jack Fournier left the Cardinals to play with the Dodgers he has hit .350 against St. Louis pitching.

During the last series in St. Louis he hit his sixth and seventh home runs in one game.

Outfielder Frank McGee of St. Paul has been sent to Hamilton of the Michigan-Ontario League under option.

Chuck Ward, former Brooklyn and Reading shortstop, who recently became a free agent through his release by Beaumont, has signed a contract to play with Toledo.

William Shettsline, secretary of the Phillies, has been an official of that club for 41 years. They call him Shetts for short.

Long George Kelly of the Giants had a tooth yanked in Chicago and couldn't play the next day. Bill Terry took his place at first and soaked two home runs.

Guy Bush, young right-handed pitcher, has been sent back to the bushes by the Chicago Cubs. He goes to the Witchita Falls Club of the Texas League to return to the Cubs on September 1.

Catcher Frank Gibson, who has been a holdout on the Boston Braves all season, has joined his team. Gibson demanded that he be used more regularly than in past seasons or trade him to some other team.

First Baseman Johnny Neun of St. Paul is stepping away from the other players of Association teams in stealing bases. At the rate Neun is pilfering bags he will wind up the season with close to one-hundred stolen bases.

It is understood that Joe Cantillon who is living rather easily this season on a contract which has the year to run with Minneapolis does not propose to retire from the Association. The dope is that he will be offered a managerial job next year.

President Joe O'Brien of the Toledo club, was given an "O'Brien Day" in Milwaukee on May 15. Jimmy Burke, manager of the Mud-hens, made the day a notable one for his boys, by turning in a victory, Toledo walloping the Brewers, by the score of 9 to 4.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

ELKS

More than 120 leaders in Elkdom, including past exalted rulers of lodges all over the state and men nationally prominent in the order, gathered at Wordell's Ocean Beach casino last Sunday for the annual spring meeting of the Past Grand Exalted Rulers association of Connecticut, the only organization of its character in the country.

Dr. Thomas F. O'Laughlin of Rockville, president of the association presided during the business session, held in the Roseland dance pavilion and officiated during the post prandial exercises at the conclusion of the dinner in Wordell's casino.

The business session got under way at 1:45 o'clock, when President O'Laughlin sounded the gavel.

Past Exalted Ruler Thomas C. McKone of the Hartford lodge paid a touching tribute to the memory of the late Attorney Frank Q. Cronin, past exalted ruler of New London lodge, who passed away since the mid-winter meeting.

Past Exalted Ruler Harry C. Chappell delivered a brief and eloquent tribute to the memory of Attorney Cronin. Secretary Harry C. Brown eulogized Past Exalted Ruler William F. Delaney, late of the New Britain lodge.

Past Exalted Ruler E. T. O'Sullivan of Torrington praised the memory of Frank E. Coe, past exalted ruler of Torrington lodge, whose sudden death was a shock to members of the association.

Past Exalted Ruler Joseph Ivers of Bridgeport read a report on the work of the association's committee at Allingtown hospital, which showed valuable service rendered and a considerable balance in the committee treasury. Joseph Mulvey, past exated ruler of the New Haven lodge and chairman of Allingtown hospital committee, supplemented the report by a statement of the work done by the association for Seaside Sanitarium, Crescent Beach; Middletown hospital for the insane, and at the Wallingford hospital. He referred to the radio installed at Seaside sanitarium by Dr. O'Brien, superintendent of the institution. President O'Laughlin appointed District Deputy Thos. A. Tracy of Bristol, Past Exalted Rulers E. T. O'Sullivan, Torrington, and D. M. Hogan, a committee on the death of Past Exalted Ruler Frank E. Coe of Torrington and District Deputy West for Connecticut. He named Past Exalted Ruler J. L. McGovern of Bridgeport lodge, Past Exalted Ruler N. J. Cunningham of Danbury lodge and Past Exalted Ruler John C. Ivers of Bridgeport lodge a committee on the death of Past Grand Exalted Ruler Edward Leach of New York.

Past Grand Exalted Ruler James R. Nicholson of Cambridge, Mass., delivered the eulogy on Edward Leach of New York, past exalted ruler of the grand lodge of Elks, who recently passed away. The speaker paid glowing tributes to Mr. Leach.

Dr. O'Laughlin was nominated as candidate to be recommended to the grand exalted ruler for district deputy, east, for Connecticut. Past Grand Exalted Ruler Harry C. Chappell seconded the nomination and on motion from the floor, one ballot was cast for Dr. O'Laughlin for district deputy east. Past Grand Exalted Ruler G. S. Avery of Ansonia, vice president of the association, declared Dr. O'Laughlin the convention choice.

The name of John A. Condon, past exalted ruler of New Haven lodge, was presented by Past Exalted Ruler Joseph Mulvey of the Elm city, as candidate for district deputy, west, for Connecticut.

Past District Deputy James T. Smith of Ansonia lodge placed in nomination the name of John A. Pendergast, past exalted ruler of Ansonia lodge. Ballots were prepared and the latter was elected by a margin of 60 votes. On motion of Mr. Condon, the vote was made unanimous.

The convention accepted the invitation of the Middletown lodge to hold its mid-winter meeting in this city.

Words of welcome were voiced by Mayor Malcolm M. Scott, who expressed pride in his membership in the order. Past Exalted Ruler James R. Nicholson of Boston was presented by the toastmaster and detailed the plans for the mammoth Elks' national convention to be held in Boston for one week beginning July 9.

President O'Laughlin named Past Exalted Rulers Thomas A. Tracy of Bristol lodge, Dr. Martin of New Britain lodge, and P. J. Murray of Torrington lodge, as committee to present the names of the nominees for district deputies for Connecticut to the grand exalted ruler elected at the Boston convention. President O'Laughlin urged that the association undertake work in behalf of the youngsters confined in county homes throughout the state.

Thomas F. J. McCue, past grand trustee of Cambridge, Mass., and a candidate for election to the office of grand exalted ruler at the Boston convention, was presented and addressed the gathering. He will go to Boston with almost solid backing of the New England delegation who are working to elect the New England candidate.

City Manager William A. Holt extended a warm welcome to the visiting Elks, together with the congratulations of the city.

Exalted Ruler Alfred L. Rudd, of No. 360, New London lodge, No. 360, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, spoke in a similar vein and invited the members of the association to visit the local clubhouse for a social session. A rising vote of thanks to the local lodge preceded adjournment.

MACCABEES.

The W. B. A. No. 32, of Maccabees held its regular meeting at the Buckingham Memorial with Mrs. Eckstein in the chair. Reports of whist and rummage sale were read, both having been a great success. It was voted to hold a benefit food sale and the members will be notified. The Maccabees held a pageant in Hartford which was in charge of Mrs. Eckstein, acting commander and captain of the guard team. Mrs. Lapre, both of Norwich. It was a great success. There will be a social at the next meeting.

MASONIC

The annual assembly of the Grand Council Royal and Select Masters was held in Masonic Temple at Bridgeport, Wednesday, and the guests from neighboring jurisdictions were Most Illustrious Grand Master William S. Risley, of New York state, and his suite. Most Illustrious Grand Master Arthur D. Prince of Massachusetts and his suite. Most Illustrious Grand Master Edward M. Wheeler, of Rhode Island, and his suite, and Most Illustrious Grand Master George S. Richtmeyer, of New Jersey, and his suite.

Most Puissant Grand Master George C. Beers of Bridgeport presided at the session. The following grand officers were named:

Grand Master Daniel H. Gladding, New Haven; deputy grand master, Frederick Gerlach, Danbury; principal conductor, T. Frank Cassidy, Hartford; treasurer, D. Fairchild Wheeler, Bridgeport; recorder, George A. Strudy, New London; captain of the guard, Frederick A. Beebe, New London; conductor, Arthur H. Parker, New Britain; marshal, Arthur L. Clark, Middletown; standard bearer, Bobert R. Houston, Greenwich; steward, George W. King, Bridgeport.

I. Newton Wadsworth, New Haven, was appointed grand sentinel.

Anker S. Lhyne, Bridgeport, was elected grand trustee for three years in place of D. Fairchild Wheeler, who was chosen treasurer by reason of the death of Isaih Baker, Jr., who served in that office for many years.

Recorder Sturdy reported that every council in the state made a gain during the year and the present membership is 16,253, a net gain of 436.

The grand council accepted the invitation of Harmony council, No. 8, of New Haven, of which the new grand master is a member, to meet there in 1925.

REBEKAHS

Hope Rebekah Lodge, No. 21, held their regular meeting Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows hall with Mrs. Ella Stapleton, acting noble grand, in the chair. Routine business was transacted. One application for membership was received. Plans are being completed to entertain the Rebekah State assembly officers at their next meeting June 18th, which is the 40th anniversary of the lodge. Supper will be served at 6:30. The members were reminded of Home day which is to be observed at the I. O. O. F. Home at Groton on June 14. Arrangements have been made to have all trains stop there on that day. Thames Past Grands Association will be entertained by the Past Grands of Hope Rebekah lodge here next Wednesday, June 11.

RED MEN

Mohegan Tribe, No. 64, Red Men, held their regular meeting in Steiner hall Wednesday evening, Sachem George F. Farrell presiding. Three applications were accepted and as many were voted upon. The following officers were nominated for the ensuing term of six months:

Sachem, Clyde C. Whitman; Senior Sagamore, Raymond N. Harris; junior sagamore, L. F. Messer; prophet, George F. Farrell.

It was decided to hold an adoption degree for eight candidates at the next meeting. After the meeting the newly formed degree team under the direction of the degree master George F. Farrell held a rehearsal.

FOREIGN WAR VETERANS

More than 3,500,000 buddy poppies, replicas of the flower of "No Man's Land," were sold in the annual nationwide campaign conducted by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the director, Louis M. Fellows, has announced. Forty-five of the forty-eight states participated in the campaign. Nationwide attention has been attracted to the V. F. W. factory at Pittsburgh Penn., arranged to furnish employment to the disabled men of the war, found non-feasible for any sort of training by the veterans bureau. The factory, where the poppies were made, considered until now, an experiment, has contributed largely, in returning to normalcy many neuro-psychiatric cases developed in the World war, in addition to providing with gainful employment those who, on account of their war-time disabilities, had considerable difficulty in finding employment elsewhere. Plans are now being perfected to keep the factory operating the full year.

SONS OF VETERANS

The annual meeting of the Isreal Putnam branch, No. 4, S. A. R., was held at the home of Henry F. Parker, Tuesday evening.

Adams P. Carroll was authorized to cast the ballot for the officers and board of managers for the ensuing year. The election resulted as follows:

A report was made relative to the prizes offered school children for best essays ordered at the last annual meeting. It was voted that the matter of selecting judges be left with the committee, consisting of the president and vice president. Twenty-five dollars was voted to Faith Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., to be used by them as they see fit.

Capt William G. Tarbox gave a highly interesting account of his recent visit at Fort Ticonderoga and a general discussion followed.

Herbert W. Gallup and James C. E. Leach were admitted to membership.

Present at the meeting were Charles E. Chandler, William H. Allen, Howard L. Stanton, Capt. William G. Tarbox, Adams P. Carroll, John R. Bowman, Jr., and Henry F. Parker.

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS.

Clara Barton Tent, No. 7, met in Buckingham Memorial Tuesday evening for their June meeting with the president, Miss Genie Evans, in the chair and 26 present. There were two applications for membership and National General Orders No. 6 were read as were Department General Orders No. 1. It was announced that the national daughters' convention is to be held in Boston, Aug. 12, 13 and 14 and that the flag will be 147 years old on Flag day, June 14th, the Daughters of the Veterans being requested to display the flag on that day. Announcement was also made that eight new tents have been organized since the last national convention. Miss Elnor Doty was the winner of the mystery package.

It was made known that the daughters meet for sewing on the afternoon of each meeting and that they are planning for a supper in the near future. The meeting closed in the usual form.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S COUNCIL.

Arrangements for the hippodrome and garden party to be given for the benefit of the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women, are practically completed and everything points to a most successful affair.

The entertainment is to be held on the Knights of Columbus grounds on the rear of the club house, Broadway. The Connecticut Council of Catholic Women will have the assistance of the members of White Cross Council, No. 13, Knights of Columbus, in carrying out the details of the undertaking.

At a recent joint meeting the following committees were appointed:

Executive committee, chairman, Mrs. Joseph P. Cummings; vice chairman, Francis T. Dingley; secretary, Miss Agnes White; treasurer, Walter G. Casey.

Arrangement committee: From the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women: Misses Agnes White, Helena Coughlin, Margaret Counihan, Miss Coughlin, Belle Leonard, Elizabeth Beckley, Annie Edwards, Mary Kelly, May Maher, Margaret Kane, Nellie Ahearn, Mary McKay, Mrs. Thomas J. O'Rourke, Mrs. John Fitzgerald, Mrs. Joseph Marshall, Mrs. James Murphy, Mrs. Maurice Buckley, Mrs. John J. O'Rourke, Mrs. W. K. IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago the voters of the city elected James S. Carew and William L. Brewer aldermen. They were candidates for election on the republican ticket. The four councilmen elected to office were Henry L. Parker, J. Hunt Smith, John M. Brewer and Lyman Gould. John L. Devotion, who for years previous to that time had held the office of city clerk was defeated for re-election by James M. Meech, the democratic candidate.

Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Bulletin of June 1874 are as follows:

Monday, June 1, 1874—The city election which is to take place today is one of the few in which partisan consideration can be entirely thrown aside. Indeed the republican party has seen fit to do so by its preliminary actions.

The ticket presented to our citizens by the republicans acting in caucus is one which no citizen can object to. We trust that the ticket nominated Friday evening will receive the cordial support of public spirited citizens of whatever party.

Memorial day dawned this year bright and beautiful enough. The event in this city this year was celebrated in much the same manner as of past occasions but with an even more general spirit and a deeper appreciation of the ceremonies; with a procession containing the remnants of the veterans of the war, the officers of the city and the home guards; with a march to the cemetery and memorial offices at the grave, with spoken tribute to the memory of the dead and with prayer, dirges and song.

The Rev. F. B. Joy of Preston City preached his farewell sermon yesterday as pastor of the Baptist church in that place. We understand that he has accepted a call to the Baptist church in North Haven. He was the recipient last week of a handsome sum of money from the Preston City society which paid him a donation visit.

The City of Norwich brought up 200 crates of strawberries last night for the Boston market.

Tuesday, June 2, 1874—The election day passed off blandly yesterday and very placidly the people buried an oft evoked bugbear of their imagination. The counting of the vote was long and tedious, but blessed principles and a good cause kept the reformers in good order to the last. The count of the votes showed the following results:

Whole number of votes cast 872.

A great deal of disappointment was expressed at the announcement of the result and subsequently about town the evening, that Col. Devotion who has ably and satisfactorily occupied the city clerkship for many years was not re-elected to that office. His successor however is well and favorably known in the city and there can be no fear but that he will prove a careful and efficient officer.

The large horse cars are soon to be placed on the up town route. They will be double enders well constructed and commodious. Shephenson New York is the maker and they are promised within two weeks.

A. B. Young has given up his massage business on Central wharf and the yard has been sold out to N. R. Bennett who will use it for his lumber trade.

Wednesday, June 3, 1874—Allen Chapman, engineer for the Chelsea Paper Company, Greeneville, lost the forefinger of one hand in the machinery of the engine yesterday morning. He caught hold of some object as his hand was drawn in and thus saved his life, as he would have been killed if thrown upon the engine.

A little four year old son of William Huber of East Broad street narrowly escaped death by burning yesterday morning. He was playing in the yard with matches which in some way ignited his clothing. He was seen immediately and the flames extinguished by rolling in the grass. He was considerably burned about the body and arms but it is not thought dangerously.

William Mitchell, an employee in the Norwich repair shop, Greeneville, dislocated his shoulder while lifting a heavyweight at that place.

An adjourned meeting of the teachers of the Central Baptist Sunday school was held last evening in their school room for the purpose of perfecting a temperance organization. It was voted to form a society to be called the Central Baptist Bible school Total Abstinence society. A pledge of total abstinence was adopted and the meeting adjourned one week for the choice of officers.

Thursday, June 4, 1874—There was a lively scrub rowing race between school boys in the harbor last evening for prizes of $10 and $5. The boats were five in number, named respectively by Charles Draper and Pat Sheridan; John Casey and William Sweet; Ally Proctor and William Ward; Reuben Collins and Loren Bateman; and Charles Williams and William Newell. They were started by William Rawson and went off in good style down the river to the stake boat three fourths of a mile down and return. They came in in the order in which their names are given above. The time made by the first boat was 11 minutes 57 seconds.

Homer Bliss, the delegate from the Norwich Typographical union to the International convention, writes his friends in this city that he with a number of other delegates from the east have met with most hospitable reception in Chicago and St. Louis.

The upper floor of Pierce's block has been recently fitted up for the use of the Scottish rite masons and on Tuesday evening King Solomon Lodge of Perfection occupied their room there for the first time. It is expected that the room will be dedicated on the 24th of June, St. John's day.

Friday, June 5, 1874—At a meeting of the Grampus club held last night the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

J. W. Gilbert, captain; W. H. Sillis, first lieutenant; George A. Sydleman, Jr., second lieutenant; P. W. Baird, secretary; H. E. Haskell, treasurer. E. H. Berry, steward; George G. Cleveland, chaplain; G. T. Bidwell, surgeon; L. L. Gardner, leader of band; G. A. Burton, gunner; J. M. Brewer, log keeper. It is the intention of the club to start on their annual cruise about the 20th of July.

On Wednesday a large party assembled at the resident of James Craven, Sachem street, to witness the marriage of his daughter, Florence N., to John R. Berry of Spencer, Mass.

The ladies of the temperance society are circulating a petition in Preston asking that the saloons be closed after 10 o'clock at night.

Saturday, June 6, 1874—L. W. Carroll & Co., are now receiving from Kentucky large invoices of worsted wools grown on the celebrated Cotswold and Leicestershire sheep imported into that state from England. We have examined some of the staple which measures full twelve inches in length. These wools are used chiefly in the manufacture of worsted dress goods.

A side track on the New London Northern road is being extended from the main track at the corner north of the depot down to the corner of Cove street. This addition will allow much extra room, which has been greatly needed by the road for the accommodation of freight. The gravel for the roadbed is taken from Mohegan.

HELPED HER IN EVERY WAY

So Writes Mrs. Trombley of Sharon, Vt., Concerning Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sharon, Vermont.— "I was weak and run-down, had a tired feeling and bearing-down pains. I saw an advertisement in the newspaper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and began taking it. It has stopped these bearing-down pains and other bad feelings, and has helped me in every way. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound that I keep it on hand all of the time and recommend it whenever I have the opportunity." — Mrs. LEWIS TROMBLEY, Sharon, Vermont.

Glad to Help Others

"I had pains in my back and sides for many months, and my work would have to be left undone at those times. My sister told me what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was doing her, so I tried it, and from the third bottle I was well and every one thought I looked better. I am glad to help others regain their health, and you may use my testimonial." — MABEL HARTMANN, 1824 Greene Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y. You must believe that a medicine that has helped other women will help you.

Cuticura Heals Itching Eczema On Arms and Face

"My trouble began with red blotches and itching and burning on my arms and face, and then eczema broke out with a rash. My face was disfigured and my clothing aggravated the breaking out on my arms. I could not put my hands in water, neither could I do my regular work. At night I lost my rest on account of the irritation.

"The trouble lasted about a month. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Leon Hallock, 104 Atkins St., Bellows Falls, Vt.

Use Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum for all toilet purposes.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

The Chipmunk's Story.

Oh, where's my nice old memory cap?
I must place it upon my head.
I've forgotten the story I wrote last night
Before I went to bed.

Please wait a moment, little reader,
While I hunt for it. Without that pink and yellow memory cap I can hardly [illegible] for a minute or three without eating a lollypop. Isn't that strange? For any one who has seen the Lolly-

"First, I tapped on the ground"

pop Tree near the Big Brown Bear's Cozy Cave would rather dream of lollypops than write a story. Oh, my eyes, indeedy.

Well, now that I have found this wonderful cap and have placed it on my head, I remember where we ended yesterday's story. It was just at the very moment when Little Jack Rabbit asked Chippy Chipmunk: "How did you dig a hole without leaving any dirt at the entrance?" Yes, that's where we left off in the last story.

"Come close to me so that nobody will hear," began the little chipmunk, cautiously looking here and there and everywhere, to make sure that there was no one near

"First I tapped on the ground until I found a hollow place under the Big Chestnut Tree—a sort of den or little cave beneath the roots. Then, from the other side of the Old Rail Fence, I dug a slanting shaft down to this hollow space, throwing out the dirt in a loose heap. Dear me, when I did, it took me almost a week to make it over into a nice, comfortable place, with two connecting store-rooms."

"Where—" exclaimed the bunny boy, I didn't know you had such a big house down under the ground."

"Well, that isn't all," answered the little chipmunk with a wink. "Next I made another tunnel straight upwards to the air, heading away from the first one, until it could come out on the other side of the tree."

"My, I should think your house would have been full of loose dirt," exclaimed the bunny boy.

"Not at all! I filed in the first tunnel with it," answered the wise little chipmunk, with a knowing wink. "Nobody knows where my front door is. It's hidden under a big root. As for the dirt around the opening on the other side of the Rail Fence, well, I carried it all away and hid it. Nobody knows a thing about it but you."

"Dear, dear, dearest me!" exclaimed the little rabbit, admiringly. "You are a clever fellow. Who taught you that?"

"I don't know," answered Chippy Chipmunk, "Maybe Mother Nature whispered it to me when I was a little fellow," and picking up a nut, he stuffed it in his cheek pouch and scampered over a fallen log, his pretty red striped coat shining under the rays of Mr. Merry Sun.

"Where are you going?" asked the bunny boy, but the next instant Chippy Chipmunk had disappeared from sight. I guess he had jumped down the opening to his little den under the spreading roots of the Big Chestnut Tree.

And in the next story I'll tell you what happened after that.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

PALACE THEATRE

Last showing today Colleen Moore in Painted People with a all star cast including Anna Q. Nilsson, Ben Lyon, Mary Carr, Mary Alden and others.

Extra added attraction two reels of fast action fun in the newest edicationals, Mermaid comedy, Family Life. Don't miss it! Review and Palace orchestra. Continous showing today 1:30 to 10:30.

Four days starting Sunday, June 8th, Blanche Sweet and William Russel in Anna Christie.

A shipwreck was staged so realistically in the San Francisco harbor, where the Ince company recently spent a fortnight filming special sea scenes for Thomas H. Ince's Anna Christie, that the lifesaving station mistook the activity for a signal of distress and quickly sent two big life-boats to the rescue.

During a dense fog, in which a steamer is wrecked in the collision with a derelict barge, Mat Burke, played by William Russell, and several stokers on the big ship, escape drowning by pushing off in a row-boat. They are later picked up by a coal barge belonging to "old Chris," the father of Anna, around whom the powerful story dramatically unfolds.

As Russell lowered the remaining small boat, spectators began to gather on the shore. When the three men made the jump for the boat before the waves carried it beyond their reach, there was a terrified shout from the people on land. One of the men had missed the side of the boat and disappeared in the water. An alarm was quickly sent in by someone in the crowd and a few minutes later two lifeboats hit the waves in "high" and headed for the drifting men.

Director John Griffith Wray sent up an agonized wail from the raft where the cameras were grinding, but the rescue boats had already "hogged" the scene and the "punch" of two hundred feet of film showing the three men fighting an angry sea was lost. Before the scene was reshot, Director Wray warned all the life saving stations and "Good Samaritans" within a radius of ten miles around the harbor to ignore any frantic S. O. S. that might come from the motion picture "set" in the bay.

Added attractions, special musical presentations by Palace director F. G. Begnon, augumented orchestra. Sunday night only. Short subjects, Aesops Fables, Hodge Podge, Speedville, Our Gang comedy Giants vs. Yanks. All calculated to make the finest entertainment in the city. Follow the crowd tomorrow night.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

AT THE BREED

Thrills, breath-taking spectacles and poignant drama are mixed with a fascinating love story in the splendid photoplay which the Breed theatre will offer to its patrons the next three days, beginning Sunday.

It is the M. C. Levee presentation of Torment, filmed under the masterful direction of Maurice Tourneur and released by First National with an excentional cast including Owen Moore, Bessie Love, Joseph Kilgour, Jean Hersholt, Morgan Wallace, George Cooper and Maude George.

The story deals with the efforts of a band of international crooks operating from America to steal the Russian crown jewels, and unfolds the romance of one of its members.

High lights of this vivid drama include scenes from the Russian revolution, a train robbery and the Japanese earthquake.

The production is particularly well named owing to the torment, mental and physical, that its leading characters go through.

It is picturesque, exciting, and through it all runs a theme that will linger long in the memory of all who see it.

Torment is worth while. It is superior entertainment in all that the word implies. And that is putting it conservatively.

A roaring sunshine comedy and the Pathe news complete this programme.

The Academy Orchestra

One more year has rolled around and it is again the season for the annual concert of the Academy orchestra—in fact its nineteenth.

The exact date will be Wednesday evening, June 11th, and the place will be Slater Memorial hall.

The orchestra is quite as good this year as it has been in years past, and the members feel reasonably confident that they can assure their audience a pleasant musical evening.

Included in the program are numbers by Handel, Tschaikowsky, Borowski, Gounod and other composers less well known but quite as interesting and tuneful.

The orchestra will be assisted by Mr. Ernest T. DeWald of New Brunswick, New Jersey, who already has many friends in this city. It was a bit of extremely good fortune that Mr. DeWald was secured for this concert. On the 14th, he is to sail from New York for France, and following a short stay in Paris, will make his debut in the opera at Baden-Baden.

Tickets for admission are 50 cents, and may be secured from members of the orchestra or at Cranston's store

Velie

A new Royal sedan, equipped with balloon tires, disc wheels, hydraulic four wheel brakes and every accessory known to luxurious motoring has been announced by the Velie Motors Corporation, of Moline, Illinois. This sedan is mounted on the standard 118-inch wheelbase chassis, powered with a 50 horsepower engine and its factory list price has been set at $1,845.

It is claimed by F. E. Bradfield, vice president of the corporation, in charge of sales, that this car is the largest and most completely equipped six cylinder sedan in the world, for the price.

This new car is finished with three coats of high temperature, black, baked enamel and blue disc wheels including genuine balloon tires, with a diameter of 6.20 inches. The car is upholstered in brown velour.

In addition to four wheel hydraulic brakes and balloon tires this car will include the following equipment: Extra tire and tire cover; trunk rack, trunk, two suitcases and hat box; waterproof trunk cover; aluminum bars on back of body; stop light, aluminum step plates; nickle plated radiator, motometer, bar cap; parking lights; rear vision mirror; windshield cleaner; clock on dash; cigar lighter; vanity case; smoking case; flower vase, transmission and door locks; window regulators; sun visor and window shades.

This model will supplement the regular Velie line consisting of a phaeton and a sedan, selling in the so called thousand dollar class.

Broadway Theatre

Tom Meighan's back in a love-crook-melodrama. The Confidence Man, which has its premiere at the Broadway tomorrow. It's the strongest story Meighan has had in many months as well as the most entertaining.

The story, which ran as a serial in Argosy All-Story Weekly, brings the "good luck" star to the screen in the role of a clever confidence man, type of crook. He goes to a small town to rope in a miserly old fellow on a fake oil stock deal, gets in right with the people of the village, gets his victim's money and prepares to skip when the "man higher up" arrives from New York.

From this point on the story steps right along. It keeps you guessing what's going to happen next, whether Tom will be exposed or if he'll reform and marry the pretty young girl he has fallen for.

What does he do? That's the question that's being answered all this week at the Broadway theatre. And you're sure in for an hour and a half of pleasing entertainment when you take in The Confidence Man.

Virginia Valli, star of A Lady of Quality, is leading woman, Cyril Ring and Laurence Wheat are prominent in the supporting cast which is typical of all Meighan productions and includes among others, Charles Dow Clark, Jimmie Lapsley, Dorothy Walters and David Higgins.

German Lutheran Church

Wednesday afternoon, rally day of Ladies' Aid society. All members be present. Everybody bring a friend. There will be a coffee party and a display of work done by the Sewing Circle, Thursday night. Meeting of the Y. P. S. in the church parlors. Saturday morning at 10. Religious school and German instruction.

Some folks never expect to get what they expect.

THE SOCIAL CORNER

THE TRUEST BEAUTY IS THE BEAUTY OF A BEAUTIFUL LIFE

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY
A PLEA.

Take me, O Little One, by the hand
Back to that far off Fairyland.
Show me again through your blue eyes
All that is earthly paradise,
All of the things that I used to know
Ever so many years ago.

I see time hold, too, the magic key—
Realms of dreams and mystery,
Fable and story, old romance:
Swift was the passing; now no glance
Studied or careless takes me back;
Lost is the trail; the night is black.

But to you, Little One, all is clear;
All lies before you fair and dear.
You do not know of grief nor sin;
Fairyland beckons, calls you in.
Yours is the right, the power to see—
Little One, share with me!

JUNE

Fair June, sweet June, is with us now
once more;
She brings her warm, soft winds, and wondrous store,
Of scented hours, all filled with dear delights
Of perfect days, that change to perfect nights
Her lush green grasses bend beneath our feet.
Her birds fill all the air with music
sweet;
Each tree is a fair village filled with homes
From which faint murmurs rise when morning comes.
Soft, tender emerald clothes the grain-fields still,
Which ripple, wave-like, at the wind's own will.
Brave dandelions star the roadsides bare,
And rainbow blossoms greet us everywhere.
Summer is young—and oh, her kiss is sweet!
Earth, wind, and wave in harmony compete
For her caresses; all the world is new,
Made up of roses and of honey-dew.

AN UNUSUAL EPITAPH

Dear Corner Sisters: With the D's being called it is time I hastened to do my bit for the Corner.

Some time ago I was entertained by the epitaphs that were sent in by Joan. I have recently been told of one in an English cemetery which is as unusual as it is long. This is the way it reads:

Here lie the bodies of Thomas Bond and Mary his wife.
She was temperate, Chaste, and Charitable;
But
She was Proud, Peevish and Passionate
She was an affectionate wife, and a tender Mother;
But
Her Husband and Child, whom she loved
Seldom saw her countenance with-a disgusting frown.
Whilst she received Visitors whom she despised with an endearing smile.
Her behavior was discreet towards strangers;
But
Imprudent in her family,
Abroad, her conduct was influenced by good breeding;
But
At home by ill temper.
She was a professed enemy to Flattery,
And was seldom known to praise or commend;
But
The talents in which she principally excelled
Were difference of opinion, and discovering flaws and Imperfections
She was an admirable Economist;
And without Prodigality,
Dispensed Plenty to every person in her Family;
But
Would sacrifice their eyes to a Farthing Candle.
She sometimes made her Husband happy with her good qualities;
But
Much more frequently miserable—with her many Failings;
Insomuch that in 30 years of marriage
he often Lamented that
Maugre all her Virtues,
He had not in the whole enjoyed ten years of Matrimonial Comfort
At length,
Finding that she had lost the affections of her Husband,
As well as the regard of her Neighbors,
Family disputes having been divulged
by Servants,
She died of Vexation, July 20, 1763,
Ager 48 years.
Her worn-out Husband survied her 4 months and ten days.
And departed this life Nov. 23, 1763
In the 54th year of his age.
William Bond, Brother of the Deceased, erected this stone,
As a weekly monitor to the surviving
Wives of this Parish,
That they may avoid the Infamy of having their Memories handed down to Posterity with a Patch-Work
Character.

I think the roll call a grand good idea, but out of so many names it seems as if there ought to be a great many more responses. Where are all these silent sisters?

OTHER UNUSUAL SPRINGS

Dear Social Corner Sisters; It seems the unusual spring weather is much talked about. I think people are apt to forget, as May 6th 1891 we had quite a snowstorm and in June 1895 we had a severe thunder storm and hail stones the largest I ever saw. They cut the foliage on everything. May 29th, 1900 was so cold it made ice. We got up in the morning of the 30th found everything above the ground frozen. So you see this season is no worse than those gone by.

To all who are sick and in sorrow I extend sympathy especially sister Grace. God give her strength to sustain her great loss.

JOAN.

ANSWERS SHOULD BE MORE PROMPT

Dear Corner Editor and Sisters: It seems to me that the older writers are not setting the good example which they should in the prompt answering of the roll call. But I must plead guilty to being as dilatory as any one, and I know that many others find as little time to write as I do.

Now I would like to know if we are expected to write each time any name and every name we have ever written under appears? I hope not. It would make me almost too much work. Two names that I discarded (Aline and Cornflower) have already appeared, and still there's more to follow.

Have seen no mention made in response to Anelira's name, though there must be some one in the Corner who knew her. I believe she died several years ago.

It ha bee too cold and wet this spring to ride around much for pleasure, but I have been out once, and we made several "finds" that day. One was a hillside with flowering dogwood overhead, and snakeroot, or wild ginger, underfoot. Another was an orchid, lavender and white, deliciously fragrant. I think it must have been the showy orchid, but it seemed almost too small. Also we found a spot where ladies' slippers grow. Quantities of them. Plants nearly full grown, plants half grown, plants just peeping through the ground. Buds in plenty, some quite large, but not one showing any color, so I do not know what color they will be but think it will be either white or yellow. Probably I shall never know as they are so far away I may never go there again.

Rural Aunty: Good luck to your picnic, and a full attendance. Wish I could go, but my daughter graduates that day.

Many thanks to the sisters who sent me cards on my birthday.

LIKES BIRTHDAY CAKE IDEA

Dear Social Corner Sisters: In my letter before this I told you to omit flowers and you did but I am glad that you didn't omit post-cards. "Say, you'd otta seen em." I mean to answer every one but if I do leave anyone out don't feel too awfully bad about it.

I went up to Rural Aunty's Sunday and we picked a few checker-berries, only about two quarts. I had always thought they were few and far apart.

We're never too old to learn.

Rural Aunty is right on the warpath about that June 18th meeting at Central Village. She says come one come all. Judge K. is going to preside at the meeting I think, so we'll all have to look as solemn as owls. We hope Rural Delivery will bring his quilts and rugs. It's Aunt to be a basket lunch. Maybe Hot Air will give a talk on gasolene consumption prevention. I am going to make two trips with the 'covered wagon." The first trip will be made at nine, S. T. and the next at eleven thirty. If you people don't get to Central Village June 18th it wont be my fault.

Molly Make Believe: So you went past my place one night after dark, did you? Well, we retire rather early usually, as we can stand hot air, fresh air and free air but when it comes to night air we just lie right down on the job.

Balsam Fir: Have you regained your health yet? They said my trouble was a wry neck but I can't understand how I came to have rye neck as I never drink anything stronger than grape juice. Hot Air says maybe a grape juice neck hurts worse than a rye neck. I dunno.

Well I certainly thank every one that sent me a card and I think it a very good practice. I mean to find out more about the sisters' birthdays after this.

Shall have to say good bye now as I feel the night air, which is too much for FREE AIR.

RECIPES BY CLUB

Dear Social Corner Sisters: This is a beautiful spring day and I trust you are all enjoying every minute of it. We have had such a cold, backward season that we appreciate the good days. I expect before long we shall be wishing for cooler weather.

Thank you Dorinda, H. M. L., Lo, and Wistaria for birthday cards. I am a little late about thanking you but I appreciated them just the same.

Grace: I have thought of you so much in your trouble. You have my heartfelt sympathy. You know we had a terrible accident in our family a few years ago and I realize how awful it must have been for you and your children.

Baked Sausage with Dressing: Make a dressing with three cups dry bread soaked in cold water. Press out the water and season with salt, pepper, sage and grated onion. Pile up the dressing in the middle of the pan and curl the sausage around it. Cook without cover, basting often. Take out the meat and dressing on a platter and pour off the fat. Add 1 pint of hot water and a thickening made of 3 tablespoons of flour rubbed smooth in a little cold water. Have the gravy thick, smooth and a rich brown, pour it over the meat and dressing or serve separately.

Virginia Loaf Cake: 1 1-2 cups sugar, 2-3 cup butter, 1 cup sour milk, 2 large cups flour, 1 cup raisins, 2 egg, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, nutmeg, 1 teaspoon soda in sour milk, salt.

Best wishes for the Corner.

WHAT WILL TAKE ROAD OIL OUT OF CLOTHES?

Dear Editor, Sisters and Brothers: Hope you are not moldy or done up with rheumatism this wet weather. This is the third day it has rained and it is quite cool. Things are growing though. I saw radishes, onions, peas and lettuce in a well kept garden Sunday as we were riding by. The cowslips brought in were fine. Come again brother of Social Corner, next time with peas and be sure and call with huckleberries. Your place is noted for berries.

Eyeline Burr: Your birthday and mine are on the same date. Thanks for card sent. I should like very much to attend the picnic at Central Village if I may. Hope it can be held and have a fine time. Rural Aunty is keeping us posted on time and place. We visited our home place Sunday and stopped at the school house where I attended when a child. It was the first time I had seen it since I left. I need to think what a large building it was. To me now it looked like a hen coop. There are eighteen benches holding two pupils each, the backs of the seats forming the desk for seat in back, small blackboards between the windows a little larger then my molding board, the tiny organ, a desk for the teacher and a boxstove, boxed in with tin to keep the heat from those seated too near the stove. The building was padlocked and the windows were very high. I wanted very much to take a peek inside so looked around for something to stand on. The chopping block was just the thing. King, Jr., and I rolled it up to the window and by standing on it one could see fine. My, wasn't I glad I took that peek! The room looked familiar but so much better. The walls above the blackboards were tinted a light tan, a border of light brown berries and buds and pictures covered the space below the blackboard on two sides of room. I wished I knew the little artist who drew these wonderful pictures. They have been exhibited at more than one fair. Twenty-eight children go to this school there were 30 when I attended. One girl younger than myself spent most of her time standing on the end of a small salt box years ago. Salt came in these boxes and some families used them when empty for a knife box. When we saw her standing on the salt box which was only large enough for one foot at a time we would all laugh only to be scolded by the stern master. We had a man for a teacher. In winter he came to school with cow hide boots which he promptly changed to shoes. He also wore overalls tied around the legs with pieces of clothes lines. He dismantled very quickly after getting inside the room. He was very sweet on one of the older girls and he married her sometime later and they moved to another town.

When we rolled the block back to the wood pile we saw the largest snake I ever saw. He was a handsome fellow with yellow and green stripes down his brown body, and a large head with red spots. He was very long. I nearly stepped on him. I am not much afraid of snakes. I think some are real pretty. Once when picking berries on the same bush from which I was picking a large snake crawled over the branches very near my hand. I stood back and watched him crawl away. Some people are very much afraid of snakes. Last summer King, Jr., put a small snake in my lap as I was sitting on the porch. The only thing around in these parts that I'm afraid of is a cow. I nearly drop of fright if a cow looks at me yet when we were children we had a family cow that my sister and I took entire care of. She milked her on one side sitting on the milking stool while I milked her on the other sitting on a box. Each with two faucets apiece we would work fast to see who would get done first.

I would like to ask the sisters if they know of something that will take out road oil from clothing. Every spring the roads are besmeared with molasses. A well dressed man tried to cross the street. He went up and down the walk to try and find the best place to cross. At last he sails forth steps on what he thinks is hard dirt. It happened to be a light covering of gravel, he slipped and sat down in a large puddle of oil. He got up and asked a bystander what he could do. He says, "Look at me! Ain't I a sight!" The bystander says, "Shed your clothes. Throw then in the ditch. That's the only cure for dudes and road oil."

Everything has been threshed out in our letters, candles, apple sauce, brass kettles, rag carpets, bed quilts, rural schools, travelers aid, trolley cars, Moosup meeting and bobbed hair, but nothing about road oil. I wish I could say something about bobbed hair but my letter is far too long. Bobbed hair is all out of date. It is only the followers that are cutting off their hair today, the leaders of fashion are already buying wigs, switches and other false hair that they may do up their hair. It is something like gingham dresses which took the country by storm several years ago.

Two young ladies came from New York to our small town. Sunday they appeared in church in checked gingham dresses. How every one looked at them! They dared to lead. These dresses were just cheap cotton. It was three years after that followers came wearing checked gingham. The leaders in two months were wearing something else. That is the situation with bobbed hair. We dared not bob our hair as leaders but after everyone else had cut their hair we dare to when it really is all out of date. Girls who lead in fashion are trying in all ways they can to do up their hair. There will be a great demand for false hair rats, and some scalp diseases will follow unless one is very careful. I will close with regard to all.

GIVE COMMONPLACE VEGETABLES A NEW DRESS.

Dear Cornerites: One writer has said nearly every cook no matter how good a cook she may be is very apt to get into a rut when it comes to preparing vegetables, especially the more common kinds for her family. Nothing is likely to create more interest than the appearance of one of the common place vegetables that the family has come to expect plain boiled or at their best with a cream sauce, in a brand new dress. Take for instance the parsnip pie, which is very nice, cooked like the following recipe.

Parsnips Pie: Three parsnips, 1-4 pound salt pork. Cut the pork into slices and line a deep dish with it. Put in first, layer of sliced potatoes that have been parboiled. Sprinkle with flour, a few bits of butter and parsnips and repeat until the dish is full. Cover with the water in which pork and parsnips have been boiled. Cover the whole with a rich baking powder crust biscuit dough and bake until done. Then brown.

Parsnips au gratin is another excellent supper dish. Boil the parsnips until tender, mash, season well and add butter and grated cheese and just enough milk to make a nice creamy consistency, about like mashed potatoes. Put into a pudding dish, (buttered) cover with buttered crumbs and bake in a hot oven golden brown.

Then the fried onion in egg and cracker crumbs are very, very nice and tasty.

VERSAILLES PICNIC DATE CHANGED TO JUNE 20

Dear Social Corner Sisters: In regard to the annual reunion picnic of Club No. 1, which is to be held at the Versailles M. E. church, it will be impossible for a number of ladies to attend June 19 so it has been postponed until Friday, June 20. Hoping this date is satisfactory to all I remain,

CAULIFLOWER AND MUSTARD

Dear Corner Sisters: Did you ever try cauliflower with a mustard sauce? It is delicious. Take 1 tablespoon flour, 2 of butter, 1-2 dessert spoon of mustard, 1-2 cup boiling water, salt, pepper, vinegar, 2 tablespoons of chopped piccalilli.

Brown flour, add butter, mustard, water then cook five minutes thin down with the vinegar, add salt pepper and piccalilli, serve hot over boiled cauliflower.

FLOWERS

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: Although the season seems somewhat backward this spring, or rather into the summer months now. We find the flowers of the field and leafy trees, are showing forth as nature has intended. Today, I have picked the first daisies, in my dooryard, for this year. The buttercups have showed their cups of gold shining in the waving grass for several days past. The violets are nearly gone by now (they too, are so beautiful) and the little early May flowers are yet lingering. We are accustomed to speak of these blooms which grow in the fields as "wild flowers," but after all they are so perfect and delicate, being only cared for by nature itself. I find great pleasure in all flowers, to watch their growth and unfoldment, as they live out in the open. Also I enjoy having flowers in the house from the earliest to the latest in the year. To me, flowers are one of the comforts of home life. They seem to bring cheer and gladness, just to look at them. I have sometimes thought, what it would mean to be deprived of seeing any flowers for a year or more. Suppose we lived in a climate where flowers and all vegetation do not exist? I am sure we would miss these beautiful expressions of nature, which we call "wild flowers." These thoughts appeal to me, as in those lines of the hymn, we sometimes sing:

Let us gather up the sunbeams,
Lying all around our path.
Let us keep the wheat and roses,
Casting out the thorns and chaff
Let us find our sweetest comfort
In the Blessings of today
With a patient hand removing
All the briars from the way.

Strange we never prize the music
'Till the sweet voiced bird has flown
Strange that we should slight the violets
'Till the lovely flowers are gone,
Strange that summer skies and sunshine,
Never seem one-half so fair.
As when winters snowy pinions
Shake the white down in the air,
Then scatter seeds of kindness
For our reaping by-and-by.

Let us love and cherish the flowers they are worthy of our attention, let us consider they are among the unlimited gifts of nature for our happiness.

Best wishes and success for the Social Corner.

RHUBARB CONSERVE

Dear Social Corner: I am ashamed to think I have not written for so long, and could not have blamed the editor, if he had not put my name in the roll call. I was glad to see it last week, so will answer. I am sorry I couldn't be with you, at the June meeting, but hope to go to some of the picnics. It has been a very busy time the last two months with most of us I guess with house cleaning and sewing. I too, send sympathy to Grace, but think we should also think of Trula. She had a sad ending to a happy day, in the sudden death of her sister.

I hope when the Corner starts in the fall, we can all meet together in sisterly love and have the good times we used to have, and not mind, the one, or two, that would find fault with those who would try to make a social hour for the sisters, and never do anything themselves to help. Let us all love one another, and meet in sisterly love, and harmony.

The poetry sent in by Anne D. was a favorite of a dear friend of mine, and many others of us. I know she was always willing to help when ever she could, and so often I have heard her recite it. She was Mrs. Avery Park and she made many a pleasant hour for us all.

Now I want to send my recipe for rhubarb conserve. It is fine, and will keep forever, (if you don't eat it up).

Jennie: Don't be afraid to try this. It will come out better than the tomatoes did.

Rhubard Conserve: Peel and cut rhubarb in inch lengths, six pounds of fruit, six pounds sugar, juice of two lemons, and two oranges, remove seeds, and run fruit and rind through food chopper and add this to the rhubarb, 1 cup English walnuts, half pound dates, (cut up,) 1 cup of almonds, (you can have just the walnuts, and not almonds of you wish.) Let stand in a covered crock all night. In the morning put on stove and boil very slowly until it jellies. Put in glasses and seal.

THE OYSTER BANKS OF DEMOSCOTTA

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I am sorry to be late in the roll call but I will answer, present, now.

I wonder how many have heard of the oyster banks of Demoscotta, Maine. For about a mile on each side of the river, instead of soil or sand there are tons upon tons of oyster shells. You will naturally think there would be nothing growing upon these banks but on the contrary there is a wonderful forest. My cousin and I left our boat on the shore, and walked for ten or fifteen minutes inland, when I kicked away the pine needles and there instead of the black loam was the hard oyster shells. To look from these to the wonderful trees overhead one can hardly believe his own eyes. Where this forest gets its nourishment has been one of the mysteries of my life time. The people of the vicinity wonder how these oyster shells came there.

My uncle was riding up through the country one day, years ago, when he met an Indian who wished to ride with him. This old red man said his people had brought the oyster shells there, and made the banks. We can not tell whether they did or wether the Indian told my uncle a fib to pay for his ride. However the oyster banks have always remained a mystery to the people of Demoscotta and New Castle and to me they are one of the wonders of New England.

Bob White and Necia: Come to see us again.

BETSEY BRAY, (July 27.)

PROUD TO SAY, PRESENT

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters; I am proud and glad to say present. Never a day since I joined the sisters have I been sorry, for I've found true and loyal friends. Met the finest Christian women, and do not know of a better place to spend a day than with the Social Corner sisters. We all err at times, for we are only human, but, if we only remember the goodness that is in us all, we can forgive the errors, and call it an end of a perfect day. Yours always for the Corner.

NEW ENGLAND ATTRACTIONS

Dear Social Corner: As my name has been called in the roll will respond to it by sending my bit.

I have enjoyed reading the letters in The Bulletin very much but have let the weeks slip by without any letter from me.

My family enjoy the cake made from the recipe hot milk cake, sent in by Dew -Kist, and the fried pies from Wisteria's recipe.

I want to tell the shut-ins about the great pleasure I had last week. I had the opportunity to ride a number of miles through the country and there was a new beauty to exclaim over at every turn. The tints of the spring foliage ranged from the silver gray of the poplar to the dark green of the pines. There were all shades of green in the forests. The hemlocks had their spring tips of yellow green; the dogberry bushes were in full flower; the swamp blueberry bushes were crowded with blossoms; the maple sprouts were a brilliant color and the sandy hills were blue with violets. Near the farmhouses were the lilacs in purple and white, filling the air with their perfume; the iris blossoms were much in evidence and some apple trees were full of blossoms.

What a beautiful country we certainly have in New England! We do not have to set out all the grass we have on our lawns as the people in Florida have to do, but have its beautiful green everywhere.

Variety is the spice of life and we certainly have varieties of seasons, trees, fruits, vegetables, and flowers.

Best wishes for the Corner.

CACTUS BLOSSOM.

ICE BOX CAKE

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: this is a sort of a lazy hostess cake but so melting and delicious that her laziness is excusable and her cake seems to be devoured to the last crumb. One loaf they tell me was sampled by the tasters with joy and the refrigerator was robbed that night. We are not sure but suspicion was directed toward one of the "seals."

Received a letter from Mrs. F. F. saying, it was fine.

May I submit my ice box cake. It it really scrumptious, and of course the main beauty is it can be prepared the day before. Incidentally it is so rich that it is needless to serve in large quantities. It goes a long way.

Ice Box Cake: 1-2 lb. sweet chocolate, 4 eggs, 2 dozen lady fingers, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, sugar if necessary.

Melt the chocolate over hot water, add the well beaten yolks of the eggs. Cook for a few moments in the double boiler. Remove from the fire add the whites of the eggs well beaten and the vanilla.

Line a mixing bowl or round deep baking dish. Halve all of the lady fingers and line the dish with these. Pour in half of the table mixture and place the lady fingers over it. Add the rest of the chocolate and cover with lady fingers. Cover the whole with a wax paper and then a plate of the right diameter to use as a press weight on top (a large size can of corn beef makes an excellent weight for this.)

Leave in the refrigerator all night. Unmold at dinner time, remove the wax paper and cover with whipped cream.

ENTHUSIASTIC OVER PICNIC

Dear Cornerites: First I want to express my deep sympathy for Grace in her breavement.

We are having a lot of cold, windy, and wet weather for a picnic, but, when dear Student said last week there would be one at Versailles on the 19th. "My!" I said, "I want to go for I had such a delightful time last year, the ladies were so good to work so hard for it means work for the committee."

All we need is a good day to have it a success. Hope I will meet a lot of the sisters in Norwich that day. I am in Hartford now and it is not so easy to get to the picnic for so much time is spent going and coming.

Cally Lily: Thanks for card. Not due till the 19th, so you see I can celebrate if I go to Versailles. Always am glad to see any of the sisters of the Corner.

Sunday went to Highland Lake in Winsted. Must be lovely in warm weather there. Rather windy Sunday.

Clio: Phone to some of the bunch and get them started for the 19th.

Conundrum: Was glad to see a letter from you.

Little Sister: Wish you could go. Can't you plan it? Will do you a world of good a fine church and near a river, trees and so on to make it a fine place.

Amy: Try and go, won't you?

Well I must ring off. Best wishes to all.

OLIVE, (June 19.)

SOME RECIPES ASKED FOR

Dear Friends of the Corner: My name comes in this roll call so I'll try and put in a letter. Have intended writing for some time but can only plead procrastination. We are apt to put off until tomorrow so many things that we should do, and I wonder when we will ever learn that tomorrow never comes.

The days do go by so fast! Here it is June, the loviest month of all the year to me. Nature is at her best. Everything is so green and fresh. The hot sun has not had time to scorch the grasses and turn things dirty and brown. I have just been reading June, by James Russell Lowell. It certainly is a wonderful picture of our first summer month. Do read it sisters.

Dew Kist: I have used your recipe for gold cake and find it excellent. You sent it in some time ago if you remember.

Peggy Anne: Long ago you fed my boy with some of your filled cookies. Will you kindly send the recipe?

Dorinda: I do hope things are better for you than when I last talked with you and that your father is better and stronger.

Neighbor: How are you? I called on you not so long ago. Won't you send your Brownie recipe?

Best wishes for the Corner.

RHUBARB PIE

Dear Social Corner Sisters and Editor: A rainy day is a good time to write so will chat for a while.

I have not seen my name on the roll call but will write just the same.

I enjoy looking for wild flowers and taking long walks with company, if only my dog, as he is great company.

I have got some chickens, not up to some, but I started small. I got a dozen from a store and so far have two left. Good luck.

I had one hen setting and she came out with twelve and have got all but one. I think the way mother did is the best for me.

What has become of Sally Sycamore? I wonder if she has gone to her summer home yet. I hear Chicadede calling when I take some of my strolls. "Do you like pie? If so try this and if not good let me know.

Rhubarb Pie: 1 cup of cooked, or 1 1-2 uncooked rubarb, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, yolks of 2 eggs, piece of butter, salt. Cook on stove.

Meringue: White of 2 eggs, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 1-2 tablespoons boiling water, all well beaten. Bake crust first.

AURALEE.

GREETINGS FROM BLACK PANSY

Dear Social Cornerites: It has been some time since I have written for the Corner but heard through a kind friend of the roll call sent out. I wonder how many remember me.

I think Mavis must be a fairly near neighbor or she wouldn't wish a picnic at Elizabeth park. Second the motion.

Kind regards to all old friends particularly Samantha, Theoda, Biddy and all I met at Coventry lake.

BLACK PANSY.

POETRY

A PLAIN MAN'S DREAM.

Were I transported to some distant star
With fifty little children, girls and boys,
Or to some fabeled land unknown, afar,
Where never sound could come of this world's noise:

Our world begun anew, as when of yore
Sad Adam fled from Eden; I alone
The sole custodian of all human lore—
No books to aid, all rules and records gone—

What could I teach each tender, untaught child?
How much of this world's wisdom could
I give
To raise him from the savage, fierce and wild,
And train each soul a worthy life to live?
Plain human speech, some simple laws of life,
A little tillage, household arts a few;
The law of rectitude o'er coming strife;
Things clean and sane, the simple and the true.
But of Man's long, slow climb from Error's reach—
The hard-won, precious wisdom of the ages—
What (and, alas, how little!) could I teach
Which changes men from savages to sages?

Some things I've known I never would impart.
Somewhat I'd tell of building, writing,
preaching;
Some hints I'd give on healing, science,
art;
Love they would learn full soon without my teaching!

—Frederick Keppel, in Indianapolis News.

KITCHENS IN HEAVEN.

(A celestial paradise which seems rather more homelike than the traditional city of golden streets nad jeweled gates. It may be unorthodox, but there is no denying its attractiveness.)

There will be kitchens up in Heaven, I think—
Big country kitchens 'neath the golden eaves,
With herbs and jelly tumblers round the sink;
A Welcome rug; and "slipped" geranium leaves.

There will celestial corn on beams hang high,
And early apples ripen in a row,
And drowsy clock tick out Eternity,
A drowsy cat purr tranquilly and low.

There morning sunshine will forever lie
Impartial on the woodbox and the settle,
There live immortal smells of apple pie,
Undying music of the simmering kettle.

By the "best" window toward the street must sit
A Saint who'll rock and knit and rock and knit!

—Helen Mitchell Richards, in The Step Ladder.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

T-Bone—I ran all the way downtown to the fire last night.

Buzzy—Did you save anything?

T-Bone—Yeh, carfare. — Exchange.

Alice—He's wonderful, my dear; he talks like a book.

Gladys—Yes, but you can't shut him up as easily.—The Progressive Grocer.

Customer—I want to buy three lawn mowers.

Dealer—You must have a big place.

Customer—No . . . . . but I have two neighbors.—Good Hardware.

Gaybuck—What do you think of those boardwalks they're building at the shore resorts?

Bayboy—Some day they will go about it in the right way and extend them to the three-mile limit.—New York Sun.

Painter (at work in the field)—When I paint it's an inner urge, a deep-felt need that drives me to it.

Farmer Bowle—Yes, of course; you need money. You get hungry like the rest of us. — Boston Globe.

The speeding motorist had run down an unfortunate pedestrian.

"Hey!" he yelled to his victim. "While you are under there look at my new four-wheel brakes. They didn't work." — American Legion Weekly.

Mrs. Lonebody—"My husband is away a great deal at night, and I want a parrot for company. Does that one use rough language?"

The Dealer — Lady, with that bird in the house you'll never miss your husband.—Judge.

Husband (donning golf rig) — Aren't you going to church this morning?

Wife—No, I'm not feeling well.

Husband—Then call a messenger boy and send him. The family must be represented.—Punch.

PLANNING A RED LETTER DAY

Dear Editor and Sisters: I thought I would write a few lines. Perhaps my letter will not come amiss in filling up a corner somewhere as I saw the page was dropping off a little. I hope Grandma Grey will write again as her letters are always interesting. I am very much taken up with all the letters as there is always something good in each one.

What has become of Historian? Haven't seen anything lately. Is he or she too busy to write? I guess they must be getting ready for the picnic June 18 at the Girls club house, Central Village. Don't forget the date.

Hope to see a good many and hope to have a good day. Don't forget to wear your badges. The place will be easy to find as there will be a yellow bow over the door. Be ready with something to say when your name is called. Let's make it a red letter day, long for us to be remembered. Will stop and make room for others. Good luck to all.

RUPTURE EXPERTS

FOR

Men, Women and Children

COMING TO NORWICH

Representing

W. S. RICE

ADAMS, N. Y.

The Rice Rupture Method Experts, O. E. Green and Miss I. Braman, personal representatives of William S. Rice, Adams, N. Y., will be at the Wauregan Hotel, Norwich, Conn., Monday and Tuesday, June 9th and 10th. Every ruptured man, woman and child should take advantage of this great opportunity.

The Rice Method for Rupture is known the world over. You can now see this Method demonsrtated and have a Rice Appliance fitted to you. Absolutely no charge unless you are satisfied to keep the Outfit after having the Appliance adjusted and you see how perfectly and comfortably it holds. No harsh, deep-pressing springs; nothing to gouge the flesh and make you sore. Can be worn night and day with positive comfort. Soft, rubber-like composition pad, any degree of pressure required.

Don't wear a truss all your life when thousands have reported cures through using the Rice Method. Why suffer the burden of rupture if there is a chance to be free from truss-wearing forever? Anyway, it will cost you nothing to come in and learn all about the Rice Method and the wonderful opportunity for help and cure it offers in your case. Remember these Experts will be there only TWO days, then your opportunity will be gone. Just ask at the hotel desk for the Rice Experts and they will do the rest. Call any time from 9 to 12 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m., or 7 to 9 evenings. Women and young children receive personal attention of Lady Expert in separate apartments.

Don't miss this great opportunity to see these Experts on Hernia.

CIRCUS FOLLOWERS BURGLARIZE NEW LONDON STORES AND HOME

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, June 6.—Two stores and a residence were burglarized last night and it is the belief of the police that the breaks were perpetrated by a gang of youths, who follow the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus, which exhibited here yesterday. Authorities in cities in New England where the show will appear have been requested to maintain watch of peddlers to discover if any of the stolen goods are offered for sale.

One of the stores burglarized was that of the New London News company, 87 Bank street and the other was the A. & M. company, at 377, almost next door to the news store. At the news store fountain pens of the estimated value of $375, pearl-handled knives, worth $50, and searchlights valued at $5 composed the plunder obtained. Entrance to the store was gained by forcing a rear window. From the store of the A. & M. company two sweaters and two overcoats were taken. The residence receiving a visit from the crooks was that of W. Peskoff, 45 John street and entrance was gained through an open window while the family slept. From Peskoff's trousers, which hung in a room other than where the owner slept was taken a wallet containing $100 and from Peskoff's vest, which had been placed on a chair in the bed room was taken a gold watch, chain and locket, the last named being set with a diamond.

A sweater belonging to Mrs. Peskoff and in the pocket of which had been placed a dollar in specie, was stolen, but this morning when the robbery was discovered the sweater was found in the yard in the rear of the house with the money gone, excepting a dime, with the sweater were three boxes of woman's stockings. Where the stockings came from is not known, but it is supposed they were dropped by the thieves in their flight.

Herman Soltz, brother-in-law of Peskoff, reported to the police tonight that a suit of clothes belonging to him was also stolen from the Peskoff house.

An automobile owned and driven by Lieutenant Frederick D. Foster, U. S. N., attached to the U. S. S. Texas, struck a cart in which a child was riding and another child pushing it, on Bank street, near Tilley street, this evening. The youngster in the cart was thrown out, but escaped injury.

Three more violators of the automobile law and city's traffic ordinances will be prosecuted in the police court tomorrow morning. Harold McGrath, 278 Crystal avenue, was ordered into court for parking his car away from the curb on Union street; George Findley, 147 Bank street, was summoned into court for parking away from the curb on that street and creating a condition of congestion and Alfred Comstock, Quaker Hill, was ordered to court for operating an automobile without having a license to do so.

Mrs. Julia Morgan Palmer, 71, wife of Charles C. Palmer, died last night at her home at Poquonnoc Bridge, following a lingering illness.

The police did a good job last night when they arrested a couple of crooks at the terminal of the Connecticut company, where the cars received their passengers at the conclusion of the circus. The crooks, identified as Fred Damato, 227 Cedar street, and Louis Fennelly, 94 Portsea street, both of New Haven, are recognized as hardened criminals by the New Haven police. Damato is a pickpocket and has been arrested six times for the offense. He is scheduled to appear in the New Haven police court tomorrow on a continued charge of pickpocketing and was at liberty on bail of $1,000. Fennelly is said to be chief of the worst kind and has been arrested by the New Haven police 16 times for theft, burglary, automobile theft, resisting an officer nad breach of the peace. The pair were observed last night mingling in crowds and when Damato and Fennelly went to the the trolley cars when the show was ended they were again watched. Their movements indicated that they intended to operate among the passengers scrambling for seats in the cars, but before they had an opportunity to do so they were taken into custody. They are now in the county jail awaiting a hearing on the 19th inst., and as either could furnish bail of $3,000, they will probably stay there until the day of their trial and then they may go back for a longer time.

Twelve members of the crew of the rum-runner Sovereign, owned by Captain John Stack, 89 Jefferson avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., captured under fire by the revenue cutter Seminole off Block Island Wednesday afternoon were brought into port yesterday morning with a cargo of 1400 cases of whiskey. The men, who were prisoners at the county jail in default of bail of $3500 each, for a hearing before United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson of Norwich on the 19th inst., were released from custody this afternoon, when the Detroit Fidelity and Casualty company qualified as surety on the bonds of the dozen rum-runners. The prisoners, James Le Blanc, John White, Joseph Russo, William White, John Shaw, Philip Smith, Charles Decker, Elmer Arnold, William Powers, Joseph Clayton, Edward Wilson and John Wilson, left for New York, following their liberation. Stack, who received a bullet wound in the left groin from the Seminole's gun-fire, and who is under treatment at Lawrence hospital, will be held in bonds of $15,000 as soon as his condition permits his appearance before Commissioner Mathewson. Stack's condition was reported at the institution this evening as being unchanged.

Michael Bran, who has been before the police court many times for intoxication, was arrested again this evening for the same offense when Patrolman Carlos Selesnitsky found him unable to navigate on Douglass street. When searched at the police station, Bran, who works around farms, had $30 in his possession.

Members of the Crowley club held a housewarming this week, at their newly acquired vacation house at Ocean Beach. Rev. Dr. T. M. Crowley, after whom the club is named, was the guest of honor. A feature of the occasion was the initiation of candidates. Ruth McGarry was the chairman of the initiation exercises, assisted by Hazel Corkey, Catherine Reidy, Mary McCarthy, Lillian Sheridan and Josephine Sullivan. The Crowley club for the past two summers has had a vacation house at Crescent Beach at which they have entertained many Catholic girls throughout the state. The Ocean Beach clubhouse will be formally opened about July 1.

The city is to acquire that section of beach front adjoining what is known as Green's Harbor off Pequot avenue. The owners of the small stretch of beach are the heirs of the estates of Janet K. Ackley and Lucy Pratt; the trustees of the two estates have decided to dispose of the bathing site to the municipality for $3,000. Deeds transferring the property will be executed within a few days. The beach has been used by little children for many years, but with it under city control better advantages for the youngsters and their parents will be afforded.

At Groton, Henry Nott recently appointed a patrolman, reported for duty last evening and was assigned to the Eastern Point beat, Bernard Chapman who previously was detailed to the beat, has been transferred to duty in the vicinity of upper Thames street.

Two Baltic girls were taken into custody this evening, charged with street walking. Their identity was revealed and the father of one of the girls was communicated with and came to New London. Both girls were turned over to him and returned to Baltic.

Isadore Machol, 48 Main street, reported to the police this evening that the driver of one of the buses operated between New London and the submarine base, violated the law when the windshield of the bus became broken and fell to the pavement on Main street, near Masonic street, the driver failing to remove the glass from the path of other automobiles.

Miss Jennie O'Brien, New York, is being entertained by her sister, Mrs. Simon O'Connor.

Master John Beauchamp, of Mystic, Mrs. William Davis, Montville, Mrs. Ami Charrone and twin daughters, Front street, and Mrs. Georgiana Collins, North Westchester, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated pital were dirscharged today.

The funeral of William G. Cook, son of the late Patrick J. and Mary McQuillan Cook, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Alexander Wollschlaeger. The bearers were William Couture, Nelson Smith, William Ryan, Walter O'Neill, Frederick Zepp and John Keating.

Mrs. Mary C. Belcher, 63, widow of William A. Belcher, died this morning at her residence, 16 Hempstead court, following a lingering illness. She is survived by two sons, Frank and William Belcher, and a brother, Michael Kane, all of New London. Mrs. Belcher was employed for many years as pastry cook at the Hotel Mohican.

Edward A. Fenwick, 36, of 145 Green street, died this morning at Lawrence hospital, where he had been under treatment for a week for pneumonia. He was the son of the late Alfred and Ellen Fenwick and is survived by a brother, Orlo H. Fenwick, clerk in the New London post office and by three sisters, Mrs. Daisy F. Silva and Mrs. Annie Whiting of New London and Mrs. Grace F. Childs, of New York. Mr. Fenwick was a carpenter and was head of the local carpenters' union.

Ambrose Terris, 63, of Hill street, who fell from the third story of the block, 308 Main street, last evening, died at Lawrence hospital this morning. How Terris came to fall to the sidewalk remains a mystery and throughout the day the police and Medical Examiner Harold H. Heyer were engaged in conducting an investigation to determine what occurred to cause Terris to fall through the window. Terris had been drinking with friends at the place and went to the window. The next his companions saw of him was when they noticed his body disappearing through the open space. In landing on the sidewalk Terris' fall was broken by his body landing on a veranda roof. After Terris reached the hospital it was stated that he was not seriously injured, but in spite of that statement he died early this morning. Medical Examiner Heyer this afternoon stated that he had not determined the cause of Terris' death. It was reported that Terris had sustained a broken neck, but this was denied by Medical Examiner Heyer, who declared that the only visible injury was a scalp wound and that the skull was not fractured.

John R. Latham, 42 Summit avenue and employed as cashier at the New London City National bank, is critically ill with peritonitis at Lawrence hospital. Mr. Latham was seized with abdominal pains at his home last night and it was deemed advisable that an operation be performed at once. He was removed to the institution and a half hour later the operation was performed when it was revealed that peritonitis had developed. Mr. Latham is well and favorably known, having been employed by the bank about 20 years.

An automobile owned by the Westerly Lumber company, of Westerly, R. I., was stolen last night while the machine was parked on Ocean avenue, near Thames street. This morning the car was found abandoned on the same avenue, near Ocean beach. This afternoon an employe of the lumber company came to New London and took charge of the car, which was not damaged.

The police court did what might be called in old times a "land office" business today, for there were traffic ordinance violators, alleged crooks, drunks and state auto law violators up for discipline. Two men who hail from New Haven, Fred Damato and Louis Fenelly, were held until Tuesday next, as suspicious persons. Their bonds were so high that they probably will not attempt to secure sureties. They are of the bold and imputent type of offenders whether they are found guilty of anything more than being "suspicious."

David Levy, of Norwich, was charged with infraction of the auto laws and he admitted by a plea of guilty that he was rightfully accused. He was in this city on the 1st inst and was operating a car without being in possession of an operating license. Officer Courtney tagged him and he was ordered to court today, where he was fined $25. He is employed in a stove shop at Norwich and there he appealed for and received money enough to pay his fine and the costs of trial.

Thomas Crocker, residing in the Hull building on Main street went to his dinner yesterday and the meal tasted so good to him that he tarried at the table an hour or more whereas the ordinance governing the parking of automobiles on that street allows a machine to stay but 30 minutes. He was fined $5.

Benjamin Rose of Mystic parked in front of the Leverone property, on State street, so far away from the curbing that he was found to be violating the parking ordinance. He thinks he has a valid excuse for his offense so he asked that the case might go over till next week that he

In the Friday session of the Third district court, Clerk M. Walter Flynn, Jr., called the following docket:

New writ entered—James Calese, et al. vs. Gaetano Grispino. Continued one week.

One old writ was continued one week and another two weeks. James Farraro vs. Louis Wassinger was announced a s ready.

Eugene Fortune, 42, pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication having fallen off a load of household goods on June 5th, while moving from Kenyon, R. I., to Westerly. Serious injury was done his leg and he had to hobble into court. In view of his injuries and the fact that he has eight children, Judge Turano did not impose any fine and the man was released on the payment of costs.

The case of Charles Luppinazzo was passed, due to a misunderstanding.

Peter S. Berardinelli, 45, was raided at the stone barn on Franklin street on June 5th and having quantities of alcohol in his possession was convicted and fined $100 and costs of $3.80, amounting to $103.80, which he paid ad was discharged.

The liquor found at the place of John Brady in Hopkinton was ordered destroyed.

Thursday next at the First Hopkinton Seventh Day Baptist church, Ashaway, will be held the annual meeting of the Eastern Seventh-Day Baptist association. There will be in attendance delegates from the eleven or twelve churches which are members of the association. Officers of the association are: President, Miss Gertrude Stillman of Ashaway; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Slayton A. Burdick of Westerly.

By deeds filed Friday, June 6th, at the office of the Westerly town clerk, Marie M. Doherty conveyed to Edward J. Whalen and Elizabeth A. Whalen, his wife, both of Westerly, a certain tract of land with a three-family dwelling and other improvements on the west side of Summer street, the property being known as 6 Summer street. Bettina Gentilo also on that date conveyed to James Gradilon and wife a certain parcel of land, with dwilling, barn and garage on the south side of Pierce street.

Beta Boys' club is the name of an organization of boys of the Broad Street Christian church, between 13 and 20, formed recently. The meaning of the club name is "brain, brawn and backbone," essential for membership in the club whose mebbers are to be attendants at one of the three church organizations.

John A. Pawson and William A. Bradfoor, left Friday noon for a visit in New York.

Mary J. Berth of Westerly visited on Friday her sister, Miss Amelia Berth, who underwent an operation at the Rhode Island hospital, Providence, on Thursday.

John Crandall was a Westerly and Providence visitor on Friday.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. F. Swift of Chicago arrived in Westerly Friday en rout to their cottage at Watch Hill.

Ralph G. Collins, liquor merchant of Nassau, reputed one of the wealthiest men in the Bahamas, well known in Westerly fifteen or twenty years ago when he conducted the Collins Drug store, 68, next door to the paint store conducted by his father, John E. Collins, now building having since burned, arrived in the Munson line Munargo on Tuesday, said the New York Herald of Wednesday. He told of a hotel to be erected at Nassau to accommodate the large number of American visitors. This will be an up-to-date hostelry and will have 200 rooms at moderate prices. A large distillery will be built to accommodate the thirsty who may visit the Islands.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hayward Durkee and Mrs. Durkee's mother, Mrs. Ella Batcheller, leave today by motor for Watch Hill, where they will occupy Beachmere, their summer [illegible] season on the Fort [illegible]

[illegible] of New York city has arrived to occupy the cottage at Pleasant View of David Novogrod, known as the Tefft cottage.

Rev. and Mrs. Marvin S. Stocking of Grace Methodist Episcopal church of Westerly will be in attendance at the June meeting of the Norwich District Ministers' association which will be held Monday and Tuesday next at the Methodist church, East Hampton.

The bronze figure of a Spanish war soldier, known as "The Hiker," more than six feet in length, arrived in Westerly Friday morning by a Merkle Arrow line autotruck from New York. The figure was taken to the works of the New England Granite Co.'s plant on Ledward avenue. This figure is to be placed on a natural boulder located at the east side of Wilcox park, and high ground between the Grove avenue and Granite street entrances to the park. Already the foundations are in place on which to set the boulder and figure. The dedication is planned for Sunday, July 13th, the last of a two days' session of the R. I. State department encampment of the Spanish War Veterans.

Miss Elizabeth Hogg was downtown Friday for the first time since her recent illness for several weeks with scarlet fever.

Frances LeVaughn left Friday night for a week end business trip to New York.

Elizar J. Metivier of the West Side was in New London Thursday.

Donald C. Cottrell arrived in Westerly Friday evening from Boston to be the guest for several days with relatives and friends.

The work of laying an iron pipe under the gutter of Broad street the length of the new Washington building, to care for the rain leaders and connected with the catch basin in the sidewalk, has been completed. Now the gutter can be relaid.

New England express commuters at the Westerly station of the New Haven road were given a jolt Friday morning when a hound got between the rails in front of the express locomotive. The cowcatcher, tender and baggage car passed over the frightened dog which darted back and forth between the slowly moving wheels of the following sleeping car, seeking to jump out. As the dog made a quick turn its tail was caught and the end cut off. Another quick turn was made and the dog lost its head in looking for its tail as a following wheel passed over and completely severed it.

A meeting of the newly formed Westerly Collectors' club was held on Thursday evening on the West Side at the office of the president, George O. Murphey. The members were given an interesting talk on coin and stamp collections by William W. Hiscox of Brooklyn, N. Y., who is the guest of Westerly relatives.

MYSTIC

Motorists who wish to go to New London or to come through Mystic from there have to take a very circuitous route these days. Bank street is closed because it joins the state road over Baptist Hill where cement is being laid, and New London road from Orchard street up past the point where it is joined by West Mystic avenue is all torn up, this section also being part of the new state highway. The people who do not happen to have cars or who are prevented from getting about to see things for themselves have little conception of the torn-up condition of the roads on the west side of the river.

There are two routes available to motorists, one up Dudley's Hill, thence through Orchard Lane and various cross streets to New London road, and the other up Pearl street to Cliff street, thence down High to Burrows and from there over to New London road. Residents along these routes amuse themselves by counting the number of machines passing in a given time, one party having counted 35 in half an hour, which gives a little idea of the volume of traffic which goes over the state highway in the course of a day. All this detouring has one advantage, however, it gives motorists an opportunity to see sections of the village with which they would never become familiar in any other way and there are many more attractive spots along these detours than the passing motorist would realize if only the main road were traveled.

Miss Eleanor Geer has returned to West Somerville, Mass., after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Cameron.

might get a lawyer into court; his request was granted.

Benny Ustach was sent to jail to stay ten days for a breach of the peace in assaulting his daughter. Benny seems to be a habitual offender in this way when he is drunk for he beat his wife on the second of May, but he then put up a story that led Judge Prince to suspend a judgment that would have put him in jail. Today the suspension was revoked and Benny had to take the legal dose prescribed for him.

He also got Walter Wojkowsky, a sailor on a steamer at the state pier, into trouble for when Officer Sloan was making the arrest of Ustach the latter resisted and Sloan called for assistance from Wojkowsky. But the latter was crippled in one foot and couldn't give any help. Still Sloan was not sure of that and he arrested him, too. The court suspended judgment in Wojkowsky's case.

Peter Riley and T. W. Burke, sailors at the submarine base, were charged with fighting in the street. The sailors came ashore yesterday and tackled white mule that had the kick in it to a degree that they went down Bank street taking up all the sidewalk and making themselves very offensive to all who passed. They admitted that they were guilty. As the man had evaporated their leave from the base, they were turned over to a lieutenant and they will get their discipline under the rules laid down by Secretary Wilbur.

Preparations are being made to entertain 200 at dinner and supper Wednesday, and at dinner Thursday.

$26,000 DAYLIGHT ROBBERY BY FOUR MASKED BANDITS

Kansas City, June 6.—A daring daylight robbery on a crowded downtown street shortly before noon today netted four masked bandits $26,000 in cash. They held up two man officials of the Main Street Bank at the point of a sawed-off shotgun after shooting a motorcycle policeman who was acting as guard.

The officials, F. J. Lodde, paying teller, and Charles G. Haake, cashier of the bank, were taking the money in an automobile from the First National bank when the bandits in two motor cars raced alongside them, crowded them to the curb, transferred the small black sack of bills to one of their cars and disappeared in the maze of traffic after an exciting chase.

C. L. Dyer, the motorcycle policeman who was following the bank officials was shot over the left eye as the bandits sped past him to overtake the bank officials.

The bullet-ridden automobiles containing sawed-off shotguns, ammunition, an old cap and two masks were found by the police several hours later in a residential section of the city.

TWO OF GANG OF ROBBERS SENTENCED TO SING SING

New York, June 6.—Eugene F. Moran and Albert E. Hourwitch, members of a gang which on the night of December 31, 1922, robbed Mrs. C. P. Hugo Schoelkopf, of Buffalo, of jewelry valued at $300,000 in an apartment in this city, were sentenced by Supreme Court Justice Tompkins today to Sing Sing prison for two and one-half to five years.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WEAKENED

New York, June 6.—Stock prices weakened perceptibly today under the persistent hammering of professional traders. Encouraged by the success of a drive against the oil shares, based on a fresh cut in Mid-Continent crude oil prices, they extended their operations to other sections of the list, forcing sharp declines in steel, sugar, rubber and specialty issues. At the close of the day thirty industrial stocks, including N. S. Steel were in new low ground for the year.

Ability of the bear element to depress prices in whatever sections of the list it launched its attacks, undermined speculative confidence and realizing developed toward the close in the rail and public utility groups, which had shown independent strength earlier in the day. Rail shares turned downward for the first time this week and gains which had carried several public utility issues to new 1924 high levels were cancelled.

With the recent forward movement in various rails and public utilities failing to stimulate much outside buying, there were indications that pool operations, presumably under way, were suspended late in the day when the supply of other stocks became too great for the market to absorb. Before the reaction, however, new 1924 high levels were reached by Central of New Jersey, Missouri Pacific and "Katy" preferred issues, West Penn Power common and preferred, Staandard Gas, Federela Light and tractions and International Telephone.

No new developments were brought forward today to account for the drop of 1 1-2 points in U. S. Steel to the year's lowest level at 94 1-2, although re consideration of the weekly trade reports, revealing operations of 50 per cent, and and an unparalelled decline in pig iron production in May, contributed to its weakness. Bethlehem also touched a new low price at 45 -4; Republic at 42 1-3 and Vanadium at 20 1-4.

The reduction of 10 to 50 cents a barrel in Mid-Continent crude oil prices precipitated a fresh bear attack on the oil shares and also was effective in bringing out some liquidation. New low records for 1924 were established by Atlantic Refining, Cosden, Texas Company, Phillips, California Petroleum Petroleum, Associated Oil and Sinclair. Standard Oils suffered moderate recessions.

Reports of the sugar shortages and the disappointing demand for the low level of sugars, low levels inspired selling of these issues. American Sugar preferred dropped 4 points, Punta Alegre 2 3-4 and South Porto Rican, Cuban American, and Cuban Dominican also eased off to new 1924 bottom prices. Rubber company shares were sold on rumors of forthcoming price cuts.

Foreign exchanges were firm. French francs registered substantial improvement, apparently on the reichstag's approval of the Dawes report and late in the day was selling around 5.75. Sterling was steady, higher above $4.31.

Call money, after opening at 2 3-4 per cent., the lowest renewal rate in two years, later sagged off to 2 1-2 per cent. Sixty day time loans were contracted at 2 3-4 per cent. and longer accommodations at 4 per cent. with the market showing a distinctly easier tone. Commercial paper discounts ranged from 4 1-4 to 4 1-2 per cent.

BOND MARKET

New York, June 6.—A brisk forward movement in United States government bonds, carrying eight issues to the year's highest prices and in some instances to new high records, today helped to sustain values throughout the entire list. Buying of Liberty bonds reflected the employment of surplus bank funds as money rates developed a softening tendency.

While the demand tapered off toward the close fo the market, all obligations scored substantial gains and in scaling new peak prices were 4-32nds to 18-32nds higher. At the crest of today's advance the treasury 4 1-4's crossed 103 and the Liberty third 4 1-4's touched 101.12, both new high records for all time. The Liberty 3 1-2's sold at 100.9, second 4's at 100.23; first-second 4 1-4's at 101; first 4 1-4's at 101.4; second 4 1-4's, at 100.28; and fourth 4 1-4's at 101.13..

Investment buying continued at a vigorous pace in other sections of the list, with numerous railroad issues forging steadily ahead. Demand for the obligations of a number of the southwestern carriers which are expected eventually to form the nucleus of another large system was particularly brisk. Thise movement embraced Missouri Pacific, "Katy," New Orleans, Texas and Mexico, International Great Northern and Chicago and Eastern Illinois issues. Public utility liens were firm but rubber and sugar company mortgages were depressed by unsettled trade conditions.

Wall street heard today that the long-delayed "Nickel Plate" bond issue, totaling about $26,000,000, would appear in the market early next week.

METAL MARKET

New York, June 6.—Copper quiet, electrolytic spot and futures 13 7-8. Tin firm, spot and future 42.50. Iron quiet, prices unchanged. Lead steady, spot, 7 a 7.12. Zinc quiet, East St. Louis spot and nearby 5.35. Antimony, spot 8.40.

CURB MARKET

New York, June 6.—Trading on the curb market today was featured by a wave of selling in the oil shares accelerated by a cut in Mid-Continental prices and vigorous activity of public utility shares in the industrial group.

Several of the leading oils regained much of the earlier recessions, however, closing fractionaly lower. Cities Service, common, lost 1 1-2 points on the day while a few Standard Oil issues showed larger declines on small transactions.

The outstanding feature of the activity in public utilities was Appalachian Power's rapid advance of 21 points which was attributed to the running in of a short position, the rise being at the rate of two points between sales. The setback was as sharp as the advance and the stock closed at 80 for a gain of 8 points. Strength also was shown by Tennessee Electric Power which touched 30, closing 1 1-2 points higher on the day. Other active issues in the group were retarded by profit-taking.

Mixed changes of minor importance occurred in the rest of the industrials. The motor and radio shares moved fractionally.

COTTON

New York, June 6.—Spot cotton quiet., middling 29.40.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, June 6.—Wheat averaged lower in price today, chiefly as a result of showers predicted for the greater part of the grain belt. Germany's acceptance of the Dawes' plan, however, was a late bullish factor. The close for wheat was unsettled, ranging from 3-8 a 1-2c net decline to 1-4c advance advance, July 1.04 1-4 to 1.04 3-8 and September 1.05 5-8 to 1.05 5-8 a 3-4. Corn finished 1-8 to 5-8c up, and oats unchanged to 1-2 a 5-8c off. In provisions, the outcomes varied from 5c setback to a rise of 12c.

Although the wheat market here started with an upward tendency due to an unexpected advance at Liverpool and to gossip that export bids for United States wheat had been somewhat raised, sellers were in a majority after the government forecast was issued pointing to widespread moist weather. The fact that the Liverpool market will be closed until Wednesday led to belief in some quarters that export business would be restricted, and this circumstance was more or less of a depressing influence. On the other hand, strength in the Winnipeg market counted as something of an offset, July delivery there going to a wider premium over Chicago.

Rallies which took place in the wheat market here just before the close were associated with Berlin news of the Dawes plan approval and with reports of European buying of United States wheat for shipment both via the Gulf of Mexico and Montreal. Enlarged milling demand here an dfinal efforts toward farm legislation at Washington were also an aid to late upturns in price.

Temperatures still below normal together with talk of much re-planting needed upheld the corn market. Oats were eased by expected rains, especiall in Iowa.

Packer selling of lard made the provision market irregular.

AUCTION

I will sell at public auction the goods or estate of George A. Kahn on WEDNESDAY, JUNE 11, 1924,
at 9.30 o'clock (standard time),
on the farm known as the old Albert Hoxie place, in the Town of Lebanon, on the road leading from Cobaville to Yantic, the following property:

35 HEAD OF STOCK

consisting of 2 new milch Jersey cows, 2 Holstein cows, 2 registered Ayrshire heifers (2-year-old with calves by side), yearling Ayrshire heifer (eligible), yearling Ayrshire bull (eligible), 2 10 months' old Ayrshire heifers (eligible), 3 Ayrshire calves, 4 very choice Hereford heifers (with calves by side), Hereford bull (2-year-old, registered), 1 Devon bull (13-year-old), 3 yearling Hereford heifer, 3 2-year old Hereford steers, 5 Hereford calves, Ayrshire calves, 2 Holstein calves, pair 2-year-old steers (well broken), pair stags (well broken), 2 horses (good workers and drivers), harnesses, 3 tons fertilizer, some lumber, dump cart, mowing machine, horse rake, cultivators, hay tedder, plows, log boats, horse corn planter, tackle blocks, 1 late model Ford touring car in good condition, 1918 Paige touring car, 1 Ford truck, frame for windmill, 1 sawmill (all complete with 15 H. P. gas engine). This is a good mill. Anybody interested will have to look this up before sale, at the James Huntington place, in Franklin, as it will be too heavy to move for auction. Several gallons high grade cylinder oil and other tools and articles far too numerous to mention.

ELISHA WATERMAN,
Administrator.

Caterer in attendance.
If stormy, sale next fair week day.
Auctioneer's Statement: This is the estate of George A. Kahn, who was killed by dynamite explosion at Camp Mowean on May 15th, and everything must be sold without reserve or limit. Positively no by bidding. As most of the stock and tools are kept on the Kahn place, in Lebanon, the sale is being held there instead of home place.

OBITUARY.

William H. Newell.

Hartford, June 8.—William H. Newell, of No. ... Whitney street, secretary ... this city died suddenly this morning of heart failure while attending services at the First Methodist church. He was stricken shortly after leading the congregation in prayer in his capacity of superintendent emeritus of the Sunday school in connection with Children's Day services being conducted at the church. He was immediately ... by Dr. William L. Gillis but attempts to revive him were unsuccessful. His wife, Mrs. Nellie L. Newell, and son, Robert B. Newell, were at the services.

Besides his wife and son, Robert B., he leaves another son, Rev. Fred B. Newell, of New York; one daughter, Miss Eleanor Newell; four grandchildren Katherine, Lincoln, Elizabeth, Robert and Eleanor Newell; his mother, Mrs. Mary A. Parker, of 45 ... Charles E. Parker, of this city.

For more than thirty years, Mr. Newell was superintendent of the Sunday school at the First Methodist Episcopal church and upon retirement was given the honorary title of superintendent emeritus. He was president of the board of trustees of the church, in which capacity he served for about twenty years. He was instrumental in selecting the site for the present church when it was changed from the Asylum avenue location.

Mr. Newell was born in this city on February 20, 1853, the son of Daniel and Mary (Buckley) Newell. He received his early education in the local public schools and on leaving Hartford high school entered the employ of the Charter Oak Life Insurance company. He entered the employ of the Aetna Life Insurance company in 1876 and became assistant secretary in 1906. He was made secretary in 1917.

He married Miss Nellie L. Brewer, of this city, on October 25, 1874. He was a member of the Twentieth Century club and a trustee of Wilburham Academy.

Owing to Mr. Newell's death, the outing of the Ladies' Aid society and the Brotherhood of the First Methodist church planned for Tuesday evening at the Oasis club, has been cancelled. The Sunday school picnic ... Saturday afternoon has also been cancelled. Funeral arrangements are to be announced later.

Government to Issue New Certificates

Will Bear 2 3-4 Per Cent., Lowest Rate Since War or Post War Financing.

Washington, June 8.—Pre-war interests rates appeared on government securities today with the announcement by the treasury of its June fiscal program. The operation includes an issue of $150,000,000 in certificates of indebtedness and indicates a cut in the public debt of $350,000,000.

The new certificates will bear interest of two and three-quarters per cent., the lowest rate this government has paid in any of its war or post-war financing and probably lower than that of any government during the period since the World war opened in 1914. The issue is dated June 15 and matures next December 15.

Next in importance to the low interest rate and the cut in the national debt is the indication given by the announcement of the treasury's satisfactory condition. While the low interest reflects the easy money market and means the smallest outlay in interest that the government was borne on borrowings since the Panama canal issue, the small amount for which it asks is regarded as proof of the strengthened position the treasury occupies.

Maturing securities and interest on the public debt due June 15 require an outlay of $321,000,000 in the middle of June yet, with the issue of new securities of $150,000,000 together with tax payments due June 15 and balances on hand, the treasury will meet its obligations and carry on to September 15, the next tax paying date, when additional financing will have to be undertaken.

Two issues of securities must be retired this month. One is an issue of certificates of indebtedness amounting to $134,000,000 and the other an issue of treasury notes aggregating $311,000,000. Thus, despite an expected lower tax return on account of operation of the new tax law, the treasury is cutting the public debt by $280,000,000.

Interest on the public debt due this month amounts to about $76,000,000. This will be paid as a part of the general operation for June.

The British government on June 15 is scheduled to make a payment of $69,000,000 as an installment on its war-time borrowings from the United States. However, this payment must be used in retiring war-time securi... ... at the treasury will ... finish the year with a surplus larger than was originally calculated and this will enable use of a greater share of the tax payments in current expenditures during July and August.

Officials declined today to give definite figures on the amount of the surplus with which they expect to end the fiscal year, June 30, but tough calculations placed the figure around $400,000,000. Original estimates by the treasury upon which the tax reduction program was based by Secretary Mellon showed a surplus of $223,000,000. With the 25 per cent re... ... feet this present fiscal year.

Industrial Activity Continues to Sag

Steel Production Has Dropped to 45 Per Cent. of Its Capacity.

New York, June 8 (By the A. P.).—Signs of diminishing activity predominated in the reports on industrial condition last week. Buying of industrial and railroad equipment was very small and the steel industry continued to reflect this condition and the slowing down which occurred in the making of automobiles and other steel consuming products.

Pig iron production figures for May revealed an unparalleled curtailment. The daily average dropped 24,000 tons from the rate during April. This was 1,000 tons a day more than the previous record decline, which occurred at the time of the steel strike in 1919. Eighty-six furnaces were blown out in April and May, compared with 39 blown in during the first three months of the year.

Steel production meanwhile dropped back to about 45 per cent. of capacity after having risen to 95 per cent. in March. At the start of the year, before the spurt of over-production set in, the rate approximated 65 per cent. of capacity. New buying was considerably smaller than current output, but well posted observers felt that the stocks built up during the spring should be liquidated by the middle of July. The pig iron market displayed no convincing signs of a turn.

Figures on automobile output showed that the recession which began in April was extended during May. April's reduction amounted to about 3 per cent. compared with March. May's loss was 19 per cent. compared with April. The total for the first five months of the year, however, was the largest on record for such a period. Small price advances by certain manu...

WILLIMANTIC

Keyhole artists have been doing a thriving business in this city of late, having concentrated their efforts and secured the most loot from houses on Valley street. The police have been notified of breaks into four apartments on the second and third floors of a block at 142 Valley street. The acts were committed boldly in daylight, between noon and 3 o'clock Friday afternoon. Several rooms in the various apartments were ransacked and valuables were taken from two of them. The occupants of the apartments entered are Mr. and Mrs. Alexander James, Della Johnson, Anna Erickus and Mary Adams.

From the Johnson home the articles taken consisted of a white-gold wrist watch and a receipt for a Liberty bond and from the James apartment a white-gold wrist watch and a string of pearls were secured. Miss Johnson discovered the rooms in disorder when she returned in the afternoon. The contents of cupboard, closets and bureau drawers were strewn around the rooms of the various tenements. In none of the cases were the doors forced, all having been opened skillfully by turning the lock. There is little doubt that it was the same thief or thieves who broke into the Louis Gordon home on Valley street and carried off about $200 worth of jewelry and silverware. In this instance entrance was gained by unlocking the door, as was also the case at two other places on Jackson street and Jackson street extension.

Two hundred knights participated in the annual exercises of San Jose council No. 14, Knights of Columbus, in memory of the departed members of the organization. The procession which formed on Main street opposite the council rooms was a colorful one. All fourth degree members appearing in complete regalia, the B. P. O. E. band led the march, next in line were the fourth degree members marching in cross formation with Acting Mayor George W. Hinckley at the head. Then followed St. Joseph's Boy Scouts' band with an escort of troop members and third degree knights carrying canes and flowers. The marchers proceeded to St Mary's church on Valley street where services for the dead were conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. J. Papillon assisted by Rev. E. A. Mathieu and Rev. H. C. Belec. Owing to unfavorable weather it was found necessary to curtail the programme and the usual exercises at St. Joseph's cemetery were omitted. The eloquent eulogy was pronounced by Rev. Frederick R. Beaudreault of Occum. Upon leaving the edifice the procession was again formed and proceeded up Jackson street past St. Joseph's R. C. church where the fourth degree members officially saluted with swords. A countermarch was ordered and the return to the council rooms was made up Valley to Church and down Church to Main street where the procession dispersed. Committeemen then motored to St Joseph's cemetery to decorate the graves of the departed knights.

First holy communion was received by sixty-five children, between the ages of [illegible] at St. Mary's church [illegible] o'clock. The mass was administered by Rev. H. C. Belec who also read the mass, a sermon on The First Communion was given by Rev. Father Belec. All of the communicants are pupils of St. Mary's school. In the evening at 7:30 o'clock the children were received into the Scapular society. Both the mass and service were attended by a large number of relatives and friends of the children.

In the musical sketch, The Minister's Wife's New Bonnet, presented at the Baptist vestry Friday evening before a capacity audience, under the auspices of the Young People's Christian Endeavor society, the cast was as follows here: Rev. Grundy, Charles Robinson; Hepsibah Grundy, Mrs. Lillian Larkin; Samantha Slick, Miss Alice Peterson; Nodanna Perkins, Mrs. Ida Williams; Penelope Simpkins, Miss Dorothy James; Agatha Squall, Miss Margaret Gavitt; Cayenne Pepper, Miss Marion Bowen; Dephe Hardaker, Miss Doris Bowen; Vivian Walker, Miss Ines Paton; Always Knokit, Hyde Larkin; Billy Butcher, Albert Caufield. Hugh Howler, Byron Hawkins; Professor Highvoice, Miss Edna Butler. The chorus was augmented by Mrs. Getrude Carlson, Miss Dorothy Burde, Homer Hawkins, George Minnoch, Mrs. Edith Larkin and Mrs. Vera Rice. The affair was in charge of Mrs. Arthur Stiles and Miss Gertrude Crane. Music was by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tucker of North Windham, violinist and pianist, respectively.

At a W. C. T. U. meeting held recently with Rev. Andrew S. Muirhead of the Methodist church as speaker, the topic was Law Enforcement. The programme was in charge of a committee led by Mrs. Ella Fullerton. Miss Ruth M Nye, accompanied by her mother, was heard in two pleasing vocal solos. June 20th will be Flower Mission day and members are to take flowers to the hospital, as well as jellies or canned fruit.

The Girls' Glee club and Windham high school orchestra gave their annual concert before a large and appreciative audience at the high school [illegible] vocal and instrumental numbers merited and received hearty applause. Miss Celia [illegible] Bach, violinist, and Miss Ella [illegible] pianist, were heard in two selections each, Miss Bach playing Andante Religioso and Andante con moto as well as Tarantelle and Miss Fuller playing Andante and Rondo Capriccioso. Miss Bach is a pupil of Prof. Alexander Zukovsky of Hartford and Miss Fuller of Miss Ethel Hall of Willimantic. The orchestra rendered two selections, Miss Bach playing violin obligato. Miss Ruth Bliss, Miss Ruth Hall and Miss Ruth Fuller played on saxaphones by four boys, Harold White, Louis Ronan, Lester Carr and Joseph Hinds, with Miss Irene White at the piano.

In the town of Thompson, Federal Prohibition Enforcement Officers William E. Congdon and Stanton L. Briggs, with County Detective William D. Jackson of this city and Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer of Killingly, successfully conducted raids Friday [illegible] which resulted in two arrests, some brew and hard cider were found at the houses of Max Goldman and Alfred Kitka. In the evening the two men were taken before Justice of the Peace Thomas Ryan of the Thompson town court, charged with keeping intoxicating liquor. Both pleaded guilty as this was their first appearance in court. The fines were made light, each being forced to pay $25 and costs. The raids followed the receipt of complaints that [illegible] were of frequent occurrence at the Kitka and Goldman homes.

An automobile driven by its owner, Gustave Fox, of 65 West 130th street, New York city, collided with a motorcycle and rider on the North Windham road near this city Saturday afternoon and both vehicles were damaged. Fox alleged that the motorcycle driver turned his machine directly in front of his car in making a turn in the road and in that manner caused the collision. The number of the motorcycle is C-461 and it is likely that the owner will be questioned by the police, to whom the accident was reported by Mr. Fox.

Following adjournment of its regular meeting, a successful social was held by Mary Todd Lincoln tent, No. 15, Daughters of Veterans, in G. A. R. hall. G. A. R. members present were Commander A. P. Bennet, Adam Dunts, James Haggerty, Charles Henry and Joseph Slater. Readings were given by Miss Margaret Smith and Commander Benner gave a short talk on his experiences in the Civil war.

At Lake Wangumbaug, South Coventry, there was a delightful outing of thirty members of the senior class of Willimantic State Normal school Saturday under the chaperonage of members of the faculty. Lakeside cottages were occupied during the night and the party returned here Sunday.

Considerable is being done of late toward furthering the social spirit of Willimantic but as yet no one has undertaken the arduous ask of furthering public safety. The convenience of parking for several hours on narrow business streets remains popular and the invitation remains open for a collision of automobiles on these streets.

Superintendent of the Norwich district Rev. William H. Bath of Norwich presided at the first quarterly conference of the Methodist church, held here Saturday evening. Reports were made by the chairmen of the various committees.

Flowers brought by Woman's Relief corps members were made up into beautiful bouquets at the G. A. R rooms Sunday and the members boarded the 4.15 o'clock trolley to Willimantic cemetery, where the graves of deceased members were decorated and a memorial service was conducted.

Mrs. James A. MacAvoy, the lone occupant of a tenement at 57 Maple avenue, was suddenly taken ill Saturday morning and with difficulty reached the door of a neighbor in the same building, who notified Dr. M. D. Riordan. It was found that Mrs. MacAvoy was in a very feeble condition and she was taken to St. Joseph's hospital for treatment. Before the death of her husband a few years ago, Mr. and Mrs. MacAvoy occupied the pretentious residence corner of Maple avenue and Bellevue street.

CONN. AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE CONFERS 48 DEGREES

(Special to The Bulletin)

Storrs, Conn., June 8.—Forty-eight degrees were conferred by Connecticut Agricultural college at the commencement day exercises held Saturday in Hawley armory. The exercises were attended by a large gathering of alumni and friends and relatives of the graduating class. President Benjamin Tinkham Marshall of the Connecticut College for Women, New London, delivered the commencement address.

The academic procession, made up of officers and faculty members of the college, alumni groups, and the members of the graduating class, marched into Hawley armory, headed by President Charles Lewis Beach of Connecticut Agricultural college, and President Marshall of Connecticut college.

"Ideals in Practical Education," was the theme of President Marshall's address. He spoke of the qualities that go into the makeup of education explained what education is, and what the state has a right to expect of those who attend a state college.

In defining education, he said: "Education is the result of that process or series of processes by which [illegible] developed to lay his powers well to any task [illegible] and to discharge it wisely and well, with satisfaction to himself, and with advantage to society."

In speaking of what the state has a right to expect of its students, he mention patriotism first. This he defined as obedience to the state and all its needs. He went on further to say that all work should be done with distinction, because of the feeling of satisfaction that it gives. The necessity of dignifying any task, however small, by taking the right attitude, was also emphasized. In closing he spoke of the moral obligation that all owe, and the necessity of recognizing it in all living and doing.

Honors and prizes for the year were presented by President Beach. The senior honors, consisting of books appropriately inscribed, were awarded three seniors, who for their entire course have maintained the highest average of scholarship. Thomas [illegible] Donahue of Hartford, was the high ranking member of the class, with Marion Selleck Eggleston of Salisbury, second, and Lewis Cutter Richardson, of Springfield, Mass., third, in connection with this, it is interesting to note that the three high ranking members of the class are also leaders in student activities. Donahue is a letter-man in football, president of the Athletic Association, a member of various college publications, and he has taken a prominent part in college dramatics. Richardson was editor-in-chief of The Nutmeg, the college year book, and an active worker in other college publications, president of the student organization, and a consistent worker in several minor activities. Miss Eggleston is a member of the woman's student governing board, and has been a member of various demonstration teams in home economics.

The Ratcliffe Hicks prizes for excellence in English composition, were awarded to two seniors and one junior. The first prize of $30 was awarded Wilfred deLisle Burgess for the essay, "Beautifying the Farm." The second prize of $20 was awarded Joe Cecil Snow for the essay, "The Soldiers' Bonus from an Ethical and an Economic Point of View." The third prize of $10 was awarded Marion Selleck Eggleston for the essay "The Efficient Household; Modern Methods in Home Making and Their Economic Effect of the Status of Women."

Doris Elizabeth Barton of Hamden was awarded the E. Stevens Henry scholarship prize of $50 for the sophomore whose rank as a freshman, was highest.

President Beach presented the degrees, calling each student to the stage.

An alumni luncheon was served in the college dining hall, after which the Alumni association of the college held their annual meeting. G. H. Hollister was elected president, and Louis A. Alexander was elected alumni field secretary. A budget for the expenses of 1924-25 was adopted, and the constitution modified.

In the afternoon, the Connecticut baseball nine successfully closed the season by defeating the Rhode Island State team, 9-6. The local Aggies got away to a poor start, committing errors in the infield that allowed Rhode Island to obtain what should have been lead enough to sew up the game. The Aggie defense tightened, however, and a good stickwork in the pinches, aided by Rhode Island errors, allowed the Storrs Aggies to take the game.

Commencement Week was brought to a close Saturday evening with the senior-alumni entertainment and dance. Professor H. A. Seckerson presented the state college players in two short plays: Suppressed Desires and Fancy Free. In Suppressed Desires, Henrietta Brewster was played by Pauline Girard, for Mabel, her sister, Marie Bronson was cast and Stephen Brewster was played by Russell White.

In Fancy Free, Lawrence Parker was Ethelbert, Fred Sweet was Alfred Fancy was interpreted by Irene Ellis, and Della by Marie Bronson. After the plays there was dancing until midnight.

More than 250 alumni of the college returned for the Commencement week exercises, with the class of '99, the reunion of which was arranged by Mrs. H. L. Garrigus of Storrs, making an especially good showing. Among those attending the alumni meeting were Imbert Fellows of Norwich Town, the president of C. A. C. Alumni club of southeastern Connecticut. Mrs. Imbert Fellows, Merton Chapman of Groton, Walter T. Clark of Gales Ferry, alumni representative on the [illegible] athletic council.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES AT WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY

Wesleyan University's ninety-second commencement exercises will open Thursday, June 12th, with the Declamation Contest in Memorial chapel for the Parker prize.

For Friday, Class Day, a new feature is offered this year. After the class day exercises on the front campus, the preliminary meeting of Phi Beta Kappa and the Fraternity Receptions, the Paint and Powder club will offer a three-act comedy, "The Bonds of Interest," on the front steps of North college.

Alumni Day, June 14th, is to be taken up with meetings of senior societies, the Alumni Council, the trustees, and the Alumnae preceding the buffet luncheon, at noon. After the Alumni Class Parade at 1.15, the Wesleyan nine will meet Amherst on Andrus Field. The president's reception, "the 1831 Dinner," and the campus illumination during the concert and sing in the evening are other features of this day.

Bishop William Fraser McDowell will preach the Baccalaureate sermon on Sunday morning. Bishop Frederick Rohn Fisher will be the speaker at the university service in the evening.

Monday morning at 10 exercises commencement will take place. About one hundred bachelors' degrees will be awarded besides a large number of Masters and honorary degrees to be announced later.

WOMAN HELPLESS IN BED HEARS BURGLAR AT WORK

(Special to The Bulletin)

Willimantic, June 8.—A sneak thief, believed to be the same intruder who figured in this city of late as a keyhole artist, was thwarted in his attempt to secure loot, shortly after 10 o'clock Saturday night, by the cries of a child at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Morrison 264 Valley street. Working on the street which appeared to be his chosen field the thief braved the light shining through the window of the down stairs tenement of the house, occupied by Frederick Roy and family, and gained access to the second story by climbing up the veranda post to the roof of the porch. Mrs. Morrison is an invalid and confined to her bed and her husband was at his work for the United Music company at the time. The frightened call of her two year old child from an adjourning room awakened Mrs. Morrison and she was startled to hear heavy breathing such as is caused by physical exertion. Completely terrified and unable to move she listened intently and presently heard soft foot steps coming from a room about in the center of the house and leading to the front window. A moment of silence and the sliding screen on the window was closed and then all was quiet.

Upon his arival home Mr. Morrison found his wife in a serious nervous condition. Lieut Frank McLean of the police department was notified and he with the assistance of Officer Frederick Laramee and neighbors made an investigation. Nothing had been touched in the house, but the marks left by the thief as he climbed the post were plainly visible the following day.

Mrs. Roy had complained to her husband about 9:30 o'clock that evening that as she arrived home from a shopping trip a man had walked ahead of her and had stopped in front of the house with the apparent purpose of playing with a cat. Mrs. Roy had wisely walked into the neighboring yard, then ran around the house and entered through the rear door.

JEWETT CITY

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Shackey was held from her home on South Main street Saturday morning. Solemn high requiem mass was sung at St. Mary's church by Rev. J. J. McCabe, Rev. Richard P. Morrissey being deacon and Rev. James J. Tyler sub-deacon. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, Lisbon, Rev. Father McCabe reading the committal service. The bearers were John Barnett, John Dolan, Dennis Griffin, William Clarke, Fred Condie and Daniel Finn. Hourigan Bros., were in charge of the arrangements.

Court Griswold F. of A., No. 101, held memorial services in their rooms and decorated the graves of the following members of the order:

Joseph Lamothe, Daniel Scully, Patrick Farrell, Michael O'Mara, Frederick Partridge, Thomas Grady, Jerry Morey, John Clark, John Bray, Louis Laliberte, Joseph Hero, Raymond Murray, Joseph Ritchie, Maurice Shea, Victor L'Heureux, Paul Ethier, Geo Eichelberg, John Walsh, Frank N. Brown, John D. Driscoll, John W. Blake; non-members of Court Griswold, Thomas Morrison, James Farrell, Louis Vachon.

A memorial service was held at the last regular meeting of Pachaug grange. The grange mourns the loss of two members during the year, John P. Gorman of Jewett City and Mrs. Peter Gustafson of Bethel. The address of the evening was given by Rev. J. P. Richardson.

Grade A. Natural milk from pure bred, tuberculer tested Holsteins. Good for everybody. Safe for babies. R. W Dearnley.—adv.

Mrs. J. T. Stewart received word Saturday night that the home at Kitemaug of Mr and Mrs. Louis Engler and Mrs. Stewart's sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Kingsley had been burned with all its contents, during the absence of the family, Saturday afternoon, in Norwich.

Graduating exercises of the public schools of Griswold are to be held in Finn Opera house next Thursday evening.

R. W. Dearnley is having his two-tenement house next to the store remodelled into four five room flats. This house originally stood on the corner of Main street and Slater avenue and Slater's store was conducted in the basement.

While the dance at Pachaug grange hell was in progress Saturday night an automobile bearing a number showing that it came from a place nearly one hundred miles away, parked on one side of the road. Two roughly dressed men got out and made a tour among the cars parked there. Deputy Sheriff Dolan was on duty, and followed them. When they found the cars were patrolled they left apparently not having come to attend the dance. It was later learned that the car had been parked near Pachaug cemetery for a time.

Dorcas circle of the King's Daughters is to meet at the home of Miss S. Adams Tuesday evening.

Mrs. W. J. Reynolds entertains the Lisbon Ladies' Aid society at her home in Newent Wednesday afternoon.

Pachaug orchestra and their assistants held a very successful dance Saturday evening in Grange hall. Prof. Tinkham's prompting was of the best.

Ruthie Rebekah lodge held a memorial service in Odd Fellows hall Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Lillian Sheffield gave a memorial address. Mrs. Edith Jeffers and Mrs. Ida Hazard sang Lead Kindly Light and Mrs. Mary Thompson read a poem, entitled God Knoweth Best. The chaplain Martha Davis read the prayer. The graves of Dr. and Mrs. J. Byron Sweet, Mrs. Harriet Tillinghast, Dr. S. H. Holmes, J. P. Gorman, G. A. Haskell and Mrs. Corey were decorated.

The Congregational church and Sunday school picnic is to be held June 21st. The committee to decide the place and make arrangements comprises the superintendent of the Sunday school, E. L. French, William McNicol and Mrs. F. D. Fuller.

Ninety children received their first holy communion at St. Mary's church Sunday morning. In the evening they were received into the scapular of the Blessed Virgin and there was a reception of new members into the Ladies Rosary society.

NINETEEN GRADUATED FROM LEDYARD PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Nineteen boys and girls were graduated from the public schools of the town of Ledyard at exercises held on Friday evening at the Ledyard Center Congregational church. There was a very large attendance at the exercises. Mrs. Winifred Chrepeau presided at the piano and Miss Ruby Swain played the violin. The programme was as follows:

AMERICAN AVIATORS HAVE ARRIVED IN HONG KONG

Hong Kong, June 8 (By the A. P.) —The three American planes which are on an aerial flight around the world arrived here from Amoy at 12.20 o'clock this afternoon, having made the 300-mile flight in 3 hours and 15 minutes.

The planes reached Hong Kong a half hour sooner than they had been expected. The [illegible] encountered a break in the [illegible] but [illegible] the storm blew over. The rain, however, continued this morning and there were dark, lowering clouds which made visibility bad.

Just before 12:30 o'clock the clouds lifted, and the leading plane was sighted flying low over the harbor, followed by the two other machines. They had difficulty in discovering the landing place because of the rain, three miles off Hong Kong shore in the American naval [illegible] Paul Jones. [illegible] signal with the planes by hydrogen [illegible], and a shot fired from the service [illegible] enabled the aviators to steer for the bay.

The governor's [illegible] carrying the governor, the colonial secretary, the American consul and his wife, steamed out to the mooring where Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, commander of the air squadron, had tied up his machine. The local representatives then visited each plane to offer any needed assistance.

A cutter from the Paul Jones later took the airmen to the service lighter, where they received the congratulations of a party of American men and women. Commodore Grace, head of the Hong Kong naval [illegible] went [illegible] were among those who went out [illegible] meeting Smith and [illegible] Americans. Many [illegible] were [illegible] service.

Lieutenant Smith told the Associated Press that the planes encountered bad weather half way on the voyage from Amoy, when they flew through rain and fog for half an hour. After this the weather was very good and the landings made by planes were perfect, notwithstanding the choppy sea.

SAYS CAUSE OF CANCER HAS BEEN DISCOVERED

Philadelphia, June 8.—The North American will say tomorrow in an article withheld from publication for fifteen months "in the interest of science," that the cause of cancer has been discovered; also a treatment for it which "must still be experimental stage," is producing remarkable results."

The discoverer is Dr. T. J. Glover, a native of Toronto, Canada, who, the article will say, has established scientifically that the disease is due to a micro-organism and who has isolated the germ and proved by the conclusive laboratory test known as the "Koch Cone" one part as the causative factory. Dr Glover has conducted his research work in New York city for four years. Dr. Glover said:

"Within the last two years a serum has been tested on more than 200 cases of cancer confirmed by pathological X-ray and clinical histories, and in every stage of development, from incipient to hopelessness. Nearly 100 of these have been treated in the National Stomach Hospital in Philadelphia the most complete tests have been made and the largest number of patients observed.

"In a majority of these cases favorable results have been secured and in some instances the subjects have been discharged as symptom-free, a condition the layman would call cured."

The discovery of the cancer germ led logically to the hope that a method [illegible] be found for [illegible] the presence of the micro-organism in the blood thus making possible the detection of the disease in incipiency, and its prevention. Doctor Glover already has made significant experience along this line, with decidedly encouraging results.

DEPRESSION IN COTTON INDUSTRY IS WORLDWIDE

Washington, June 8.—The depression in the cotton manufacturing industry has been found by the tariff commission to be practically worldwide in scope and that body sees no indications for immediate improvement. The commission's views were embodied in a reply to a senate resolution, by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts and made public today.

Replying to that phase of the resolution concerning reasons for importations into the United States of cotton fabrics, the commission explained that a portion of the population which could afford finer clothes was accustomed to turning to England, France or Switzerland to supply their requirements.

Regarding the inquiry on import duties, the commission replied it felt unwarranted in the absence of verified production which figures in making recommendations to readjustment of the tariff rates. It declined to venture an opinion whether changes in the tariff duties would affect the importations.

The commission informed the senate that it was incapable of replying with definiteness to many of its inquiries because of the haste with which the response must be prepared to reach th senate before adjournmat.

An English artist owns a cat which will not enter the house by the back door. It always walks up to the front door, which has a knocker at a convenient height; gives one or two knocks, and then waits for the door to be opened. If there is not an immediate answer it knocks again, until it gains admittance.

Roast beef and other meats are cooked through thoroughly in the Florence Oven, without burning on the bottom.

Are her summer days spent in a sizzling kitchen?

Do you let your wife keep a stove going in hot weather, except when she is cooking? It is a needless hardship and a useless expense. You can prove this at a nearby store.

When you put a Florence Oil Range in your kitchen, you take most of the drudgery out of housework. This modern stove gives intense heat close up under the cooking. The heat does not go into the metal of the stove or out into the room. You can cook every dish for the biggest dinner, quickly and well.

The Big Burners
The heat is the Florence burners is close up under the cooking where it is not wanted.

A blue gas flame

To start the Florence, you merely touch a match to the Asbestos Kindler. The flame is a gas flame, from kerosene vapor. It does not burn from a wick. You can regulate the clear blue flame to any degree of heat. When you are through cooking, just turn out the fire.

There are no ashes or soot, no shaking to be done—just clean heat, where you want it, and only when you want it. The Florence Oil Range cuts down your fuel bills.

Take a look at it

You will find the Florence a beauty, with its sparkling enamel and nickel trimmings. Examine it closely and you will appreciate many exclusive features, such as the unbreakable oil reservoir and the portable oven with the "baker's arch" and patented heat-spreader to assure even cooking.

Don't buy just "an oil stove" until you have seen how the Florence works. Try one yourself right at the store. (Department, furniture or hardware store.)

Florence Leveler
Attached to each leg of the stove, this device enables you to set the stove level on an uneven floor.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Hartford papers had much to say relative to Mrs. Zola Bennett, widow of Theodore Bennett, whose body was brought here from Hartford Saturday for burial in Westfield cemetery. At noon the body of Mrs. Bennett was laid to rest in the local cemetery. Supt. Robert Hurley of the state police department, Lieutenant Stiles of the same department, State Officers Fields, Stephens, Comstock and Gardner attended the burial, at which McGregor Woman's Relief Corps of Danielson, of which Mrs. Bennett was a member, were in attendance also. Superintendent Egan of the state bureau of weights and measures came from Hartford to attend the burial.

One Hartford paper said in regard to Mrs. Bennett:

The remarkable part played by Mrs. Bennett in such cases as the Edward Curtiss kidnaping case, the Putnam arson case, the Gilligan murder and the Madden murder situation became known after her death. She was most reticent herself, and disliked publicity concerning her investigations.

Her office associates were shocked to learn of her death, which came suddenly after she had appeared to be making progress towards recovery. She had been looking forward to leaving the hospital in a short time. Visitors to the state police department had frequently commented on her pleasing personality, and efficiency in the office.

Mrs. Bennett made her home at the Harvard apartments on Trinity street. She was the owner of an estate in Danielson but had not occupied her house there since the death of her husband. She was a native of Baltimore. She had no near relatives.

This is the period of the year when ambitious young people, who regularly attend school, yet desire to work during the vacation period, have their minds set on getting the certificates the state requires them to have if they wish to work. To satisfy their demands, A. W. Buchanan of Mansfield Center, representing the state, will be at the office of Supt. Leon M. Farrin of Killingly's schools in the town hall building tomorrow (Tuesday) at 8 o'clock a. m., to receive applications for working certificates and to grant them.

Officials of the borough of Danielson have caused to be published an official notification relative to the parking regulations promulgated some time since. These regulations previously have been printed in this column. The new regulations become effective July 5. They impose no heavy restrictions on traffic and are not nearly as drastic as some now in force in large centers of population in southern New England and elsewhere in the east. The new regulations are put in force largely due to the heavy increase in motor traffic, making some sort of regulation necessary.

"At St. James' church, Sunday, announcements were made relative to the commencement exercises at St. James' parochial school, these exercises set for Thursday of next week. A special program has been arranged for the event, including an entertainment by pupils of the school.

Trout fishing, as a spring sport, seems to have passed into the discard for most devotees for another year. While there is yet something like three weeks in which to indulge in the pastime legally, most enthusiasts have lost their interest. On the whole it has been a poor season, notwithstanding that some fine big trout have been taken. It has been held by close observers of trout and their habits and of conditions under which they live hereabouts that the dry weather of last mid-summer operated to cause the death of many of them, including many large trout, left without sufficient cold water to insure their carrying on into another season.

The annual picnic of the Crusaders of the Baptist church is to be held on Tuesday evening at the Ox-bow. A feature is to be a bacon bat. Members attending are to hike from the borough to the place selected for the event.

Men of St. Alban's parish have a meeting scheduled for Wednesday evening of this week.

George A. Holmes of Pawtucket was a visitor with friends in Danielson Saturday.

Mrs. M. V. Woodworth will have the members of the Ladies' Reading Circle at her home for a meeting this (Monday) afternoon.

Saturday afternoon, at the undertaking parlors of L. E. Kennedy, funeral services were conducted by Rev. Walter B. Williams, of Westfield Congregational church, for Joseph Dragon, who died at his home on Railroad street Wednesday evening. The service was attended by many relatives and friends. Burial was in the Dayville cemetery. The bearers were Charles Austin, Charles Hopkins, Oliver Bassett and John B. Bassett. There were beautiful floral pieces.

William A. Peters of Boston was a visitor with friends in Danielson over the week-end.

Mrs. Herman M. Coulter is at Connecticut college for the reunion of her class and for the commencement exercises, marking the end of the college year.

This is the final week of the year for the pupils in the graded schools of the town of Killingly, as to pursuing their studies. Graduation for eighth grade pupils comes Thursday of this week.

Prayers of the congregation were requested at all the masses at St. James' church on Sunday for Sister Mary Pious of the Order of St. Joseph, in charge of the convent here. Sister Mary Pious died during the past week.

Another rainy Sunday did not add anything to the general content of those who figure on the day for a little outing following a week of work and attention to the many details of life.

Rain on Sunday cut the motor traffic to a fraction of the volume that it would ordinarily attain, and the state highways through this territory were unusually free of machines, especially during the late afternoon and early evening hours.

A congregation that filled the church attended the 8 o'clock mass at St. James' church Sunday morning when a class of boys and girls of the parish received their first communion. In the afternoon came the close of the retreat for these children and there was another capacity congregation in attendance.

PUTNAM

Sunday was Memorial Sunday for Israel Putnam lodge, No. 23, I. O. O. F. Members of the lodge gathered at the lodge rooms on Pomfret street at 2.30 o'clock and, carrying flowers, marched to Grove street cemetery. There are thirty brothers sleeping in Grove street cemetery and above the graves of those who died before 1923 Odd Fellows' flags were put, while on other graves, those who passed on in 1923 and 1924, were laid wreaths of flowers. At the grave of the last departed brother a memorial exercise was held according to the ritual of the order, with Rev. Simeon E. Conad of the Congregational church speaker. Following the exercises, the members of the lodge marched back to the lodge room.

A special meeting of the Arcanum club is to be held at the clubhouse on South Main street this (Monday) evening. The club during the past winter built an addition to the clubhouse and the interior in general was renovated. At present outside improvements are being made, including a new awning for the piazza, grading and reseeding the lawn, laying out flower beds and building a new fence on the north end of the property. Thomas Rawley, chairman of the executive committe, has instilled new life into the committee and club members, and the result will be beneficial to the club and to the club property.

The headquarters company, Connecticut, United States, National guard, is a reality. The company was mustered into the service of the United States and the state Friday evening at the municipal building by Lieutenant Colonel A. A. Hickok, U. S. A., of Boston district, general inspector of infantry, C. N. G., and Lieutenant Colonel F. J. Shearer of the inspector general's department, C. N. G.

The new recruits assembled for inspection and federalization with three commissioned officers and 52 enlisted men and were mustered into the state and federal service.

Under orders issued by Adjutant General George M. Cole of Hartford under date of June 5th, John J. McGarry was assigned as captain of the company; Rosaria J. Beausoleil, first lieutenant, and Owen J. White, second lieutenant.

Order No. 1, issued by Captain McGarry, appointed officers as follows: First sergeants, James J. Charron, David J. Delisle, Frank H. Lamondy, and Frank LeClair, Jr.; corporals, Arthur C. Davison, Walter C. Deardon and Arthur J. Auger; privates, first class, George W. Child, Arthur J. Gardner, Wallace N. Jones, Fred W. McCullough, Francis H. Murphy and Alberic Robataille.

The mustering officers expressed themselves as well pleased with the personnel of the new company. Captain McGarry made it understood that his appointments were in their nature tentative and the permanency of the appointments will depend upon the individual appointees. Captain McGarry stated that he wished to start a period of intensive drilling, so that the company will be able to make a creditable showing when in camp this summer. He left it with the men as to whether they would be willing to drill two nights a week for a time to accomplish this purpose. He was unanimously supported in his plan for two drill nights, and Friday and Monday nights were selected. After the one drill night a week is adopted, the drills will be held Monday nights only. For the present the company will assemble for drill in Union hall.

The company is being measured for uniforms and it is expected that the organization will be fully equipped at an early date. The enlisted men as well as the officers are enthusiastic and express a purpose to make the headquarters company a credit to itself, the city and the state.

The Children's day concert was given at the Methodist church Sunday evening, the following taking part: Voluntary song, congregation; anthem, choir; Welcome, Sybil Keach; The Place To Be, Martha Shaw; Anchor Here, Junior Devine; Little Comrades, Stanley Evans, Raymond Evans, Raymond Hughes; duet, The Guiding Light, Marion and Christine Wilcox; If I Were a Rose, Emily Shaw; My Clock, Barbara Fox; Jesus Loves Even Me, primary department; The Signalman, William Stockdale; The Aviator, Russell King; Beautiful Stars, Helen Evans; In His Temple, Mrs. Taylor's class; Why the Birds Sing, Wilma Taylor, Mabel Evans, Florence Shaw; song, Dorothy Bogardus; A Boy Like Me, Richard Brownlie; Childhood of Jesus, Rose DiCarlo; A Happy Band, primary class; Sunbeams Bright, Julia DiCarlo; Vision Splendid, Phoebe Franklin; Singing the Praise, Miss Wilcox's class; closing, Arthur Watson; remarks by pastor; song, congregation; benediction.

Babies were baptized at the morning service, as is customary on Children's Sunday.

At the Sunday morning service at the Baptist church Rev. Nelson E. Young, for 23 years a missionary among the Shoshones, Seminole, Choctaw, Cheschasha and Cherokee Indians, delivered an address, taking for his subject A Message from the Redskins of the West to the Palefaces of the West. He gave his audience some enlightening first-hand knowledge of the social, political and religious life of the western red men.

At noon there was a Children's day program as follows: Opening song, school, page 41; prayer, Rev. Mr. Stoddard; recitation, Welcome, Fred Tourtellotte; song, How Do You Do, Beth Thompson, Thyle Carver; recitation, Anchor Here, Paul Stoddard; recitation, An Example, Sherwood Young; recitation, Told by Pansies, Frances Cutler; recitation, A Little Girl's Story, Mary Bishop; recitation, Your Chance, Norman Cluotier; collection; exercise, A Flower Mission, Beth Thompson, Bernice Evans, Mary Clark; recitation, Sunbeams Bright, Ruth Oster; song, junior department; recitations, The Flowers' Greetings, Mary Clark; The Traffic Officers, Francis Warren; Then and Now, Dorothy MacAdams; exercise, A Summer Shower, Mrs. Spencer's class; recitation, My Secret, Doris Gardner; recitations, You Never Can Tell, uth Wilson; The Garland's Song, Evelyn Stark; He Is Everywhere, Minnie Bates; pageant, The Beatitudes, junior girls; song, school; benediction.

Charles V. Von Flatern of Woonsocket, brother of Alphonsus Von Flatern, who died recently, was in Putnam Saturday to attend to matters concerning his brother's estate.

George A. Hammond, pioneer silk manufacturer of this section, who recently passed his 80th birthday, is ill at his home on Oak Hill, following an attack of indigestion.

The highway department is laying lines of sand at each side of the city streets preparatory to giving the roadbeds their annual top dressing of oil.

Miss Katherine Byrne and G. Harold Gilpatrick left Putnam Saturday to join the Connecticut delegation to the republican national convention at Hartford. The delegation left from the Capitol City in a special train, arriving at Cleveland at an early hour Monday morning. Miss Byrne is a delegate-at-large to the convention. Mr. Gilpatric, member of the state central committee from the 28th district, goes to the convention as a guest.

Special Flag day exercises will be held at the meeting of Putnam lodge of Elks Tuesday night. Arrangements have been completed for the attendance of the lodge at the national convention in Boston July 10th. A special trial will leave Putnam at 8 a. m. and will leave Boston at 11.05 p. m., standard time, for the return trip. The train will have special coaches and a special engine. The Wauregan band will accompany the lodge. Members may take their wives and women friends on the trip.

Ovid Bouley was found guilty of being a common drunkard at a session of the city court Saturday morning, Deputy Judge Macdonald on the bench. A sentence of 60 days in jail was imposed. Bouley has been a consistant appearer before the court for several years.

Funeral services for Mrs. Caroline Brayton Fisher, 82, who died at her home on Putnam Heights Thursday, were held at her home Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Fisher was a native of Killingly but had lived in Putnam for half a century. Her husband died some years ago. Burial was in Putnam Heights cemetery.

The Bible school council of the Baptist church is to meet at the church Thursday evening. A supper will be served at 6.45 oclock, followed by the last conference before the summer vacation.

CORONER ORDERS NO AUTOPSY IN TERRIS DEATH CASE, NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, June 8.—Although Coroner J. J. Desmond of Norwich has not rendered a finding in the case of the death of Ambrose Terris, 33 Mill street, who died at Lawrence hospital Friday morning as a result of injuries sustained by falling from the third story window of the building, 308 Main street, it is known that when the finding is rendered there will be no criminal responsibility attached to Terris' death. Coroner Desmond conducted an inquest at the police station Saturday, examining several witnesses who were brought before the investigator by Acting Sergeant Daniels, who has been investigating the death of Terris for the authorities. It was ascertained that Terris, who had been drinking Thursday, went to the Main street house, a place where he was not in the habit of calling. When he entered the house and was observed to have been drinking, but little attention was given him. Terris finally went to the front part of the house and as one of the occupants entered the room Terris' body was seen going through the open window. He was rushed to the hospital by the police and died within 10 hours after being admitted. Coroner Desmond has given permission for the burial of Terris tomorrow morning and will not have an autopsy made, which act removes any theory that foul play was connected with Terris' death.

Relatives of Terris appeared at the police station tonight and furnished a list of names of three women, residents in the building from Terris fell, who it is alleged, will testify that a fight occurred there early on the evening that Terris sustained his fatal injuries.

There is no change today in the condition of Dr. George M. Minor, medical examiner of the town of Waterford, who is seriously ill at the Beckwith place, Waterford. The patient has lost much weight and is in an extremely weakened state.

Marshall E. Seeley, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Seeley, of Deep River, and Miss Barbara L. Scroggie, daughter of William Scroggie, Fremont street, were married Saturday evening at 7 o'clock at St. James Episcopal church in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, the rector.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Gladys Waterman, a graduate of Connecticut College and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Waterman, of Stamford, to Clark Doane Greene, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Greene, of Granite street.

Another supernumerary policeman is to be assigned to special duty. He will be employed at one of the dance halls at Ocean Beach and will begin duty at once.

The police signal box at corner of Ocean avenue and Montauk avenue is one of several that have been defective within the past few weeks.

Miss Helen Hemingway, a student of Connecticut College, reported to the police Saturday night the loss of her Ford sedan left parked in front of Winthrop house on Mohegan avenue. A search was made for the machine, but it was not found. This morning shortly after 8 o'clock the was found near the college. It is understood the machine was taken by acquaintances of the student and returned to where it had been taken during the night, at the end of a pleasure ride.

Walter Wirtanen of Gardner, Mass., a soldier stationed at Carlisle barracks, Pennsylvania, appeared at the police station shortly after 2 o'clock this morning, complained of being ill and requested that he be given medical treatment. City Physician Cheney was communicated with and ordered the man sent to the doctor's office, where he was prescribed for after which Wirtanen went to a lodging house.

Mrs. Edwin Keeney is confined to her home, 28 Pearl street, by illness of a serious nature, due to her advanced years. Mrs. Keeney is 83.

Miss Edith Sturgen of Stonington, Mrs. Elizeard Lavoie and infant son of Waterford, were patients discharged Saturday at Lawrence hospital.

Leonard Kelley, 13 Georgiana street, complained to the police Saturday that while his bicycle was beside the curb on State street an automobile backed against the cycle and damaged it.

Ettore Ceccarelli, 90 Smith street, reported to the police Saturday afternoon that he had lost a wallet containing $45 and his automobile operator's license.

Four more alleged violators of the automobile law and city traffic ordinances will be in the police court on Monday morning. Joseph Lenzzo, 12 Home street, was arrested by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock for operating an automobile while his license to do so was under suspension. William Carpenter, 11 Pleasant street, was taken into custody by Patrolman Jeremiah Murphy charged with operating an automobile truck while under the influence of liquor. White provided a surety on his bond of $150 for his appearance in court and Lucy M. White became surety on the bond. Mrs. Harriet Secord, Station 16, Waterford, was ordered to appear in court by Traffic Officer William Corcoran for blocking traffic on Bank street, near State street. Thomas Occhilini, 9 Chelsea street, was ordered into court by Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy for parking overtime on State street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick LaForge, Fishers Island, have returned home, having spent a week in New London.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Mercer have returned to their home on Channing street, having spent several days as guests of their daughter, Mrs. George H. Gorman, in Brookline, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester W. Bliss, of Boston, have arrived at their summer residence at the Pequot and will remain until fall.

Mrs. Maria Morrison and daughters, Misses Anna and Mae Morrison, 25 Chappell street, are spending a few days with New York relatives.

Mrs. John N. Leverone has returned to her home on Tilley street, after attending the graduation of her daughter, Miss Marie Leverone at Holy Child academy, New York. Miss Leverone will return to New London the latter part of the month and in the fall will enroll at Connecticut college.

Mrs. Charles Hanson, of Jefferson avenue, has returned home after visiting with relatives in Lynn, Mass.

Alfred S. Comstock of Quaker Hill was fined $5 for operating an automobile without a license. Comstock claimed that he changed his clothing and left his license in the clothes that he discarded. Comstock paid all but $5.70 of the fine and costs and was allowed to send the balance.

Constantine Patterson, a youth, 17, was charged with operating an automobile without a license. He had already been before the court and then his license was revoked. Still he went on operating a machine without permission from the state department. He wrote to the commissioner and was told what he must do, but he defied that authority and operated a machine. His mother refused to pay the fine, but his brother, rather than see him go to jail, came forward with the amount.

Joseph Williams, a clerk for Darrow and Comstock, was accused of stealing. This was several months ago. His case was postponed until Saturday and then it was continued. Stillman is understood to be in a hospital under medical treatment.

Mike Brann, who has been before the court more times than the fingers and toes on one's hands and feet, was in court again Saturday. He was drunk when arrested and admitted it, but he claimed toothache and said he did not drink to become intoxicated. A redeeming feature of the case was that Mike had not been in the court for a year or more and if he had staid away from the court that long it was supposed that he could make his stay longer so judgment was suspended in his case that he might make the effort.

Mary Shasha and Rose Gorra, Syrians, became involved in a wordy discussion some time ago and that led to a breach of the peace. They seem to be getting along all right now and to see whether they will continue so the case was still further continued.

Marion Lewis, colored, 14 Federal street, reported to the police early this morning that when she attempted to enter her home she found an intruder. Patrolman Howard Sloan, going to the house, found the woman, who declared that when she entered the house she was attacked by a man who had a knife and cut her on the hand. No one was found in the house. When the woman appeared at the police station she did not complain of having been attacked.

Mrs. Emma Firmin, 234 Montauk avenue, Henry Barnes, Waterford and Ethel Dayton, Waterford, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were able to return to their respective abodes Saturday.

Steamer Shinnecock brought 800 or 900 passengers here Sunday from Greenport and points along the Long Island railroad. They came for a sail and a good time, because they were delighted with the reception they received when they came here on the occasion of the opening of the so-called Sunrise route a month ago. The visitors went to Ocean beach and to other points about the city and enjoyed the two hours they had here. They did not bring the band made up of employes of the railroad company, but they had a good time just the same.

It would not be surprising if Louis Fenelli, a supposed crook, arrested when the Barnum circus was here last Thursday and who is held in a bond of $3,000 as a suspicious person, was liberated before he appears in the police court Tuesday. A lawyer representing him has appealed to the clerk of the court as to a bond and has been told what is expected of him in the way of surety on the bond. The conditions exacted are supposed to be such as will make sure of the appearance of Finelli in court or the forfeit of the bond he gives. The New Haven authorities have notified the New London police that Finelli is a "bad one" and that he has been accused of various crimes of a most serious character.

President Benjamin Marshall of Connecticut college delivered the baccalaureate sermon to the students of the college, at St. James' church this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The body of the church was well filled with students and their friends and relatives. President Marshall spoke with earnestness and pointed the way to the students to make a success of life. He told them that education was not all that was needed. Character is essential and he believed that the students had that character. The determination to succeed was also necessary. His address was thoughtful and had its effect upon all who heard it. This evening there was a musical program in the same church. Tomorrow the annual alumnae association meeting will be held and there will be class reunions and class day exercises at Plant-Blackstone quadrangle. A reception will be tendered to President Marshall from 4 to 6 o'clock Monday afternoon, and Monday evening there will be the senior class sing at the stone wall at 9.45. Tuesday, United States Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York will deliver the address at the commencement exercises beginning at 9.30. Luncheon for the trustees and faculty will be served at noon.

A fire occurred shortly after 8 o'clock, last evening, at the gasoline filling station, corner of Main and Church streets. No great damage resulted, but Frank Silva, 165 Main street, an employe of the place, received serious burns to his legs.

Silva was at one of the pumps and in dispensing gasoline some bystander lighted a match, with the result that the gasoline fumes ignited and the flames were communicated to the pump which was emiting the liquid. A vigorous blaze resulted and an alarm was sent in from Box 25, corner of Main and Federal streets. The department responded in quick time and the flames being attacked with chemicals, were quickly subdued. Silva was attempting to extinguish the fire before the department arrived. His clothing became ablaze and he sustained painful burns. Silva was taken home where he received medical treatment.

An automobile, owned and driven by Edward Brown, 116 Green street, was struck by the Allen Hook and Ladder apparatus as the fire truck shot out from its quarters on Bank street. The automobile was slightly damaged and came near overturning.

Another operator who entertains the opinion that he can drive a car while under the influence of liquor, will be in the police court Monday morning, for this evening Manual J. Cabral, 610 Main street, was taken into custody by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock. He could not furnish a surety on his bond of $150 for appearance so he was locked up. Cabral's arrest was the result of the car he was driving, a Dodge sedan, colliding with a car owned and operated by Premto Montesa, 6 Central avenue, at the corner of Williams and Bristol streets. Montesa complained to the police and a short time later Cabral was found at the corner of Crystal avenue and Sixth streets with his automobile somewhat damaged, for one wheel was wrecked. Montesa's car was damaged, but not badly. Cabral will be the second motorist in court tomorrow for operating a car while in a drunken condition.

A large crowd of pleasure seekers had gathered at Ocean Beach this afternoon and a throng was arriving there when rain began, causing the greater part of the diversionists to go to their automobiles or board trolley cars for their homes.

The condition of John R. Latham, cashier of the New London City National bank, critically ill at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, where he was operated upon for intestinal trouble three days ago and which developed peritonitis, is worse tonight, according to advices received from the institution.

When the city council gave a hearing last week to the manufacturers who protested against the erection of gasoline stations on Pequot avenue, near the plants of industrial concerns, Edward L. Streeter of the La Pointe works expressed severe criticism of the city planning board and said that if that body had any life in it the gasoline tanks would have been prevented in the section where now they are numerous. He was severe in his condemnation of the planning board as a good-for-nothing adjunct of the city government as it now exists. Mrs. Emily Speirs, a member of the planning board takes exception to the criticism of Mr. Streeter and hits back with a good deal of zeal and intimates that he does not know just what he is talking about. Mrs. Spiers points out to the critic of the planning board that to start with there must be a district of zones into which the city should be divided that will stop the erection of unsightly and undesirable buildings in the residential section as well as buildings in the manufacturing district that may be a menace. Steps to bring about the adoption of a zoning ordinance have been taken by the planning board and that board has long been at work to prepare such an ordinance, but the members have not yet arrived at conclusions that will enable the perfection of such law as is needed. She intimates that if men who have such pronounced ideas as Mr. Streeter has would appear before the board and give them his notions, more progress might have been made. Mrs. Speirs also makes known that there are other changes and improvements that might be made in the ordinances of the city which are quite as important as the prevention of the erection of gasoline tanks. She also points out that the city council has in great degree ignored the planning board in granting privileges and that some of the permits granted would never have been issued had the planning board considered the matters that brought about the criticisms.

Mrs. Speirs makes it plain that she and other members of the planning board are ready for the establishment of a zoning system for the city, but she desires that the system that shall be decided upon shall be a proper one and that it shall be modeled after the laws that govern in other cities. It was regarded as strange by Mrs. Speirs that no member of the council defended the planning board against the criticism of Mr. Streeter and that he rebuked the council as well without bringing a reply in self-defense. Mayor Scott mildly defended the council and the planning board, but did not do the job as evidently Mrs. Speirs would have done it had she been present.

Morris Terr and David Levin, former employes of the United Music company, will be before Judge Cornelius C. Costello in the Groton town court tomorrow morning on continuance on a charge of transporting liquor. They are now at liberty under bonds of $3,000 each. Terr and Levin were arrested at Fishtown, near Mystic, several days ago with a truck owned by the music company and which was laden with 125 gallons of alcohol for distribution in New London.

NINETEEN FATAL AUTO ACCIDENTS LAST MONTH

The state motor vehicle department has announced that there were nineteen fatal automobile accidents during the past month, a decrease of four from the record for May, 1923, notwithstanding a 25 per cent. increase in the number of motor vehicles registered in the state. At the same time. It is understood, surrounding states had an increase in automobile accidents causing deaths.

Efforts at uniform enforcement of the motor vehicle laws by the police departments of all the cities of the state are believed to be largely responsible for the improvement in the fatal accident situation. The motor vehicle department reports that police chiefs concerned about the steady increase in automobile accidents throughout the country, have co-operated wholeheartedly in the movement to make the highways safer, and, to help reduce confusion, which is the primary cause of many serious accidents, have adopted uniform regulations covering many phases of motor vehicle operation. They have also endeavored to hold the speed of automobiles down to twenty miles an hour in cities with a resulting decrease in collisions at street intersections.

City police have undertaken moreover to inspect motor vehicles whose appearance indicates that their operation on the public highways would endanger other highway users. Meanwhile courts have begun to impose severer penalties for drivers guilty of reckless driving, and the department has been quick to suspend the licenses of such operators. Augmented by the general educational policy, pointing particularly to the danger that lies in simple distractions of the operators' attention and the effect of the recent traffic conference under the joint auspices of the Sheffield Scientific school and the motor vehicle department, the sense of responsibility on the part of the drivers and pedestrians alike, has been increased.

Hopes To Reach The Moon With Projectile

Prof. Robert H. Goddard, of Clark University, Worcester, Mass., who has designed a unique steel rocket which he expects to send up this summer to a height of ten miles. The contrivance will be, he has announced, about five feet high and six inches in diameter. It will be loaded with a series of explosive charges which will be ignited at predetermined intervals during the flight, each giving a powerful "kick" to accelerate the rushing motion through the air. The height attained will be ascertained through triangulation and the data from the flight will be used in a projected rocket-shot to the moon.

If you are going to sea, ship with a wreckless captain.

PAYING HIGH FOR DEMAGOGY.

Signing the tax bill in spite of its many faults, President Coolidge has done a public service in pointing out the high price the country will pay because demagogy, instead of statesmanship, ruled in pushing this bill through.

It is, of course, true, as President Coolidge says, that the bill contains provisions which, in accepted as part of the permanent fiscal policy, must prove "harmful to the future of the country." It is equally true that the president's assertion that the grudging reduction of the high surtaxes from 50 to 40 per cent "is quite immaterial to accomplish real improvement." The political demagogues in congress refused to accept the well devised plans of the secretary of the treasury and the president to prevent the escape from taxation into tax-exempt securities of vast quantities of non-productive capital of the rich, but constructed instead a law which continues to devour capital necessary for the expansion of business and the promotion of new enterprises.

Further examples of ignorance or vicious sacrifice of sound financial principles in taxation on behalf of pure demagogy might easily be mentioned. Just indignation is also expressed by the president at "the unwarranted interference with the right of the citizen to privacy" in his personal affairs since the publicity of tax returns insisted upon by congress can not possibly serve any useful purpose but unquestionably will serve harmful purposes in many instances.

However, the most telling indictment of the new tax law is this: "of the 110,000,000 people in this country, less than 4,000,000 pay income taxes directly. The remaining 106,000,000 who pay no such direct taxes are given no relief in what they pay indirectly upon everything they buy."

It is time for the people generally to realize that high taxes unscientifically placed are responsible to a large extent for the high prices under which we suffer. The people have been coldly denied such tax revision as would take needless burdens from industry and bring lower prices, and at the same time the country has missed the opportunity, as President Coolidge says, of getting relief from war taxes in years of peace.

We will continue to pay the price for ignorance and demagogy in the national legislative body.

INGRATITUDE TO LODGE.

It is a familiar saying that the years are ungrateful, but their ingratitude is as nothing compared to that of a campaign manager preparing to re-elect a president. In 1920 Senator Lodge was one of the best minds of the G. O. P., but in the coming republican convention at Cleveland he is to be a mere delegate, not even chairman of the convention from Massachusetts. Where he was once accustomed to dictate, another will do the speaking. It may even come into his experience to see the world court plan of Mr. Coolidge incorporated in the party platform, which, considering the magnanimous offer of Mr. Lodge to give Senator Pepper's court free to the nation, could be interpreted as meaning nothing less than that President Coolidge has little faith in the judgment of Mr. Lodge.

While the Massachusetts senator is reflecting upon the heartlessness of Manager Butler in relegating him to an inconspicuous place in the convention, his memory of recent political events should be sharp enough to furnish him an explanation of this amazing display of ingratitude to the one-time leader in republican councils. When the president needed a vote to sustain his veto of the soldier bonus bill, who failed to support him? Mr. Lodge. Who voted to ditch the Mellon tax reform bill? Mr. Lodge. Who could have, but failed to, relieve the president of the embarrassment of Japanese exclusion? Again the answer is Mr. Lodge. And finally, whose actions enabled the president to reveal to the country his own strength of character by opposing those activities? The name of the Massachusetts senator answers the question.

So go the rewards of political favor. But if Mr. Lodge is not to hold the center of the stage at Cleveland and bask in the spotlight which he has never avoided, the day of reckoning may only be deferred. If the president is re-elected, he would do well to look out. Mr. Lodge is still republican leader in the senate, and Mr. Coolidge is not the first who has sought to cut loose from him and has lived to rue the day.

BRITISH WOMEN VOTERS.

A bill that will admit women in England to the suffrage at the same age as men—21—will be accepted and approved by the MacDonald government. In the light of present conditions in the house of commons this is almost equivalent to assuring the passage of the bill, and it is inconceivable that a ministry should be upset on such an issue. Whatever the opposition is, it will probably not be of great numerical strength. It is an innovation, but it can be expected that women of all parties who are now voters, having reached the age of 30, will be close to unanimous for the change.

There never was any logic in favor of barring women from the ballot until their thirtieth year. This was only a phenomenon of British conservatism, for most students of comparative sex development at 21 regard girls as rather more advanced than boys, on an average more serious and with a keener sense of all the obligations of life.

The proposed measure will add, it is figured, 4,500,000 names to the poll lists. That on the whole this will benefit the labor party more than it benefits the tories or the liberals is very likely. The working people have larger families and more girls growing into womanhood. But there are some things that are inevitable in the development of a principle, and this is one of them. Liberals and tories face a condition and not a theory, and bow accordingly to such inevitability.

SHOWING POOR JUDGMENT.

If Rear Admiral Fiske, retired, had been looking for a way to irritate the Japanese and make a bad matter worse in their present feelings towards the United States, he could not have selected a better method than to publish the letter which he wrote to the secretary of the navy on the comparative strength of the American and Japanese fleets for warlike operations in far eastern waters.

The rear admiral commits the indiscretion of attempting to interpret diplomatic situations and publish his conclusions, when he says that while Japan has virtually broken off diplomatic relations with the United States, that grave step does not always lead to war. This is going outside his province and in particularly bad taste at a time when the state department is preparing an answer to a solemn protest against a piece of legislation that was enacted by congress in known opposition to the well-considered advice of the president.

There is no possibility that Japan will make war upon the United States because of the exclusion of its nationals by the immigration law. Such a war would be suicidal for Japan and no one knows it better than the astute Nipponese. The Japanese are offended, and quite naturally so, at the abrupt treatment that has been given to this vexing question. But war is out of the question and so is a boycott. The discussion of hostilities in far-eastern waters is wholly academic, yet it may lead to misunderstanding.

Speculation on war, annexations, recaptures and the like give an unholy joy to sensation mongers in both countries, but retired officers of the army and navy should not be allowed to create or aggravate complications by officious diplomacy of their own manufacture.

FIGHTING THE CATERPILLAR.

Wherever the paths lead at this season of the year one cannot fail to be reminded of a pest that is annually active as the tender leaves of spring begin to unfold. This is the tent caterpillar against which organized warfare is a worthy undertaking on the part of those who would preserve the roadside foliage. At least the caterpillar is a foe who fights fair, for he is there to be seen and slain by anyone who has the initiative to go forth and give him battle.

Three causes may be assigned to his rapid increase so early in the season. One is a possible falling off in the number of insectivorous birds which are the zealous policemen of the woods and orchards. Another is the habit of the tent caterpillar of being prolific in cycles. The last is the one which will be accepted in only a few quarters, but is by far the most important. This is in the carelessness, indifference or laziness of those who might be considered to be most interested in keeping down the pest.

This is the season for an aggressive campaign waged without quarter against the foe. Spraying fruit trees and burning the tents of the pests will put an end to their rapacity. The time to do the most effective work is before the egg laying period to guard against losses next year. Above all else, a little hard work must be brought into action against them. The tent caterpillar is industrious and devoted to his mission in life. He will surrender only to superior effort and industry.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Republican platform makers will have their day at Cleveland this week.

The battle of the Elysee is on with Millerand and Herriot leading the opposing hosts.

One thing about this spring's weather is that your last year straw hat has had a much longer vacation than usual.

The home-returning congressmen may require even more eloquence for private explanations than for public speeches.

Probably there are no new crimes to be discovered. Anyway, the need is for a strong revival of some good old virtues.

Wonder if those congressmen would want to run their family finances the way they wanted to run the government's.

Extravagant plans for the improvement of little used streets should receive their quietus in the annual city meeting Tuesday night.

The pacifists had better go to Albania where the war spirit is flaming rather than spend their time working among the American college students.

The reports of further outbreaks in the near east make it clear that the school of experience isn't a very successful institution in that part of the world.

With congress adjourned, some of its members will have to devise other ways of attracting votes next November than by paying money out of the public treasury.

The man on the corner says: President Coolidge consistently refuses to put his name to the government's promises to pay without knowing how the payment is to be met.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Sixteen tablespoons of any dry ingredient make one cupful.

Keep turpentine on hand in your bathroom to keep the washbasin and tub free from spots.

Do not use too much flour when making sponge cake, as this makes it tough.

Always wipe the top of your range all over after cooking greasy food, and you will help polish it as well as keep it clean.

White oilcloth, glued smoothly and evenly on one side of the molding board, is a great help in place of a marble slab when making candies.

A knitting needle is better than a fork for testing potatoes or other vegetables to see if they have cooked sufficiently.

You can clean glass water bottles very easily if you let soapy water and coffee grounds stand in them for a while, then shake thoroughly before you wash and rinse.

Instead of always buying steaks and chops, which are the most expensive of meats, remember that the cheaper cuts may be used for meat pie, loaf, pot roast, hamburger or stew.

Dried beans and peas, pound for pound, are much richer in food values than fresh vegetables, but they require great care in cooking so that the tough skins may be made tender.

Baked bananas are a tasty dessert if served with lemon or some tart sauce. You prepare them by removing the skins, laying the pulp in a baking dish sprinkled with granulated sugar and a little water, and bake in a hot oven until tender.

Do not waste cake or bread by cutting off a burned crust. This can be removed by a flat grater, and it will leave a smooth surface instead of a jagged crust.

Never salt fresh meat when frying it. Salt tends to extract the juice and at the same time harden it.

Silver spoons and forks which are in daily use may be kept bright by leaving them once a week in strong borax water for several hours. The water should be nearly boiling when the silver is put into it.

USES FOR AMMONIA

When dad goes a-hunting he can clean his gun in a jiffy with ammonia, and if the cook finds ants in the pantry she should pour some ammonia in all the cracks and crannies and out will go the pests. Ammonia does not require the addition of soap. This makes its use economical.

USEFUL IN KITCHEN

The dainty woman will be interested in the sanitary white enamel boxes that can be clamped to the side of the kitchen table and used to catch all the small refuse that is left after preparing the average meal.

GOOD TABLE POLISH

To keep the polish of the dining room table perfect, rub every three days with a mixture made of equal parts of olive oil and turpentine. Apply with a flannel cloth. Dull spots on other furniture may be treated in the same way.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Remember that corns and calluses are warning signals, telling you that the bones of your feet lack proper protection. It is well worth while to have your feet examined by a foot specialist before any serious trouble has a chance to develop.

Fingernail ridges are due to organic causes. Sometimes they have to be treated by eliminating uric acid from the system, which is something one should do in any case and sometimes they are treated by keeping the nails fed with the proper sort of oils. And sometimes they can be lightly scraped and polished down.

This trimming of toenails differs from the manicure, because each nail should be cut straight across, and the two large toenails should be cut inwards, V-shaped with the point going in, so as to draw the ends from the skin to prevent ingrowing nails.

Now rub the toe-nails with a little vaseline and wipe this off.

The health and beauty of a grown person's hair depends so much upon its care during the first dozen years of life that it is more important for the hair to be taken care of during that period than at any other time. Children may inherit a tendency toward thin and weak hair, or toward dandruff and premature greyness, but these tendencies can be overcome or, at least, greatly lessened by the care of the scalp during childhood.

BOBBED HAIR UPKEEP

That those women who have contemplated having their hair "bobbed" should not lightly count the cost seems fully warranted by an investigation which shows the average "upkeep" expense to range from $50 to $75 a year. There seems to be no doubt that this fact is beginning to prove equally differrent to an increase in this fashion fad as the secret realization that "her hair is woman's greatest glory." In seaching for ways to reduce "upkeep" expenses, it is interesting to learn that the discovery that wearing a boudoir cap at night takes the curl out of the hair. Many are now wearing one or two double mesh hair nets, thus retaining the coiffure while allowing proper ventilation and keeping the hair cool.

SCARF ATTACHED COLLAR IS LATEST FOR SWEATERS

Among the smart new sweaters that are making their appearance for summer wear are models that show the newest of necklines—the scarf collar. These sweater models are knitted in gay high shades of yellow, and the new blues—in worsted or fiber silk. The scarf collar from two to four inches in width, is attached at the neck. The sports girl may tie her collar snugly—stock fashion, or toss one end lightly over her shoulder, as many separate scarfs are being worn. The right end often shows an embroidered Chinese monogram.

BLAZER HERE AGAIN

The erstwhile old-fashioned blazer is here again, more blazing than before. It takes the form of a light flannel sports jacket in purple and maroon and black stripes, or in some such quiet color scheme as mustard and fuchsia.

DICTATES OF FASHION

The envelope purse of leather with a monogram of small letters in silver or brilliants is very attractive.

Sleeveless peasant frocks finely pleated are very smart for sport wear.

Printed voiles come in patterns and colors quite as gorgeous and elaborate as one sees on the most expensive silks.

The boyish flannel sports frock is sometimes completely without sleeves and frequently has its accompanying cape or short box coat.

A nightgown that is part of an elaborate trousseau from Paris is of white supple satin with a fitted yoke of real lace and white satin flowers.

The blouse with its pleated jabot piped in color bids fare to equal in vogue the monogram blouse. It is particularly effective in white with touches of black.

Horizontal tucks either six six or about an inch in width frequently trim a crepe frock from neck to hem.

Frocks of tulle are shown for the June wedding. They are particularly lovely in shades of orchid, yellow or green.

The Scotch tam o' shanter is the model for a remarkable bathing cap. Of rubberized silk, this plaid tam has a feather made also of rubber.

Brides are wearing silver shoes this season. The shoes, however, are often in brocade with a knot of silver thread running through them to match the silver hosiery.

There are many variations of the scarf this season, but one of the most interesting is buttoned across the bateau neckline of a kasha coat.

Silver lace is very much used in evening frocks and marks a distinct phase of the lace vogue. Coral frocks are usually trimmed with silver nowadays, the lace forming lovely shining cascades and flounces.

GAYETY IN SPORT COAT

An extremely decorative sport coat of light green flannel is bordered with narrow stripes of yellow and blue flannel. The inside edge of the turnback collar has narrow bands of light red and gray flannel, and these stripes continue down the inside of the coat to the hem.

HAT WITH LINED SCARF

A smart little black straw hat is trimmed with a scarf that encircles the crown and hangs down the right side. The scarf is made of black and white checked silk that is lined with red and white silk.

FASHIONABLE COLORS

Yellow, soft tones of green, Chinese blue and lacquer red, these are in the colors that are most in evidence in the fashions of spring either used alone or in combination with dark tones. One of the most interesting ways of employing a brilliant tone, such as red, is in the lining of a coat. Frequently the outside material is cut out in a manner resembling eyelet work and in the opening one sees a splash of color.

TUB SILKS POPULAR

Frocks of tub silk promise to be extremely smart this summer and the shops are showing the most delightfully fresh and summery stripes. These silks are particularly nice when made up into rather tailored little frocks for sports wear.

LAUNDRY HINTS

When washing or ironing, put a thick rug under your feet, and you will find you do not tire so easily as usual.

Tinsel or beaded embroideries should not be washed. Brush them gently and lay them out on paper sprinkled with powdered magnesia. Thickly sprinkle the magnesia on top and put aside for two or three days.

When washing blouses and handkerchiefs put a small lump of orris root into the rinsing water and it will give them a delightful perfume of violets. This is much more lasting than if a sachet is placed among the clothes.

Muslin dresses should not be allowed to soak before being washed, but should be rubbed quickly through a soap lather. Do not allow muslins to become thoroughly dry and then dampen them as in the case of other and thicker materials. Roll them in a cloth until partly dry and then iron.

WHEN PAPERING

Scenic wallpapers demand large rooms, and it goes without saying that no pictures are to be hung over such paper. For a very wide hall in a large country house, for instance, a fine scenic paper is beautiful, but few people care to use scenic papers in the living rooms to the exclusion of favorite pictures.

A washable decorative oilcloth may be used for the nursery, or a simple paper, with gay figures of children, animals, birds and flowers. There are Mother Goose story papers from which to choose, and all sorts of other designs that will appeal to children.

For smart, painted furniture, so popular just now, nothing is better than smart stripes, with gay flowered borders, in which are repeated the colors of the designs on the furniture. For dark, heavy and handsome furniture, rich tapestry and leather are suitable.

For the kitchen and the bathroom there are glazed papers that are really lovely and stand washing, so that they may be always kept fresh and sanitary.

HAS IT EVER OCCURRED TO YOU?

That a strip of cretonne cut around the edge of the design and stretched across the top of the windows adds a bit of cheerful color to the screened or glassed-in-sleeping porch?

To enlarge the appearance of a small window by setting the curtain rods beyond the casing on each side and using draperies to keep the casing from being seen?

To make a small square shelf on each side of a window in living-room or sun-porch, with lattice frames extending upward? Potted vines set on the shelves may be trained to grow over the frames.—The Designer.

TRIMMING FOR SKIRTS

The inverted V trimming of the skirt is followed in an evening dress of white satin, which is adorned with silver lace. In the Bouffant mode skirts frequently are trimmed with deep borders of silver on black and medallions of silver lace, emphasized by embroidery of pearls and bright beads.

SAVES TIME AND LABOR

When creaming butter for cake, try pressing through the potato ricer. Much time and labor is saved.

CONCERNING WOMEN

In London half a hundred women mechanics are employed in the motorcar repair industry.

Women in Milwaukee have organized a military band, said to be the first of its kind in the United States.

The first woman to hold office as a state commissioner of public welfare is Mrs. Kate Burr Johnson of North Carolina.

The Society of Friends broke a 244-year-old precedent when in the annual meeting in Philadelphia recently women and men met together.

Cister Godeliva, who is in charge of the X-ray department of a hospital in Fargo, N. D., is one of the first women to be registered as a radiologist in America.

A law school for Chinese women has been established in Shanghai as a step toward the emancipation of Chinese women. The school is the first of its kind in China.

The "Female Bible Society" of Philadelphia, after carrying on its work under that name for 110 years, has decided to change its name to the "Woman's Bible Society."

THE CHILDREN'S LUNCH

A good spread for children's lunches is made from dried fruit. Soak the fruit over night, cook until soft, then press through a colander, add sugar and cook until thick.

RECIPES

Strawberry Surprise: Boil with one cup of water one-half a cup of butter, stirring in one cup of flour. Stir until smooth, then take from the fire and set aside to cool. When cold, stir in three eggs, one at a time. Drop on buttered tins and bake in a fairly hot oven for forty minutes. When baked, take a sharp knife, open, and fill with strawberries previously mashed and sweetened, adding whipped cream. cream.

Raisin Gingerbread: Mix together 1 cup of brown sugar, one cup of molasses, one-half cup of shortening, one cup of boiling water, one teaspoon of baking soda dissolved in part of the boiling water, one teaspoon of ginger, three cups of sifted flour, one cup of raisins and one-half a teaspoon of salt. Mix well in a bowl in the order given. Bake for about 40 minutes.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Appreciates Plaut Letters.

Mr. Editor: It would seem very proper at this time to say a few words of appreciation to R. C. Plaut for the delightful and descriptive letters it has been our privilege to read through the medium of your paper of the different countries he visited on his voyage around the world that we have been permitted to enjoy with him.

And to thank him for his generous gift of time and thought for the benefit and pleasure of his home folks that his letters have been through his generosity made public for us to enjoy, as well as the personal friends written to.

And we thank you.

Mrs. M. B. Miller's Answer.

Mr. Editor: I wish to be understood that I am not a student of theology nor have any theological aspirations in view. I am not looking for religious controversy with people of the "Cracker Barrel Congress at Cranberry Corners," who read the Bible and profess they understand it and yet they do not.

The Bible begins with the creation of the world and ends with life eternal. It gives us the most perfect expressions of joy and sorrow, of exultation and despair. It draws pen pictures of love, devotion, and duty—of hatred, revenge and sin.

If the word of God were a man-made book, claiming neither inspiration nor divine authority, it would still be the greatest of books. No other publication or compilation approaches it in breadth, depth or height, nor simplicity, clearness or strength of eloquence. It deals with two subjects, God and man. It considers man in two aspects; viz, in his relation to God and his relation to his fellow men. And yet there is woven into the story of man all that is necessary in life to happiness and service. Whatever it deals with it leaves nothing to be added.

As an ardent student of enlightenment and truth, whatever this may have amounted to has been determined, as far as I can judge, by my complex and diversified mental qualities and conditions.

Of these, the most important have been—the love of truth in religion, unbounded patience in long reflecting over any subject, industry in observing and collecting facts and a fair share of invention as well as of common sense. With such moderate abilities as I possess I frankly admit that I have not the super-natural power to comment on the "Immortality of the Soul." and from which I refrain.

Perhaps our veteran correspondent, who delights in his biblical knowledge, might throw a little light on this delicate subject, for the benefit of Mrs. M. B. Miller.

DUKE FROM THE LOG CABIN

Poverty was ruthless to James B. Duke when he was a boy, but in later years of his success he used its lessons and voluntarily denied himself.

Born on a farm near Durham, N. C., he was motherless at four, when he was eight, his father returned from fighting in the Civil war, so impoverished that he and his children slept on a straw tick in the log cabin.

The boy left school when nine to work in the tobacco field. Then he peddled the leaf and at fourteen became superintendent of the little log factory with its twenty workers.

When he was eighteen his father urged him to go to college but the youth demanded a partnership in the business, and got it. The concern soon afterwards moved to Durham. Three years later W. Duke, Sons & Company added other members and gave up tobacco growing to specialise in curing and selling. Profits jumped to $7,000 a year. The father retired and within five years, the sons' plant covered five acres.

James was the head and he remembered the value of capital. No one was allowed more than $2000 a year compensation. In New York later, to establish the business there, he lived frugally. Even when he earned $50,000 a year he had a small bedroom and ate in the Bowery.

Making of paper cigarettes by hand was costly; he sought machines to turn them out and was told his attempt would bankrupt the firm. Three years' effort produced a mechanical device whose output almost palsied competition.

Then he formed the American Tobacco Company sold the Duke business to it for $7,500,000 and became its president. English concern were fighting he bought Ogdens, Limited, of Liverpool, fought its rival at a cost of $20,000 a week, sold out at a profit, and headed the British-American Tobacco Company to handle the new combination's export end. Then the United States government dissolved the American Tobacco Company, and he resigned as its head.

He invested in other fields, made many more millions and obtained two homes; one is on Fifth Avenue, New York, the other is an estate of 19,000 acres in New Jersey.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

TABASCO

Tabasco, said to be the last state in Mexico in which considerable embers of that country's most recent revolution remain alive, has little of the modern in it, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Tabasco, at the southern extremity of the Gulf of Mexico, shares the questionable distinction with one other Mexican state and the two territories, of having no railroads," says the bulletin. "Not only is there a lack of steel highways, but there are no roads of any sort over which a wheeled vehicle can pass satisfactorily. In the matter of waterways, however, Tabasco is blessed—and often cursed—with an abundance.

"The Grijalva and Usumacinta, both streams of considerable size combine to form a tangled network of channels which embraces a large part of the state in a low delta. So low is much of the land and so numerous are the passages that bind the river systems together, that annually some 2,000 square miles of Tabasco are inundated. During the overflow period canoes are used universally for 'cross country' traveling.

"The low, almost swampy part of the state is in a belt 60 or 70 miles wide along the coast. Between overflows large herds of cattle find pasturage there. Back of this strip the higher soil is extremely rich and capable of heavy production. Dense forests cover parctically the entire state. In an opening in the forest 70 miles from the sea on the Grijalva is Villa Hermosa, capital of Tabasco, a town of less than 10,000 inhabitants.

"Frontera, the chief port, and only other town of importance, is a few miles up the Grijalva from the sea. Before the World war started a channel silted up, and there is today the old difficulty of getting ships past the bar at the mouth of the river.

"Boats drawing 7 or 8 feet of water ascend the river to the capital, and beyond that point flat-bottomed trading boats ply for a considerable additional distance. Dug-out canoes propelled by paddles and poles are used for traffic far into the interior.

"Before the revolution which unseated Diaz, the old peonage system was firmly established in Tabasco and brought prosperity to the few large land owners. Since that system was abolished it has been impossible to obtain sufficient voluntary labor to cultivate the large plantations, and many of them have greatly deteriorated. The state has fine banana prospects, and when the American market is such that additional fruit is needed Tabasco exports hundreds of thousands of bunches; but when the American market is adverse the banana growers suffer.

"The camel of Spanish control first got his nose under the Mexican tent at Frontera. After the Spaniards established themselves in Santo Domingo and Cuba, one of their explorers, Grijalva, sailed to the Mexican coast and explored the river which bears his name. When he reported his discoveries Cortez led his expedition to Mexico from the islands. Though that conqueror touched first in Yucatan, the community on the site of present-day Frontera was the first town he captured. After this initial success he sailed 200 miles farther along the coast and established Vera Cruz from which he extended his control over the entire country."

Stories That Recall Others

A Raveling Story

Mary Anne, just five years old, was watching the new cook make a pie. She watched her roll out the crust, fit it in the pan and then take up the knife to cut off the pieces which extended over the edge of the pan.

"Oh, I want to make a little pie," she exclaimed. "Can I have the ravelings of dough you just cut off for it?"

Not So Crazy

A sheriff and his deputy were taking a man to the insane hospital by automobile when a black cat crossed the path of the car. The trip had been uneventful prior to that time, but the sheriff immediately made the prediction that "Lady Luck" had tired of their company. True to the warning of the omen, a tire burst with a tremendous report within a short distance. Naturally the distressed officer said: "I told you so."

Much to his surprise and the enjoyment of the deputy, the supposed victim of insanity drawled: "Aw, sheriff, as crazy as I am I got more sense than to believe that ole cat had anything to do with it."

His Cue For An Exit.

George, aged nearly three, was being punished by his mother for disobedience. Not believing in spanking, mother had taken him on her knee and was telling him why he must obey, and trying to impress on his young mind, that to be a good boy, he must listen and remember what she was telling him.

After a while, thinking she had said enough for the time being, mother asked:

"George, do you understand me?"

George slipped to the floor and sighed, "Yes, and now I guess I'd better check out."

OBITUARY.

Rev. John T. Winters

Rev. John T. Winters, 70, died suddenly about 6.40 o'clock Saturday night at St. Mary's rectory, New Britain. He had attended a charity whist under auspices of New Britain chapter, Connecticut Council of Catholic Women, at the Burritt Hotel, in the afternoon, and to the many friends who greeted him, he said his health was greatly improved. Returning home to dinner, he was stricken and died in a few moments. Dr. Waterman Lyon, medical examiner, said death was due to indigestion and chronic heart trouble.

Although Father Winters had been in ill health for almost a year, and had only recently left the hospital, his death was entirely unexpected.

Twenty-two of the forty-three years of his priesthood were spent as pastor in New Britain. Under his direction, St. Mary's church, convent and school were built, the new Catholic cemetery was enlarged, and St. Mary's athletic field on Stanley street, one of the finest in the state, was planned. He had deep interest in this last named project, and one of his favorite forms of recreation was attendance at the games played at the field. He served for years as chaplain of the Y. M. T. A. & B. society and other organizations.

Father Winters was ordained to the priesthood at St. Mary's college, Baltimore, December 18, 1880. Following the death of Rev. William A. Harty March 5, 1903, Father Winters was appointed pastor of St. Mary's church in New Britain.

He had been a curate at St. Patrick's church, Norwich, also was pastor of St. Andrew's, Colchester and of the mission church of St. John at Fitchville and that at Moodus. He was always an ardent worker for the cause of total abstinence, was a scholarly, eloquent and possessed great executive ability as the flourishing New Britain parish plant proves.

His sister, Miss Hanna Winters, who was his housekeeper, and a brother, Judge James Winters survive him.

FUNERALS

Oliver Northrop

Funeral services for Oliver Northrop were held Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the parlors of Church and Allen, 15 Main street, followed by a committal service in Maplewood cemetery. Both services were conducted by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church. There was a large attendance at the service and numerous floral pieces were received.

WEDDINGS

Yeager-Dearing.

A very pretty wedding took place Saturday noon in this city when Marie Emilie, daughter of Mrs. E. F. Dearing of 39 Hedge avenue, became the bride of Charles H. Yeager of Philadelphia, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Herman Hunzinger of the First German Lutheran church. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. George C. Liepold, the latter a sister of the bride.

The bride was charmingly gowned in cocoa Elizabeth crepe and hat to match. Her maid was attired in blue satin crepe with bead trimmings and hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Yeager left in the afternoon for two weeks' stay in Providence, Buzzard's Bay and Philadelphia. Upon their return they will reside at 39 Hedge avenue.

Mrs. and Mrs. Yeager are in the employ of the United States government at the Submarine Base, Navy Yard.

Kenfield—Thiel

The wedding of Miss Frieda Thiel, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Thiel of 27 Beech street and Clyde Sylvester Kenfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Kenfield of 45 Meyer avenue, took place Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the German Lutheran church, the double ring service being used. Rev. Herman Hunzinger, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony.

The bridal party entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Mrs. Anna Hero. The bride was attended by Miss Elsie Thiel, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, and Roy Kenfield, brother of the groom was best man.

The bride was charmingly gowned in white canton crepe trimmed with rosettes and white ribbons, her veil being caught up with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of white roses and sweet peas. The bridesmaid wore pink canton crepe trimmed with rosebuds, wore a hat to match and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and sweet peas. The church was beautifully decorated with palms and a variety of cut flowers.

Following the ceremony at the church a reception was held and wedding supper served at the home of the bride at 27 Beech street, an orchestra composed of friends of the couple providing music for dancing. The house was prettily decorated with swamp apple blossoms.

The gift of the bride to her maid was a gold wrist watch and the gift of the groom to the best man was a pair of gold cuff links. The bride received many fine gifts of gold silver, checks, cut glass, linen and furniture.

The bride has been employed at Turner's mill and the groom is employed in Taftville. Following their wedding tour the couple will reside in a newly furnished apartment at 56 School street.

V. F. W. Auxiliary Meeting

A regular business meeting of the Richard E. Hourigan Auxiliary, V. F. W., was held Wednesday evening last, at the post rooms, No. 2, Market street with the president, Mrs. Rose Becker in the chair. Two candidates, Mrs. Hortense Turner and Mrs. Hazel Gauthier were initiated and Mrs. Leo Jacques was elected delegate to the state convention to be held at Waterbury. A social time followed the meeting.

MARRIED

YEAGER—DEARING—In this city, June 7, 1924, by Rev. Herman Hunzinger, Miss Marie Emilie Dearing of 39 Hedge avenue and Charles H. Yeager, of Philadelphia.

DIED

WINTERS—In New Britain, June 7, 1924, suddenly, Rev. John T. Winters, formerly of Norwich, aged 70.

ARMY PLANE DAMAGED IN NOSE DIVE AT PAUTIPAUG HILL

Capt. Louis E. Boutwell and Capt. Clarence E. Hodge, both of the Massachusetts National guard, were compelled to land in the hayfield on the property of Walter S. Watson of Pautipaug Hill Saturday morning about 10.30 o'clock when the plane in which they were flying from the Boston air port to Westfield ran short of gas.

Due to a heavy wind during the early morning hours the plane was taken off the course and followed the Shetucket river instead of the Connecticut river course by way of Springfield, and when the flyers discovered the shortage of gas Captain Boutwell of the plane 23-478 selected the Watson property for a landing. He circled about the field several times, selecting a good place to land, but when the plane struck the ground it was thrown into a nose dive and a propellar was smashed.

Captain Boutwell notified Boston of the mishap and another plane was sent with a new propeller. In speaking of the wind the flyers said that the plane was slowed up and they misjudged their course to the new landing field at Westfield.

The officers of the plane were Captains Boutwell and Hodge, Pilot Joseph W. Barber and Sergeant Fred E. Foshey. During the time the other plane was en route from Boston with the new propellor Representative Joseph W. Wellington gave the use of his automobile to carry gas to the plane and Mr. and Mrs. Wellington entertained the flyers at their home until Sunday morning, when the plane started off on the last leg of the journey to Westfield.

The AS-23-478 was seen before making the landing near Baltic by a number of Willimantic people and several who had been using glasses to watch the plane saw it go down behind the trees, and immediately the story was circulated that the plane had been wrecked.

The two planes were seen over Norwich Saturday morning circling about the city and finally disappearing in a northerly trection, one of the machines evidently having motor trouble, as it continually dipped from one side to the other. The flyers were evidently looking for a landing place and after reaching Baltic picked the Watson field.

During the afternoon Saturday several hundred people visited the scene and assisted the crew in pushing the plane to a site where it could get a run for the start. While on the Watson field the plane was guarded by Captains Boutwell and Hodge. Other planes flew over Baltic about 7 o'clock Saturday evening.

IMPRESSIVE MEETING AT Y. M. C. A. SUNDAY AFTERNOON

At the local Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon a very interesting service was held. The service was opened with the singing of well known hymns, and Hugh Kinder rendered two vocal solos to the pleasure of the audience. There was scripture reading and prayer. Two educational reels of moving pictures were shown. The main feature in pictures was entitled, "Home Sweet Home," which was exceedingly impressive as it portrayed the unquestioned fact that even though the home may be very humble, "there's no place like home." The music furnished for this picture by Mr. Kinder was very appropriate.

Between the reels of pictures, Rev. E. C. Dunbar gave a brief and impressive talk on "Home," and among other things he said the following: This touching picture carried us back to the old home, and we are reminded of its sacred influence. The family is the basic unit of society, and the most important. The church is very important to our country, and the school is of the greatest value in the training of our children, but the home, the family is after all more important than either of these. We turn our children over to the church of the minister and say, train them, but the training they get in the church is not adequate; the home is the real training school of the children, and unless they are properly trained there, they will never be properly trained. The home should provide several things: it should teach and practice those things that make for good health; there should be plenty of time given to recreation; to play.

The parent must see to it that the child is properly educated; but we must not stop with these; there must be definite religious training; the child must be taught to love and revere God and all things that pertain to things religious. The memories of home go with us through life, and the influences of home cling to us through the year. How essential, then, that the home training be of the right sort. Let us in our homes see to it that those whom God has given us are trained under the right influences, that their characters may be true and noble, that they may become the right kind of citizens. Emmett J. Fritz, physical director of the association, operated the moving picture machine.

MOTION LIST FOR COMMON PLEAS COURT

The court of common pleas for New London county will convene in this city this (Monday) morning for a motion list. There are fifteen cases on the list, Judge Charles B. Waller will be on the bench.

Saturday morning the case of Alonzo T. Letendre vs. The Lincoln and Boss L. and C. Co., of Willimantic, was taken up. Attorney C. V. James represented the plaintiff and Attorney Samuel Harvey of Willimantic represented the defendant.

Mr. Letendre is seeking damages of $24.50 for repairs to his machine which he claims was damaged by the defendant's truck.

The plaintiff testified regarding the accident which he had at Willimantic. He claimed he was going twelve miles an hour.

According to Mr. Letendre a Ford truck was approaching, owned by the Boss Lumber Co. After the accident, Letendre questioned the driver of the truck, who claimed he was at fault. The driver of the truck said that he was going between 20 and 25 miles an hour at the time of the collision. The impact of the collision caused the Letendre car to turn three-quarters around and one man was thrown out of the truck.

Eugene Lincoln, president and treasurer of the Lincoln Boss L. and C. Co., was approached by Letendre to settle for the accident. He claims that the truck was unable to travel at the rate of 20 to 25 miles an hour. The two front wheels and other minor damages were done to the truck.

Ernest Holland, driver of the truck at the time of the accident, was called to the stand. He claimed that the Letendre car was going along between 20 to 25 miles. When questioned by the plaintiff's attorney he claimed that he did not have a barrel of cider on the truck. When they went to Mr. Lincoln's home, he did not hear anything. C. B. Dickey, who was riding with the driver of the truck, was the last witness heard. The barrel in question, he claimed, was a barrel of vinegar which they were going to fetch. He was thrown out of the truck and received minor injuries.

Recalled to the stand Mr. Letendre claimed that Holland overheard the conversation between him and Lincoln. At the conclusion of the case Judge Waller took the papers.

DELIVERED ADDRESS TO HOLY CROSS GRADUATES

Rev. William A. Keefe, rector of St. Mary's Memorial church delivered the baccalaureate address to the graduating class of Holy Cross college at Worcester, Mass., Sunday morning. The service was held in the college chapel and also marked the dedication of the new memorial chapel erected on the college grounds.

Father Keefe is an alumnus of Holy Cross, graduating in the class of 1899 following which he continued his studies abroad.

Mrs. Bertha Bold Hart, wife of Henry F. Hart and mother of City Tax Collector Otis J. Hart and Police Lieutenant Henry Hart, died in Hartford after a long illness.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT FIRST CONG. CHURCH

Children's Day exercises were successfully carried out at the First Congregational church Sunday morning. A large congregation attended, although it was not as large as in former years, owing to the prevalence of illness in the community, many children having been detained at home who otherwise would have had a part on the very interesting program.

The several classes of the school with their teachers found in the vestibule, the primary department and smaller classes in the lead, marched in on either side of the church, preceded on one side by the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, and on the other by Supt. Dwight W. Avery. The choir in the rear sang as the processional, Rejoice Ye Pure in Heart, under direction of Organist Herbert L. Yerrington. Seats were reserved for the Sunday school in the church auditorium. The platform where the exercises were held was beautifully decorated along the entire front with a variety of choice flowers, the work of the Christian Endeavor flower committee, Miss Rose K. Durr, chairman.

The order of the programme as carried out largely by the children follows: Call to worship, minister; chant, This Is God's House, choir; prayer service with responsive reading, concluding with the Lord's prayer, minister and congregation; prayer hymn, Jesus With Thy Church Abide, choir; story, The Boy Jesus in His Father's House, minister; hymn, Sabbath Morning Bells, primary department; A Message, minister; recitation, Daisies, Florence Smith; hymn, God Sees, primary department; A Charge to the Children and their response, minister and children.

Rev. Mr. Bailey spoke to the children as follows: This is your church. We all need a quiet place where we may come together to pray and to think and to sing praises unto God.

This church is yours for love. We older people and many who are in heaven have loved and cared for it, and now it is your turn to help. You will do all you can to keep it clean and in order, and you will love doing your part as you come, as Jesus did, to your Father's house.

This church is yours for hope. Every child here today hopes to do some great thing for God and we can do great things by learning how, in God's house. Long ago, Paul, who was one of the people who worked hardest for God's church, said, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." We can tell our hopes here as we pray, and God will give us the strength we need.

This church is yours for loyalty. You know well what it means to be loyal to your class or to a group of friends. Be loyal to your church in that same faithful, splendid way. Think and speak loyally and be true to the flag of your church, even as you are true to the flag of your country. Loyal boys and girls will help God's church on earth to grow and be more beautiful. For, of course, we know that these church buildings are only a small part of the church. When we speak of the church, we mean the Christian people everywhere who go to their churches and love them."

The minister then said, "Shall we light these candles as we are earnestly thinking of these things?" This formed an important part of the exercises. Several candles on a standard were placed upon a table on the platform. The response was given by the children in verse and song while at intervals the candles were lighted by the following: Russell Edmond, Anita Potter, Edward Eccleston, Beatrice Smith and Miss Florence Sterry and Arthur Avery. Those who gave recitations besides the candle-lighters were Phyllis Hinrichs, John Browning Jr.; Charles Browning, Aileen Eaton, Rose Schwenk, Betty Browning and Dolly Edmond. The songs given were: Love Him, Love Him, All Ye Little Children, and Happy as a Robin. During this part of the exercises the congregation standing, sang the Doxology. After the hymn, By Cool Siloam's Shady Rill, by the congregation, six small children were consecrated to the Christian life by baptism, by Rev. Mr. Bailey. Those baptized were Lillian Clara Schaeffer, Glenn Raymond Shorey, George Bradford Holm, Carlton Raymond Way, Alton Seymour Way and Elmer Morris Way.

After Supt. Dwight W. Avery read an interesting account about the Children's Day offering, the offering was taken by four younge boys, Reginald Avery, Irving Manning, Luther Whaley and Crosby Peck.

The closing hymn, I Think When I Read That Story of Old, by the congregation and benediction by the minister concluded the exercises.

There was no session of the Sunday school.

CHILDREN'S PROGRAM AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The Children's day concert at the First Baptist church was held Sunday evening. A pageant, The Garden of the Heart, was given by the children of the Sunday school. CHILDREN'S EXERCISES AT GREENEVILLE CONG. CHURCH

A special Children's day program was given Sunday morning at the Greeneville Congregational church at which time seven children were baptized. The program was as follows:

Song, Sunday school; anthem, choir; recitation, Welcome, Margaret West; recitation, Flowers of Children's Day, Janet Service, Gene West, Isabel Hague, Mary Flynn, Natalie Anderson, Betty Spalding; recitation, Little Sunbeams, Ruth Abell; recitation, We Want to Be Like Jesus, Kenneth Adams and Ray Pionoski; song, class of little children; recitation, Something Sweet, Dorothy Spalding; recitation, A Good Place to Be, Alice Quinley; recitation, My Clock, Arthur Abell; recitation, Five Little Rosebuds, Margery Buchanan, Marion Drescher, Lillian Prentice, Shirley Prentice, Lois Bausch; recitation, What Makes a Happy Day, Russell Rydholm; recitation, Our Blossom, Mildred Turner; recitation, A Boy Like Me, Archibald Buchanan; recitation, Make Room for the Children, Edna Wallace; song, Children's Day, school; recitation, Scatter Seeds of Hope, Ruth Anderson; song, kindergarten class.

Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the church, addressed the children and Miss Taggart of Taftville sang the offertory solo. The committee in charge of the program comprised Mrs. Frederick Fox and Mrs. Archibald Torrance. Mrs. Frederick Fox, Mrs. Archibald Torrance and Mrs. Thomas Young had charge of the flowers and Mrs. Frank Waters led in the singing. Oscar W. Carpenter was acting superintendent of the Sunday school in the absence of Supt. Alexander H. Finlayson.

BIBLES FOR SEVEN CHILDREN AT PARK CHURCH

Seven boys and girls were presented bibles at the children's day service at Park Congregational church Sunday morning. Six children were baptized by Rev. Samuel H. Howe, D. D., pastor of the church. There was a large sized congregation at the service including the members of the Sunday school. The children of the Sunday school, having reached the age of eight years, who received bibles were: Patricia Chilton Howe, Ray Robbins, Rose Annie Page, Phloise Webster, Richard Lewis, Walter Duncan Goring and Robert Allyn Page.

The seven children baptized were: Pricilla Stockwell, Bruce Ale Burgy, Elenor Bennett Sherman, Frances Gwendolyn Morton, Clifford Edward Wilson and Hariot Loring Hull.

Rev. Dr. Howe addressed the children on the Childhood of Jesus.

GOLDEN CENTURY AT CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH

The Golden Century Garden, a Children's Day festival, with music adapted from the classics, featured the annual Children's Day program given Sunday evening at the Central Baptist church, the service being held in connection with the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the American Baptist Publication society of Philadelphia, the program being that sent out by the society for use on Children's Day.

In connection with the presentation of the program the platform of the church was made over into a Golden Century Garden, daisies, ferns and spring flowers being used in the decorations which were carried out by Mrs. Allyn L. Brown.

The program opened following prayer by C. Edward Smith and the address of welcome by James L. Case, general superintendent of the school. The program was as follows:

Appearance of Rev. Samuel Cornelius, Harold S. Burt, and Rev. Noah Davis, Willis Hill, dressed in a costume of 1824, who tell of the beginning of the foundation of the American Baptist Publication society. Song, Sowing the Seed, by the school.

Part Two—The Awakening of the Flowers (1824-1850). LADY EXPERT COMING TO HELP RUPTURED WOMEN

Demonstrates Rice Method Free to All

MISS I. BRAMAN,

representing William S. Rice, Adams N. Y., inventor of the famous Rice (Non-Surgical) Method for Rupture will be at the Wauregan Hotel, Norwich, Conn., Monday and Tuesday June 9 and 10, to demonstrate a new special corset attachment that holds any rupture no matter how large. Even if the abdomen is very flabby it holds any rupture with ease, comfort and security.

Special Combined Rupture and Corset Back Support.

Every woman who has been compelled to wear an ordinary truss or abdominal support knows the gouging, cutting, and chafing caused by narrow bands. The weight of the abdomen or pressure necessary in holding the rupture must be counted by the added pressure sometimes causing great misery and suffering. The special, broad supporting corset back distributes the pressure to do away with chafing.

There are thousands of women who are in perfect misery because they cannot find anything that will hold their rupture and the abdomen at the same time. The appliances usually worn are hot, bulky, chafing and irritating. But this wonderful Combined Corset Back Support is light, flexible, durable and cool and fits the figure like a glove. It gives you a sense of absolute comfort and protection while at the same time greatly improving abdominal outlines.

Trusses in common use are not adapted to women and often do great harm. Women therefore, suffer more and are in greater danger from rupture than men, and all women who have ruptures or who wear an abdominal support of any kind should not fail to call and see this wonderful Combined Corset Back Support. No description or illustration can fully convey the remarkable utility of this splendid Suppert. It must be seen, it must be put on to convince a woman that it was designed for her.

Miss Braman takes a large woman just as she is, all out of shape and unsightly and by this remarkable corset Support gives her a natural neat, trim figure.

She will also give full instruction on how to handle and care for any rupture, large or small. She will show how to hold any kind of rupture from the simple groin and femoral to the large and difficult navel and after Operation Ruptures, without chafing or squeezing, also how to wear the corset correctly.

Don't let this great opportunity get away from you. Don't continue to suffer the burden of rupture and truss wearing when it is so entirely unnecessary. Your call on this Lady Expert is sure to prove one of the best things you ever did. She will be here only two days, then your opportunity will be gone. The fitting and demonstration are free. It don't cost you a penny to learn all about the Rice Method and the wonderful opportunity for help it offers in your case. After demonstration you can purchase the Outfit required if you wish.

Call any time from 9 to 12 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m., or 7 to 9 evenings and ask at the hotel desk for the Rice Representative and she will do the rest.

W. S. RICE, Inc. Adams, N. Y.

NORWICH MAN FOUND UNCONSCIOUS IN ROAD

About one o'clock this (Monday) Morning John Loughran, about 35, of this city, was found unconscious on the highway near the Norwich State hospital. He was taken into the State hospital and given first aid. His condition appeared to be so serious that police headquarters was notified by telephone with a request for the ambulance. Sergt. Thomas Murphy summoned the ambulance and sent the police patrol to the State hospital.

Loughran was taken to the Backus hospital in the ambulance. Examination at the hospital failed to show any broken bones. The extent of his injuries was said to be scratches and bruises and a lump on his head. At the hospital he partly regained consciousness but was not able to talk.

It is a mystery as to how he came to be in the road. It is possible that he was hit by a machine while walking on the road but this is discounted as his condition and the nature of his injuries would indicate that foul play may have figured in the affair. The police are investigating the matter.

Loughran was found by Nelson Curtis Latham of 137 Baker Ave., Groton, and James Chester of 29 Broad street, Groton, who were on their way to Groton by automobile.

STATE DELEGATES LEAVE FOR G. O. P. CONVENTION

The Connecticut delegation to the republican national convention and guests, making a party of over 70, left Saturday for Cleveland in a special train.

Lewis M. Carpenter of Jewett City alternate from the second congressional district, notified his principal George H. Bradford, Friday, that unexpected developments in his business would prevent him from going to the convention. He gave a proxy to Henry Frisbie, cashier of the Uncas National bank, who joined the Connecticut delegation on the special train at Hartford.

It's a poor rule that won't work both ways, but it's a poorer one that won't work at all.

ACADEMY AND WESTERLY NOW IN TIE FOR FIRST PLACE IN HIGH SCHOOL LEAGUE

While Westerly was losing to Chapman Tech at New London Saturday afternoon the Academy ball team was pounding out an 18 to 12 victory over Stonington High which sent them into a tie for first place with the Westerly team in the Eastern Connecticut Interscholastic league. The deciding game for the championship will be played Wednesday afternoon at the Academy campus.

Saturday's game was a loose, seesaw game in which errors by both teams, coupled with hard hitting, figured largely in the scoring. Emmet, the Stonington pitcher, was wild, and in the two and 1-3 innings he pitched allowed eight bases on balls one of which forced in a run. Segal, the Academy pitching star, was driven to cover in the third inning and was relieved by "Bull" Steinman, who covered himself with all kinds of glory during the seven innings he pitched. Steinman had his fast curves breaking to perfection and 10 of the Stonington men were turned back by strike-outs. Not only did Steinman pitch well but he fielded with exceptional ability accepting seven chances with only one excusable error. His one-handed catch of Maine's crashing drive in the fifth inning was one of the outstanding features of the game, another being the spectacular catch of Hatfield's high fly by Busch.

The Academy started off strong, taking the lead in the first inning only to lose it in the second when Stonington pounded out three runs assisted by three Academy errors. Stonington added two more runs in the third when they bunched three successive hits off Segal. This was the downfall of Segal and Coach Brigham sent in Steinman with his fast ball. The big Bozrah boy fanned the first man to face him and then ended the inning by fanning another.

The Academy was presented three runs by Emmet in the third inning when he issued three passes in succession and then McGowan singled. Two more passes were given by Emmet before he was removed to first base and Pupillo took up the pitching burden. Pupillo retired the Academy but in the next inning the locals evened the score when Hollander was passed and Steinman singled.

Stonington took the lead in the sixth by scoring one run on an error and two hits. With two down in the last of the fifth the Academy took the lead when they scored three runs on two errors and Burke's double to center. Stonington promptly evened the score in their half of the sixth on errors by Segal and Hinricks.

The last half of the sixth was a terrible slaughter for Stonington for in this inning the Stonington team simply fell apart and the Academy bunched four hits, one a double by McNamara, behind three errors for eight runs. To this they added two more in the eighth inning. The Stonington team scored once in the seventh and three times in the ninth, largely on errors.

The game was interesting though loose and there were flashes of brilliance that kept the crowd on edge during the contest. The score:

CHAPMAN TECH GIVES WESTERLY TERRIBLE SETBACK

Special to The Bulletin.

New London, June 8.—A string of twelve victories came to a sudden termination Saturday afternoon, when the Chapman Technical baseball team considered anything but a strong opponent for the undefeated Westerly High school team, inflicted the only defeat Westerly has received, making the final score reading 8 to 7 in favor of the Whalers. A total of nine hits, three good for triples were made by the Chapman Tech batsmen off Smith, reputed to be the best hurler in the New England states as far as the opinion of Westerly people was concerned. To see their idol maltreated and decisively beaten before their own eyes proved too much for the followers of the Westerly team and the defeat puts the Rhode Island team in a tie with Norwich Free Academy for first place in the standing of the teams in the Eastern Connecticut Interscholastic league.

The heavy firing began in the first round and was kept up intermittently throughout the afternoon. The first man to fall was Morris Brown, the Chapman Tech right hander. He collapsed at the volley fired by the invading Westerly nine. His brother Johnny Brown took up the post of danger and survived all further assaults of the Rhode Island tribe.

In retaliation for the assault on Morris Brown, Coach Weaver's charges taacded Smith the Westerly pitcher in force. They hit him with everything but the grandstand and the automobiles that were parked nearby. Smith should have been taken out early in the game, but the derrick was not applied and he was allowed to stay, although he was mishandled scandalously, and before he was able to quell the riot, Chapman Tech had scored eight runs in six innings and the damage was done. In that space of time, a total of eleven runs were scored, eight by Tech and three by Westerly, twelve hits were made, none were killed, two pitchers wounded and one missing.

To make sure of the victory, the Red and Black aided by Hewitt's three base wallop to deep left with Bourbois, who was running for Morris Brown on first base, scored two runs and went over the Westerly trenches in a second wage. After the smoke had cleared in this inning it looked like Smith would have to be listed among the missing, but no, the Westerly mentor did not have another hurler to depend on—and why he depended upon Smith nobody knows today. In the early innings Smith had little or nothing on the ball except the rought spots the ball had acquired after striking up against the wall in back of the catcher's stand. Chapman Tech deserved to win from the start for it was a determined team that met the invaders from Rhode Island. However, with misplays frequent throughout the contest, and with the Tech players guilty of glaring errors, while Smith of Westerly, received good support with no exception of right field, the game was a battle, not of wits, but of luck. The latter element entered the game from the very first inning for Chapman Tech and when Salimeno for Westerly tried to make a shoestring catch of McDonald's hit to the righ field with two men on the paths it was another luck break for the Tech.

If Smith has the same thing on the ball when the Westerly team plays N. F. A. on Wednesday, there will be doubt as to the outcome of the game.

Johnny Brown with a triple and two singles, Hewitt with a triple, the winning hit and Morris Brown with two hits, led in the assault upon the decnified Smith. W. Daborski for Westbat was the individual hitting star of ely with four hits out of six times at the afternoon. He was the only player on the entire Westerly team that ould be rated as a fair player. GAIR TEAM WINS ITS FIRST GAME

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 8.—Heavy hitting behind the masterly pitching of Shanan gave the Robert Gair plant of Montville its first victory in its first start in the Industrial league at Morgan Park Saturday evening. The final count was 10 to 3 in favor of the Montville aggregation. The victory gives the Robert Gair a tie for first place in the standing with the Connecticut Power, each winning one game and have yet to lose a single contest. The score:

Morgan's steam yacht "Corsair." The varsity crew members met their fathers on board and all enjoyed a fine day.

Brasscos Trim Hartford

Waterbury, June 8.—Waterbury defeated the Hartford Senators 4 to 2 here today in a torrent of rain, that did not lessen the playing ability of the two leaders in the Dan O'Neil loop. Bishop started on the mound for Waterbury, but he weakened in the third stanza, and Horan took up the burden with none out. The substitute allowed the Senators no runs and only four hits in the seven innings that he worked. Sensational fielding stunts featured the game. The score:

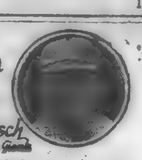
How It's Done In the Majors



By Frank Frisch
Captain, New York Giants

A right handed batter is batting with a right handed pitcher in the box. The batter is a pronounced left field hitter and the pitcher depends very much on an out curve.

Where should the shortstop play?

He should play in the regular position of the shortstop. If the pitcher throws an outcurve to the outside corner of the plate the batter may hit the ball toward right field, but if he steps into the ball he is very likely to cut it through the shortstop's position and if the latter has moved over towards second base such a ball may get by him. The assumption by some that a right handed hitter can push an outcurve towards second is not born out by facts. True, there have been right handed hitters who could place balls towards the right field but these have been few and always of the highest type. Most right handed hitters of the everyday type go after the ball when it comes up towards the plate. They hope to hit it and are trying to place it. The shortstop, like all players, must get it into his head what the average hitter will do under given circumstances and not get out of position. If he does, the batter may notice it, and even if the batter is not much of an expert, it is quite possible for him to pull the ball enough towards left field to get a safe hit by him. A fielder who does that will be rebuked for permitting a weak batter to outwit him.

Paris, June 8.—(By the A. P.)—Sweden and Holland played a tie game today in their Olympic soccer game in the Colombes stadium. Each team scored one goal. The regulation two extra periods were played but neither side was able to increase its score.

DUWELL CLUB OPENS NEW PARK WITH CLOSE VICTORY OVER HARTFORD TEAM

In a drizzling rain that fell almost continually during the seven innings of play the Duwell Athletic association opened their park and baseball season Sunday afternoon, winning from the Hartford Walnuts, 4 to 3. The new park, which the association has laid out at no little expense and hard labor, was opened to the public at 2 o'clock with appropriate ceremony after which there was a band concert until the game was called at 2.45 o'clock. Mayor Milo R. Waters and members of the common council were guests of the club. The band, despite the downpour, stuck to their instruments during the game and rendered music between the innings. One bright piece played was It Ain't Goin' to Rain No More. This seemed to arouse the ire of the weather man for after this selection it rained harder than ever. Another unappropriate selection was How Dry I Am. Whether this applied to the exterior or interior of the spectators is still a mystery, but one thing is certain, it did not apply to the exterior of many.

There was a large crowd on hand for the game and a large per cent stayed until the game was called in the seventh inning by Umpire Zemke. Those who remained saw a fast and clean game considering the watery conditions of the playing field and the slippery ball. Roy, former Willimantic pitching star, pitched his first game for a local team and showed that he had considerable stuff on the ball, fanning seven of the Hartford batters. His star performance came in the second inning when he fanned the three men to face him on 12 pitched balls. However, he was touched for nine base hits, five of them going for extra bases, due largely to the shortness of the outfield.

For four innings only one man reached third for the Hartford team, while the Duwells piled up three runs, two in the first inning and one in the second inning. Coullard, lead-off man for the Duwells, was safe on an error and then scored on Mills' double to left field. Mills scored when Smith crashed another double to left. The run in the second inning came as a result of a single by Fair. Devito's error and Coullard's sacrifice fly.

The Walnuts made a desperate attempt to tie the score in the fifth when a single and three doubles in succession netted two runs. They had a chance to tie the score in the sixth inning but Barry's failure to touch third on Moore's error cost them plenty. This was their last stand while the Duwells had added the fourth counter in their half of the fifth. Post forcing in the run by his sudden streak of wildness.

Mills and Leonard led the attack with two hits each, Ellsworth and Smith were the star outfield performers.

WHITE SOX TAKE EASY GAME FROM RED SOX

Chicago, June 8.—Bunching hits behind Thurston's tight pitching, the White Sox evened the series count today, defeating Boston 10 to 3. Archdeacon made a circuit catch of Wamby's liner in the eighth, and then, in the Sox' half, to make the inning complete with thrills, he walked, stole second, took third on Picinich's poor throw and finally stole home.

CUBS AND SENATORS MAKE GOOD SHOWING LAST WEEK

New York, June 8.—Balanced strength featured the last week in the major leagues as the clubs traded games. Only Chicago, in the National and Washington, in the American, made impressive showings.

The Cubs by winning two games from New York pulled to within one game of the Giants who had manufactured a three-game lead at the expense of Brooklyn. The Robins retained third place at the expense of Pittsburgh which fell to sixth place today by losing to the Giants. The Reds enjoyed good pitching and moved to within a few points of Brooklyn.

The Phillies took three of four games from St. Louis and drew the Cards back toward the bottom, the gap between first and last place in the last place in the National league was twelve and one-half games.

Washington's spurt, directly attributed to excellent pitching by the veterans, John and Zachary, carried the team into the first division of the American league but the position was lost to St. Louis today as the rejuvenated Browns defeated the Yankees and the Senators were massacred by the frantic Indians as the latter fled from last place which the climbing Athletics thrust upon them at intervals during the week.

The forward march of Washington affected the three leaders by blocking the advance of Detroit which was threatening to pass New York and Boston on its home stay, despite the loss of three of four games to Senators, however, the Tigers kept to within one game of their rivals as both found trouble at Chicago and St. Louis promise of more grief for the leaders was given today when all the first division clubs lost.

The recovery of the Browns after a continued losing streak not only brought the team into the first division but retarded the progress of the leaders, Boston and New York, against whom it was effected.

CUBS BEAT DODGERS IN SEVEN-INNING BATTLE

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 8.—Chicago defeated Brooklyn today 3 to 5 in a 7-inning game interrupted by rain. The visitors bunched hits off Decatur, Osborne and Henry in three innings. Aldrich was effective until the seventh when the Dodgers mixed three hits, one a home run by High, with a pass and made 4 runs. The score:

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

THE PSALM OF LIFE

Tell me not, in mourful numbers,
Life is but an empty dream
For the soul is dead that slumbers,
And things are not what they seem.

Life is real! Life is earnest!
And the grave is not its goal:
Dust thou are, to dust returnest,
Was not spoken of the soul.

Not enjoyment, and not sorrow,
Is our destined end or way:
But to act, that each tomorrow
Find us farther than today.

Art is long and Time is fleeting,
And our hearts, though stout and brave,
Still, like muffled drums, are beating
Funeral marches to the grave.

In the world's broad field of battle
In the bivouac of Life,
Be not like dumb, driven cattle!
Be a hero in the strife!

Trust no future, howe'er pleasant!
Let the dead past bury its dead!
Act—act in the living present!
Heart within, and God o'erhead!

Lives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime,
And, departing, leave behind us
Footprints on the sands of time.

Footprints, that perhaps another,
Sailing o'er life's solemn main,
A forlorn and shipwrecked brother,
Seeing, shall take heart again.

Let us, then, be up and doing
With a heart for any fate!
Still achieving, still pursuing,
Learn to labor and to wait.

—Henry Longfellow.

NIKOLINA

O, tell me, little children, have you seen her—
The tiny maid from Norway, Nikolina?
O, her eyes are blue as corn-flowers 'mid the corn,
And her cheeks are rosy red as skies of morn:

O, buy the baby's blossoms if you meet her,
And stay with gentle words and looks to greet her;
She'll gaze at you and smile and clasp your hand,
But no word of your speech can she understand.

Nikolina! Swift she turns if any call her,
As she stands among the poppies hardly taller,
Breaking off their scarlet cup for you
With spikes of slender larkspur, brightly blue.

In her little garden many a flower is growing—
Red, gold and purple in the soft wind blowing.
But the child that stands amid the blossoms gay
Is sweeter, quainter, brighter even than they.

O, tell me, little children, have you seen her—
This baby girl from Norway, Nikolina?
Slowly she's learning English words, to try
And thank you if her flowers you come to buy.

—Celia Thaxter.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO WIDE AWAKES

The various ways in which Mother Nature takes care of her many problems always prove interesting to boys and girls. One of the most interesting things of its kind is the water proofing methods of the beaver. Most of us are more or less familiar with the dam-building activities of the beaver and we know that he spends a great deal of his time in the water. The reason he does not suffer from being in the water so much is because of the nature of his coat and his method of oiling it. He has two kinds of fur, long, coarse reddish brown hair on the outside and an inner fur of soft gray.

This inner fur provides warmth and he keeps it dry by applying oil to the outer fur. If one were to inspect the front feet of the beaver one would find that they are much like human hands, having long slender fingers. The nails are long and slightly curved, to aid the beaver in digging and in handling the small trees, mud and stones he uses in his work. On the other hand the hind feet are very large and strong and are webbed for swimming.

The toes are rather short and stubby. On the next to the outside toe the nail is split or divided. This split toe-nail really explains how the beaver water-proffs himself. Connecting with this opening at the toe nail are small ducts which lead from the oil sacs through which the oil passes when the beaver wants to oil himself.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

MY SCHOOL HOUSE

Dear Uncle Jed: My school house is two miles from my house. It is situated in the center of Voluntown on the side of a state road. Maple trees are on the west side of the school house and in front of the school are eight elm trees. The body of the school house is painted light brown and trimmed with dark brown, with a shingled roof. On the top of the roof is a tall red brick chimney.

On the inside the wood parts are painted light brown. In the front of the room stands the teacher's desk and chair. There are eight small blackboards.

On one of these small boards we have a bird list of the most birds we have seen. I have seen a great many.

On the top of the small board in the front of the room is an American flag which we salute every morning. In a corner of the room is a medium size cupboard in which we keep books and all sorts of handy articles.

A PICNIC IN THE WOODS

Dear Uncle Jed: "Oh, mother, is the sun shining?" a drowsy voice asked.

"Yes, dear, very brightly, too," was the reply.

At that I jumped out of bed and hurried to get dressed. My mother seemed to want some cream to whip, so I went to a man who sold it. When I returned we were ready to start. We were going to have a picnic in the woods. We turned up a country road, and soon came to a brook. We followed it until we came to a nice shady place. We sat down in a cool corner. Soon we heard footsteps. We all listened and a curly-haired girl came running towards us. "Oh, cousin Eleanor," I cried for it was none other than she. We soon ate lunch and played games.

HAS A FLOWER GARDEN

Dear Uncle Jed: I have a flower garden this year. In it are castor oil beans, zinnias, nasturtiums and dahlias. My favorite wild flower is the violet. Everybody likes violets. They are pretty and fragrant. The little white ones come early in the spring. I like sugared candy violets to eat. In England the syrup of violets is used in medicine.

A TRIP TO NEW YORK

Dear Uncle Jed: One time a few years ago my father took me to New York. We traveled all night. My father wanted to take a sleeping car, but I did not want to. I wanted to look out of the window. There were signs with electric lights in back of them. I bought an apple. About half past twelve I fell asleep. I slept about a half an hour. At two o'clock we changed cars at Buffalo. There was a young man that lived in Buffalo that showed us where to go. I sat down with the valise close beside me. He told me to stay awake until he came back. I did. Then he said, I could go to sleep. It did not take long for me to go to sleep, for I was tired. I slept about two hours, when I awoke my father and the valise were gone. I began to be frightened for there were men near me I did not know. I got up and began to look around. At first I did not see him nor the valise anywhere. Then I saw him around a corner talking with a man.

A CLEVER DOG

Dear Uncle Jed: I have a little dog whose name is Trixy. She will do many tricks. In the winter time she will go down on a sled alone or on my back. She will catch a ball, play hide-and-seek or climb a tree. Last summer when we went to the seashore we took Trixy with us. She went down the shoot-the-shoots every day, and always fell into the water. When we went out in the canot we would take Trixy. Once, when we were out quite a distance we saw a barrel in the water. Trixy wanted to go after it but we would not let her. We think a great deal of Trixy.

TEN LITTLE CHICKS

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to the Wide Awake Circle and hope to continue writing about my adventures.

I have ten little baby chicks. They are not as strong as they might be. My mamma said that the storm hurt them. So for a few days I had to keep them in the house, in a box covered with a warm cloth. Every day I would put them on the floor on a piece of paper, to feed and water them. One morning I gave them some sour milk and they wanted to walk in it. But they would get their feet wet and cold and they didn't like it. So they didn't do it over once or twice. I hope that they will get well and strong. Hoping that everyone in the Wide Awake circle will take care of there little chickens, as well if not better than I do.

JOAN OF ARC

Dear Uncle Jed, I am going to give you a sketch of the brave heroine Joan of Arc.

Just a short distance from Paris stands the little village of Domremy.

This little village lies on the Meuse river. It was sometimes called Vaucauleurs (Valley of flowers.) because it has beautiful flowers and sunny orchards.

The streets in this place are very narrow and winding but instead of all the little huts that were there long ago now stand big houses.

One little hut however is still preserved and that is where Joan of Arc, The Maid of Orleans lived.

This little hut is standing near the church. It is made of stone and plaster. It had very few rooms. The room nearest to the church was Joan's bedroom. She loved to hear the church bells ring. Joan was often found praying in church.

After her days work was over Joan would sometimes steal away from her companions and sit alone. For she was living in a very unhappy time for France and the misfortunes of her beloved country weighed upon her mind.

Her father told her of the sad condition of France, of how the kings of England had been for nearly a hundred years trying to make themselves king of France and how little by little they had taken possession of French lands until it was feared they would soon own the entire country and France would have an English king.

When about thirteen years of age and while she was standing in her fathers garden at noon one summer day, she suddenly saw a great light and heard voices telling her to obey.

Joan was willing to be led by those voices and called them "The Voice of God." At first the voices told her to be good, but later it began to speak to her in regard to France. The voices told her to go to the governor and ask for an audience to see the king.

Joan started out to see the governor. When she got there and told him about her errand she was laughed at and the governor gave her no consideration. Joan went to the king.

When she told the king her errand he furnished an army of which Joan was to be "commander-in-chief."

Joan rode on a white horse and carried a sword and banner. When the men were discouraged she would urge them on.

When the enemy saw a woman at the head of an army they all fled and therefore the French won the battle of Orleans and Joan of Arc was afterwards called "the Maid of Orleans."

AT THE CIRCUS

Dear Uncle Jed: When I was only nine years old I went to a circus with my mother. I had to walk quite a distance before we got to the grounds where the circus was. When we went to see the lions I put my finger in the screen. The lion snapped at me, and I pulled my finger out so fast that my mother did not know what had happened. We looked at the camel in the next side. The door opened and he came out. All of a sudden someone yelled, "Grab him! Grab him!" When my mother looked for me she could not find me and they had not yet brought back the camel. Then they opened the door and there I was in the corner of the cage. The man tried to scare me by saying he would let the camel in if I did not come out. When I heard that I came out. My mother was standing there waiting for me. When we went home she said, "Next time I will tie you right to me so you can not get away."

CAUGHT THE THIEF

Dear Uncle Jed: Once there lived a man and his wife and six children in the woods. They were very poor, because the man was lazy. He didn't have any fuel to keep the children warm. When night came he would go and steal the wood from one of his neighbor's wood piles. The owner of the woodpile was beginning to miss the wood, so he put some bullets in some of the pieces of wood. That night the man came and stole the wood. He got some of the pieces of wood with the bullets in. The next day the owner of the wood went to visit the man. He saw that his stove had a big crack in it, but he didn't say anything about it to the man. After that the man never stole any more wood. He had been taught better.

A PLEDGE TO THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE

Dear Uncle Jed: I pledge myself not to abuse the speech of my country by using incorrect grammar or slang, by slurring my words, or leaving off the last letter of words.

I also pledge myself to correct younger children whom I hear using incorrect English and to do all in my power to bring the language of my country to its proper standerd.

THE TALLEST ANIMAL

Dear Uncle Jed: I am sending you a story and the name of it is The Tallest Animal. The giraffe is the tallest animal that lives. Its height being from fifteen to eighteen feet. It is also considered one of the most beautiful of animals. Its head is small, and shaped very much like the head of a horse. Its eyes are large and very beautiful, giving the animal a very gentle appearance. The graceful appearance that the giraffe presents is very much increased by its peculiar color, which is orange red with spots of a darker shade. Its long tail ends in a tuft of dark colored hair. The neck of this tall animal is at least four or five inches longer than its legs. Its legs are very long and slender.

The knees have a swelled appearance because it kneels when it sleeps. The giraffe is a very timid animal. Although so graceful when standing, when running these animals look very ridiculous, but they can run very rapidly. It is hard for a horse to overtake one in a race. Africa is the home of the giraffe. In its wild state it eats grass and the leaves of trees. The skin of the giraffe is very valuable for making leather. The bones are used to make buttons and other articles. The flesh when roasted, is considered the best meat that can be eaten.

THE EMPIRE OF JAPAN

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you, and hope all the Wide Awakes will like my story. I would like to tell you about the Empire of Japan.

The Empire of Japan includes the islands off the east coast of Asia, between the peninsula of Kamchatka at the north and the Philippines at the south. It also includes the peninsula of Korea on the mainland, and Dairen, in Manchuria, is under Japanese rule.

ABOUT RUBBER

Dear Uncle Jed: Rubber grows in the Amazon Valley. It grows where the land is flooded. The rubber tree has leaves like an ash tree. Its fruit is like that of a horse chestnut. When the fruit is ripe it cracks and spreads its seed far and wide. It takes fifteen years before a rubber tree can produce rubber.

The Indian carries a small hatchet about one inch wide. When he sees a rubber tree he cuts a little hole in the tree, and places a small cup under it. Then he goes to the next tree and does the same thing. At noon he comes back and empties the thick sap which has flowed into the cup, into a large bucket. He gets about two quarts a day. Then he takes his rubber in a shed in the woods.

He makes a fire of nuts which is a very smoky fire. The Indian places a chimney over the fire. When this is done he dips his paddle in the bucket. When he has many balls of rubber he sends it down the Amazon river to the plantation house.

BAKING COOKIES

Dear Uncle Jed: One cold, windy day my mother wanted to make some cookies, but I thought it would be nice if I could make them so I persuaded her to let me. First my batter was too thin, so I put in more flour. I took the biggest pan I could find and filled it with cookies. When they were done, they were burned. My mother said that they had baked too fast and I didn't grease my pan. She said they were pretty good but there was something lacking. Did you put in any flavoring? Why! No! That was what was the matter. I tried again. When these were done there was still something the matter. I had forgotten the vanilla again. I guess cake making is for girls.

MY SCHOOL

Dear Uncle Jed: The school which I attend is situated on Main street in Voluntown. It is painted brown with a red brick chimney. It has a stone foundation. I live about a mile and a half from this school house. I am transported in my uncle's school team. My three cousins and a small boy also ride with me. I am in the sixth grade. We had three tests on Friday. There are four large rooms in my school and there are 3 teachers. There is a very large lawn surrounding our school house with several trees in the front.

There was a speaking contest in the Union Hall. In the speaking William Lintburg won and I won second. Spelling Lorraine Robinson won. There were also some agricultural demonstrations. There was a large attendance.

A TIGER IS LOOSE

Dear Uncle Jed: Diana, out of breath and quite pale, dashed into the sitting room and threw herself on the sofa. "Can you guess what has happened, mother? A tiger is loose! It belonged to the circus." How did it happen?" asked Mrs. Wilson. "Please don't interrupt, mother. Well, it belonged to the circus which is coming to town." "Leave out that part, plesse," interrupted her mother. "Please tell the results. Are they unpleasant or pleasant?" Unpleasant, of course. Lillian Hilton is in the woods picking flowers and she don't know a single thing about it, and her mother's frantic! She's moaning and tearing her hair and—and—everything! Can't I go and tell her to come home? Please let me, mother!" pleaded Diana. "I'm sorry Di, but it's too dangerous. One of the men will probably go." Diana said no more, but when her mother went to cheer Mrs. Hilton she slipped out of the door and into the woods where both Lillian and the tiger were. She dodged over stones and brush, and when at last she stopped, all out of breath, she was facing the tiger! With a snarl the tiger seized her, before she could run. Whiz! something flew through the air, over her dizzy head and into the side of the tiger. A moment later Lillian Hilton dropped nearly out of the tree and aimed a kick at the tiger. With another wicked snarl the tiger sprang at Lillian, who dodged. The tiger hit the birch tree and staggered into a bush. Lillian, seeing Diana lean against a tree, caught her just as she almost fell. "Are you hurt, Di?" asked Lillian, now alarmed and upset, "Not much, I guess. The tiger bit me here," displaying a bloody, crushed arm. Lillian shuddered at the sight of it, but plucked up courage and, threw it stone at the panting tiger. He was still, so Lillian helped Diana home, where the disabled arm was bandaged. Diana was never able to use that arm.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

How Chipmunk Spends the Winter

"Dear me," exclaimed the bunny boy as Chippy Chipmunk disappeared in the last story. "I wonder where he has gone," and little rabbit looked here and there and everywhere, but he couldn't find the front door to the little chipmunk's house. No indeed. That wise little fellow knew only too well that to safeguard his home his front door must be well hidden. Just as the bunny boy was about to hop away, out popped Chippy Chipmunk,—popped from somewhere, just like that, quick as the wind that blows off your hat.

"I thought you had gone for good," laughed the bunny rabbit. "I couldn't see just where you went."

"Glad you didn't," answered Chippy Chipmunk, picking up a nut and stowing it away in his cheek pouch. "I'm busy filling my store room with food. When I can't find enough nuts, I gather seeds. And when my storerooms are filled, I can sleep during the cold weather in my dry nest."

"But you don't sleep all winter," replied the little rabbit. "I've often seen you in the winter time."

"Oh, yes, when the snow is on the ground I dig a tunnel and come up to the air some distance away from my front door," answered Chippy Chipmunk. "I'm not so foolish as to come right up straight through the snow! That would never do. Old Man Weasel or Hungry Hawk might catch me before I could get back. I'd rather poke up through the snow under some old log or a big rock, far away from my front door."

"I'm glad you don't sleep all winter," answered the little rabbit. "Mr. Big Brown Bear just curls up in his cosy cave and dreams. He never stores up any food. He sleeps until Miss Springtime Wind warms the forest."

"I'm so little that I must be careful," sighed Chippy Chipmunk. "On warm winter days I make a runway under the snow, around the roots of the Big Chestnut Tree, before I open it up to the air. Indeed, I'm very careful where I come out. Then I sit on the sunny side of a ledge and watch all that passes in the Shady Forest."

"You are a very cunning fellow," laughed the little rabbit, admiringly. "But doesn't some of your food spoil before you come to eat it?"

"Well, I take care of that," answered the little chipmunk. "I have two storerooms, one near the frost line and another below. In the colder room I keep the food that will spoil soonest. Oh, I don't worry. I can go without eating if needs must be."

"What!" exclaimed the little rabbit. "I couldn't. No indeed. Mother says I like to eat all the time."

"To be sure I can go without food," answered Chippy Chipmunk. "So can Squirrel Nutcracker. He and I, if worst comes to worst, can curl up in our nests and sleep for a week, or even a month. By that time spring has come and we can find a living in the Shady Forest."

"Well good-by," said the little rabbit, hopping away into the next story.

Palace Theatre

For any one who is not afraid to face life and its facts, Thomas H. Ince's picturization of Eugene O'Neill's powerful stage drama, Anna Christie can not fail to hold a powerful appeal. This First National production opened at the Palace theatre last night and will be shown until Wednesday.

"Study life and paint what you see," has been the motto of the romance-eyed Irishman who tramped the streets of city slums and beat his way over several seas before he was Anna Christie

"Picture life," has been the ideal of Thomas H. Ince in all his screen productions. He has lived up to his ideal with amazing fidelity in this latest offering. The story opens on one of life's depths; the sordid tragedy of places too often kept hidden from the public eye and thought; the anguish of three pitiful people whose love for each other brings them into violent conflict have been painted unflinchingly both by the dramatist and the picture producer.

John Griffith Wray directed the production, which bears the hallmark of finished technique. In fact it stands out as unique from the usual run of screen offerings. There isn't a doubt that Anna and her story will live on when most of the season's offerings have been buried in oblivion. It is the greatest drama which the silver sheet has yet offered.

The Academy Orchestra

An orchestra of forty pieces, giving its nineteenth annual concert, assisted by Mr. Ernest T. De Wald, is the musical event for this week.

The date is Wednesday evening, June 11th; the place is Slater Memorial Hall; the hour is 8:15; and the [illegible] is to be by the Academy orchestra.

The orchestra is quite up to the [illegible] of performance set by this organization in years past; the program to be presented is just as good, and it is believed the evening will prove [illegible] as enjoyable as in former [illegible].

Mr. Ernest T. De Wald, who will direct the orchestra, made a most favorable impression upon the many music lovers in this city when he sang about a year ago, one Sunday morning at the service at Christ church. There is every confidence that the three groups of songs which he will render will prove most attractive features for the evening's program.

Tickets for admission are 50 cents and may be secured from members of the orchestra or at Cranston's store.

Breed Theatre

Maurice Tourneur's love for the [illegible] the thrilling and the unusual is again given full away in his screen production of Torment, the [illegible] picture which began a [illegible] engagement at the Breed theatre last night.

[illegible] that it is the most vivid [illegible] that he has yet contributed to the silent drama—which [illegible] a great deal when one considers the consistently good contributions that he has made in recent years with pleasing regularity.

Bessie Love, as the sweet and simple heroine, has the leading feminine role, while that capable actor, Owen Moore, gives a strong characterization opposite her. Jean Hersholt is to be seen in a role similar to that of his Servant in the House, while important parts are taken by Maude George George Cooper, Morgan Wallace and Otto Lederer. With this well chosen cast to aid him and his story Tourneur has achieved a splendid result.

The story moves swiftly and dramatically. It begins with the seething of the Russian revolution, involves the theft of the crown jewels and ends with the great Japanese earthquake as the powerful climax. In between there is a sea voyage, with many scenes of beauty such as those for which Tourneur is noted, and a thrilling hold-up of an American express train.

Owen Moore, has the part of an American crook reformed in the end through love of Bessie Love, who portrays a servant-girl on the yacht of the American head of an international band of thieves. The love of [illegible] s, the Russian prince portrayed by Jean Hersholt, for his fellow man, is a theme running through the play [illegible] with much of the action revolves.

Tourneur has a knack of pleasing his audience with pictures. In none of [illegible] the memory of the present writer has he succeeded better.

Broadway Theatre.

Thomas Meighan's new Paramount picture "The Confidence Man," which was shown for the first time in Norwich at the Broadway theatre yesterday, is a crook romance with a brand new angle and bristling with punch—second not unlike "The Miracle Man."

Meighan chose it from over one hundred and fifty stories that he considered. It was written by Laurie York Erskine and Robert H. Davis and ran as a serfial in Argosy All-Story Weekly. So did "The Miracle Man." Victor Heerman directed, and the supporting cast is A-1.

In the story, the strongest Meighan has had in months, the star has the role of Dan Corvan, the greatest of all confidence men. He is the master-mind type of crook rather than the plug-ugly kind. Corvan hooks in old sucker, Queritt, falls in love with a young country girl (Virginia Valli) plays philanthropist to get "in right" with the town-folk, collects from Queritt and prepares to skip town.

But the real action starts when Corvan is exposed for the crook he is. Lawrence Wheat and Charles Dow have prominent supporting roles in the cast. Others include Helen Lindroth, Jimmy Lapsley, Margaret Seddon, David Higgins, George Nash and Dorothy Walters.

Warden Lewis E. Lawes, of Sing Sing prison, who probably knows more about confidence men than any other person in the world, visited Thomas Meighan recently at the Paramount Long Island studio during the filming of Meighan's latest picture "The Confidence Man," and gave the star some valuable pointers and advice on making the production.

In the picture, Tom plays the role of one of the smoothest crooks in the game, and the warden came in mighty handy as an authority on the technique of such individuals.

The programme was rounded out to perfection with a comedy and Kinograms Weekly.

Programme will continue through Wednesday.

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW

New York, June 8.—(By The A. P.)—A progressive onward movement last week carried bond prices to high levels, as investmnt buying was stimulated by easy money rates and favorable Washington developments. Measuring the employment of surplus institutional and corporation funds and the diversion of capital into tax-exempt securities, all active U. S. government obligations scaled new peak prices for the year, some of them establishing record high levels.

While the initial response of bonds to the president's approval of the tax reduction bill and the decision to adjourn congress was not as sensational as the action of stocks, the sustained strength of the market contrasted sharply with the subsequent reaction of stock prices.

Railroad bonds shared with stocks the improvement resulting from withdrawal of measures affecting the carriers which had been pending in congress, with the danger of further adverse legislation removed, the way was cleared for fresh buying movement [illegible] the prevailing high prices of standard investment issues and the greatest activity centered in speculative obligations. A special demand arose for some of the southwestern carriers in response to steps already taken to consolidate a number of these roads into the larger system.

Further testimony to the improved sentiment in investment circles was provided by an increase in the volume of new financing, which again exceeded $100,000,000. The total for the week was swelled by the sale of $67,400,000 New York city bonds and corporate stock. The operation, described as one of the most successful in [illegible] carried a profit to [illegible] the premium. Virtually all Wall street's leading financial institutions competed for the business resulting in a ten-fold oversubscription.

Foreign financing was confined to [illegible] purchase by bankers of $2,500,000 Bolivian government 8 per cent. bonds, supplementing a $24,000,000 loan floated here in 1922. Funds derived from the sale of these obligations, which were secured under a trust contract, will be used for further construction of the Arica-Villazon railway.

[illegible] second 4 1-4s at 101; first 4 1-4s at 101; second 4 1-4s at 100.28 and fourth 4 1-4s at 101.32.

Mr. Mellon's announcement of the June offerings and program said the treasury will accept maturing certificates and notes in payment for the new certificates. Maturing securities [illegible] be exchanged were identical [illegible] series TJ-1924 and series A

ENCAMPMENT OF CONN. VETS OF FOREIGN WARS

Waterbury, June 8. — The fourth state encampment of department of Connecticut, Veterans of Foreign Wars, closed here today with the election of officers, consideration of routine matters and the passage of a resolution to present a constitutional amendment at the next session of the general assembly making the payment of a bonus to veterans legal. This action was taken because the attorney-general of the state, last year, ruled that under the present constitution the state cannot pay a bonus to veterans.

Major William J. Shanahan, of Waterbury, was elected department commander without opposition, although attempts were made by several aspirants to rally strength. Other officers elected were senior vice-commander, John J. Kelly, of Bridgeport; junior vice-commander, Charles L. Blanchard of Bristol; quartermaster, George French of Hartford; judge advocate, John P. Devine of Bridgeport, surgeon, Dr M. A. O'Hara of Waterbury; chaplain, Rev. Russell W. Carleton of Bridgeport; council of administration, George Evans of Middletown; delegate to the national encampment, Captain Walter R. Collings of South Norwalk, the retiring commander. The new state adjutant is Gunner Grover C. Baldwin of Waterbury.

The officers were installed by Past Department Commander John R. Williams of Bridgeport and it was voted to hold the next encampment at Bristol.

The second state convention of the ladies' auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars was also held here today and today, closing after election of officers this afternoon. The new officers are: President, Mrs. Persie Johnson of Waterbury; senior vice president, Mrs. Agnes Hunt of Middletown; junior vice-president, Rose Langley of Danbury; chaplain, Mary C. Nixon of Stamford; treasurer, Elizabeth A. Kloss of Bristol; secretary, Evelyn Johnson of Waterbury; patriotic instructor, Margaret Newton of Wallingford; historian, Catherine Meehan of Winsted; conductress, Emily [illegible] of Middletown; color bearers, Mary Hart of Ansonia, Elizabeth [illegible] of Bridgeport, Alice Brace of New Canaan; Catherine Dibble of Meriden; guard, Margaret Leary of Meriden; council of administration, for unexpired term, Mrs. Emma Williams of Bridgeport; for three years, Mrs. J. J. McQuillan of South Norwalk.

Both the state encampment of the veterans and the convention of the auxiliaries were largely attended, more than 600 being in line in the annual parade.

GRISWOLD

Willis Morgan and daughter, Mrs. Frank Morgan and her daughter, are recovering slowly from chicken pox.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Morgan of Hartford are visiting relatives in town this week.

The meeting of the grange was held in Grange hall June 3rd with seventy-five members and three visitors from Preston grande present. The following memorial programme was given under the direction of the lecturer, Miss Mabel Kannehan. Piano solo, Mrs. Gladys Geer; vocal solo, Mrs. Marion Briggs; reading, Miss Marion Erink; vocal solo, Byron Kinne; memorial address by the chaplain, Rev. J. P. Richardson; vocal solo, Albert Reynolds. While the lecturer, Miss Kannahan, played Nearer, My God to Thee, Miss Mary Wilkenson slowly passed up the hall at the left, placing a spray of lilies-of-the-valley on the altar, in memory of Sister F. Gustafson. Miss Lillian Peppine passing up the right of the hall and placing a spray of violets on the altar in memory of Brother J. P. Gorman. The closing number was a trio by Mabel Kannahan, Esther and Mabel Frink. W. C. Terry was appointed a committee to have a telephone installed in the hall in the name of Pachaug grange. Cake and coffee were served.

MYSTIC

There was a large turnout of members of Mystic Rebekah lodge Friday evening, for the visitation of the grand officers and the tenth anniversary of the founding of the local lodge. The festivities opened with a chicken pie supper, the guests being Miss Ethel Barrows of New London, president of the state Rebekah assembly; Mrs. Emma Wilson, Stamford, vice president of the assembly; Mrs. Sadie Van Pelt of Mystic, grand marshal; Mrs. Emily Kingdom, of New London, district deputy president; James Cooper, grand master of the grand lodge of Odd Fellows; Stephen J. Austin, grand senior warden of the Grand Encampment; Mrs. William Banford of Westerly, past president of the Rhode Island assembly. Remarks were made by the various guests. Mrs. George H. Griswold presented Miss Ethel Barrows a gold bar pin in behalf of the lodge, and Miss James Cooper presented Mrs. Sadie Van Pelt, a string of pearl beads in behalf of the members of the lodge. The committee who had charge of the arrangements of the evening including the supper, were: Mrs. Ada Sweet, chairman, Mrs. Martha Stafford, Mrs. Grace Berry, Mrs. Jennie Schaffer, Mrs. Louise Jones, Miss Florence Johnson, Mrs. Bertha Ashcroft, Mrs. Annie Burrows, Mrs. Louise Doyle, Mrs. Lillian Cooper, Mrs. Sadie Van Pelt, Mrs. Lillian Price, Mrs. Lydia Brown, Mrs. Ella King and Mrs. May Oles.

Local members of the Connecticut chapter, Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America, have received notice of a meeting of this organization to be held Tuesday, June 17th, at the Shuttle Meadow club, New Britain. The meeting begins with a luncheon at 1 p. m. The afternoon will be given over to business and reports of delegates to the general court held in Washington, D. C., following which Mrs. Howard S. Horton will sing two numbers. The speaker of the afternoon is to be Mrs. George Maynard Minor of New London, honorary president-general. D. A. R., who will give reminiscences of her recent travels abroad. This society was organized at Norwalk, June 4, 19901, by Mrs. Thomas E. Noble, and there are seven members of the organization here. Mrs. H. Emeline Allyn, Mrs. Louis P. Allyn, Mrs. Charles H. Denison, Mrs. S. Frank Dickinson, Mrs. B. L. Holmes, Mrs. Wallace Phillips, and Mrs. Warren P. Rathbun; also Mrs. Ira C. Hoxie of Orleans, Mass., a former resident here, and Mrs. Leroy Ludwig of Stonington, who is an annual summer visitor here.

The meeting of the Parent-Teachers' association is to be held Friday evening in the assembly hall of Mystic Academy.

A memorial service was held Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in G. A. R. hall by Florine Dow camp, Royal Neighbors, after which the graves of departed members were decorated. The camp was assisted in these services by members of Modern Woodmen of America No. 8663 of this place.

Rev. J. Garfield Sallis, pastor of the Methodist church, goes to East Hampton today (Monday) to attend the Norwich District Ministerial meeting to be held Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. Marion O. Pomeroy has gone to Hartford for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Mabel P. Moser.

Mrs. A. A. Croucher of Palace Garden, R. I., was the guest over the week end of Mrs. George W. Wallace.

The sixth grade of Broadway school had a picnic at Atlantic Beach Saturday, the trip from here being made by auto truck.

Mrs. John F. Noyes has returned from a trip to Worcester, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel C. Brown have sent out invitations to their friends inviting them to their fiftieth wedding anniversary observance, to be held Wednesday, June 18th, at 8 p. m.

Miss Elsie Espieg, daughter of the late Henry and Johanna Espieg, and Carroll Bliver, son of the late George and Ruth Bliven, were united in marriage Saturday at 12 o'clock, in St. Mark's Episcopal church, by the rector, Rev. J. P. Beauchamp, in the presence of relatives and friends. They were attended by Harry B. MacKenzie and Miss Ethel Weir. The bride wore a traveling suit of grey with hat to match, and Miss Weir wore a dress of blue with hat to match. Following the wedding ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Bliven left in their car on a wedding journey.

VOLUNTOWN

In accordance with its annual custom Voluntown paid tribute to its soldier dead, Memorial day. The exercises commenced at 9 a. m., with a parade of the school children, veterans of the World war, under command of Lieut. Herbert Heywood, Companions of the Forest under Chief Comanion Mrs. Rose Coriarty, Foresters of America, Chief Ranger Alfred E. Dupont, veterans of the Civil war. The parade was led by the Odell M. Chapman Continental Fife and Drum Corps of Willimantic, marching to Robbins cemetery, where patriotic exercises were held, Rev. John P. Richardson of Pachaug being the speaker. The line re-formed and returned to Union hall where a pleasing program was rendered, features of which were the singing of several numbers by the school children, vocal solos by Mrs. Christina B. Murphy, and an address by Attorney Hibbard B. Norman of Norwich. There was a large number of visitors in town for the exercises. The drum corps that led the parade made a pleasing appearance in their Continental uniforms. They were recent winners of the championship of New England at Pawtucket, R. I., for fifing and drumming.

A large number of local people accompanied the ball team to Noank Memorial day.

The Voluntown team went to New London Sunday, the 8th, to meet the T. A. B. S., and was accompanied by a number of fans.

John P. McDonald and Mrs. Helen Craig and son Francis of Pawtucket, R. I., Miss Margaret McDonald of Providence and Reginald Ball of Block Island were callers recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McDonald.

John Kaufmann, George B. Sheldon and Gerald Welsh attended a shoot at Taftville Memorial day and all returned home with prizes.

Fred Pierce and George Wilkinson, the two young men murdered in Pawcatuck, were well known to local people, as is also James R. Duffy, who is implicated in the murder, who was employed in town last summer.

The "eternal light" an electric star intended to burn continuously atop its 150 foot shaft in Madison Square park, New York, in memory of the dead of the World war, was dedicated, Mayor Hylan, gold start mothers, and congressional medal heroes took part in the ceremonies.

WESTERLY

At a nuptial high mass Saturday morning, at 9 o'clock, in the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Rose Anna Donovan, daughter of Patrick J. and Margaret Donovan, was united in marriage with Michael Angelo Tuscano, son of Luigi and Mary Alzo Tuscano, all of Westerly. The ceremony was performed and the mass was sung by Rev. Fr. Thomas J. Larkin, pastor of the church, in the presence of the two families. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. William Greene. A breakfast and reception followed the service at 9.30 Saturday morning at 3 Cottage court, where Mr. and Mrs. Tuscano will reside upon their return from a wedding trip to New York.

Cragie Lea lodge, No. 112, Daughters of Scotia, observed its second anniversary Saturday night in Mechanics hall, on Broad street. There was an attendance of over 200 members which included a delegation of 30 members of Lady Stadacona lodge, of Groton. The lodge received an official visit from Grand Chief Daughter Mrs. Christina Laird of Philadelphia, and Cragie Lea's district deputy, Effie Douglas, of New London. At the conclusion of the evening's program Mrs. Elizabeth J. Kemp of 37 Elm street, was presented a wrist watch, Mrs. Forbes Duguid making the presentation in the name of members of the lodge, as a reminder of their good wishes on her visit to Scotland.

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Kemp were given a send-off by thirty members of the lodge when they left Westerly Sunday afternoon on the 2.05 Shore Line express for Boston. They will visit in Boston until Tuesday when Mr. Kemp will be present at the sailing of the Cunard line steamship Samaria from Boston to Queenstown and Liverpool, on which Mrs. Kemp will leave for Glasgow, Scotland. Mr. Kemp returned to Westerly Tuesday.

Recorded in the Westerly town clerk's office for May were 24 births, as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Rooney and daughter Phillis, of Melbourne, Quebec, after visiting with Mrs. Rooney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Selden Young, Hillandale farm, Haversham, left Westerly Sunday noon for a visit in Brockton, Mass.

Mrs. Julia O'Brien of the West Side left Sunday morning for a visit in Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Wilcox left town Sunday morning for Providence.

William Fraser and Jovie V. Fraser, passengers sailing from Liverpool, England, on Saturday, May 31st, on the Cunard steamship Mauretania, arrived in New York Friday and are guests of Westerly friends.

Joseph T. Crowley, Pullman conductor on the New Haven railroad, arrived in Westerly Sunday morning to be the guest of relatives and friends on the West Side.

Miss Elizabeth M. Grant and Sarah J. Grant were automobile visitors in Norwich Saturday.

Charles C. Church of the West Side left Westerly Sunday morning for a visit in Willimantic before returning to Hartford.

Thomas Loomis arrived in Westerly from his home in New Britain Saturday and will be employed for the summer at the Vars store, at Watch Hill.

The Florence W. Dock house on the Westerly-Watch Hill road near Misquamicut brook has been conveyed by Frank W. Coy to Dennis O'Brien, a prominent New York lawyer and graduate of Brown university, who expects to occupy the house during the summer. His law partner, Arthur F. Driscoll, also of New York, has leased the Dr. Champlin house, Watch Hill road, which he will occupy this season.

A special session of Stonington town court, Judge William A. Wilcox, is to be held at 9 o'clock this (Monday) morning in the town court room, Stonington.

Wilshire cottage, off the Watch Hill road, has been conveyed by Frank W. Coy for the estate of Helen Wilshire of Cincinnati, O., to James Jolly, proprietor of the Watch Hill Ice company of Westerly.

Invitations have been received in Westerly from Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Smith of Providence, to the wedding next Monday afternoon at the Church of the Epiphany, Providence, when their daughter, Marion Brownell, becomes the wife of Enoch Edward McLaren. Mr. and Mrs. McLaren will make their home at 282 Massachusetts avenue, Providence.

A session of Groton town court to be held this (Monday) morning in Groton will be of special interest to residents of the town of Stonington.

Miss Margaret W. Grant returned Sunday afternoon to her duties as the agent at the Putnam station of the New Haven road, after a week-end visit with her sisters, the Misses Grant, in Westerly.

Miss Jessie Aitken and Miss Minnie Francis were in Providence Saturday.

Henry Girard of Woodville was a visitor in Providence Saturday.

The family of George Nichols arrived in Westerly on Saturday from Chicago and will make their summer home at "Sunnycroft" cottage, Watch Hill.

Miss Esther Sherman arrived in Westerly on Sunday morning and will be the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Sherman.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Burdick were visitors over the week end in Providence, where they attended the Barnus & Bailey circus.

Capt. H. Russell Burdick was a week-end visitor in Providence.

Many local fans attended the Westerly High school-Chapman Tech baseball game in New London Saturday afternoon, which resulted in an 8 to 7 score in favor of the Tech players, it being the first game this season lost by the Westerly players.

Robert Bundrett was a visitor in Providence on Sunday afternoon and evening.

Harry L. Bolles and wife, of Westerly by deed filed in the Westerly town clerk's office Saturday, sold to Lewis R. Greene and wife, Helen T. Greene of Westerly a lot of land on the Spruce street extension.

V. E. Huntington of New Hampshire is visiting in Westerly.

A new Studebaker touring car, Conn 3654 of Arthur N. Assad, of 178 Cliff street, Norwich, sustained a badly dented rear end, as the body of the car struck a telephone pole on Liberty street, Sunday afternon, about 3 o'clock. Three other passengers were in the car which had descended the steep slope of Berry hill on Liberty street and when near the bottom of the hill the rear skidded on the wet and slippery street with the result that the crash followed. No one was injured. Bent fenders and broken tail light were other results of the bang. Day Patrolman Francis J. McMahon of Pawcatuck investigated the accident and could only sympathize with the driver.

The closing of all restaurants or eating houses in Pawcatuck at 12 o'clock is predicted, for on Sunday the proprietors of five West Side establishments received visits from patrolman of Pawcatuck in the town of Stonington and their attention was directed to a town closing hour law of 1915. This law directs the closing of business at midnight and the penalty of a fine of $5 for a violation. It is said that the early closing hour has been influenced by the double murder on Coggswell street a week ago Saturday, in which statements have been made that plans for evil doing were laid at the lunchroom and at a late hour. The proprietors of some of the restaurants have conferred in the matter and the first step taken has been the placing of the clocks on st. hence a literal interpretation of the law makes the closing time one o'clock d. s. t., this will lead some of the proprietors think, to the necessity of letting some of their help go. As at present conducted the places of business require two shifts. Again the proprietors think that when a return is made to the old closing time it will be at an hour when patrons are returning from dances and other places of amusement. Selectman Purtill says that the present board of selectmen had nothing to do with the enactment of the law and that inasmuch as the law is on the books, it should be enforced. There will probably be a conference arranged between the selectmen and the restaurant proprietors to secure a modification before the return to standard time.

A committee of the Westerly band consisting of Charles O. Gavitt, William A. Burke and Lewis Solomon is making arrangements to begin the summer series of band concerts in Wilcox park, Thursday, June 19th, it is planned to have the first concert of the series.

DAMAGED PLANE, REPAIRED, HOPS OFF FROM WESTERLY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, R. I., June 8.—Rising in his Jenny aeroplane from the ton of Moss hill to the south of the Westerly-Stonington road, at 1.10 Sunday afternono, Lieut. Joseph K. Barber Jr., and Mechanician Sergt. Fred Foshey, of the Massachusetts State Guard, in three ever-widening circled and mounting higher and higher, bade adieu to Westerly.

Between 8 and 8.30 o'clock Saturday evening, as dusk was gathering Westerly people observed a low-flying government plane which poised over Hinckley Hill, Quarry hill and circling back, landed on Moss hill. In landing a breeze swung under the tail, the 2,000-pound visitor of the air swung round, the right wheel of the under [illegible] came off and the pneumatic-spoked wheel was smashed. Nothing daunted, the pilot called Boston air port on the telephone and a new wheel was sent which arrived in Westerly on the Colonial express at 11 o'clock, Sunday morning. It was a small task to replace the wheel but flivvers do not crank as easily as their brethren of the ground but it was not long before the prop was whirring. The plane was swung round on the hill to the stone wall and when all was ready "taxied" toward the highway and in a perfect hop-off was in the air.

It happens that Lieutenant Barber was born in Pawcatuck on West Broad street, the son of Joseph K. Barber, his mother being a sister of President Clifford W. Campbell, of Westerly town council. He is connected with the 26th division and his plane was of the 1st [illegible] squadron of the Massachusetts National Guard, which is to go to Mitchell field next August for tour of duty. This week-end trip was made as an observation trip by two planes to Sprague and Franklin, in Connecticut. There the propeller of the other machine was wrecked in soft ground and both planes were not able to take Westfield, Mass., where a new field was to be opened.

WHEELBARROW CHAUFFEUR KEPT OUT IN THE RAIN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, R. I., June 8.—"A cold shoulder" was the way Joe Crosta, 29, the Kiwanis club hiker, chained to a 125-pound wheelbarrow and the chain sealed, characterized his reception Sunday afternon, by a woman keeper of a boarding house in Potter Hill, R. I., as he sought shelter during the rain and was turned away. "Joe" was walking behind his wheelbarrow from Bangor Pa., to Boston, Mass., and was on the return when he stopped in Westerly Sunday evening, for the night. Leaving Bangor, Pa., on May 17th he arrived in Boston June 2nd and trundled his barrow right into Mayor Curley's office. How's that for hospitality? Signatures of Kiwanis members are secured and on Monday Joe will be in New London as he averages five miles an hour as he trips along. His home is Stamford, Conn., and he claims to have twice crossed the American continent on foot. Once in the Great American desert his supply of drinking water gave out and timely assistance by an Indian saved his life. In all, his pedigrinations have totaled 49,000 miles and he is still going strong. Of Italian patronage he is a widower; his wife and child died during the influenza epidemic.

CANTERBURY GREEN

Rev. Mr. English of Hartford preached at the church Sunday the first. On the remaining Sundays of the month the pulpit will be supplied by either Rev. A. A. Gates of Hampton or Rev. Mr. Pratt of Brooklyn.

Mrs. Knight and little son Alan were in Hartford during the week to visit Mr. Knight, whom they found much improved in health, though he will remain for another month at the sanatorium.

Mrs. James Lathrop has returned from Philadelphia accompanied by her daughter, Miss Lydia.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker Lathrop and daughter Alice of New Haven were recent visitors at the Lathrop homestead.

Mrs. Frank Nelson entertained Memorial day, several guests motored from Lynbrook, L. I. They were Mr. and Mrs. George Miller, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Harold Miller and child and Hugh McBride of Brooklyn.

Visitors from Lynbrook, L. I., were also at Mrs. Thad Wheeler's for the holiday.

Henry Turner and daughter of Greenville, R. I., were in town recently to call upon Eaton, who continues to improve, what improved.

Mr. and Mrs. James Aspley of Honesdale, Pa., during the week attend the funeral of a cousin, returned Wednesday.

At the grange Wednesday last the first two degrees were conferred on a class of five.

Several Canterbury people attended the funeral of Stephen Babcock Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Babcock had always lived in this vicinity in the house in which he was born, over the river in the town of Plainfield. He was well known as farmer and accommodating friend and neighbor. Rev. Wm. Prentiss of Plainfield conducted the funeral service which was largely attended. Two hymns were sung by a quartette from Plainfield. Burial was in the family lot at Evergreen cemetery.

Graduating exercises for the town schools are to be held at the church on the Green next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

AUCTION

I will sell at public auction the goods or estate of George A. Kahn on WEDNESDAY, JUNE 11, 1924,
at 9.30 o'clock (standard time),
on the farm known as the old Albert Hoxie place, in the Town of Lebanon, on the road leading from Coraville to Yantic, the following property:

35 HEAD OF STOCK

consisting of 2 new milch Jersey cows, 2 Holstein cows, 2 registered Ayrshire heifers (2-year-old with calves by side), yearling Ayrshire heifer (eligible), yearling Ayrshire bull (eligible), 2 10 months' old Ayrshire heifers (eligible), 3 Ayrshire calves, 4 very choice Hereford heifers (with calves by side), Hereford bull (2-year-old, registered), 1 Devon bull (3-year-old), 1 yearling Hereford heifer, 3 2-year-old Hereford steers, 5 Hereford calves, 3 Ayrshire calves, 2 Holstein calves, pair 2-year-old steers (well broken), pair stage (well broken), 2 horses (good workers and drivers), harnesses, 3 tons fertilizer, some lumber, dump cart, mowing machine, horse rake, cultivators, hay tedder, plows, log boats, horse corn planter, tackle blocks, 1 late model Ford touring car in good condition, 1918 Paige touring car, 1 Ford truck, frame for windmill, 1 sawmill (all complete with 16 H. P. gas engine). This is a good mill. Anybody interested will have to look this up before sale, at the James Huntington place, in Franklin, as it will be too heavy to move for auction. Several gallons high grade cylinder oil and other tools and articles far too numerous to mention.

ELISHA WATERMAN,
Administrator.
Caterer in attendance.
If stormy, sale next fair week day.
Auctioneer's Statement: This is the estate of George A. Kahn, who was killed by dynamite explosion at Camp Mowegen on May 13th, and everything must be sold without reserve or limit. Positively no by bidding. As most of the stock and tools are kept on the Kahn place, in Lebanon, the sale is being held there instead of home place.

NO FLURRY CAUSED BY ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS

Washington, June 8.—Adjournment last night of the first session of the 68th congress left a calendar crowded with important issues, domestic and foreign, to be taken up when the next session begins in December.

More than a score of legislative proposals dealing with outstanding questions of domestic policy, with farm relief, Muscle Shoals, railroads, prohibition and reclamation as the headliners, failed of enactment in the final windup.

In addition, the world court issue was left untouched so far as affirmative action was concerned, plans to curb rum running by reciprocal agreements with all the maritime nations similar to that made with Great Britain were halted by the senate's failure to ratify several treaties recently negotiated, failure also of the new treaty with Canada put a stop to preparations for an immediate tightening of restrictions along the Canadian border; and negotiations for remaking the whole fabric of commercial treaties on fit post-war conditions came to a standstill when that with Germany, intended as a model, remained unapproved in the hands of the senate foreign relations committee.

The only technical effect the adjournment of the session will have on these measures will be to postpone action. They will remain on the calendar for consideration when congress assembles.

The sixth bank to be reopened in North Dakota through the assistance of the $150,000,000 agricultural credit corporation, with headquarters in Minneapolis, was reported when the First State Bank of Hastings, Barnes county, resumed business.

TAFTVILLE

The vestry of the Taftville Congregational church was crowded Friday evening when the young girls of the C. E. S., a missionary society connected with the church school, presented a missionary play entitled A Willing Captive in Japan. The entire room had been transformed into a Japanese garden with soft colored lights and decorations of cherry blossoms, wisteria and parasols. A great deal of Japanese furniture, curtains and hangings were used in the stage settings.

Those who took the parts of the natives wore Japanese costumes, obtained in Boston, Mass., and the play as it was interesting. All part were excellent and have been difficult to choose Miss Dorothy Wood was the evening, playing between the opening of the and ac- little Miss Grace Fogarty sang and Miss Elizabeth Miss Mildred Troeger the Japanese Love geisha girl costume. DUST CLOUD RISING FROM CRATER OF VOLCANO NEAR HILO

This cloud, seen by Norwich tourists, rose to a height estimated at three miles—Hot boulders were shot high in the air and while hot lava was thrown over the sides of the volcano for a distance of 500 to 1000 feet.

NORWICH TOURISTS SAW SPECTACULAR VOLCANIC ERUPTION NEAR HILO

While visiting the Hawaiian islands during their world tour, Rutherford C. Plaut and party of Norwich tourists witnessed the eruption on May 17th of the world's greatest active volcano near Hilo. Mr. Plaut wrote a graphic description of the eruption in a letter which is published below. The day I'll never forget is the way Mr. Plaut refers to the date of the eruption. A thunderous roar, a cloud of dust three miles high, hot boulders exploding high in the air, while hot lava and sharp bolts of lightning shooting in all directions are some of the things described by Mr. Plaut in his letter which is as follows:

Honolulu, T. H.,
May 15th, 1924.

My dear Ed and all: Well, I told you that my last letter was written, but I must tell a bit of what I did here, although to tell you of the place would be but a repetition of what I had written to you when I was in Honolulu three years ago and it has not changed much since then. I was pleased to have a call from Lee Osgood Fielding who was most anxious to see me and to let me know that his Haines speedster was at my disposal. I thought this very nice and I 'phoned him. Both he and his wife came to see me at once at the Moana hotel. They have a lovely home and two sweet children. Be sure and tell his father, Lemuel, who is in Lee & Osgood's drug store, that I saw his boy and his home and family. Doctor Case and his father, Charles Case, came out to the hotel in the evening and we enjoyed talking about Norwich. Doctor Case said to be sure and remember him to Roy Robbins, Senator Jack Lucas, Bill Oat's friend, and the one who has all the Oat antiques, was at the pier to greet me. He is the same old Jack and prohibition doesn't bother him. I called on Mrs. W. A. Bailey's friends and found a true Hawaiian home. I enjoyed my visit with Mrs. Mary Hill and Ed, will you please tell Mrs. Bailey to tell Mrs. Gray of Marion, Massachusetts, that I delivered her messages?

At the boat all these friends were there to see us off and we were all covered with the most beautiful flower leis that I have ever seen. Miss Irma Case also was at the pier to say "Bon Voyage" to us all, as we left Honolulu to go to Hilo to see the world's greatest active volcano. There is no use talking, the Hawaii Aloha, which is the welcome, had some of our numerous ports beaten a mile. A group of leis girls boarded our ship off port and while we were at breakfast we were decorated with floral tributes, grown in the Paradise of the Pacific. As we left the ship, we were greeted by the strains of the Hawaiian band, which had gathered on the pier to greet us and this was repeated when we left, which was all too soon, as we had to leave many of the beauties of the enchanting [illegible] behind us.

Hilo, Saturday, May 17, 1924.
(The day I'll never forget)

Well, today was the one day that we all had been looking forward to. May 17th. That was the date when we would have made our last step, and the Empress of Canada would steer for her home port. We little thought when we went to bed on that Friday night, May 16th, what the morrow had in store for us. We left the boat, (our party) with a Mr. Bushbee, of California, and a Miss Rena Green of Fitchburg, Massachusetts, and entered a nice new seven seated Buick with balloon tires for our 31 miles ride up hill to the world's greatest active volcano. We arrived at the crater about eleven and visited several lava tubes and different attractions to which the guides brought us, and about 1.45 we went to the crater. We could see that Madame Pele was in a bitter mood and that the people in the volcano district were startled by its intensity and spectacular beauty. It was a short time after we had alighted from our car that we felt the earthquake and our knees bend. Well, that sure is a sensation and men and women alike became nervous and excited. Miss Green and Mr. Bushbee left us to explore the crater closer. It was just 12.39 p. m. when we were driving toward the Volcano House Hotel, when a car in front of us gave a quick, sudden stop and shouted to us to look and there the eruption had started with a roar that was heard all over the district and was followed by a cloud of dust and white hot lava that shot out of the sides of the pit, lashing over the sides for a distance of from five hundred to [illegible] thousand feet. The dust cloud of which I am enclosing a snap, rose to a height calculated at three miles and was illuminated by bolts of lightning that shot in every direction. It is thought that this lightning was caused by the friction in the air that generated the electricity. With a thunderous roar, hot boulders shot into the air, where they exploded like bursting shrapnel.

A hail of small rocks, spoken of as dry pisolites, rained over the territory and struck in several places. At the time of the eruption, there were over three hundred sightseers on the bluff. Everyone beat a hasty retreat back to the hotel. Several of the residents of the district left for Hilo and all the ladies of the military camp were transported to Hilo in an army truck. A message from Brick Lyman (who by the way, is a staunch friend of George Carroll of Norwich, and who told me that recently had a card from Wyman (from Ceylon) stated that a white dust from the volcano had settled over everything at Kapailo, and everything had a sandpaper appearance. In speaking of the earthquake disturbance Mr. Lyman said that, [illegible] more severe than the one which destroyed [illegible] quarters of [illegible] thing real [illegible] Smoke [illegible] fantastic [illegible] gone and [illegible] but Mauna [illegible] We were [illegible] about [illegible] Now [illegible] about [illegible] floor [illegible] been [illegible] Saturday [illegible] preliminary [illegible] Empress Hotel [illegible] arrive at Vancouver on Saturday, [illegible] Boe [illegible] Mrs [illegible] Bailey last [illegible] and [illegible] a good [illegible] and [illegible] many [illegible] at the opportunity [illegible] Well [illegible] Will see you [illegible] Give [illegible]

NORWICH TOWN

At Sacred Heart church Friday evening the annual business meeting of the Altar society was held, the president, Miss Nellie Kingsley presiding. Among those present was the pastor, Rev. Charles W. Brennan. This society, which holds meetings the first Friday of each month, was obliged to suspend meetings following the serious fire at the church in April 1923, until the church was rebuilt, a number of months later; therefore the annual election of officers did not take place last June according to schedule, all officers holding over until this June.

At the meeting Friday evening the following were elected for the coming year: president, Miss Nellie Kingsley; vice president, Miss Katherine Kane; secretary, Miss Mary White, treasurer, Miss Julia O'Connell.

Lots of friends are retained by not saying the smart things we might have said.

HELD GARDEN PARTY AT ROCKWELL MANSION

From 3 to 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Children of the American Revolution held a delightful garden party at Rockwell mansion, Rockwell street. The programme was excellently given. With Mrs. George Hodge at the piano, the fairy ballet, Once Upon a Time was given this being an unusually fine exhibition of interpretive dancing. The children were drilled by Mrs. Edward G. Andrews. Mrs. George A. Ashley, regent of Faith Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., read the story.

A pageant, Fashion's Review, "Down Petticoat Lane" was given under the direction of Mrs. A. C. Freeman and Mrs. William S. Elliott. The pageant illustrated various styles of dress from the time of the American Indian to the present day. Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard rendered the solo parts during the pageant. She was accompanied by Miss Janie Lambert, violin and Miss Viola Levitsky, piano.

The cast for the Fairy Ballet follows: Prince, Dorothy Prentice; princess, Marion Mitchell; the child, Dolly Edmond; her friends, Emily Bidwell, Louise Higgins, Elizabeth Hodge, Mary King, Ruth Brown and Jane Sticht.

Fairies, Dorothy and Mary Stewart, Elizabeth Blanche Lathrop Doris Janet Carpenter, Eunice Ingand Mary Gertrude Chapman.

Princess suite, Marion Wightman, Louise Evans, Barbara Tingley, Guglielmetti, Florence Congdon Esther Gilbert.

Elves, Myrtle Fuller, Evelyn Burbeck, Helen Mullen, Beatrice Smith, Beatrice Babcock, Ruth Avling, Alice Woodman, Beatrice Eggleton, Sarah Tingley and Mildred Chapman. There were 23 dancers in all.

Those who took part in Fashion's Review were:

First Period: American Indian girl, Elizabeth Durie; Puritan girl, Dorothy Rasmussen; Colonial girls and men, Grace Corey, Dot Messler, P. Mullen, Ethel Curran, Lois Latimer, A. Boardman; hoop skirt, Miss Susie Whittlesey; bustle girl, Mrs. Harry Ford; southern girl, Miss Natalie Hamilton; country girl, Miss Gertude Gallup; Cuban girl, Miss Lucy Wilcox; Hawaiian girl, Miss Lucille Howard.

Second period: Mary Jane, Miss Eleanor Crandall; school girl, Miss Emma Thompson; camp girl, Miss Lois Latimer; riding girl, Miss Barbara Allen; party girl, Miss Emily Allen; sport girl, Miss Clara Evans; summer girl, Mrs. Walter Buckingham; bride and attendants, (bride) Miss Florence Smith; Miss Mildred Fox, Miss Ruby Vaughn.

Red Cross nurse, Miss Sue Gallup.

Mrs. H. H. Pettis as general chairman was ably assisted by the following chaperones for the children: Mrs. E. Allen Bidwell, Mrs. Charles L. Stewart, Mrs. Roy D. Judd, Mrs. Fred Fuller and Mrs. Burbeck. Miss Barbara Allen and Mrs. Helen Zabriskie were in charge of the refreshments. Mrs. A. S. Comstock and Mrs. Walter Bussey had charge of the tickets. The piano was furnished by the Talking Machine Shop and the dishes by the Tanney corporation.

Two solo dances were given and greatly enjoyed. Lois Latimer interpreted the "Slave Girl" music by H. Woods with [illegible] grace, while Miss Eleanor Breed met much favorable attention by her delightful interpretation of the dance "Dixie."

Punch, candy and ice cream were sold during the afternoon.

SOCIETY OF NORWICH FOUNDERS RE-ELECT OFFICERS

The annual meeting of the Society of the Founders of Norwich was held at the home of B. P. Bishop, 183 Broadway, Wednesday evening with 15 members present. The following were admitted to membership:

Miss Gertrude L. Bennett, Norwich; Miss Gertrude Hand, Greenwich; Miss Kathleen Hand, Wilkesbarre, Penn.; Herbert W. Gallup, Norwich.

The report of the registrar showed three deaths during the year and a present membership of 89. The annual report of the treasurer was read and accepted showing cash on hand $147.27.

The following officers were re-elected for the ensuing year:

President, Edwin A. Tracy; vice president, B. P. Bishop; secretary, Gilbert S. Raymond; treasurer, Mrs. Hezekiah Perkins; registrar, Mrs. Elisha E. Rogers.

Members of the board of managers, for three years, Oliver L. Johnson.

Arthur H. Gulliver was appointed to see that the sign at Harland Corner is replaced. This sign marked the assembling place of the troops starting for Boston after the Battle of Lexington and Concord in 1775.

It was also voted to request the board of managers to consider the matter of publishing the records of the inscriptions on the stones and monuments in the old cemetery at Norwich Town and to report their recommendations to a special meeting of the society to be called by the president. These records were copied by George S. Porter over 20 years ago and by special arrangement with his heirs have become the property of the society and should be published and made available for public use.

HOLY HOUSE OF NAZARETH MODEL HOME, PRIEST SHOWS

There has been great interest in the series of sermons on the Ten Commandments which Rev. Myles P. Galvin has been preaching at St. Patrick's church, and the congregation of over 2,000 assembled for the 9 o'clock mass Sunday heard with attention his instructions in continuation of his discourses on the Fourth Commandment, "Honor Thy Father and Thy Mother." The day was Pentecost, or Whitsunday, commemorating the coming of the Holy Ghost upon the Apostles, named Whitsunday from the white robes of those who were by ancient custom baptized on the eve. The epistle read was Acts 2, I-11 and the gospel John 14:32-31.

Father Galvin took as his special theme the passage from St. Luke 2, "And He went down with them and came to Nazareth and was subject to them. And His mother kept all these words in her heart. And Jesus advanced in wisdom, and age, and grace with God and man." He drew his lesson from the testimony that Christ set the example to all Christian children by being subject to Mary and Joseph, teaching obedience to, love and respect for parents. The holy house of Nazareth was held typical of the true Christian home. Joseph laboring for the Virgin and the Divine Child, Mary busied with the household duties, watching over, caring and teaching her Divine Son, Jesus subject to His earthly parents, that He might be an exemplar to all children.

Following the sermon rows of penitents four or five deep [illegible] the sanctuary railing in a [illegible] of vigorous, practical [illegible] priests being required to give [illegible] communion, Father Galvin had the assistance of Rev. Rocco A. Cheney. The hymns during the mass were sung by the junior choir, Organist [illegible] L. Farrell playing for the [illegible] as well as for the high mass [illegible]

OVER 500 OPERATORS LOST LICENSES LAST MONTH

The licenses of 567 operators were suspended during the past month by the state motor vehicle department. It was the largest number of suspensions for any month of this year, and was 221 in excess of the number of licenses suspended in the corresponding month of last year.

The increase was chiefly due to suspensions for reckless driving. [illegible] offense 184 operators were deprived of their right to operate motor vehicles on the highways of Connecticut, as against only nineteen suspensions for that cause in May 1923, and 38 in April, 1924 or driving while intoxicated 91 operators lost their licenses last month, whereas [illegible] were 60 suspensions for that offense in May, 1923. These two causes and that of driving without an operator's license resulted in a majority of the May suspensions. The suspensions for intoxication reached a higher total last month than in any month since November, 1923.

The department shows little leniency in intoxication and reckless driving cases as these have been found to be the cause of an overwhelming majority of the worst accidents reported. Drivers convicted of driving while under the influence of liquor are suspended for a year. The customary period is 15 days, but in flagrant cases, the driver's license is suspended indefinitely.

Failure to report accidents, as required by law, within twenty-four hours, cost ninety operators their licenses for specific periods during May. Every operator involved in a fatal accident was required to surrender his license forthwith, in accordance with the established department policy. Seventeen licenses were suspended for that reason in May, fifteen for evading responsibility after an accident, and nine for driving overloaded trucks. The remaining suspensions were for minor causes.

STATE POLICE ON DUTY AT HIGHWAY DETOURS

As a means of expediting the movement of automobile traffic on roads where new construction and repairs are under way, the system of having uniformed state policemen on duty to direct drivers through necessary detours is already having a good effect. The state highway department has received reports from contractors in several parts of the state that their workmen have been enabled to make much more progress now that they have been relieved of the necessity of keeping one eye out for automobiles, and trying to work at the same time.

With a force of twenty regularly employed state policemen on duty at a number of points along the Boston Post road in Fairfield, New Haven and New London counties the highway department feels that the motoring public will benefit in a number of ways. These officers, whose duty principally is to expedite traffic at congested points, are in a position to protect autoists from hazards in the construction areas.

Whereas under the former arrangement many motorists failed to heed warnings and signals of employees stationed to direct cars around construction work, no such trouble has been encountered this year with uniformed officers on duty. At the same time, with contractors able to get their work faster, the highway officials believe that the arrangements will work to the advantage of all concerned.

POETRY

VACATION TIME.

The grammars and the spellers,
The pencils and the slates,
The books that hold the fractions
And the books that tell the dates,
The crayons and the blackboards
And the maps upon the wall,
Must all be glad together,
For they won't be used till fall.

They've had to work like beavers
To help the children learn;
And if they want a little rest,
It surely is their turn.
They shut their leaves with pleasure,
The dear old lesson books,
And the crayons and the blackboards
Put on delighted looks.

So, children, just remember,
When you are gone away,
Your poor old slates and pencils
Are keeping holiday.
The grammars and the spellers
Are as proud as proud can be
When the boys forsake the schoolroom
And the teacher turns the key.

Careened upon [illegible] her tilted deck
Swept clear of rubbish of her long-past wreck;
Her colors struck, but not by human hands;
Her masts the driftwood of what distant strands!
Her frowning ports, where, at the Admiral's beck
Grim-visaged cannon hold the foe in check,
Gaped for the frolic of the minnow bands
The seaweed banners in her forts waved.
A turtle basked upon her quarter-deck
Her cabin's pomp the cownish sculpin [illegible]
And on her prow, where the lost figurehead
Once scorned the brine, a name forgot was graved
It was "The Irresistible" I read!

Records of the climate of the world from the year eighty when Pompeii was destroyed by Vesuvius, reveal the fact that serious disturbances of climate have followed great volcanic eruptions, says Mr. George F. Among the most extraordinary mines of the world are those at Hibbing and Coleraine, in Minnesota. There are to be found the only open-mouthed iron mines to be seen anywhere. The iron ore is so close to the surface that all the railroad had to do was to lay tracks and back in and haul out whatever ore it pleased. It is unusual to find metals or other valuables of nature close to the surface. The diamond and ruby mines furnish exceptions. The commoner minerals are often buried deepest.

Five electric signs on Broadway in New York make use of nearly 36,000 incandescent lamps, or more electric lamps than were used in the entire United States in 1881, two years after Edison brought out his first incandescent lamp. Three of these five premier signs are theatrical announcements. The fourth is an automobile tire advertisement. The fifth and largest of all is a chewing gum sign, in the operation of which 19,000 lamps are used. It is testimony to the progress of the electric industry that the 36,000 lamps consume only 890 kilowatts of current, or only one-quarter of that required for the lamps burned in the United States in 1881. Moreover, the volume of light they give is twice as great.

Despite the momentary thrill of the vice presidential fight, the convention preparations as a whole went ahead with almost as much quiet and decorum as a New England town meeting. The street crowds in the hotel section of the city picked up a little, but there was none of the noise and hurry amid which convention history usually has been written.

ACTIVITIES OF CONN. REPUBLICAN DELEGATES

Special to The B...

...morning after he and Mrs. Alice Russ had explained the position of the women's organization, where request for ... be handled by the resolutions committee.

Connecticut has provided equal representation, state and nationalwise. Some of the women questioned the wisdom of such a national provision at this time and admitted they had received and expected to continue to receive fair treatment whether such a rule was adopted or not. Judge Walsh of the rules committee expressed himself as standing with the national committee on this matter.

Chairman Roraback explained the contest of delegations from Georgia and Mississippi and the reasons for the decisions made.

Committee Assignments.

Committee assignments for Connecticut delegates are: permanent organization, Miss Katherine Byrne, Putnam; rules, Judge James F. Walsh, Greenwich; credentials, Francis T. Maxwell, Rockville; resolutions, Lieutenant-Governor Hiram Bingham, New Haven. Additions made today were: To notify the president, Ex-Governor Bollin S. Woodruff, New Haven, to notify the vice president, Mrs. Helen E. Lewis, Stratford, honorary vice president of convention, George C. Clark, Terryville.

Badges and tickets to the convention were distributed to delegates and members of the Connecticut party. The Connecticut delegation will be located near the center of the arena, near and just to the right of the speakers' platform, the alternates being in the section back, while favorably located seats have been obtained for the state delegation's guests.

Doorkeepers from Connecticut are ex-service men, Wesley L. Pierce and Loring Tapley of Hartford.

Assistant sergeants at arms are W. ... Willimantic, Clemens Mortensen of Cromwell, Carl Lundstedt of Hartford, Lewis F. Roraback of North Canaan and Albert D. Putnam of Hartford.

The Connecticut delegation will unquestionably support the administration's attitude on platform and still favors Lodenw.

PRESSURE ON LOWDEN TO PERMIT HIS NAME TO GO BEFORE CONVENTION

Cleveland, June 9.—(By The A. P.)—A movement in the Illinois delegation to formally demand of former Governor Frank O. Lowden, that he permit his name to go before the convention as a candidate for the vice presidency gained momentum tonight after receipt of word from Governor Len Small that he would endorse his predecessor for the place.

Mr. Lowden's friends on the delegation, in advocating that the state caucus "memorialize" the former governor to accept the post "for the party welfare," suggested that a vigorous favorable pronouncement from his own state delegation likely would influence Mr. Lowden to reconsider his position.

Word that the Small forces would support such an expression from the delegation was brought to the Illinois caucus by a high official of the Illinois administration who had conferred with Governor Small within the past 12 hours.

In quoting the governor on his attitude toward the Lowden candidacy, the spokesman declared the executive had said:

"I am for him and will support him for the vice presidency."

The Kentucky delegation today adopted a resolution urging Gov. Lowden to reconsider his refusal. Senator R. P. Ernst, Mrs. A. T. Hert, J. Matt Chilton, A. T. Siler, and William Heyburn were appointed a committee to wait upon Governor Lowden to persuade him to permit the use of his name in the convention.

SENATOR WATSON NOT KU KLUX KLAN CANDIDATE

Cleveland, June 9.—It was announced here today, and promptly denied, that the Ku Klux Klan's candidate for vice president was Senator Watson, of Indiana.

Milton Elrod, former publicity agent for the klan, dictated a statement at Klan headquarters, which he said was in behalf of Dr. H. W. Evans, imperial wizard of the klan, saying Senator Watson was the klan's only choice for candidate and that klansmen would be satisfied with no one else. Mr. Elrod authorized publication.

When Dr. Evans heard of Elrod's statement he repudiated it wholly, and issued a statement of his own declaring that no one had authority to speak for him, that the klan had not endorsed Senator Watson, that it had no candidate and was not in politics.

Senator Watson promptly declared that the statement had been inspired by enemies seeking to embarrass him and he disclaimed that he was the klan's candidate.

LA FOLLETTE PROCLAIMS HIMSELF LEADER OF THE "COMMON PEOPLE"

Washington, June 9.—Senator La Follette tonight on the eve of the republican national convention threw down a fighting challenge to the party gathering at Cleveland and told his supporters they represented the "mass of the common people of the country."

He specifically instructed the Wisconsin delegation to refrain from placing him in nomination as a presidential candidate, but urged a war without quarter for its "platform of progressive principles."

The Wisconsin senator addressed his communication to John J. Blaine, chairman of Wisconsin delegation at Cleveland, who was asked to present it to the individual delegates.

"You are aware, of course, he said, "that while the voters of Wisconsin have done me the honor of electing delegates who have cast their votes for me as candidate for the republican nomination for president every four years since 1908, I have not, in fact, been a candidate since 1916, nor may no one do not since that year, been formally presented to a republican national convention.

"Although my name was not filed in presidential primaries in Wisconsin or elsewhere, nevertheless, the voters of Wisconsin in the recent primaries instructed 25 of the 29 delegates to cast their votes for me in the nomination of a candidate for president. One delegate was pledged to President Coolidge.

"It is my express wish that in the republican national convention assembling June 10 my name be not placed in nomination. I request further that the progressive delegates elected by the people of Wisconsin concentrate all their energies upon obtaining the adoption of the platform of progressive principles, which received an overwhelming endorsement in the April primary.

"I realize that the progressives in this convention will face terrific odds. You must remember, however, that regardless of the numbers arrayed against you, the membership of the republican party in a majority of the states is progressive and that you will be the spokesmen in this convention of millions of progressive republicans throughout the nation, who have had no voice in the election of a majority of the convention delegates.

"The American people will look to the delegates from Wisconsin and to such other progressives as may hold seats in the convention, for a bold and uncompromising fight on behalf of the fundamental principles to which you are pledged.

"Some may say that out of consideration for party harmony and inasmuch as the progressives appear to be in a minority in the convention, no good can come from a determined effort by you to obtain the adoption of a progressive platform.

"I know" this argument of expediency and cowardice will have no weight with the members of your delegation. The republican party was organized in Wisconsin in 1854, by a handful of patriotic citizens, then in a hopeless minority, who would make no compromise with the extension of human slavery. You will recall likewise that while the platforms submitted by Wisconsin have been scornfully rejected by the republican national conventions since 1908, practically every important proposal submitted by the Wisconsin delegates up to 1916 has since been enacted into law. There are, indeed, only five of 131 planks submitted by Wisconsin during this period which are not now embodied in the law of the land.

"The principles upon which you have been elected express the preponderant sentiment of the mass of the common people of this country. Those principles are in thorough harmony with the traditions of the republican party and with the institutions of representative government. They must not be sacrificed or surrendered.

"I shall confidently expect from the delegates from Wisconsin such action as will preserve those principles inviolate, both in respect to the adoption of a platform, and in the nomination of candidates for president and vice president."

KENTUCKY OPPOSED TO THE PRIMARY ELECTION SYSTEM

Cleveland, O., June 9.—In the Kentucky caucus today abolition of the ... primary election system and the "return to the American system of party government with party responsibility," was urged by Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, of Louisville, who is slated for the new vice chairmanship of the national committee to succeed Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton and United States Senator Richard P. Ernst, the new Kentucky national committeeman, chairman of the delegation, and Kentucky member of the convention rules committee.

FORECAST OF PLANKS PLATFORM WILL CONTAIN

Cleveland, June 9.—Announcement was made tonight by Charles B. Warren, chairman of the resolutions committee, that five hours of public hearings would be held tomorrow and then the work of drafting the platform will be started.

These developments pointed to a trend of thought which it was considered probable by many party leaders to lead to presentation of a platform containing the following major pronouncements:

Rigid economy in governmental expenditures.

Reform in taxation and greater reduction in tax levies.

American adherence to the world court as proposed by President Harding and endorsed by President Coolidge.

Honesty in public office and drastic punishment of all found guilty of misconduct.

Execution of the provisions of the bonus act and special provision for the disabled.

Recognition of the power of congress to control immigration to the point of exclusion.

Strict enforcement of all laws without special mention of the prohibitory statutes.

Recognition of the right of collective bargaining and of the living wage.

Continued use of the flexible provisions of the tariff act to protect agriculture; governmental encouragement of cooperative marketing, and further aid to the farmers along the lines of recently established agricultural credit corporation.

President Coolidge. It was reiterated today is making no attempt to write the platform, but has indicated to those close to him that he would be satisfied with the planks outlined.

NEW ENGLAND MEMBERS OF RESOLUTIONS COMMITTEE

Cleveland, June 9.—The committee of resolutions selected by state caucuses includes the following from New England:

Connecticut, Hiram Bingham.
Massachusetts, F. H. Gillett.

DECISION UNALTERABLE, GOV. LOWDEN DECLARES

Oxford, O., June 9.—"I don't want the vice presidency and I am not a candidate for this offe. This decision is final and unalterable," at 8.30 o'clock tonight former Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, thus summed up his position on reports that he would be chosen for that office at the republican national convention.

Nine Persons Killed by a Flood in W. Va.

A Score of Houses Were Washed Away After a Cloudburst in Mercer and McDowell Counties.

Bluefield W. Va., June 9. Nine persons were reported to have been killed and a score of houses washed away in Mercer and McDowell counties today by a flood following a heavy rainstorm that reached the proportions of a cloudburst. Sections of Norfolk & Western railroad branch lines and sidetracks to a number of mining operations were washed out.

An entire family of seven persons were wiped out in Mercer county when their home was buried under a huge pile of slate which had been dislodged by the high water and swept against the house. Two members of a rescue party attempting to work an opening through the buried house were killed when a second pile of slate crashed against the first.

At that time the names of the victims were not known.

Waters from swollen mountain streams caused Crane creek to leave its channel, the flood carrying bridges, houses and all movable objects within its path. The main line of the Norfolk & Western railroad between North Fork and Ennis, a distance of three and one-half miles was completely inundated and all traffic was held up between the two points. In Keystone and Welch the waters of Elkhorn creek flooded some of the business districts of those towns.

Frank H. Sangor, general manager and treasurer of the firm of N. H. Poor and company, leather manufacturers, committed suicide by shooting at his home in Peabody, Mass. He was 59 years old. Members of his family said he was despondent as the result of a recent illness.

Prospects For Winter Wheat Show Decline

Smaller Crops of Oats, Barley and Rye Also Forecast —Outlook Good for a Bumper Crop of Peaches.

Washington, June 9. Nearly three million bushels less wheat than last year was forecast today by the department of agriculture from June 1 conditions.

Winter wheat prospects declined 44,000,000 bushels in the month since May 1, due mainly to drought, cold weather, insects and disease, in the principal producing states. Kansas' prospects decline 21,000,000 bushels. East of the Rocky Mountains it was the coldest May in 30 years, with two exceptions, 1907 and 1917, both of which years were followed by cold Junes. The effect on crops was marked. Favorable weather from now on, however, may cause very material change in prospects.

Smaller crops than last year of oats, barley and rye were forecast but a bumper crop of peaches is in prospect, probably the fourth largest on record. In the south and east the peach cron is large, in California, Colorado and Utah ... is good but in the North Central states the crop is in poor condition due to freezes.

May was five to six degrees below normal in most of the corn belt states, and 3 degrees or more above normal in Pacific coast states, where the month was warmer than any other May on record except 1897. As a result, spring wheat conditions was 5 per cent. lower June 1 than on that date during the last 30 years for which comparable figures are available. Oats showed the lowest condition on record for June 1 excepting in 1907, and barely the lowest condition of which there is record, excepting 1898.

CROP FORECAST BY THE DEP'T OF AGRICULTURE

Washington, June 9.—A total wheat crop of 697,000,000 bushels ... was forecast today by the department of agriculture.

The spring wheat crop, for which the first forecast of the season was announced, was placed at 181,000,000 bushels, the area planted being estimated at 16,920,000 acres, or 90.1 per cent of last years' acreage.

Winter wheat production was forecast at 509,000,000 bushels, compared with a forecast of 553,013,000 bushels a month ago.

First production forecasts for the season of other crops are: Oats 1,332,000,000 bushels; barley 160,000,000 bushels; rye 62,500,000 bushels, and peaches 52,500,000 bushels.

The condition of the crops on June 1, from which the production forecasts are computed was: Winter wheat 74.0 per cent of abnormal, spring wheat 93. all wheat 76.0, oats 80.9, barley 79.5; rye 87.4; hay 83.0; pastures 92.2, apples 74.0, peaches 72.7.

TRIAL OF RIOT CASE INVOLVING THE KLAN

Ebensburg, Pa., June 9.—(By the A. P.)— Scenes at the clash April 5, at Lilly, Pa., between visiting Ku Klux Klansmen and townspeople in which three Lilly residents were killed were described to the jury today at the trial of 44 men under an indictment charging riot, affray and unlawful assemblage in connection with the outbreak. Taking of testimony was started following the selection of a jury after Judge Thomas B. Finletter had denied a defense motion for separate trials and ordered a joint trial of the defendants, of whom 29 are said to be klansmen and the remaining 15 are residents of Lilly. When court adjourned for the day, Judge Finletter ordered the jury locked up for the night and kept together until the case is concluded.

ABANDON MURDER THEORY IN CASE OF 3 YEAR OLD BOY

Philadelphia, June 9.—Post mortem examination today of the body of a three-year-old boy found in a suitcase near North Philadelphia station of the Pennsylvania railroad yesterday revealed that death was due to natural causes, probably epilepsy, according to reports received by Coroner Knight.

Bruises on the legs and hips were found to have been caused by forcing the body into the suit case, while a wound on the neck was reported as having been left by a gland operation.

Abandoning the murder theory, police tonight were inclined to believe the body had been left by someone desiring to avoid the expense of conventional burial. No clues as to the identity of the child were developed during the day.

DETERMINED TO PUT AN END TO IMMODEST DRESSING

Brescia, Italy, June 9.—Bishop Baggia has determined to put an end to immodest dressing and has had posters placed on the doors of all churches, and also orders read during all masses, stating: "Ladies and girls are warned they will be expelled from the churches if they dare present themselves with naked arms and low necks; if, in other words they are dressed contrary to modesty which any well-bred woman should feel. It is painful to be obliged to adopt such measures in a Christian country among Christians, but the effrontery of certain women who dare exhibit their nudity, even in temples sacred to the faith, has obliged us to impose the respect which the church exacts."

AGED MAN DIED FROM EXPOSURE AND EXHAUSTION

Willimantic, June 9.—Thomas Moore, 69, giving his address as 523 John street, Bridgeport, found lying near the tracks of the Central Vermont railroad here tonight, died several hours after being admitted to a hospital, from exposure and exhaustion, according to the medical examiner. Moore, before he died, said he was walking from Providence to Bristol to visit his cousin James Kelleher, when he became ill and lay down to rest.

BEER AND MALT LIQUORS NOT PERMISSIBLE AS MEDICINE

Supreme Court Decides That Physicians May be Prohibited From Prescribing Such Liquors—The Court Disputed the Argument That There is Medicinal Value to Beer or Other Intoxicating Malt Liquors.

Washington, June 9. — Physicians may be prohibited by congress from prescribing beer and malt liquor for medicinal purposes, the supreme court held today in an opinion by Justice Sanford in cases brought by James Everard's breweries of New York, and Edward and John Burke, an importer, who attacked the Wills-Campbell act. The court declared the distinction made by congress when it permitted the prescription of spirituous and vinous liquors under the prohibition amendment and prohibited the prescription of malt liquors is not unreasonable or without a substantial justification.

"We find, on the whole," Justice Sanford announced, "no ground for disturbing the determination of congress as to the question ... that as to the reasonable necessity in the enforcement of the 18th amendment of prohibiting prescriptions of intoxicating malt liquors for medicinal purposes."

"It cannot be said," he added, "that its action in this respect violated any personal rights of the appellants protected by the constitution. That it did not take their property in violation of the fifth amendment is clear."

The emphasize its position the court declared that it was unable to say that the provisions of the Wills-Campbell act "is an arbitrary and unreasonable exercise of the power vested in congress by the 18th amendment or that it is not appropriate legislation for its enforcement.

The court disputed the argument that there is medicinal ... beer or other intoxicating malt liquors.

LEOPOLD AND LOEB TO ENTER NOT GUILTY PLEAS

Chicago, June 9.—Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, millionaires' sons who have been indicted for the kidnaping and murder of Robert Franks, will enter pleas of not guilty when arraigned Wednesday on indictments charging murder and kidnaping for ransom, their counsel announced today.

Meanwhile Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, resumed presentation of certain angles of the case to the grand jury with a view to combatting a possible ...

ANCIENT CUSTOM TO BE REVIVED FOR MARRIAGE

New York, June 9.—A custom of olden days will be revived tomorrow incident to the marriage of Prince Viggo of Denmark and Miss Eleanor Margare Green. The bride will be driven from her residence at the home of her aunts, the Misses Sarah and Eleanor Hewitt, to Calvary church on a coach drawn by four white horses. An old family retainer will hold the reins.

Following the marriage ceremony, the prince will return with his bride in the coach to the house, for the reception. Bishop Manning will officiate, assisted by Dr. Theodore Sedgwick, rector of Calvary church.

Health Much Better After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Michigan. — "Your little book left at my home was a great [illegible] to me. I read it then said to my husband, 'I am going and get me some Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I want to take it.' He first month I took three bottles of Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. If you only knew how much better I feel! Now when my friends say they are sick I tell them to take Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines. I give the little book and your medicines the best of thanks." — Mrs. HAMBINK, 3765 25th Street, Detroit, Mich.

In newspapers and booklets we are constantly publishing letters from women, who explain how they were helped by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

These letters should guide you. If you are troubled with pains and nervousness, or any feminine disorder, bear in mind that the Vegetable Compound has helped other women and should help you. For sale by druggists everywhere.

WORLD WAR VETERAN TELLS HIS EXPERIENCE

Albert Paschall Come Home From France in Run-Down Condition. Neighbor Recommended Tanlac and Today He Feels Like New Man

"Here's hoping that my experience [illegible] of the wonderful [illegible] of Tanlac," said Albert A. Paschall, a World War veteran, residing at 630 East Main St., Morristown, Pa.

"While in the service in France I was gassed and arrived home with my nerves badly shattered. Also my appetite deserted me and I had so much trouble from indigestion that meal time was an occasion of dread to me. In this condition I could not sleep well and always felt tired and worn-out.

"I was getting discouraged when a neighbor lady advised Tanlac and it is to her and Tanlac that I owe the wonderful change that has come over me. I now eat well and sleep well, have no more indigestion and, in fact, Tanlac has done me a world of good and I consider it a privilege to be instrumental in letting everybody know about it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Friday evening of this week an informal reception is to be tendered Rev. C. J. Armstrong, new pastor of the Danielson Baptist church, and Mrs. Armstrong, by the church. Entertainment will be provided by members of the classes of Miss Marjorie I. Gaffney and Raymond Allen. Special features arranged for the gathering promise to make it an unusually interesting one.

Recently further additions have been made to the fund for the construction of St. James' parochial school. No announcement ever has been made to the size of this fund, which has been in course of accumulation for about two years. It has been stated recently, however, that the fund will have to be materially increased before the actual work of construction can be undertaken. The school is urgently needed for accommodation of the large number of children in the parish and the increases that can be looked forward to with confidence in the next few years. The parish is free of debt and has been for several years, also has acquired real estate adjoining the chuch property within the past year. It is hoped possible that next year will see the school under way. It is a large undertaking, but on its record of more than half a century St. James parish will put it through successfully, in due course of time. The building, an 18- [illegible] structure, will cost approximately $[illegible].

Between Attawaugan crossing and the Tracy farm, near the Killingly-Putnam line, the highway is closed this week while excavations are undertaken. The best route to Putnam from Danielson until the road is reopened is through Attawaugan to the school house in that place and thence by the railroad under pass and the Putnam country club into Park and South Main streets. The main highway from Attawaugan to Putnam is also closed and a detour ordered over Putnam [illegible].

With the republican national con- vention opening its sessions in Cleveland today, a feature of this reaction, will be awakening interest in national politics for the year. This is not an "off" year, so political activities here may be expected to show some forward movement shortly after the national conventions are adjourned. Already there is discussion concerning who will be sent as representatives to Hartford as the result of Killingly's election in the fall. There is no great rush of candidates, at least no announcements relative thereto have been requested as yet.

Representatives of the Danielson board of commerce will meet this evening to discuss plans for a membership campaign in connection with this effort it is planned that a meeting will be held with a speaker of prominence as the principal address.

Those connected with the chamber of commerce feel that it is an asset and that a large membership will make it more valuable to Danielson than it has proved to be on various occasions in the past few years. The chamber has advocated and aided in forwarding various matters for the public welfare and will continue to do so. There is a possibility of materially increasing its membership if all those who are eligible for membership can be induced to join.

This is the day that A. W. Buchan- anan, attendance agent, is to be at the office of Leon M. Farrin, of Killingly, in the town hall to issue certificates to pupils who may be called to the mills during the vacation period. Those [illegible] who are required to obtain certificates to do so during this week or the last week.

There were four cases before the Monday morning session of the borough court. Benjamin Lapointe, [illegible] was fined $[illegible] and costs, amounting to $[illegible]. Lapointe was charged with reckless driving and operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Lapointe was arrested by Officer Frank Bowen. Two cases against Jim as the result of an accident in which the motorcycle he was driving figured with a car driven by Mrs. [illegible] near Main and Water streets, Mrs. E. Heath being the owner of the other machine. Because of extenuating circumstances, Mrs. Lonnie Woodward remitted the $5 fine imposed upon Wade. [illegible] Nikola of Goodyear was presented to answer to a breach of the peace complaint preferred against her by [illegible] of the same village. The court imposed a fine of $5 and costs, amounting to $20.95.

[illegible] Reynolds, resident near the south Killingly, was fined $2 and accepted costs on a minor charge.

Monday's were the first sessions of the town court to be held in some time.

Volley ball and boxing will be features of the meeting of the Service battery this (Tuesday) evening following the regular drill period. Boxing bouts have been arranged between several member of the battery. Volley ball, little known to the average follower of sports and athletic indulgences in this territory, will also be tried. The public, of course, is welcome to view the drill and the sports that are to follow.

Mrs. Joseph Bertiaume is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam, where she has undergone an operation for appendicitis.

Some of the manufacturing concerns of this and adjoining towns were represented Monday in Putnam at the meeting of the Connecticut Manufacturers association and the Eastern Connecticut and Norwich and New London Manufacturers' association.

Joseph Dragon of Springfield is spending a few days visiting with relatives in Danielson and vicinity. He is a former resident of this town.

The members of the Benevolent society of the Westfield Congregational church have a meeting scheduled to be held Wednesday afternoon.

June made something of a record for low temperature when the mercury dropped into the 40's, early Monday morning.

Henry B. Williamson of Lowell was a visitor with friends in Danielson Monday.

Mrs. Henry V. Chapin will have the members of the Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church at her home for a meeting Wednesday afternoon.

The W. C. T. U. is to meet with Mrs. John A. Paine this (Tuesday) afternoon.

John Green of East Killingly has added another beautiful trout to the list of big ones brought in this spring, this fish weighing over two pounds.

Howard A. Herbert of New London was a visitor with friends in Danielson Monday.

No one has noticed any rush on the part of the railroad company to fix up its crossings at Franklin and North streets and at Dayville, so that traffic can cross over without being subjected to racking such as is inexcusable. An hour's work at each crossing would temporarily remedy the difficulties, about which so many are protesting.

The service battery has three more Tuesday night drills before getting a respite from such activities through the month of July, after which month will come the preparations for the trip to Camp Eustis, Vt., for 15 days' tour of field duty.

At the post office the new series of Huguenot-Walloon stamps are on sale. In the series authorized by the government. Stamp collectors will be interested in obtaining specimens of the issues.

Ice demands have not been so insistent so far this season as is generally the case, on account of the continued low temperatures.

"No one can deny the possibilities of reducing taxes," said W. Irving Bullard, of Boston, Monday afternoon, "if the citizens of this mighty nation will submit to retrogression in their standards of living and reverse the present forward movement of civilization. And by the same token, taxes can be reduced if the voters of our land will take an active and continuing interest in public affairs."

Mr. Bullard was addressing a meeting here of the Connecticut Manufacturers' association; meeting with the Eastern Connecticut Manufacturers' association and the Norwich and New London Manufacturers' association, at the Putnam inn. His subject was "Can Taxes Be Reduced?"

Continuing, Mr. Bullard said in substance: "With a single gesture we cast aside the first proposition as absurd. Progress and evolution depend upon an increasing valuation of life. The war with all its curses brought new standards of living and values to the civilized countries and peoples, and the future must be builded on these new foundations.

"The second proposition has greater possibilities than we dare admit. The great movement to Americanize immigrants should be broadened to include the Americanization of Americans. Teach our voters, men and women, the responsibilities of citizenship and we will see taxes reduced to a level of tolerance and general approval.

"Taxation is just such a permanent part of our social order as the immutable laws of supply and demand. Life is based upon co-operative effort and the taxes we pay should express our fair share and participation in governmental, co-operative efforts. Most of us submit to taxation because of the assessment of penalties and reprisals—and we do it grudgingly. But give the American people just and equitable distribution of taxes and they will be paid cheerfully.

"Down through the generations of American history, our forefathers have had to think and study and analyze and literally struggle for progress. Are we so proud, so self-centered, so contented, so successful, so wealthy that we cannot use our native talents to renew the fight for progress? Of course we can, and we are going to—and one of our leaders in this great renaissance is the magnetic, vigorous and intellectual president of our association, E. Kent Hubbard, the fearless champion of every great constructive movement in state and nation.

"It is the leadership of such men that has given the United States in the past decade a foreign trade of $2,000,000,000, or at the rate of $22,000,000,000 for every day of these ten years. Of this colossal sum about 52 billion were exports and 30 billion were imports, with an excess of export merchandise which has changed our economic status from a debtor to a creditor nation.

"We must carry on this great movement of foreign trade, for we have industrial equipment in this country that will produce upwards of 20 per cent. more commodities than we can possible use.

"We cannot look to the sun with a clear vision for our markets if we oppress the producers of power, inland transportation and communication with unjust and burdensome taxes. Import taxes, export taxes, terminal taxes and every type of excise tax directly affects the welfare of 25 million workers in this country.

"Every mortgager and every mort- gagee has a direct and vital interest in property and income taxes. Arouse this mighty army of home-owners to the problems of taxation and then see whether or not presidential vetoes on taxation bills are sustained. The vital force and power of knowledge and organized action is no clearer demonstrated in them than in certain branches of skilled labor. Bricklayers, by studying their craft problems, have succeeded through organized efforts in securing $1.50 an hour or $12 per day. Carpenters are now getting $[illegible] cents an hour, in Boston, and common labor 68 1-2 cents an hour.

"These illustrations typify the potential power of citizens when aroused to personal and collective responsibilities. Arouse the bricklayer, the carpenter, the steel worker to personal interest in politics and civic affairs and you will set in motion a compelling force that will influence the economy of public expenditure and create lower taxes.

"I say frankly that taxes can be controlled, equitably distributed and reduced. But first we must make the citizens of our country accept the responsibilities of citizenship, so that the voice of the people may ring clear and true in legislative halls. It must be done and it can be done!"

Other speakers at the meeting were E. Kent Hubbard, president of the Connecticut Manufacturers' association; Fred R. Fairchild, head of the department of economics at Yale university, his subject being Budget and Accounting Methods by State and Towns, and W. H. Corbin, former state tax commissioner, who talked on information recently issued by the state tax commissioner's office.

Following the addresses there was a general discussion of the topics talked on before the meeting.

Having served approximately five months of a nine months' sentence imposed upon him in the superior court here last winter, Edgar L. Auger of this city will be released from the Windham county jail at Brooklyn this (Tuesday) afternoon. Auger is to receive a pardon through the operation of a statute enacted in 1921, under which a judge of the superior court may exercise his discretion as to pardons in cases where jail sentences have been imposed and where the circumstances seem to warrant such action. Attorney Irving H. Miron is counsel for Auger.

Joseph Beaumier, accosted on Park street and taken into custody by Captain William Jarvis Monday morning, told the officer that he was en route to Washington to see President Coolidge on matters of importance. Beaumier's trip was for the time being interrupted and he was held here until Officer Nerre Coderre, of North Grosvenordale, could be notified. Beaumier was picked up at Officer Coderre's request and later turned over to him. Beaumier's mental status was in question. He recently was discharged from the army service. He has relatives it was stated here, in North Grosvenordale.

The case of Arthur Eldredge, formerly postmaster at Woodstock Valley, was before the state board of pardons in Hartford for consideration Monday. Attorney Charles L. Torrey of this city appearing in Eldredge's behalf while State Attorney Charles E. Searls who prosecuted Eldredge in the superior court here, appeared on behalf of the state.

Eldredge after being found guilty of assaulting a minor female child was sentenced to the state prison to serve a term of eight to ten years. Careful investigation of the case has seemed to establish that there is reasonable ground for seeking a pardon for Eldredge, who always had been known as one of Woodstock's respectable citizens prior to becoming involved in the affair that sent him to prison. He is about 62.

The annual convention of the Wind- ham County League of Women Voters is to be held in Odd Fellows' hall here Thursday. The forenoon will be devoted to business and will appeal to members and guests. The afternoon session with its lectures are for everyone who may care to come.

At the morning session there will be an address by Mrs. Herbert Knox Smith, the state president, on The League and Its Work. At 12:30 a luncheon will be served for the league members and their guests.

At the afternoon session Miss Lilla Margaret Hicks, executive secretary of the Connecticut league, will give an address on Preparations for the Fall Elections. Another address on Rural Schools and Their Problems, will be given by N. D. Light.

It is anticipated that the afternoon session will attract a large number, for the topics of discussion are of vital and present interest.

Among the notes on the police blot- ter at headquarters Monday was a memorandum relative to a little accident in which Joseph Paulhus was struck by a motor car driven by Arthur Levine Sunday evening, the accident happening in Front street near the theatre. Paulhus was looked over by a physician after the accident. No serious injury was found.

The marriage mart is in a slump in Putnam this season that even the coming of June—long known as the month of brides—has failed to overcome. In so far as can be learned, few marriages are scheduled for this month.

Workmen are engaged in making certain alterations to the Putnam Inn block. E. C. Rogers, the proprietor, said Monday he was not prepared to say as yet how extensive these alterations may be, but they will materially improve the building.

There is not much present choice of highway routes southward out of Putnam. The state highway route is closed between Clark's corner and Attawaugan because of the new road building undertaking. South of the Tracy farm the route to the lake direct is closed this week because of excavations underway there. The lake may be reached by going through Attawaugan village, then over Attawaugan crossing.

NOANK

Carolyn Spicer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Spicer, is home from Cornell university, N. Y., for the summer.

Jack Steel of Worcester is visiting friends in town.

Mrs. Frank Bishop and family of New Haven were recent callers in the village.

The Noank ball team went to Stonington Sunday afternono. The game was called at the end of the seventh inning on account of rain. Thompson pitched good ball, allowed but four hits and struck out ten men. The other fellow got six strikeouts. Quite a good crowd was out to see the battle in the rain. The score by innings:

Noank	2	0	0	4	0	0	2	—	8
Stonington	3	0	0	0	2	0	0	—	5

Umpire, Pont.
